When you come right down to it, Railway Express is a distinctly unique medium of shipping which gives employment to 55,000 heads of families. There is nothing else like it in the United States and it has no counterpart abroad. Owned by the nation's principal railroads, over whose 213,000 miles of lines it is operated, the Express provides a fast through service from sender to receiver.

This year is the ninety-fifth anniversary of the express service. That it is still going strong was plainly indicated last year when nearly 100,000,000 shipments were handled by this system. So far in 1934, there has been a very substantial increase in traffic volume and in commercial circles that is regarded as reliable evidence of rapidly approaching business recovery.

R. O. T. C. AND BAND TO PARTICIPATE IN PARADE MAY 30

As has been the custom other years the R. O. T. C. will be called out to take part in the parade on May 30. The battalion will meet at the gym, where it will form for the parade. Accompanied by the band they will march down College Street passing the other groups by the library. After the parade the battalion will return to the back campus where certificates will be presented to the basic group. All property will be checked in and students will be partly compensated for the uniforms.

THUMBNAIL BIOGRAPHY

Andre Kostelanetz

Andre Kostelanetz who has become one of the nation's leading maestros within the last two years, was born thirty-two years ago at Petrograd, now Leningrad. Began practicing piano scales at the age of four. A year later his mother gave a concert before the Czar. Learned German, French, English, Italian, Spanish and Finnish as a child. Even in his youth Had definitely set a career as operatic conductor as a requirements are when the World War Russia closed the opera. Traveled through Europe as accompanist for opera stars in concert appearances. Came to America as accompanist to Metropolitan and Chicago opera stars. Was later a musical director with the German Opera Company. Came eventually to CBS as a conductor and his musical arrangements for orchestra and chorus have brought him very high prominence during the past few years. Was the first to use a full length musical program with original arrangements. Has developed a new type of radio music known as "harmonic sophistication."

CAT'S MEOW

By Sports Editor

The Catamount nine ran its consecutive wins to four Saturday beating B. U. Our boys had it all over the Terrier nine. We couldn't see how they could have lost to the Pine Tree nine earlier in the season.

This new streak of victories is most heartening and the team deserves plenty of credit in their fine improvement. We believe that confidence has been the big factor in helping the team find itself.

The B. U. outfit was the most colorless team we have seen in action this season. Most of them displayed little knowledge of baseball technique as evidenced by almost ... Vermont runners with only the bases.

Garabedian, centerfielder for the Terriers, played heads up ball all the game. His backing up of the second baseman on a wild throw was a gem. Incidentally he hit safely three times for half of the total B. U. hits.

Johnnie Williams is playing a great game at ... since he took over the injured Eddie Funk. Johnnie has batting power too which makes him all the more potent on the offensive.

Ed Layden hit the ball hard every time at bat, and collected three hits for himself. Ed's stance at the plate indicates power behind the willow.

The track team gave a good account of itself at Worcester. The new speed demon, Rollie Delfausse, won the 220, and had he not tired from all the time trials required, he would have copped the 100-yard dash.

Cliff Harwood ran a peach of a race in the two-mile event. Placing a close second, Cliff ran the distance in less than ten minutes, and if you don't think that is fast, try it yourself.

At time of writing we have not received word of the Middlebury-Vermont game, so nothing can be said. If Middlebury beat St. Michael's last week, we should have trounced the Panthers.

CATS TO PLAY FOUR OPPONENTS THIS WEEK

Extending their ... victories to four by beating Boston University, 10-4 Saturday, the Catamount ball team starts on week of intensive playing, meeting four opponents in the next seven days.

Yesterday the team met Middlebury on their home diamond, a game which was postponed from last week because of a downpour in the second inning. We could not get the score of that game in time to get it to press, but feel that Vermont came home with the bacon.

This afternoon the team meets St. Lawrence at Canton, N. Y., the first of two engagements between these teams. St. Michael's beat the New Yorkers last week, so our boys should take them over handily. A return game will be played in Burlington, May 26. Tomorrow the team travels to Potsdam where the next the Clarkson nine. If the boys are not too tired from their recent heavy schedule they should be good ... for the engineers.

On Saturday the Horsemen from Norwich come to Burlington to try their luck once against Vermont. The Cadets have ... to show for a record this season, failing to win a game in the Green Mountain Conference. However, there can always be an upset especially when revenge is in the minds of a team.

By the time another week has gone, we may have seen the Catamount nine extend their winning streak to eight. At least we predict that they will win half of their games, and should be leading the Conference at the end of the week.

Cats Overwhelm Boston U. By 10-4 Tally, Breaking Jinx

... the readers of this paper that the Catamounts have broken the jinx, by taking four games in a row and are on the road to a flashy finish of the 1934 season after a ... start. Larry Gardner ... that they have the proper spirit and any games that they have the proper spirit and any games that they are unlucky enough to lose during the remainder of the season will be lost only after a hard battle.

The most recent victory of the Catamounts was a 10-4 victory over the unsteady Boston U. aggregation, at Centennial Field last Saturday. Beckley's splendid pitching held the Terriers to six hits throughout the contest, while the astonishing hitting ability of his teammates kept the game well under control. Sensational fast fielding also marked the contest, the Cats completing two double ... of ... innings and Degree and Williams making almost impossible catches to snuff out potential B. U. rallies.

Both teams scored once in the first frame but Vermont broke the deadlock in third, when Eddie Layden inaugurated a three-run rally by slapping a single to center, driving home Burns who had reached first on an error and went to second when Degree walked. Werner was safe on an error, and Ramon drove in Layden and Degree with a screaming drive that handcuffed third baseman Harris.

The Cats picked up two more tallies in the fourth, and two more in the sixth when Bowers and Beckley waited Lucey out for walks and scored as Burns and Palmer singled.

Vermont wound up their scoring for the day in the seventh on three passes, an error, and Werner's single.

Notes

When Eddie Funk's ankle is well enough to allow him to resume his position at the hot corner, Larry Gardner will probably find some place in the line-up for Spec Williams, due to the outstanding hitting and fielding ability that he has displayed during the last two games.

Whitey Palmer continued his long list of errorless games by turning in another perfect game in the field. His batting has also showed a marked improvement and his batting average has been rising accordingly.

Only one of the four B. U. runs was earned, Johnny Beckley walking in two and sending another scurrying home on a wild pitch. Beckley however fanned nine men to keep himself out of serious trouble.

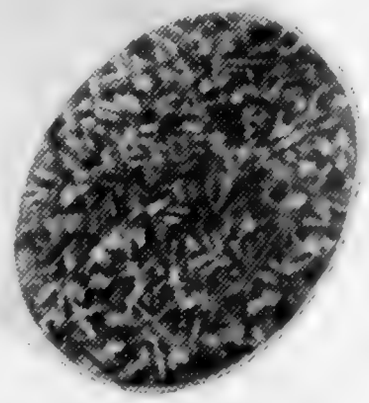
Here's why—Luckies do not dry out

why—Luckies are All-Ways kind to your throat



The difference between cigarettes is the difference between what goes into them and how they are put together.

Luckies use only the clean, center leaves, for these are the mildest leaves—they taste better. That's why farmers are paid higher prices for them. And Luckies get the benefit of the famous process—"It's toasted"—for your throat protection.

And every Lucky is round, firm and fully packed. That's why Luckies "keep in condition"—that's why you'll find that Luckies do not dry out—an important point to every smoker.

Yes, Luckies are always in all-ways kind to your throat.

WEATHER JINX TO TENNIS BUT FAVORS BASEBALL

At U. V. M. there's a growing belief that the Weather Man is a baseball fan and doesn't care much for tennis. Here are the facts:

The Vermont baseball nine has played eighteen of its fourteen scheduled games this season, losing only one to Jupiter Pluvius. Rain has prevented four of the six scheduled tennis matches thus far

Cats Beat Middlebury, St. Lawrence and Clarkson to Win Seven Straight Games

CATS EDGE MIDDLEBURY 6-5 BEHIND ED LAYDEN

Vermont Wins Third Conference Game Against Panthers for Fifth Straight Win

[illegible] stopped a last inning surge of [illegible] Monday and won its third [illegible] game 6-5. KIRLEY ALLOWS FOUR HITS TO ST. LAWRENCE

Vermont Wins First Shutout of Season to Down St. Lawrence 4-0

Vermont has come into a new era of baseball. Seven consecutive victories should bring the fans to their feet. The probability of finishing the season without defeat is well over 50 percent, and with the boys continuing their incomparable playing, it is almost a sure bet.

At last the pitching staff has come into its own and the support that they are now getting has accomplished the [illegible] heard of two-hit game pitched [illegible] is nothing to be sneezed at and [illegible] wholeheartedly offer our congratulations to "Stretch" Kirley and "Marchie" Swartz.

The 4-0 win over St. Lawrence, last Tuesday was the first shut out game that the Cats have been able to capture this year.

Kirley's pitching and the fine holding of his teammates allowed only four hits. The game was won in the first inning as the Funk drove a screaming double to center, which tallied the runs of Burns and Palmer, who had reached the hassocks on walks. Werner also waited the pitcher out for a walk and he and Funk were driven in on Bowers' single.

Eighth Inning Rally Gives Green and Gold Seventh Consecutive Victory

The Catamounts annexed another game to their consecutive victory column Wednesday by edging out Clarkson 6-5 at Potsdam, N. Y., to extend their wins to seven in a row.

Marchie Swartz pitched the entire route for Vermont and allowed the opposition only four hits. Thus Lucas Gardner showed that he has not lost his [illegible] on that can be called upon to hurl [illegible] and over the plate at any time. Together [illegible] Kirley and Swartz are the [illegible] together to whom the major credit should be given.

Vermont took an early lead in the second inning by scoring four runs on a base on balls an error and timely hitting by Palmer, Werner and Swartz. Clarkson evened the count in the [illegible] when with two out and one on [illegible] smashed out a prodigious home run, scoring Ryan and Klein.

Whitney tallied in the seventh completing the scoring for Clarkson. Vermont's winning run came during the eighth when Werner doubled and scored on Ramon's line single to left field. Ramon later came home when Klein bobbled an attempt to catch Swartz off first. Swartz pitched masterful ball for Vermont with the exception of the fifth inning, and the entire Vermont team showed championship baseball.

Bouquets should be given to Larry Gardner's pitching corps. Beckley, Layden, Swartz and Kirley are the boys responsible for this outburst of A 1 ball playing.

Stretch Kirley proved his mettle Tuesday by limiting Clarkson to four hits. He had the satisfaction of experiencing the ecstasy of the Catamount [illegible] keep it up, Stretch!

A good word should be put in for Marchie Swartz too. His [illegible] flipper has acquired control of late and his variety of tosses has certainly baffled the opposition.

[illegible] Vermont [illegible] ing it [illegible] but we [illegible] will leave Burlington [illegible] horses at the Cats can keep up their recent pace.

As a preliminary to tomorrow's Conference game, the track team tackles Montreal A A A. It ought to be a good meet. Middlebury lost to them by two points Wednesday.

The weather man has been a Nemesis for the tennis team. Of the six games scheduled [illegible] been rained out, [illegible] a tough break for the netmen to say the least.

KITTENS BEAT MAINE SCHOOL OF COMMERCE IN CLOSE GAME 11-10

Kenworthy Clouts Two Homers to Keep Frosh in the Running

The [illegible] Vermont freshmen [illegible] with [illegible] frequency Wednesday and won another ball game, defeating the Maine School of Commerce 11 to 10 in a slugging exhibition. The Kittens, despite the errors afield, pounded out thirteen safeties and finally won due to the great stickwork of Kenworthy.

[illegible] in the last of the third inning, the [illegible] filled the bases on a hit batter, base on balls and an error. With two gone [illegible] the stands to the pasture and [illegible] a pitch far among the west bleacher fans. He drove [illegible] to the baseball [illegible] and [illegible] were home. Again in the last of the eighth the batters were behind this time 10 to 9. Zukowski was on base when Kenworthy picked out his favorite bat, swung mightily and drove the horsehide deep over the centerfielder's head under the [illegible] for a second home run of the afternoon. These two blows were enough the game was won.

The victory was the third for the Kittens in four games. Coach Doc Newton's protegés have amassed forty-eight runs for fifty two runs against the outstanding prep school opposition of Vermont Academy, Duncan Phillips and the [illegible] Hallman all connected safely twice or more. Watters pitching his best game for the frosh was in good form, striking out seven batters, walking three men and allowing just nine hits. Poor support by his teammates proved the [illegible] for the victory. Maine run total

From its headquarters, first in Oklahoma City, Okla., and then in Los Angeles, Calif., the Silver Shirt organization publishes another weekly paper, The Silver (Legion) Ranger, with the slogans "For Christ and Constitution" and "Take Back the Nation from the Alien." Its strength now lies largely in Southern California. The Silver Shirts claim a membership of two million.

To further their "Christ government" and their Nordic aims, the Silver Shirts in Salt Lake City, Utah, kidnapped a suspected Communist, Daniel Black, tied him to a tree, beat him and left him for dead. He recovered and named the guilty man, but no one was arrested.

Luckies are All-Ways kind to your throat

WHEREVER the finest tobaccos grow—in our own Southland, in Turkey, in Greece—all over the world, we gather the very Cream of the tobacco Crops for Lucky Strike. And that means only the clean center leaves. The center leaves are the mildest leaves—they taste better and farmers are paid higher prices for them. These clean center leaves are the only ones used in making Luckies. Then "It's toasted"—for throat protection. And every Lucky is fully packed with these choice tobaccos—made round and firm, free from loose ends—that's why Luckies "keep in condition"—why you'll find that Luckies do not dry out—an important point to every smoker. R. O. T. C. BAND DOES NOBLY IN EMERGENCY

Called out unexpectedly and at the last moment, the R. O. T. C. band played well at the Norwich game Saturday afternoon. Although their numbers were depleted by the absence of some of their musicians who were actively "scrubbing" for the track meet or the baseball game, they gave a very creditable exhibition. The occasional men seen tooting a horn "out of uniform" were "scrubs" who dashed over to play a few notes between the field duties.

This: "You have egg spilled all over the front of your coat."
That: "That's alright, I look well in anything I eat."

Call
"RAILWAY EXPRESS" to get your baggage home
QUICKLY and ECONOMICALLY

You probably have 101 things to do and think about before leaving the university for home and vacation. One of the items you can strike off the list is your baggage. Send it Railway Express whatever it may be—trunks, bags, or personal belongings.

Wherever you may live, if it is within regular vehicle limits, we will call for your trunks and bags and whisk them away on fast passenger trains through to destination.

And after the vacation, bring them back this simple, easy and economical way, for Railway Express will pick 'em up and make direct delivery to your fraternity house or other residence.

Railway Express has served your Alma Mater for many years. It provides speedy, reliable service at moderate rates. The local Railway Express representative will be glad to supply you with necessary labels and will give you a receipt for your shipment that includes liability up to $50, or 50c per pound for any shipment weighing more than 100 pounds. CAT'S MEOW

By Sports' Editor

Credit is due the track team for its fine showing against Montreal A. A. A. Saturday. Unexpected points were received in the weight events which added ... to the final score.

As usual, the Delfausse brothers combined their track ability to collect plenty of points. This pair is the greatest asset to a Vermont track team in years.

Rollie DeFausse, the new sprint sensation, used his powerful legs to cross the tape in record time in the 220 yard event. A great showing from the new leader, too!

The most dramatic event was the two-mile run. Cliff Harwood leading a terrific pace was seized with cramps as he entered the last turn, but gallantly made an effort to win. In the last fifty yards Cliff merely stumbled along, but he covered the line in a great display of stamina.

We liked to watch this fellow Goode from Montreal. His apparent ease in running as well as his rhythmical form was a sight to behold. He won his two events without a sign of tiring.

The ball team managed to eke out its eighth straight at the expense of Norwich. As a matter of fact, we think they were lucky to be the victors even though they played the better ball.

We name Comi, the Cadets pitcher, as the best man of the game. He pitched a great game, lasting the full twelve innings, and outlasting all the batters who ...

VERMONT BEATS DARTMOUTH 6-3

Last Banquet and Dance of College Days Will Follow Trip on the Chateaugay

The class of 1934 is planning one of the most elaborate "Senior Weeks" that has been put on by the Senior class for the past ten years. Three years ago was the last year that the out-going class put on a "Boatride." These boatrides have been an event where all the seniors and the alumni have gotten together and gone to some hotel on the lake to have the last banquet and dance. This year the Senior Week activities are going to be climaxed by the renewal of the old custom with one of the most elaborate boatrides that have been put on.

The plans which are nearly complete are for the seniors and their friends to leave Burlington on the steamer Chateaugay and to go down to Basin Harbor where a very elaborate banquet is to be served and after the banquet a dance is to be held. This will probably be the last time that the class will be together as a group. This gala event will come the night of June 18, which is directly after graduation and as many of the seniors as possible should plan to attend this last time together. Due to the financial condition of the 1934 treasury the boatride will not cost the seniors much. The reason that they were formally discontinued was that they cost between 5 to 9 dollars per person but this year the cost will be within the reach of all and this is a big reason why the seniors should plan to attend. If enough seniors sign up to go then the event will be only a senior affair and other people will be excluded.

Senior Week begins Friday with the "Senior Prom" which takes place in the Billings Library and which every senior is invited to. The admission is free to seniors and their invited guests and alumni. The other events of the week will be the gowning of statues, class track baseball games and finally on Monday comes graduation which has been long looked for by the seniors. Let's make this one of the best senior weeks ever put on by the out-going class and as every other line of endeavor is getting a new deal so will Senior Week. The chairmen of the different committees are putting every effort into their respective duties to make this a success. The chairman of the boatride committee says that he sees no reason why the seniors cannot be admitted to the boatride, dance and banquet free of charge but this only applies to the members of the 1934. More details of the events of Senior Week will be published later.

On the bulletin board in the "Y" room, big sister slips are now posted for those interested in becoming big sisters for next year. Members of the class of '36 are especially urged to cooperate in this project to make freshman women feel welcome for they are the sister class of the incoming class of '38.

However there will not be enough big sisters in this one class to supply every freshman with one, so other classes are asked to help in this project.

For several years it has been the custom to provide for each freshman woman to have a big sister assigned to her who writes to her before the opening of the college year and who shows her the ropes when she first arrives, for the first few days are a confusing time which must prove somewhat strange and confusing to her. Heretofore this plan has been very successful, and it is hoped that, with the hearty cooperation of the college women, it will equal its former successes.

Jane: "O K. Come over to the house and I'll introduce you to grandma."

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA TO RESUME IN FALL

At the last symphony rehearsal it was decided to discontinue the weekly rehearsals of the orchestra until next fall, when the symphony will prepare several programs to be presented during the winter months.

There are several vacancies in the string section of the orchestra and any musician desiring to be a member of the symphony may apply to Conductor Joseph F. Lechnyr.

Y. W. C. A. ANNOUNCES STAFF FOR HOCHELAGA; VERMONT STUDENTS GO

Announcement is made by the Vermont Council of the Y. W. C. A. of the staff of counselors who will be in charge of the program at Camp Hochelaga, the Y. W. C. A. camp, during the summer of 1934.

Miss Florence Maddock will be at the camp as supervising director again this year. Miss Maddock has been in charge of the camp program at Hochelaga in this capacity for the past three summers, previous to which she had a great deal of experience as a camp director in Seattle, Wash. She will be assisted by Miss Charlotte McHose, who will hold the position of resident director. Miss McHose is a graduate of Northwestern University and did graduate work at Yale University, receiving her Master's degree there in 1932. During the summers of 1931-1932 she held the position of head counselor at Camp Hochelaga.

Miss Frederica Frey of Utica, N. Y., will hold the position of head swimming counselor. Miss Frey is a graduate of the Boston School of Physical education and has had several years' experience as director of waterfront activities in a girls' camp. She is a qualified life saver and holds her examiner's certificate in swimming. She will be assisted by Miss Jean MacNaughton of Nashua, N. H., and Miss Natalie Hilliker of Essex Junction. Miss MacNaughton is a student at Skidmore College, and has had three years of experience as a swimming counselor in the Sargent camps and in Girl Scout camps. Miss Hilliker is a student at the University of Vermont and is a Golden Eaglet Scout. Both Miss MacNaughton and Miss Hilliker hold their senior life saving badges from the American Red Cross.

Arts and crafts at the camp will be in charge of Miss Janet Wadham of Torrington, Conn. Miss Wadham is a student at Skidmore College where she is majoring in art education. She is an experienced camper and has done art work with groups of younger girls. The arts and crafts projects at Camp Hochelaga will include pottery and modeling work, sketching, leather work, puppetry, textile work, etc., as well as many other forms of creative work.

Sports and nature study will be under the leadership of Miss Vivian Little of Hartford, Conn. Miss Little is a senior at Mount Holyoke College, and has spent three summers as a camp counselor at Camp Aya-Po, the Y. W. C. A. camp at Hartford. Miss Katherine Ryder, also of Mount Holyoke College, will be in charge of woodcraft. Miss Ryder is a native of Chelsea, and has done work with girls' clubs and girl scout groups for several years. Miss Marion Parker of Springfield, who has been in charge of the office at Camp Hochelaga for the past three seasons, will return for her fourth year in that capacity. She will be assisted by Miss Charlotte Smith of Rutland. Miss Smith is a junior at Skidmore College and is majoring in the secretarial department. She is a former Hochelagan, having spent several summers at the camp.

As counselor in charge of dramatics, Miss Virginia Mealy of Smith College has been selected. Miss Mealy has done considerable work in the study of dramatics and has taken part in college productions. She has also had experience in directing dramatic ac-

ORIENTAL PAGEANT HELD AT REDSTONE'S CAMPUS ON ANNUAL LILAC DAY

Vermont Co-eds Join in Fête Originated by the First Dean of Women, Now a College Tradition

"Go out to Redstone in lilac time, in lilac time, in lilac time,

Thus Alfred Noyes could well have written, so delightful and charming was the Lilac Day Pageant given by the Vermont women. This tradition of Lilac Day was originated by the first Dean of Women of the University of Vermont, Pearl Randall Wasson, for the purpose of making the Redstone campus more beautiful by planting a hedge of lilacs. Sponsored by Mortar Board, the oriental pageant, written by Lois Whitcomb '35 and Catherine Starbird '37 and directed by Mrs. Dallas Pollard and Miss Annis Baldwin was a most delightful performance.

The dialogue, music and dances were refreshing and original. The costumes of green, orange, white, lavender and regal purple were fashioned of shimmering satin or gauzy flowing materials. Green fields, verdant evergreens and gray violet Mansfield formed a colorful and impressive background that stirred lofty thoughts of loyalty, and love of Vermont's fine traditions. All the while the soft delicate perfume of fragrant lilacs silently recalled other lilac plantings and pageants.

The mystic dance of the slave girls, the temple maidens' mysterious rites, the proud high priestess impressively gowned in turquoise, the beautifully robed Sultan's daughters, the fantastic dances of the spirits of the Sultan's daughters are details of the pageant that will not soon be forgotten.

Through the entire pageant the University orchestra furnished music, first rollicking, then slow, and then with vestiges of the haunting, mysterious melodies of the Persian market.

A number of University students and faculty witnessed the pageant which was presented on Redstone east lawn on Thursday, May 24. Such interest and

President Bailey Gives Banquet to Old and New Members of Society

The annual banquet for the Boulder Society was held Tuesday night, May 22, at the Sherwood Hotel, with Col. F. F. Black as guest of honor. The banquet was given by President Guy W. Bailey and the guests included Deans Swift, Hills, and Eckhard, and all the old and recently-elected members of the Boulder Society, with the exception of C. B. Eaton '34, who was unable to attend.

Each speaker was introduced by a horoscope; Dean Hills spoke first, and then Dean Swift, and Dean Eckhard. Each of the Boulder men was called upon for a few words, the old and new men alternating in speaking. Then, to conclude the evening's program Colonel Black spoke, and President Bailey addressed the members of the Society.

Following the banquet the faculty members withdrew and a short meeting of the Boulder Society was held.

Nine in a row. And this time the man-eating Catamounts tasted Red-skin blood when they stalked into the tepee of the Dartmouth Indian, by a count of 6-3, Wednesday, at Hanover. But the Red Skin only succumbed after a bitter struggle which gave Ed Layden, pitcher-premiere, an opportunity to exercise his outstanding ability to hurl. Ronald Morton, of Hanover boys, incidentally brother of the famous air-mail Morton, started on the mound, for his first time, and he did right well until the fateful sixth, when he felt the sting of five Catamount claws.

"Ed" Layden, "the old master," allowed but five hits throughout the contest, and drove in three runs, with a screaming triple to leftfield, later "Ed" also scored when Hart fumbled "Eddie" Funk's high fly. "Larry" Bowers also nicked Morton for a single which scored Funk. "Bobbie" Burns gave the fans a thrill by handling eleven fielding chances without an error.

WESTFIELD, LOWELL, AND COLCHESTER ARE OBJECTS OF WEEK-END DEPUTATION

A Single Sunday Service Will Also be Held in Richford by Two Members of the Westfield Delegation

V. C. A. will present the last deputations for this year when two teams go to Colchester and Westfield-Lowell this week-end.

The speakers are Elsie Brée (Sp.), P. Ronald Bingham '34 and Leon Dickenson '36. Viola Long '37 will sing.

The feature of this week-end program will be a talk and discussion by Dr. E. H. Reeder. The Rev. Charles G. Kung is the minister of the Colchester church.

The other team, comprised of Ruth Barron '36, Eleanor McMahon '37, Joan Ripper '37, F. O. Walter '34, Edna Leach '36 and R. S. Wright '35 will go to Westfield-Lowell to take over the services from Rev. Gerald Miller.

The above mentioned students will carry out the usual program except that there will be two services instead of one, one will be in Westfield, the other immediately afterward in Lowell.

Miss Barron, Miss Ripper and Wright will each give ten-minute talks. Eleanor McMahon '37 will sing.

While this is taking place, Miss Leach and Walter will be in charge of services in Richford. Rev. Robert A. Lundy wishes to attend a convention, so these

Y. W. C. A. ANNOUNCES STAFF FOR HOCHELAGA; VERMONT STUDENTS GO

Announcement is made by the Vermont Council of the Y. W. C. A. of the staff of counselors who will be in charge of the program at Camp Hochelaga, the Y. W. C. A. camp, during the summer of 1934.

Miss Florence Maddock will be at the camp as supervising director again this year. Miss Maddock has been in charge of the camp program at Hochelaga in this capacity for the past three summers, previous to which she had a great deal of experience as a camp director in Seattle, Wash. She will be assisted by Miss Charlotte McHose, who will hold the position of resident director. Miss McHose is a graduate of Northwestern University and did graduate work at Yale University, receiving her Master's degree there in 1932. During the summers of 1931-1932 she held the position of head counselor at Camp Hochelaga.

Miss Frederica Frey of Utica, N. Y., will hold the position of head swimming counselor. Miss Frey is a graduate of the Boston School of Physical education and has had several years' experience as director of waterfront activities in a girls' camp. She is a qualified life saver and holds her examiner's certificate in swimming. She will be assisted by Miss Jean MacNaughton of Nashua, N. H., and Miss Natalie Hilliker of Essex Junction. Miss MacNaughton is a student at Skidmore College, and has had three years of experience as a swimming counselor in the Sargent camps and in Girl Scout camps. Miss Hilliker is a student at the University of Vermont and is a Golden Eaglet Scout. Both Miss MacNaughton and Miss Hilliker hold their senior life saving badges from the American Red Cross.

THE SPORTING

Maj. L. D. Worsham, graduate manager of athletics of the U. S. Military Academy, said the other day that Vermont would meet the cadets' football team at West Point in 1935. Sabin Abell, graduate manager of athletics at U. V. M., declined to comment on the report as he declared such information is not given out locally until fall. If the report is authentic, as we believe it is, Vermont should be on the map in the football world in 1935. Here's hoping Sabo will have a club worth exhibiting then.

It is curious how many college athletic traditions in sportsdom. Various interesting traditions disclose the following: Football has been abolished as an intercollegiate sport at Washington University.

Five hundred and fifty-two students of the University of California played organized football last season. Being Crosby went out for football at Gettysburg.

Coach Frank J. Murray of Marquette announced that light football practice will start on February 5. Dana Purvis, of Purdue University, is the only college student to be an all American in two sports—Track and football.

The announcement of a baseball game between Holy Cross and Vermont on June 15 at Centennial Field is a pleasant surprise. It is possible that the athletic breach between these two institutions has already been patched. Surely Tom McCabe, graduate manager at Holy Cross, would be the man to assure such friendly relations. Incidentally, Holy Cross has won twelve consecutive games to date.

As a final shot we would like to suggest that Vermont find a new pair of umpires for the following year. Close decisions are tolerated, but apparent outrageous miscues are unexcusable. Never have we seen such poor officiating at a ball game.

CAMP DEVENS MEMBERS HAVE BEEN SELECTED FROM MILITARY NUMBERS

The Military Science Department of the University of Vermont has received orders from Headquarters 1st Corps Area and twenty-nine students to go to Camp Devens R O T C Instructors Camp, in Massachusetts, for a six-week training course from June 19 to July 30 and for six Medical students to go to Carlisle Barracks, Pa., from June 16 to July 27. These orders and names to go to Camp Devens are as follows: P. E. Behringer '35, R. M. Best '35, R. S. Brown '35, T. J. Bushey '35, M. H. Carlson '35, F. J. Churchill '35, J. J. Connolly '36, A. S. Darden '35, L. E. Davis '34, R. W. Durham '35, D. P. Germaine '34, R. B. Hart '35, J. W. Hopkinson '35, H. E. Howard '35, P. M. Howe '35, R. W. Hurles, Jr. '35, A. A. Hutchins '35, C. J. Keelan '35, P. J. Lucas '34, J. M. Libby '35, G. Martin '35, C. W. Mellencamp '35, A. A. Morrissette '35, W. H. Myers '35, C. A. Park '35, M. A. Patch '35, G. J. Ramslow '35, G. M. Salter '35, C. R. Scribner '35, F. W. Squier '35, F. R. Swartz '37, A. L. Williams '35, R. Woodward '35.

In lieu of transportation and subsistence while traveling to and from camp the Finance Department will pay these students travel allowance at the rate of five cents per mile for the distance by the shortest usually traveled route from Burlington to Fort Devens, Mass., and return to Burlington.

Those Medical students to go to Carlisle Barracks are as follows: M. D. Burger, L. H. Noyes, A. H. Roller, C. A. Rutkowski, H. J. Varney and R. F. Williams.

These camps are to give these students a practical application of their theoretical knowledge. It will give them a complete lesson of the use of a well organized camp. In addition to drill and personal training in which students will take turns commanding the student unit much time will be devoted to target practice with the service rifle and the pistol and to giving the marksmen over the 17 mark gun and the rank marker to their students in the adjustment of fire.

The schedule also includes a two-day service march with a night bivouac and an entire week will be devoted to field exercises and the handling of men in problems of tactical nature.

The music work at Hochelaga during 1934 will be in charge of Miss Ruth Kingsbury of Montpelier. Miss Kingsbury is a graduate this year from Mansfield State Teachers College, in Lowell where she has majored in music. She has been a member of the college glee club and has conducted the college orchestra, as well as directing the productions of operettas and musical entertainments. Aside from her interest in music Miss Kingsbury has had a great deal of training in athletics and in the coaching of organized sports and is well equipped to assist in this field of camp activity.

The health program will be under the direction of Miss Hilda Rogers, under the supervision of the camp doctor. Miss Rogers is a graduate of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston in 1926. She has done public health work at Simmons College. During the summers of 1927-28 she was at Camp Hochelaga as the camp nurse. Since that time she has been employed by the Board of Health Nursing and District Nursing of Manchester, N. H., and at the present time is school nurse in Milton, Mass.

The camping season at Hochelaga will be eight weeks in length, opening on Saturday, June 30, and closing on August 25.

UNIVERSITY CADET CORPS WILL PARTICIPATE IN MEMORIAL DAY PARADE

On Memorial Day, May 30, the University Corps of Cadets will participate in the annual street parade of patriotic organizations of the city of Burlington. All members of the R. O. T. C. Corps will meet on the Back Campus at 7.30 a.m.

Returning from the parade the Band and Battalion will form on the Back Campus for a battalion parade at which time R. O. T. C. military training certificates will be awarded to members of the sophomore class.

After the dismissal of the Band and Battalion all equipment will be turned in and payment will be made of the amount due students for contribution of uniform.

FLETCHER FARM SCENE OF COLLEGE CONFERENCE

A discussion group was held at Fletcher Farm last week end, sponsored by a group of Vermont men and women.

Miss Elizabeth B. Hewing, vice president of the board of trustees of Fletcher Farm, was present as were Dean Emerson, and Miss Storms of Vermont and the Rev. James Hubbard of Essex. Lyon Stuart MacMackin and George Hogue of Dartmouth came up and six students of southern New England who are members of a S. C. M. deputation.

From Vermont, there were Ione Epper '37, Edna Leach '36, Marie Howe '34, Muriel Magee '35, Edith Mathews '36, Agnes Jennings, '36, Ruth Jewett '36, Madeline Amsboro '35, Ruth Barton '36, Eluned Roberts '37, C. H. Patrick '35 and R. S. Wright '35.

Discussions were held Saturday morning, and evening, and Sunday morning. Two main points were brought up Sunday morning when education was discussed. 1. That college should train a student to think and to think reasonably and clearly. 2. That a college education should be directly applicable to life outside of college.

Saturday evening, the problem of race on different campuses was discussed.

"OBJECTION"

And did we profit from these hills of grace?
And are we, in our wisdom, blind to see?
How wise it is to seek simplicity?
Shown us the monuments which men em
In peace. Remember, war and hate and pain
Were made by man. . . . Take back each silent night.

History of the Class of 1934

By [illegible]

[illegible] Four [illegible] and [illegible] years [illegible] and [illegible] we [illegible] the [illegible] of 1934 are about to leave [illegible] and [illegible] signs on the pages of Vermont history [illegible] seek for us [illegible] Let us [illegible] [illegible] to see us [illegible] now let us [illegible] [illegible] accomplishments and [illegible] brought [illegible] our class to the [illegible] at our college.

There were 367 of us all together when we entered the massive portals of the halls of higher education in the fall of 1930. Today there are but 179 of that number left. Many changes have taken place; many familiar faces have disappeared. We wish they might be here today, all of them, to participate in our graduation exercises.

Wide channels of learning have been laid open to us and a group of career professors and instructors has helped us to penetrate into the fields of study that hold particular interest for us, and we appreciate their fine efforts to help us. We have had opportunities for vocational guidance and the ideals and attitudes of our faculty have helped us in this. We have been able to listen to famous men who have come to Vermont to give us their views on different phases of life. We, who heard Mrs. Meloney will not forget her charm and personality.

Apart from gaining knowledge and looking after our social activities we have been prominent in various other activities and we are proud, first, of our athletes. The reputation gained in our first battles with the sophomores was the beginning of a line of men that Vermont is proud of. Seniors have been outstanding on every varsity team. In football we boast—Beckley, Bowers, J. Delfausse, Morgan, McGowan, Rapuano, and Sowka; in basketball—Beckley, Grant, Morgan and Sowka; in baseball—Beckley, Bowers and Cogswell; in tennis—Myers and Wilson; in track—Adams, J. Delfausse, Sowka and Walter. Their support has been loyal and 1934 is proud of them.

Alice McConnell, David Jenks and Samuel Pierce have helped make dramatics a success. We have supported debating by the tireless efforts of George Burrows, David Jenks and Realtus McCunn and from the sacred side Vy Farman has done commendable work.

Our freshman year we made history at Vermont by refusing to carry out the so-called "Freshman Rules." It is unknown now to think about how foolish we looked in pigtails, black and white stockings and colored glasses.

We are proud of our classmates who in our junior year encouraged a drive on campus to rid it of fraternity politics. This was a big step forward in the creation of better feelings and more worthy elections.

This past year Boulder and Mortar Board have worked together and fostered a series of Razz-Dazzes and pep meetings. We feel that there is a better spirit prevailing on campus and we are proud to think we have helped in this. We have established [illegible] at Vermont [illegible] [illegible] better [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible]

SIXTY-TWO WOMEN ATTEND Y. W. C. A. FROSH CAMP

LARGEST CAMP IN HISTORY

Mrs. W. J. Kitchen and Others Lead Discussions and Campus Talks

An attendance of sixty-two freshwomen this year's Freshman Camp passed all previous records, last year's [illegible]. These women who [illegible] at Camp Hochelaga on Friday, September 14 received their first introduction to college life from the faculty and upperclassmen under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. The camp was under the direction of Helen "Bunny" Miller '35.

The Freshman Camp was introduced [illegible] seasons' ago by Billie Mount [illegible], Vermont installed the camp to [illegible] the sub-freshmen a brief outlook of [illegible] traditions and customs.

[illegible] Patterson, Miss Florence Madden, secretary of the State Y. W. C. A., Mrs. W. J. Kitchen of Boston, Mass., and Miss Holbrook gave the principal addresses. The campus leaders told of the activities during the three-day period before the opening of the college year.

At the general assembly Friday night [illegible] Algwam, Bunny Miller welcomed the freshmen in behalf of the upperclassmen. They also received brief greetings from [illegible] Barron '36, Betty Rich '35, Twink Mount '35 and Miss Storms of the faculty. Dean Patterson spoke a few words of advice as well as greeting to the new girls, telling them of the advantages of college and pleading with them to make the most of their college years.

On Saturday morning the girls were divided into groups to discuss "Why Go to College." Miss Maddock was leader of Group II and Mrs. Kitchen of the other. Frances Rowe '36 acted as reporter for Group I and Kay Babbitt for Group II. The results of the discussions were presented to the whole assembly by the reporters.

Twink Mount '35 and Patricia Stanley '35 had charge of a treasure hunt Saturday afternoon, for which the freshmen were divided into two teams. Barbara [illegible] '38 was captain of the winning team, Corrine Clark '38, captain of the losing team.

Mrs. W. J. Kitchen gave a very interesting but very beneficial talk on boy and girl relationships in college. Edith [illegible] '36 led songs and games to entertain the evening.

Sunday morning was free except for a church session period. Miss Holbrook gave the afternoon address and the evening assembly was devoted to music by [illegible] '36 and Corrine Clark and poetry by Miss Maddock. The day was concluded by a short candlelight service in which both freshmen and upperclassmen took part.

FULL ORIENTATION FOR FRESHMEN LAST WEEK

Program Featured by Lectures, Conferences and Enrollment

An intensive program for freshman orientation has been under way since the arrival of the freshmen on September 18. It started with registration from nine until ten o'clock on Tuesday morning, and from ten until eleven the deans of the various colleges gave instructions on the rules and regulations of the academic colleges. For the rest of the morning the faculty counsellors held group conferences.

During the afternoon the men filled out their personal data sheets, freshman enrollment continued, and the women made appointments for the physical and medical examinations. Tuesday evening Professor Dean gave an address on the History of the University of Vermont in the auditorium of the Fleming Museum.

The traditional opening exercises were held Wednesday morning at the Ira Allen Chapel with the usual procession of faculty and students along College Row and President Bailey's address in the Chapel. From 11.00 until 12.30 both freshman men and women attended conferences. The women were addressed by Dean Patterson, the president of Student Union, and the Women's Athletic Association, and the Pan-Hellenic Association. All of Wednesday afternoon was devoted to library instruction and registration photographs. At this time the women also filled out their personal data sheets.

The entire Thursday morning was given over to conferences on physical education and athletics for the men, and health and recreation for the women. Library instruction and registration photographs were continued in the afternoon.

The regular classes met on Friday, but Saturday morning classes were all shortened to allow for the freshman intelligence tests. On Saturday afternoon a field day for freshmen was planned at Oakledge Manor, but was postponed because of rain to Saturday, September 29.

At the end of a week of intensive lectures, addresses and conferences the freshmen must have at least a working knowledge of the rules, regulations and customs of the University of Vermont.

BOULDER WEEK TO OCTOBER 11 TO 13

Dance, Cane Rush, Hose Fight and Smoker are Part of Plans for the Week

According to an old Vermont custom and Bill Cass, Boulder Week will be celebrated before the first home week on October 11, 12, and 13.

Chairman of the Boulder dance held October 13 will be M. A. Patch '35. Chairman of the cane rush, also October 13, is R. E. Palmer '35. W. E. Cass '35 will be chairman of the hose fight on October 11, and chairman of the smoker to be held October 12 will be T. M. Reeves '35.

At the first Boulder meeting, held September 21, the question of the Saturday morning mass meetings was discussed as was the question of the change of entertainment evenings, and the cheering at games and team support.

It was decided at this time to have the student body march down to the last practice, which will be Thursday, September 27.

For the first entertainment evening, October 6, it was decided to have everyone greet and recognize the players returning from the Dartmouth game.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED OF MISS DEVOLT AND JOSEPH ELDER

The engagement has been announced of Miss Charlotte deVolt of the music department to Joseph Elder, formerly of the physics department, but recently studying at Princeton and Columbia.

Heavy Water Battle Followed by Usual Snake Dance to Downtown Section

The usually quiet and peaceful city of Burlington became infected with a mob of howling, yelling, painted, Indianlike animals Thursday evening, which upon closer inspection, turned out to be the freshmen and sophomores of the University of Vermont participating in the snake dance following the annual fountain fight. Mingled with these students were town urchins and high school pupils, all bent on raising havoc.

The sophomores upheld their prestige in the annual classic, the fountain fight, by defeating the frosh by the official score of 38 to 28. The scorers were W. E. Cass '35, president of Boulder, G. H. Cook, Jr. '35, and R. E. Palmer '35. T. M. Reeves '35 acted as timer. M. A. Patch '35 and Chet Eaton organized the frosh at Converse Hall before the scrap.

As the frosh advanced toward the fountain en masse, not a sophomore could be seen, but they soon came out of hiding to give the frosh a sound trimming at this scrap, one of the few last vestiges of freshman hazing at U. V. M. Only once have the frosh been able to emerge victorious in this contest, in 1932.

After the fracas the frosh organized a snake dance and paraded through the business section of the city. Traffic was impeded; cars resting peacefully at the curb were moved, not too gently, to the sidewalk or were placed crosswise in the street; rubbish cans, "no parking" signs and anything else not securely fastened down found new resting places, usually in the middle of the street.

The theatres were raided in vain, for policemen were stationed at the entrances of each. At the City Hall fountain pool, police were on duty to protect the gold fish. The rights of the goldfish were infringed upon by one poor fellow who was pushed in by his freshman classmates.

The mob met with better success at a restaurant. It gained entrance, and would not retreat until it had obtained many souvenirs as booty. The theft of a radiator cap and the breaking of two ribs in the Nash sedan owned by Frederick Ford were the only incidents reported to police.

After an hour of singing, cheering and running, the mob gradually diminished and broke up, giving the merchants a chance to breathe freely again.

Although the sophs won at this first clash, the frosh will have an opportunity to get revenge for themselves at the hose fight, October 11, and at the cane rush, October 13.

PRESIDENT ADDRESSES FRESHMEN WEDNESDAY

Speaks of Value of Meeting Obligations in College

The one hundred and forty-fourth year of the University of Vermont was formally opened by the annual procession of the faculty and students to the Ira Allen Chapel on Wednesday morning, September 19. Following the prayer and scripture reading by Prof. Evan Thomas, Pres. Guy W. Bailey delivered the President's Address to the entering class. He pointed out the value of meeting obligations, a term which has a wide meaning for governments as well as individuals, and particularly emphasized the obligations of college students. His address follows in part:

President Bailey's Address

The pole star, or, as it is more commonly called, the North Star, is located close to the north pole of the heavens. It is fixed; almost immovable in its relation to our planet. It was formerly much used as a guide to navigators making sea voyages, and hence it is, that by way of simile, the pole star has been looked upon as a guide or guiding principle in the voyage of life.

I wish to visit with you for a short time about what one might well say should be a polar star principle of your lives, namely, the value, indeed the necessity of keeping one's obligations.

If you were to visit a certain public building in Naples, there you would find, carefully preserved, a helmet, lance and breastplate of a Roman sentinel. When Vesuvius buried Pompeii its citizens endeavored as best they could to escape the deluge, but without avail. When, a generation or two ago, the ruins were uncovered, it was apparent that the citizens had been panic-stricken, but the striking discovery was made that a Roman sentinel was found at his post, his skeleton hand grasping the hilt of his sword, his posture that of a faithful officer.

TRYOUTS FOR MUSICAL CLUBS THIS WEEK

Tryouts for the various musical organizations will be held on Wednesday and Thursday nights of this week. The freshmen allowed to participate this year in these activities. They cannot sing in public until the second semester. Please bring instruments and music to tryouts.

The Chapel Orchestra will be limited to five or six members, preferably string players or wind players who can also play a string instrument, will rehearse two hours a week and accompany the choir once a month. At the Christmas and Easter concerts it will also play instrumental numbers, such as the "Pastoral Symphony" from the "Messiah." Like the choir it will be paid thirty-five cents for each service or hour of rehearsal.

The University Choir is limited to about thirty members and rehearses Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7.00 to 8.00 pm and sings at the Wednesday morning chapel services every week and at the Sunday vesper services once a month when the rehearsal is at 3.00 p.m. and the service at 4.00 p.m. The choir also gives a Christmas and a Lenten-Easter concert. Members are paid an honorarium of thirty-five cents an hour for each service and rehearsal.

The Men's Glee Club rehearses on Wednesdays from 7.00 to 8.00 p.m. and more frequently before concerts or opera. The New England Glee Club contest will probably be held in Portland, Me., next March. According to a recent decision of the faculty, freshmen will be allowed to participate in the Men's Glee Club during the first semester but may not

V. C. A. HOLDS ONE OF BEST FROSH CAMPS IN RECENT YEARS

SPIRIT OF CAMP EXCEPTIONALLY FINE

Leading Faculty Members and Campus Leaders Contribute to General Success

The most successful Freshman Camp in years was held at Camp Abnaki, the State Y. M. C. A. camp on North Hero Island, the week-end of September 14-17, under the direction of A. S. Everest '36. There were about forty freshmen and twenty upperclassmen and speakers in attendance.

The freshmen arrived by car and train all afternoon Friday, registering before supper. The evening meeting which opened the sixth Freshman Camp sponsored by the V. C. A. began with some Vermont songs led by A. R. Wilcox '35, with Everest at the piano. The cheers were led by H. H. Sabin '37. Mr. Powers gave the freshman a welcome as General Secretary of the Vermont Christian Association. Everest gave the welcome as director of camp. Dean Elijah Swift from the University, R. S. Wright '35, extended greetings from the V. C. A., while Mr. Merriam, State Y. M. C. A. Secretary and director of Camp Abnaki, welcomed the students, explaining the few necessary rules to follow during the stay at Camp Abnaki.

Saturday morning was devoted to talks on the various campus activities. Prof. E. H. Reeder of the education department gave a talk on the subject "A College Man Using His Head." Wilmer J. Kitchen, field secretary of the college Y. M. C. A. of New England, introduced the freshmen to their two camp periods. Activities talks were given by Wilcox on music; Wright on V. C. A. debating and dramatics, Everest on Cynic, R. C. Mildram '35 on band, Sabin '35 on Outing Club, Davis '36 on Key and Serpent, and Swift '37 on Gold Key.

Saturday afternoon was devoted entirely to conversations and organized sports under the direction of N. Dickinson '36.

The evening program consisted in the first part of sports talks by Coach John Sabo, Red Cook for football and Prof. Howard Prentice on physical education and sports in general. Bill Kitchen gave a dynamic talk on fraternities, followed by movies showing the 1927 Kake Walk.

Sunday morning a church service was held in the outdoor chapel with Dickinson presiding. The speaker was Rev. G. E. Robbins of Burlington, who spoke on "Religion in the College Man's Life." A. R. Wilcox sang a solo.

In the afternoon Pres. Guy W. Bailey gave one of the best talks of the entire program. It was a talk based on his own personal experiences. Afterwards he met the freshmen and upperclassmen. A short intermission followed and then Bill Kitchen gave a clear and simple presentation of the question of sex and youth.

The evening meeting consisted of stunts put on by each cabin. The variety and spice of the program proved enjoyable to all. Mr. Powers, Mr. Merriam and Mr. Kitchen acted as judges of the eight stunts. The success of this evening was extraordinary and far ahead of the most expected hope of the leaders, according to Everest. The winning stunt was the first radio appearance of the Canadian quintuplets under the direction of Davis, the cabin leader. Other stunts included a take-off of camp leaders, a minstrel show, and others. The evening program closed with a short summarizing talk, integrating the entire camp program, by Bill Kitchen, followed by the singing of "Champlain" and two selections on the chimes.

The freshmen departed for their new homes in Burlington Monday morning while the upperclassmen traveled back to follow the old grind Monday morning.

Universities in Japan have only thirty-five women students.

FULL ORIENTATION FOR FRESHMEN LAST WEEK

Program Featured by Lectures, Conferences and Enrollment

An intensive program for freshman orientation has been under way since the arrival of the freshmen on September 18. It started with registration from 9:00 until ten o'clock on Tuesday morning and from ten until eleven the deans of the various colleges gave instructions on the rules and regulations of the academic colleges. For the rest of the morning the faculty counsellors held group conferences.

During the afternoon the men filled out their personal data sheets freshman enrollment continued, and the women made appointments for the physical and medical examinations. Tuesday evening Professor Dean gave an address on the History of the University of Vermont in the auditorium of the Fleming Museum.

The traditional opening exercises were held Wednesday morning at the Ira Allen Chapel with the usual procession of faculty and students along College Row and President Bailey's address in the Chapel. From 11.00 until 12.30 both freshman men and women attended conferences. The women were addressed by Dean Patterson, the president of Student Union, the Women's Athletic Association, and the Pan-Hellenic Association. All of Wednesday afternoon was devoted to library instruction and registration photographs. At this time the women also filled out their personal data sheets.

The entire Thursday morning was given over to conferences on physical education and athletics for the men, and health and recreation for the women. Library instruction and registration photographs were continued in the afternoon.

The regular classes met on Friday, but Saturday morning classes were all shortened to allow for the freshman intelligence tests. On Saturday afternoon a field day for freshmen was planned at Oakledge Manor, but was postponed because of rain to Saturday, September 29.

At the end of a week of intensive lectures, addresses and conferences the freshmen must have at least a working knowledge of the rules, regulations and customs of the University of Vermont.

BOULDER WEEK TO OCTOBER 11 TO 13

Dance, Cane Rush, Hose Fight and Smoker are Part of Plans for the Week

According to an old Vermont custom and Bill Cass Boulder Week will be celebrated before the first home week on October 11 12 and 13.

Chairman of the Boulder dance held October 13 will be M. A. Patch '35. Chairman of the cane rush, also October 13 is R. E. Palmer '35. W. E. Cass '35 will be chairman of the hose fight on October 11, and chairman of the smoker to be held October 12 will be T. M. Reeves '35.

At the first Boulder meeting held September 21, the question of the Saturday morning mass meetings was discussed as was the question of the change of entertainment evenings and the cheering at games and team support.

It was decided at this time to have the student body march down to the last practice, which will be Thursday, September 27.

For the first entertainment evening October 6 it was decided to have everyone greet and recognize the players returning from the Dartmouth game.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED OF MISS DEVOLT AND JOSEPH ELDER

The usually quiet and peaceful city of Burlington became infected with a mob of howling yelling painted Indianlike animals Thursday evening, which upon closer inspection, turned out to be the freshmen and sophomores of the University of Vermont participating in the snake dance following the annual fountain fight. Mingled with these students were townspeople and high school pupils, all bent on raising havoc.

The sophomores upheld their prestige in the annual classic, the fountain fight, by defeating the frosh by the official score of 38 to 28. The scorers were W. E. Cass '35, president of Boulder, G. H. Cook, Jr. '35, and R. E. Palmer '35. T. M. Reeves '35 acted as timer. M. A. Patch '35 and Chet Eaton organized the frosh at Converse Hall before the scrap.

As the frosh advanced toward the fountain en masse not a sophomore could be seen, but they soon came out of hiding to give the frosh a good trimming at this scrap, one of the few last vestiges of freshman hazing at U. V. M. Only once have the frosh been able to emerge victorious in this contest, in 1932.

After the fracas the frosh organized a snake dance and paraded through the business section of the city. Traffic was impeded; cars resting peacefully at the curb were moved, not too gently, to the sidewalk or were placed crosswise in the street; rubbish cans, "no parking" signs, and anything else not securely fastened down found new resting places usually in the middle of the street.

The escapades were ended at 9:30, but policemen were stationed at the entrances of each. At the City Hall fountain pool, police were on duty to protect the goldfish. The rights of the goldfish were prolonged upon the sole plea of fellow who was pushed in by his freshman classmates.

The mob next went with better success at a restaurant. It gained entrance and would not retreat until it had obtained many souvenirs as loots. The theft of a radiator cap and the breaking of two sets in the Nash sedan owned by Fred Brook Ford were the only incidents reported to police.

After an hour of singing, cheering and rousing the mob gradually dispersed and broke up, giving the merchants a chance to breathe freely again.

Although the sophs won the fountain fight the frosh will have an opportunity to get revenge for themselves at the hose fight October 11 and at the cane rush October 13.

CHANGES IN PERSONNEL OF MILITARY DEPT. AFTER FULL YEAR

Rifle Team One of Year's High Lights—New Schedule to Continue This Year

By Capt. F. Gates

With the close of the last academic year two major changes in personnel were made in the military department. Col. Frederick P. Black who has for seven years been professor of military science and tactics left to take command of the 5th Infantry, the Coast Defenses of Portland Harbor, and the First District of the Civilian Conservation Corps. He is succeeded by Col. Frank W. Rowell, until recently chief of staff of the First Corps Area, who has had much experience with R. O. T. C. affairs in the War Department General Staff, in the Office of the Chief of Infantry, at the Infantry Corps Area Headquarters, and at Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Simultaneously Lieut. Col. Chester R. Hoag, in charge of the Medical Unit at the R. O. T. C., left for regular army duty to be surgeon at Fort Monmouth, N. J. The Medical Unit is being abolished. For two years no new students have been enrolled; the present senior class has been the last taken in. The Medical Unit this year will consist of seniors only. To conduct instruction of these units the War Department has designated Lieut. Col. Daniel P. Card, United States Army Medical Corps, now at Fort Ethan Allen, and chief surgeon of the Second District of the C. C. C. who will give the required lectures. Colonel Card is a graduate of the Bellevue Medical College in New York City and has a distinguished record as an army surgeon since he first entered the service in 1898.

Most noteworthy achievement of past year, aside from the maintenance of the usually excellent all-round standards of the Unit, was the great improvement in the rifle team. With better records than ever before attained in the history of the unit, a record which was recognized by the U. V. M. shooting group awarded for a team average attained by the United States War Department and decorated by a more than usual number of the marksmen of other competing colleges and the New England States. The following members of the team were presented with gold medals for winning this match and were awarded the honor sports "V" of the University: D. E. Bohringer '35, F. T. Churchill '35, A. S. Darden '35, R. M. Donahue '34, W. G. Gibson '36, J. M. Hopkinson '35, M. E. Merchant '35, W. A. Ross '35, R. H. Treadway '35, and A. L. Williams '35. The large proportion of juniors on this team who are still available gives promise of an equally excellent record this year.

First-year basic course (freshmen)	212
Second year basic course (sophomores)	122
First-year infantry (juniors)	29
Second year infantry advanced (seniors)	22
First-year medical advanced (juniors)	19
Second year medical advanced (seniors)	17

Military training at the University is required of all male students during the freshman and sophomore years in accordance with state legislation and University regulations. The Federal Government, in return for compliance with certain requirements as to program of instruction and degree of attendance, furnished federal aid in the form of arms and ammunition, supply commutation of uniform expenses, and commutation of subsistence.

Who will be the first to ask a member of freshman women sitting around the campfire at the hall exactly 10 on the evening? Does anyone recall what they had a good time? And of course you noticed the stag line in the middle of the hall to entertain it with. Comments were heard on all sides that there were too many people in the hall to have good dances.

We recommend that at future years the committee in charge of the dances lock the doors at an early hour and admit no one else not even freshmen. That would eliminate much of that disgraceful gate crashing which characterized the last freshman dance.

SEVERAL CHANGES NOTED IN COLLEGE BUILDINGS

Repairs in Nearly All Campus Buildings Big Improvement

Vermont students find many repairs in the college buildings and in the dormitories.

The cardboard stairway of the Old Mill has been moved back to make room for two offices. The English department has an office on the first floor, the Commerce and Economics department on the second. A lavatory has been installed on the third floor for the use of the Secretarial department. An underground sewer has been laid deep enough so that for future purposes more lavatories and smoking rooms can be installed in the Old Mill. There is, also, a drinking fountain on the second floor.

In Room 21, the Accounting room, a new hardwood floor has been laid, the ceiling replaced, the entire room repainted, and the tables refinished.

Besides the regular summer cleaning of the library, two new heating units have been installed. Both are in the basement, the women's lavatory, where steps connect the main, the mens toilets are under the Marsh room.

Some woodwork has been replaced in the tower of the Ira Allen Chapel, a storage room built in the basement, and the entire building repainted.

In the log cage, room has been made to house the trucks and other equipment of the Building and Grounds department.

At Campus House a new stairway has been installed to the laundry. This new stairway eliminates the use of the students' rooms and the back stairs as a passageway to the basement.

At Grassmount, the lavatory has been enlarged and adequate showers installed. In the other dormitories, the regular summer repairs are in evidence.

VERMONT TEAMS FACE NEW SEASON

Athletic teams at the University of Vermont enjoy the services of two Vermont boys, two Massachusetts boys and one New York boy leading the five leading sports as captains. Red Cook of Leominster, Mass., leads the football division into the first engagements of the year, handing over the reins to Whitey Palmer of Burlington as interest shifts to the floodlights of the basketball courts. Robie DeClarque of Rockville Center, N. Y., sensational New England sprinter, now ranging behind the line of football forwards will carry the track brigade into action with Bobby Burns of Woburn, Mass., classy second baseman leading the baseball outfit and Bart Costello of Rutland swing another racket for the tennis men. Both Burns and Costello were elected late last spring.

Last year University of Vermont teams turned in the most impressive record in recent years, varsity aggregations scoring 26 wins and accepting 33 defeats out of 59 engagements.

Gridsters End Training Thurs. as Season Opens

CAT'S MEOW

By Sports' Editor

With the opening of a new college year we find football taking the limelight in most circles and cross-country demanding its share of interest.

We welcome the class of 1928. May it do as much to give to athletics as we expect it will, namely, to be the home of improved athletic teams in the next few years.

We also extend words of welcome to our new football coach, Edward Sabo. Under his tutelage we are working toward a new era in football at V. M.

Coach Sabo needs pluck, of support from the student body. He is putting his best to produce a fighting team this fall. It is the duty of the student body to encourage him as well as the team by giving whole hearted support.

Toward this end a send-off to the team will be held Thursday afternoon at Centennial Field. It will be the last opportunity to see the team in action before they open the grid season at Rensselaer Saturday.

The entire student body is requested to be present at the send-off. Freshmen should turn out en masse and show plenty of spirit and enthusiasm. Let's start the season off with a bang!

The team has consistently showed improvement from the start. Handicapped by a small turnout at the opening of training season Sabo has developed a team worthy of consideration. Daily additions to the roster have allowed him to pick a comparatively fast aggregation.

In Capt. Red Cook we have one of the best all-around grid leaders that Vermont has had in many years. Red is a hard fighting tackle whose leadership on the field as well as his sportsmanship has stamped him as a great football player.

Herb Holley, the stonewall guard whose foot injury has kept him on the sidelines during the past week is expected to see action in the opening game.

And cross-country comes to the fore-front here. Capt. Dusty White leads a corps of long winders in five meets this fall. Graduation took its toll on runners, but new material is expected to fill in the gaps.

So let's all rouse our spirits this fall, take down a few cobwebs and put Vermont on the map in the sporting world.

CAPT. RED COOK TO LEAD TEAM THIS YEAR

...the past three weeks as Centennial Field the new grid coach, Ed... Sabo has been holding strenuous drills ...preparing the 1924 edition of the Ver... ...mont grid machine. Training table was ...ured on the two weeks preceding school ...and conditioning work was the keynote ...of the day. As a result of the cuts ...posed the squad has practiced from the pre... ...season group to the respectable number ...of twenty-eight. While not blessed with the wealth of material that was the good fortune of last year's squad, Coach Sabo has instilled into the men a fighting spirit which has been conspicuously absent at recent Centennial shrines.

A visitor at the practices during the past week would have been impressed ... ...the snap with which the squad went through the drills. Instead of remaining on the sidelines and directing the assistants, Coach Sabo was in the thick of the practice coaching, instructing, arguing and when necessary bawling out some individual who was 'asleep down on the job.' The result of his driving was seen last Saturday when a savage, fighting varsity team ripped through a good second team to score four touchdowns in the first half, using ...ost straight power plays and off tackle thrusts. During the second half the men were switched around in order to give everyone a tryout.

Many of the last year's veterans continued their good play, while a number of newcomers outclassed all expectations. Eddie Funk inserted the team well from quarter and added a lot of zip and pep to the attack, while his running back at punts was truly beautiful. Andy Werner repeatedly plunged through the line for first downs and scored the first touchdown on a line buck. Eddie DeClarque, a newcomer to the backfield, showed promise on an off tackle slant, while Dave Ramsey played his usual steady smashing game. In the line the two veteran heads, Captain Cook and Negus, continued their fine play of last year by repeatedly stopping the offensive of the second team. Bob Lawton, a sophomore, showed up well in a guard position. Ed Lounsbury, a member of the squad last ...ason, starred brilliantly during the afternoon. Playing on the second team at the beginning of the game he ...ntinually stopped the varsity offensive. He continued the good work later in the game when he was shifted to the first team. Trudeau Kenworthy, Jones, Jazz Lagacy and Bedell showed that Coach Sabo is going to have a difficult time determining the starting lineup for the first game with R. P. I. next Saturday.

The true spirit of the squad and the spirit which is going to characterize the fighting team is brought out by the words of Coach Sabo who said last week: "We are not going to Troy next Saturday to play Rensselaer but we are going to Troy to beat them." And as has been said so often: "A team that won't be beat can't be beat." The team is working hard the coaches are working hard so let's all turn out Thursday for the last practice held and to the games throughout the season.

CROSS-COUNTRY TEAM PROSPECTS DIM WITH ONLY SMALL TURNOUT

Runners to Meet Five Opponents With Dusty White Heading Pack

According to Coach Archie Post the prospects for a successful cross-country season are very slim. As yet only about ...ozen have reported for the fall har... ...ier practice and unless more men go out for the team the cross-country season is bound to be a failure. Only six men showed up for the opening practice last Thursday and unless there are a number of additional ...ecruits the team will be forced to ...ancel its meets with Middlebury and ...ates.

A large turnout is necessary if the team is to succeed in the meets with Middlebury and Union.

This is a national cross-country season and it is hoped that Vermont will participate in every ...ossible contest.

Capt. Dusty White, Lewis Woodruff and Ewart Bell are the only returning veterans returning from last year's team. White was handicapped in several meets last year and as a result of stronger competition, the other teams in the squad looks to be a much improved runner. Both Ewart Bell and Woodruff are experienced runners and they should do much to be able to bear the brunt of the burden. Doug Hunter, a runner who showed considerable ...tyle and endurance last season, should bolster the veteran part of the team.

A corps of Ufew men dealt the team's chances when it was learned that Maurice Lessor, an all-round track man, will not run this year. He has entered the Colby ...et at Medford and cannot take the time to devote to the fall sport.

Several ...ast-looking freshmen who should step into varsity berths are Jacobs, Lewis, Daigneault and Lehner. Daigneault played in all the freshmen meets last year and this has given him enough experience so as to enable him to fit right into the varsity program. Lehner, who starred both on frosh cross-country and track, presented yesterday and looks very promising. He is a natural hill and dale man with an even stride and plenty of endurance. Jacobs and Lewis, both ...ecruits and who need to develop the endurance to enable them to be of value to the first squad.

The work thus far has been for the most part lumbering up exercises and pavement work, the latter to prepare the men for the Union meet at Schenectady, October 11. The course there runs over hard ...ountry roads with a large number of hills.

The schedule as it now stands includes meets with Middlebury, the big meet which must win the State honors, this on the day of the Vermont-Middlebury game, November 15. At the national school a team should turn out this year for a ...ross-country team ...ould have a great deal to show this year.

TENNIS SEASON OPENS SOON WITH TOURNEY

The 1934-35 tennis season at the University of Vermont opens this week with the beginning of tournament play. This tournament is under the management of the athletic director and the committee in charge of tennis has rules must be played before the matches begin Wednesday, September 26 marks the closing day for all those who wish to enter. A schedule of the playing matches will be posted on the bulletin board in the gymnasium Thursday, September 27. Following the posting of the schedule, matches will be played off as rapidly as possible. Last year the finals were not run off until the middle of October. So far about twenty-five men have signified their intentions of entering the tournament. It is hoped that this number will be increased before the time the entries close. The tournament will be run off in the fall semester.

Varsity men entered include Burt Cassell, tennis captain-elect, Harry Swett, Jack Hart, Jim Sayre. These men have had considerable tennis and have excellent chances of coming out with the championship. Last year's champion, Al Tomassetty, and Messrs. Coombs and Harris are Cassell's chief opponents.

Here is a list of the entries up to the time it went to press: Al Tomassetty, F. H. Stoddard, W. E. Morgan, O. J. LaRiviere, Burt Cassell, E. A. Ramon, Harry Swett, F. G. Coombs, F. G. UNIVERSITY ACQUIRES IMPORTANT LINK IN ITS CAMPUS HOLDINGS

Announcement of the purchase of the old Benedict home on South Prospect Street, facing the campus, has been made by the University of Vermont. The purchase completes the holdings of the University on the block extending from Pearl Street to College Street, with the exception of the Bishop DeGoesbriand Hospital on the corner of Pearl Street.

The property just acquired, which was purchased 105 years ago by Prof. George Wellys Benedict, one of the distinguished professors of the University, has been in the possession of one family longer than any other piece of property in Burlington, and has always been closely associated with the affairs of the University. The son of Professor Benedict, George Grenville Benedict, editor of the Burlington Free Press, was a graduate of the University in the class of 1847, and his grandson, George Wellys Benedict, now professor at Brown, is a graduate of the University in the class of 1892. He sold the property to the University as administrator of his father's estate. The link is an important one in the University holdings.

ATTENTION, FRESHMEN!

There will be a meeting of all freshman men in the Old Chapel at 4.00 p.m. Tuesday, October 2. This meeting is of utmost importance to all of you. The meeting will be an innovation that has been recommended by the Interfraternity Council and highly praised by Dean Swift and Professor Kidder, among others. The freshmen always enter a rushing season in more or less of a "fog." In this meeting you will hear Professor Carroll, faculty advisor of the Interfraternity Council, who has kindly consented to speak to you. He will attempt to clarify many problems concerning rushing that otherwise you would have no knowledge of. Very few of you know anything about rushing at Vermont. And any knowledge that you may gain about the rushing system and tactics employed by fraternities will be invaluable to you.

This means all freshmen, even you freshmen who have no thought of joining a fraternity, for you may be the first to join. This instruction will be solely for your benefit, so take advantage of it. It will do much to enable you to pick a fraternity where you will fit. If it is possible, Dean Swift will also say a few words to you. Don't miss this opportunity. The success in rushing season depends largely on you freshmen. Do your part.

C. I. Keelan,
Pres. Interfraternity Council.

FIRST DANCE OF SEASON SPONSORED BY GOLD KEY

Music by Sid Carsley—Dance Till 12.00—Admission $1.10

The first big dance of the season is scheduled for tomorrow evening in the Gym at 8.30. The Gold Key sophomore men's honorary society, will sponsor the affair.

The music, which will be furnished by Sid Carsley's Orchestra, will be voted better this year, states F. I. Webster '37, chairman of the dance committee. Carsley has new attractive which I am sure that everybody will enjoy.

The committee in charge of this informal dance is Webster, chairman; H. T. Bickford '37, F. M. [illegible] '37 and A. J. Wunsch '37. The chaperones for the affair will be Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kiphuth, Professor and Mrs. Bohnny and Professor Latch.

A member of the committee declares that he is sure the dance will be a success and expects that everybody who goes will have a better time.

The dance begins at 8.30 and lasts until 12 o'clock. The admission is $1.10.

R. J. WEISSMAN M'37 QUITS PRESIDENCY OF GREY FRIARS

Due to the pressure of his medical studies, R. J. Weissman M. '37 is resigning over the reins of office as president of Grey Friars to W. E. Case '37, who will assume the helm at the next meeting. It is hoped that the above-mentioned meeting will be held in the near future at about time all incoming candidates are requested to be present.

NEW FOOTBALL MENTOR

JOHN P. SABO

This morning the 1934 edition of the University of Vermont football squad departed for the city of Troy, N. Y., where they open the season tomorrow against Rensselaer Polytech. The team under the leadership of Capt. Red Cook, and under the able tutelage of Coach Johnnie Sabo, Vermont's new football mentor, is looking for victory in tomorrow's encounter. Bringing to an end yesterday a training period of over three weeks the Catamount squad went through the plays which are anticipated at Troy. Stressing mostly a hard running attack with emphasis on end runs, and putting the final touches on impenetrable defense, Sabo concluded the preparation with a fast pepper drill, which included all the squad.

As the team meets its first opponent with a comparatively small squad of players the outcome of course is debatable. However, a great improvement in the team was shown in the last few days of practice. Dismal were the prospects a week ago, but Sabo has relentlessly kept the boys fighting, and now as the eve of battle approaches, signs indicate a good battle for the teams tomorrow.

The team is not basing its power on any one star this season. Instead, a quartet of hard working veteran backs compose the Green and Gold attack this year. One of the most promising developments has been the establishment of good blocking interference. This factor has been absent during the past few years, and was the cause of many a fast ball-carrier being tackled at the line of scrimmage.

The team is handicapped by the absence of Herb Hollis, backfield guard. Herb's injured ankle has kept him on the sidelines during the past week and he not healed well enough for him to see action Saturday. Freddie Lanahan, diminutive ball-carrier, will also be missing from the lineup. Both these men will undoubtedly detract from the defensive power of the team.

In Rollie Deltausse we have a new back whose speed and power will be valuable. Rollie will share the punting honors with Red Cooke. The kicking leg of Deltausse is still sore. For passers the team has Deltausse, Ramon Werner and Kenworthy.

"Whatever the integral weaknesses are we'll be a bunch of determined fighters out there," says Sabo, "and if Vermont gives what I know they've got, we'll win handily."

FEDERAL EMERGENCY RELIEF ADMINISTRATION

Every student working under this schedule should make certain that his time is recorded in an official time book and approved by the head of the department in which work is performed or a representative of the department. Time books must be returned to the employment bureau on the date which appears on the front of the book. Books returned later than the first day of the month succeeding the one in which they were issued cannot be accepted for payment.

LATE DEAN PERKINS COMMEMORATED IN GEOLOGICAL BOOKLET

Another tribute was paid the late Dean Perkins in a pamphlet devoted entirely to a memorial of his life and writings, published in June by the Geographical Society of America and entitled the "Memorial of George Henry Perkins," by Herman L. Fairchild.

Although Dean Perkins was not a member of the society he was very much interested in its work and wrote various articles of geological interest. Some of these consisted of notes on the Winooski marble of Vermont; preliminary report on the geology of Franklin County; geology of Grand Isle County; description of species found in the tertiary lignite of Brandon, Vt.; physiography of Vermont, and various other treatises of interest to naturalists.

The memorial consists of a brief biography and an account of his various offices, accomplishments, and works. Mr. Fairchild, who was a life-long friend of Dean Perkins, seems unable to praise him too highly in every respect and evidently feels as the faculty and students who knew him do. Their regard is manifested in a quotation from the Vermont [illegible] of October 4, 1933, which was devoted entirely to the memory of the Dean Emeritus. It is: "Those [illegible] remember the rather domineering but well [illegible] personality the kind husband, well [illegible] expected to view in later years the full [illegible] board, the quick step, the energetic manner, the kindly eye, the pleasant voice, and the countenance which invited approach."

VERMONT R. O. T. C. MEN LEAD OTHER COLLEGES SUMMER TRAINING CAMP

With R. O. T. C. activities under way for the year at the University of Vermont, twenty-one students, some of them honor men, are back in the school ranks after having spent part of the summer in training at Camp Devens, Mass. On the rifle range Vermont led students from other New England colleges, with a qualification average of 70 per cent as compared with the 65 per cent of Boston, Vermont's nearest rival.

Lieutenant P. M. Howe and F. T. Churchill were rated as sharpshooters and marksmen at marksmen. Churchill's score was the highest in the camp. He also won the Hearst Century award for having participated in soldierly qualities. Capt. Llewellyn Colby, of the University of Vermont unit, was adjutant of the camp and was in charge of ceremonies, as well as being swimming instructor. Sgt. R. T. Conner, also of the Vermont faculty, was assigned to the Second Company.

Schedule for Debates Includes a Varied Program Plus a Number of Trips

Eight men gathered at the V. C. A. office Tuesday evening in response to the call for men debaters issued by C. A. Rogers '35, manager of men's debate. Two freshmen, three sophomores, two juniors and one senior were there, besides the coach, Mr. M. D. Power. They were: R. N. Saxby '37, F. W. Timmerman '37, F. W. Hale '36, E. Bingham Jr. '38, C. Gronbeck '38, A. La Sala '36, C. A. Rogers '35, and H. R. Gilmore '37. C. A. Rogers, who conducted the meeting, discussed the plans for the year. A trip through Maine October 18-20 is the first important date on the schedule. On the trip the U. V. M. debaters will meet Bates October 19, and plans are under way for a debate with Colby October 18 and one with Bowdoin, October 20. At Bates, the Oregon style of debate will be used. In this style there are three men on each team, one who represents the case, the second man questions the first speaker of the opposition, and the third man sums up the case in a type of rebuttal. The question to be debated is: Resolved that the Federal Government should adopt a policy of equalizing educational opportunities throughout the nation by means of grants to the several states for public elementary and secondary education."

During the Thanksgiving recess, the team hopes to be able to make a trip through Massachusetts to Boston, then to Rhode Island, and during the Christmas vacation a trip through New York state.

Two series of home debates are planned, one group early this winter and another during February and March.

This year the annual spring trip will take the Vermont debaters west as far as the Mississippi. If present plans are carried out they hope to go as far south as Texas, meeting various colleges in debate on the way.

The major debating season closes with the annual Middlebury-Vermont debate to be held in Middlebury this year. Debating prizes and awards are given out at that time.

This year the course known as English 8, formerly required of all students except forestry and commerce and economic students, with no credit, is being offered as an elective course with one hour credit. It is a course in argumentation and is intended to be beneficial to those who are interested in debating.

CHANGES IN CURRICULA ANNOUNCED BY THE DEAN

Mass Meetings Dropped at Boulder's Suggestion Due to Low Attendance

In a recent interview concerning the changes in courses for the coming year, Dean Swift stated that there have been no changes in group requirements, but that several changes in the curricula have been made.

For the first time Argumentation is not required for any students. It will be given as a free elective course in debating. The reading in French required of seniors has been shifted to the junior year and is required of all juniors except those in the commerce and economics and secretary curricula. Seniors who have passed the course in English 8 will not be required to take the old senior reading course.

Another innovation is the course in teaching phonology, etc., for senior men in the four year teacher training course. The course is expected to be of great value to men taking teaching positions in high schools who are frequently called upon to assist with athletics. Credit will be given to four-year teacher training students enrolled in the course but not to others.

Dean Swift also announced that after a discussion of the advisability of having mass meetings this year the Boulder Society recommended that they be discontinued by the University Council. This recommendation has been accepted and the assembly morning scheduled will be the same as that of the other week days except Wednesday. During the first part of last year after the mass meetings had been discontinued at the suggestion of Boulder and the Lawrence Student Council they were very popular but attendance dropped to such low levels during the second semester that it has not been considered worth while to continue the meetings.

a good cigarette gives you a lot of pleasure

. . . just about every cigarette smoker knows that—but here are some other facts to keep in mind . . .

For a cigarette to be milder and taste better it must be made of mild, ripe Turkish and home-grown tobaccos.

We wish you could go into the factories and see Chesterfield made. The mild ripe tobacco is cut in long even threads—then packed into the cigarette so as to make Chesterfield draw right and burn evenly.

A good cigarette can give you a lot of pleasure, and we would like for you to try Chesterfield.

HAMPDEN COMES TO STRONG IN "RICHELIEU"

Special Price of Fifty-five Cents for College Students' Benefit

Walter Hampden, who is unquestionably one of the finest actors living today, will appear in his own production of Bulwer Lytton's "Richelieu" at the Strong Theatre in Burlington the night of Wednesday, October 3. The performance begins at 8:15.

This play, modernized by Arthur Goodrich, is classed as one of Hampden's greatest successes along with his portrayals of Hamlet, Macbeth, and Cyrano de Bergerac. "Richelieu" has been judged a most fitting vehicle for the talents of the great Hampden, and the advance notices seem to insure an interesting and most enjoyable performance. It is a policy of the Hampden company not to lessen the details of a presentation in any way while on tour. Thus the performance at the Strong will be similar to the one which ran with such great success at Hampden's own theatre in New York.

The plot is one of intrigue and conspiracy in which Richelieu proves the truth of his famous axiom, "The pen is mightier than the sword," by saving his own life, preserving his authority, and preventing the seizure of Louis XIII's throne by the Duke of Orleans. He also rescues his ward, the beautiful Julie de Mortemar, from Count Baradas, an ally of the Duke of Orleans, and brings about her marriage with her lover, Chevalier de Mauprat. With such a melodramatic plot and such a superb actor for the central figure, a thrilling and worthwhile evening is assured.

Because of the great interest of the student body at U. V. M., special student prices of fifty-five cents for the gallery have been arranged. Other prices will be: Orchestra, $2.75 and $2.20, and balcony, $2.20, $1.65 and $1.10.

RUGBY FOOTBALL IS OFFERED IN PLACE OF P. T.

FIRST DANCE OF SEASON SPONSORED BY GOLD KEY

Last Saturday evening the Gold Key Society held the opening dance of the season in the University gymnasium from 8:30 until 12. Music was furnished by the popular Sid Carsley and his orchestra who offered new and clever arrangements of the latest popular numbers.

The dance was very successful, attracting over a hundred couples. Chaperons for the evening were Professor and Mrs. Behney, Professor and Mrs. Kiphuth and Professor Laatsch and Miss Woodard. Also in the receiving line were J. T. Webster '37, chairman of the dance, and Miss Barbara Howd '37.

The committee in charge of the dance consisted of J. T. Webster, chairman, H. T. Bickford, F. M. Shaine, A. J. Wimett and P. F. Pond. Gold Key will hold another dance during the second semester.

MEETING TODAY FOR ALL FRESHMAN MEN

There will be a meeting of all freshman men in the Old Mill Chapel at 4.00 p.m. this afternoon. The meeting is of utmost importance to all of you. The freshmen always enter a rushing season in more or less of a "fog." In this meeting you will hear Professor Carroll, faculty advisor of the Interfraternity Council, who will attempt to clarify many problems concerning rushing that otherwise you would have no knowledge of. Very few of you know anything about rushing at Vermont. And any knowledge that you may gain about the rushing system and tactics employed by fraternities will be invaluable to you.

This means all freshmen, even you freshmen who have no thought of joining a fraternity, for you may be the first to join. This instruction will be solely for your benefit, to take advantage of it. It will do much to enable you to pick a fraternity where you will fit. If it is possible, Dean Swift will also say a few words to you. Don't miss this opportunity.

C. I. Keelan,
Pres. Interfraternity Council.

More Fascist Organizations

Continuing the list of the Fascist groups in the United States which was started at the end of last year, the Cynic prints the following:

The Khaki Shirts: This organization, led by "Commander-in-Chief" Art J. Smith, started a coup in Philadelphia, October 12, 1933. A writer in the Philadelphia Evening Public Ledger June 2, 1935, spoke of Smith's "public utterances in which he has threatened to take over the United States Government and set up a Fascist dictatorship in the style of Mussolini or Hitler. The outfit's has a membership in Philadelphia ranging from 5,000 to 8,000." Capt. William H. Houghton, chief o the United States Secret Service, was quoted as saying, "Smith's chief business is to sell uniforms to members. Smedley D. Butler, Huey Long and Louis McFadden were reported as working with Smith.

Smith himself began his racketeering career at the age of eight with a hold-up and attempted murder and was later arrested for robbing and nearly murdering a lumberjack. Upon entering his fascist career he armed his Khaki Shirts in Philadelphia with Ace-Enneid rifles, clubs and loaded riding crops to beat up workers. Two armed guards rode on the running boards of the automobile in which Smith drove about the city. At a recruiting rally July 14, 1933, in Astoria L. I. N. Y., one of his fascist gang killed an anti-fascist student. Anthony Terzan and Smith ordered the arrest of another anti-fascist, Achos Terzan, charged with the murder. Terzan was acquitted following the mass protests of working class organizations. In an address before a group of his followers in Philadelphia following the rally, Smith boasted, "We killed one radical and sent [illegible] others to a hospital in New York." Subsequently Frank Moffer, a fascist associated by Terzan as the killer of Fierro, was arrested for the murder and Smith was placed under arrest for perjury. Moffer later confessed to the murder and pleaded guilty to first degree [illegible].

Delta Tau Delta	J	I	H	G	F	E	D	C

The freshmen and new students may visit those fraternities they desire to visit on the fourth and fifth open-house nights from 7 to 10. On these two nights only may fraternities ask for rushing-night preferences.

5. Wednesday, October 17, at 4 p.m., freshmen and new students shall assemble in the [illegible] to receive rushing date [illegible] from representatives of different fraternities, [illegible] carrying out the same as has been customary [illegible]. A member of the faculty, who is a dismissed [illegible] and yet competent shall be designated by the Council to meet the freshmen and new students as a body and to make such explanations to them as are necessary before they go through the line.

6. Rushing dates: three in number, will be [illegible] Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, October [illegible]. These dates will run from 6 to [illegible]. No fraternity shall make more than one date with any freshman or new student.

7. From 12 p.m., Wednesday, October 24, [illegible] the last rushing date until 6 p.m., Thursday, [illegible] shall be a strictly neutral period during which time no active or associate member of a fraternity belonging to the Council shall hold any communication whatsoever with freshmen or new students.

8. At 4 p.m., Thursday, October 25, the members of the Council shall meet and bring all their invitations in sealed and addressed envelopes, said meeting to be held in the room in the Old Mill designated by the president of the Council. Within each envelope shall be only the printed form of the invitation properly filled [illegible] and an unsealed envelope with the name of the inviting fraternity upon it. The invitations shall then be delivered by the respective representatives of the different fraternities in council [illegible] the freshmen and new students presenting themselves before said Council. In a room adjoining the council room each freshman or new student shall fill out the blanks "I accept" or "I do not accept your invitation to membership," or "Undecided" and shall then put each invitation in the envelope addressed to the inviting fraternity and return [illegible] the council room.

On the day of pledging, when the invitations are being given out, fraternity men will remain in their houses.

9. Each invitation shall be in writing, and upon printed forms furnished by the secretary-treasurer of the Council; invitations not accepted shall be returned.

10. Each [illegible] freshman or new student who fails to be present to receive his bids in the above manner shall be delivered to the faculty [illegible] who, accompanied by an officer of the [illegible] council, shall personally [illegible] the absentees. The neutral periods for said absentees shall be extended until such time as the bids are delivered to the absentee and returned to the faculty advisor. In no case shall this neutral period end before 6 p.m. of pledging day.

[illegible] fraternity may pledge a man who has [illegible] pledged to another fraternity [illegible] from the date [illegible] pledging, unless the pledge is [illegible] the pledging fraternity prior to [illegible] of the seven-month interval.

[illegible] pledged with a per[illegible] at another place but before [illegible] transfers to Vermont, must [illegible] college within ten class [illegible] and pledges. The fraternity may ratify or disclaim such pledge by reporting same to the Council's faculty advisor.

11. All pledges shall wear buttons, unless pledging shall be declared irregular by the [illegible] Council, they shall be strictly honored [illegible] pledge herewith expressly [illegible] Council shall have the power to declare a pledge irregular or [illegible].

12. Penalties for the infraction of the rushing rules will be administered by a Faculty Council, composed of five members of the faculty who are members of the fraternities which do not have chapters here. [illegible] with the offending fraternity as the defendant and the president of the Faculty Council as presiding judge. All the evidence shall be presented to the court by both defending and prosecuting fraternities, and then a decision will be made by the court alone.

Group Assignments

Freshmen have been [illegible] alphabetically into ten groups [illegible] indicated by a letter. A [illegible] group a freshman can [illegible] houses he visits on each [illegible]. Thus a man in Group [illegible] Sigma Delta from 7 to 8, [illegible] from 8 to 9, Phi Delta [illegible] 10 and Sigma Phi from 10 [illegible] found out by consulting [illegible] printed in the rushing rules [illegible] the schedule for one's own [illegible].

More Fascist Organizations

Continuing the list of the Fascist groups in the United States which was started at the end of last year, the CYNIC prints the following:

The Khaki Shirts: This organization, led by "Commander-in-Chief" Art J. Smith, staged a coup in Philadelphia, October 12, 1933. A writer in the Philadelphia Evening Public Ledger (July 29, 1933), spoke of Smith's "public utterances in which he has threatened to take over the United States Government and set up a Fascist dictatorship in the style of Mussolini or Hitler." It actually has a membership in Philadelphia ranging from 5,000 to [illegible]. Capt. William H. Houghton, [illegible] the United States Secret Service, was quoted as saying "Smith's chief business is to sell uniforms to members. Smedley D. Butler, Huey Long and Louis McFadden were reported as working with Smith.

Smith himself began his racketeering career at the age of eight with a hold-up and attempted murder and was later arrested for robbing and nearly murdering a lumberjack. Upon entering his fascist career he formed his Khaki Shirts in Philadelphia with Ace-Enfield rifles, clubs and "loaded" riding crops to beat up workers. Two armed guards rode on the running boards of the automobile in which Smith drove about the city. At a recruiting rally July 14, 1933, in Astoria L. I. N. Y., one of his fascist gang killed an anti-fascist student. Anthony Turco and Smith ordered the arrest of another anti-fascist, Athos Terzano, charged with the murder. Terzano was acquitted following the mass protests of working class organizations. In an address before a group of his followers in Philadelphia following the rally, Smith boasted, "We killed one radical and sent sixteen others to a hospital in New York." Subsequently, Frank Mosher, a fascist identified by Terzano as the killer of Turco, was arrested for the murder and Smith was placed under arrest for perjury. Mosher later confessed to the murder and pleaded guilty to first degree manslaughter.

The Order of '76 operates secretly in and around New York City. It claims to be enrolling 200 members a day and assigns tasks of petty espionage to each individual. It is anti-Jewish, attempting to expose the Jews as a factor in American banking.

The Crusaders, organized in 1930, also operate in the vicinity of New York. Originally organized to oppose prohibition, they took up an anti-inflation campaign in November, 1933, receive support from big business interests promoting "sound money," oppose unemployment relief and are reported as inclining toward a semi-military setup.

[illegible] United States [illegible] headquarters [illegible] Coast, and are strong in [illegible] and Washington. The organization claims two million members and has recently announced a program

MORTAR BOARD HOLDS ANNUAL PICNIC TODAY

Bus to Take Girls To and From North Beach; Stunts After Supper

The annual Mortar Board picnic, under the direction of Barbara Taylor '35, president of Mortar Board, will be held at North Beach today at twelve o'clock. Supper will be served at 5.30.

This is the second in a series of get acquainted events to which the big sisters are supposed to bring their little sisters. If the weather is favorable there will be ample opportunity for swimming and sunning.

After the supper there will be stunts put on by each class. The stuntsters will compete for a prize, the nature of which has not yet been disclosed. The stunts are in charge of Sarah Brown '35.

All the town girls are invited to come to the picnic but a charge of 25 cents is made for the supper. After supper there will be songs and cheers around the open fire.

To enable the girls to get to North Beach with greater ease a bus will be at the gym at five o'clock for all those girls who have no other means of transportation. This picnic doesn't count as a night out and is usually over by eight o'clock.

Last year the annual affair was given by the sophomore class. The cast was made up of Rosemarie Cahill, Frances Rowe, and Marion Herberg.

PRESENT SENIORS LAST OF MEDIC R. O. T. C. UNIT

The University of Vermont in common with other medical colleges, is having its medical unit abolished, and the medical unit that will graduate in June [illegible] last taken in. The effort to abolish the medical units headed by Representative [illegible] of Mississippi, chairman of the House committee on appropriations, that would have stopped money for the War Department, was twice blocked by the Army, but in the third round the Army was forced to raise the white flag, although intimating that the fight will be carried into the next Congress for a reversal. Under the present arrangement the last remaining classes of 684 students at twenty-two colleges, five dental schools and four optometrical colleges graduate in June of 1935. Lieut.-Col. Chester B. Hare, in charge of the medical unit at the R. O. T. C. at the University of Vermont, has been transferred as surgeon at Fort Monmouth, N. J., and to conduct examinations for the service, the War Department has designated Lieut.-Col. Daniel P. Card, United States Army Medical [illegible] surgeon of the second district [illegible] Colonel Card is a graduate of the University Medical College in New York City and has a distinguished record [illegible] and is now stationed [illegible] retired in 1937.

THE SPORTING

Now that the opening whistle has blown for the commencement of football season, we find several interesting highlights in the intercollegiate sports arena. We are especially attempting to collect and present information which has some direct relation to sports at Vermont. In this capacity we hope to stimulate interest in intercollegiate activities on the gridiron.

Last week we discovered that a former St. Mike's star was continuing his fine work with the pigskin at another institution. Peavy, the hilltoppers' fullback last fall, is now doing the honors for American International College. Last Saturday Peavy's fine kicking was the determining factor in his team's victory over Connecticut State. The "Connecticut Campus" reports that Peavy's educated toe "kicked 'em a mile."

Pat Hanley's new régime at Boston University took it on the nose from Brown last Saturday to the tune of 18-0. This score is a strong indication that Pat's boys are going to be a strong outfit this fall. Three touchdowns were all Tuss McLaughry's team could do to the Terriers. We are waiting until the B. U. team comes to Burlington. Remember—Pat Hanley was a side-kick of our Johnnie Sabo at Northwestern last year.

Dartmouth's new revival in football this fall under Head Coach Red Blaik is going to be worth watching. Red didn't use any trick plays on Norwich in the opening game, but undoubtedly he will employ them against Vermont Saturday. The Indians are not boasting of a heavy team this fall, but a fast, scrappy eleven is the aim of the Dartmouth régime. Watch these boys Saturday—Rand, Conti, Geniawicz, Dechert and Kenney.

The overwhelming victory of Middlebury over Oswego Normal is nothing to get excited over. True it is that the Panthers have a formidable array of talent this year, but the opposition in the first game was hardly a fair test of the Blue and White power. Co-captains Williams and Booker are a great pair of players, as is Zawistoski, and the team in general has potential strength, but we are anxious to see how they will perform under stiff opposition.

Army had a tough assignment in beating its first opponent—Washburn—a small college from Kansas. Occasionally a small dark-horse will drive the mule off the field, and Saturday the mule had to kick plenty to stave off the onrush of the oncoming black mare. Possibly next year the Catamount will chase said mule around the gridiron until it loses its breath. Beware of the 1935 Catamount, Army!

merger with the Silver Shirts. Christians attacks the gold standard and advocates "a managed currency" that would give credit to all. Instructions have been issued for a general march on Washington by a perfectly drilled and disciplined membership, with plans outlined for taking control of local governments. Christians is praised by Oscar C. Pfaus, commander of the German Alliance, a fascist organization, and another Nazi representative is reported as greeting Christians with the following: "Let me salute you as you will be saluted in the days to come. Hail Christians!"

Nationalists, with headquarters in Jacksonville, Fla. are directly in the tradition of the Ku Klux Klan, with Col. William Simmons, founder of the Klan, as their commander-in-chief. It issued a call to "any truly white American citizen" to join and claims that 40,000 members "have quietly organized brigades in the chief cities of the United States. Armed with the greatest secrecy in the past twelve months" i.e. during 1933.

The Ku Klux Klan is by no means dead. It still continues its anti-labor activities, anti-Jewish campaign of terror in many southern centers. A leaflet widely distributed in Birmingham, Ala. in the spring of 1933, from the "Knights of Ku Klux Klan" warned the negroes of Birmingham against communism and ordered them to report all communistic meetings to the K.K.K. or to the police department with the threat of dire consequences. Will S.S. Be Let Loose? Silver Shirts claim that the "better elements" of the K.K.K. are joining the Silver Horde.

The American Blue Coats has distributed much literature among the unemployed in Chattanooga. One was the statement "The American Blue Corps is opposed to the diabolical sabotage of the United States Government and the rule of the Christian Gentile American citizen by the dictatorship and traitorous activities of all the money controlled agencies of the world, including a conspiracy of the Jews, international and un-

ARCHIE POST TALKS TO CROSS-COUNTRY MEN

Emphasizes Building of Body and Diet as Important to Runners

Conditioning was the main point stressed by Coach Archie Post of the varsity cross-country team to his squad of ten men last week. Early and big breakfast menus have been given daily to graduate Post to build up the strong muscles needed before the actual running is begun. A sensible diet was also pointed out to be of great importance by Coach Post.

Nine men on the squad are experienced and it is just a question of developing more endurance and speed.

With the first meet less than two weeks away intensive training is to be held under strict supervision of Capt. Justin White and Coach Post. Captain White is a three-year man and has increased his endurance and condition more easily than the remaining men but all should be fit by the end of this week.

Fraternity Teams Warm Up for Keen Contests This Fall on Back Campus

Welcome the opening of the touch football series! As the brisk weather of October comes to us, we at least have this initial stage of inter-fraternity competition to warm our blood.

For the benefit of the freshmen, your scribe will attempt to explain why this sports competition between the fraternities is so important. A certain number of points are taken by the winners of each big event of the year, including the Kake Walk and military drill squads. The prize for the fraternity having the greatest number of points at the end of the competitive year, is the much coveted Traver trophy. The trophy has been given for the last four years and has been held by as many different fraternities, namely, Kappa Sigma, Sigma Phi, Phi Delta Theta and Delta Psi.

So far we've watch the touch football team drill into shape for the soon to be scrap. We realize that this year the competition will be stronger than ever. Sunday afternoon, the Sigma Phi aggregation encountered the Delta Psi team in a practice game at the girls' hockey field. The A. T. O. team has also had a practice game with the freshman nucleus. Incidentally, these young rookies embody several of last year's all fraternity players. Bob Bent, captain of the Sigma Phi, and Pete Joly of the A. T. O.'s will be the only members of last year's all fraternity team to be seen in action this year.

Mr. Prentice and Mr. Post of the physical education department will cooperate to direct the games and will call a meeting of representatives of each fraternity to run over the rules and draw lots for their schedules in the elimination tournament. The results of this meeting will be posted in the Cynic at the earliest possible date.

Catamounts Overwhelm Engineer Eleven 19-0

R. I. P. Gets But One First Down Out of Eight—With Captain Red Cook Starring as Puntster—Giardi, Werner, Ramon, and Delfausse Lead—No Passes Attempted

Sticking to straight power plays and relying on the accurate punting of Captain Red Cook for the most part an aggressive Catamount eleven completely overwhelmed Rensselaer Polytech at Troy last Saturday 19-0. It was a clean cut victory for the hard fighting boys from Vermont who pushed the Engineers down the field for seven first downs and all but one and that one on a fluke. Wolf, Giardi and Cook leading the attack, the rest of the line cooperated to rip open huge holes in the opposing forward wall. On the smashing line bucks and off tackle drives of the backfield, Werner and Ramon especially slipped through holes in the line for decisive gains while Rollie Delfausse slid off tackle several times for long gains.

R. P. I. was never able to do much in the way of offensive work on account of the fine kicking of Captain Cook, whose long kicks continually set them with their backs to their own goal line. The home team had only one good ball carrier and he was worked to death. It only got within striking distance once later in the game and even then their offense was not strong enough to put the ball across.

Early in the game Cook put the Engineers at a disadvantage by kicking out on their 15-yard line. Holley then recovered a blocked punt and from there Werner carried it over for the score. Cook's kick was low.

A little bit later Cook broke through to block another kick and Werner recovered the ball on the same downs 20-yard line and with Ramon and Delfausse backing the line scored on seven plays.

Once again the consistent punting of Captain Cook paved the way to a score. In the middle of the second period he kicked out on R. P. I.'s 15-yard line. The return kick traveled only to the 27 and from there Delfausse and Ramon teamed up with Werner to tally the third score of the afternoon.

The rest of the game resolved into straight even football until late in the final period when the Engineers brought the ball down to the three yard line, but on the last down they lost their chance to score by failing to complete a pass over the goal line on the fourth down.

The game was an encouraging one for the backers of Vermont this season. They saw on the field a team in perfect condition, due to the strict disciplinary action of Coach Sabo, and a team perfectly drilled in the execution of fundamentals and plays. Time after time the ball carriers found gaping holes waiting for them to step through in the line and they frequently did for 10 or 12 yards. No passes were attempted as the Catamount mentor wanted to give his team a thorough trying out on the simple plays and mechanicals.

FRESHMAN STATISTICS COMPILED BY P. T. DEPT.

Statistics completed in the physical education office at the University of Vermont today, revealed some interesting figures in connection with the entering class. The average age of freshman men is 18.06 years. Weights averaged at 144.91 pounds and heights at [illegible] inches.

The youngest man in the Class of [illegible] comes from Highgate, Vt. He is sixteen years old. The oldest, G. G. Abbott is thirty-nine. A. G. Mayville of Milton, Vt. is the tallest measuring 6 feet 1½ inches. This particular fellow is lower than usual. H. Martel, Derby, Vt., 5 feet 2 inches, is the shortest. M. F. Badger took honors in weight tipping the scales to a cool 227 pounds. He hails from Manchester, N. H. And then East Walkinghord, Vt. comes the lightest freshman, S. S. Hatch, with 104½ pounds to his credit.

As to totals for entering class weights together, 24,225.50 pounds and measures 1,247.40 inches high. It has lived some 3,761 years, and upon the whole seems quite a normal group of young men not at all unlike freshman classes for some years back.

Named in honor of the Rev. John Harvard, a Puritan, Harvard University (Cambridge, Mass.) is the oldest institution of higher education in the United States, being founded in 1636.

U. V. M. TAKES THIRD PLACE IN CATTLE JUDGING CONTEST

Participating in their seventh year of cattle and dairy product judging at the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield recently, teams from the University of Vermont this year took third place in cattle judging, competing in a field of twenty teams from as many colleges.

In past years Vermont has won first place in judging all breeds of cattle and three times placed in individual breed contests. Men representing the University and a dairy products team have taken seven first places during the seven years Vermont has been entered in the contests.

In the field of dairy products, with more than 30 state colleges represented, the University of Vermont has taken two first places in judging milk products and two first places in individual dairy products. Individuals men have taken first places eleven times. The field usually consists of from two to seven college teams.

PROF. EVANS TO LECTURE ON CURRENT EVENTS

A course of six lectures on current events is to be offered to students and the general public during October and November by Prof. P. D. Evans of the history department. The lectures will be given in the auditorium of the Fleming Museum and are scheduled for October 18 and 25 and November 1, 8, 15, and 23 at 8.00 o'clock. Tickets are to be $2.00 for the complete series; a special price of $1.50 a person will be made in cases where two or more persons in one family wish to purchase tickets. The price for students is to be $1.00. Both regular and student tickets are transferable. The proceeds from these lectures will be contributed to the Vermont Children's Aid Society.

Class of 1934 Leads With Five All-A Averages; Forty-six on Dean's List

Dean George F. Eckhard has announced to the Cynic the list of those students in the engineering college obtaining an average of A or B for the second semester 1933-34.

Those receiving an average of 90 per cent or above are: 1934 D. W. Jenks, D. C. Whitney, G. W. Patterson, E. H. Spear, and L. J. DeStaunse; 1935 J. W. Hopkinson, F. W. Squires; 1936 M. E. Merchant, L. A. Giarch.

Those obtaining an average of 85 per cent to 90 percent are: 1934 J. C. Arnold, W. N. Colburn, W. M. Adams, F. F. Wagner; 1935 J. M. Libby, A. L. Williams, W. A. Ross, H. A. Sanderson; 1936, D. F. RAZZ-DAZZ PROMISES GALA ENTERTAINMENT TOMORROW EVENING

Razz Dazz sounds like Tin Pan Alley or its next-door neighbor does it not? But on the contrary it is well on its way to becoming an established Vermont custom. The idea is a stag affair, held in the gym with games and dancing an entertainment evening for everyone and all for the nominal fee of ten cents.

The first Razz Dazz for the year is scheduled for Saturday evening, October 6 from 8:30 to 12:00. Sherman's orchestra will furnish modern tunes for the evening's fun and in the course of the evening refreshments will be served for five cents.

Mortar Board who is in charge announces that all those who desire to attend must bring their ticket books in addition to the 10 pennies. At least one member of a couple must have his or her book to secure admission. This requirement is merely a means by which you can be identified as a Vermont student.

So don't forget, ten cents your ticket book, and a lot of pep are all that are necessary to guarantee you a good time Saturday evening.

BURMESE MISSIONARY MR. DEWITT BALDWIN IS GUEST OF V. C. A.

Mr. Baldwin Leaves Burlington After Discussion With Students About Mission Work

For the past week DeWitt C. Baldwin of the Methodist Episcopal Missionary Board has been on campus holding personal interviews with students and conferring among groups of young people. Mr. Baldwin came here at the invitation of the V. C. A. after numerous had heard of his work of visitations at other colleges. With ten years of experience as a missionary in Burma India Mr. Baldwin has started with student conferences and experience at Dartmouth. He was so deeply interested in the attitude and opinion that students had of missionary work, as he was concerned with getting out to students a clear and vivacious picture of the mission field.

Mr. Baldwin arrived in town early last Thursday morning September 27 and began interviewing students almost immediately. He proceed on campus every day until his departure Thursday October 4 he held four conferences with a total of twenty-two students. After an interview or at his room and the remainder being on campus. Mr. Baldwin sought to obtain the students conception, attitude and opinion of missionary work. Then to understand to correct erroneous impressions and to build up a real and true picture of the work. Students

WINNOWINGS ANNOUNCES ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION DRIVE TO START SOON

At a recent meeting of the ... staff of the ... magazine From the Hill Most it was decided to start a subscription drive soon. The object for subscription is directed especially toward the men students of the University, because during the past few years the most support of any literary magazine has not been as strong as the support purchased by the women.

There will be numerous changes in Winnowings this year both in size and in content. The extent of these changes is not yet kept secret but it is known that there will be many illustrations in each issue. Anyone who has any suggestions toward making Winnowings a bigger and better magazine is asked to present to some member of the staff. A call has also been issued to anyone interested in making cover designs or illustrations to report to a member of the staff.

There has been in the past much reluctance to write for Winnowings. The student body is asked to realize that the purpose of this magazine is not to collect great literary work but is rather to serve as an outlet for creative power

Campus Comment

Editor of the CYNIC:

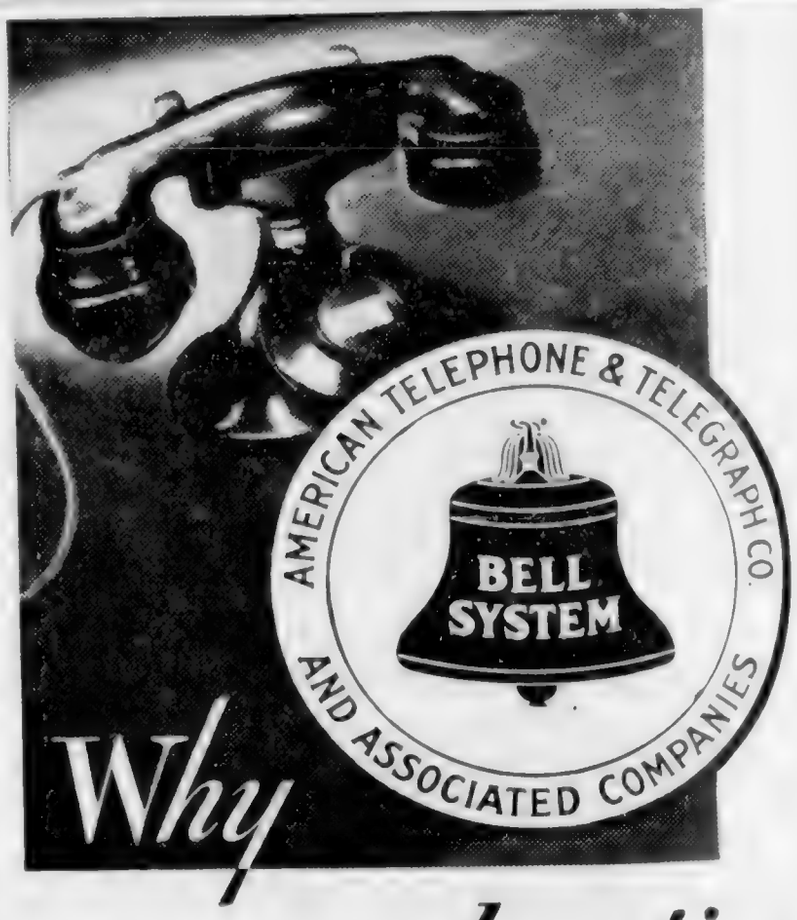
I should like to write a few words concerning the new program devised by the physical education department.

The program is to allow the student to take part in any activity which he thinks best suited for him. He has many activities to choose from including gymnastics, tennis, basketball, touch football and other athletics.

The student taking for granted that he accepts the teachings of the greatest philosopher Socrates, "Know thyself," chooses the one and amongst this list the activity which attracts his taste more than another.

A scheme also brought into use this year by the physical education department which I think is very practical is the construction of the tennis courts on account of their use. Also this so-called course of gymnastics is eliminated and "waiting" is abolished.

Under the expert supervision of Mr. Proctor, Mr. Post, Mr. Livesay, and the coaches this department has the prospect of a fine and interesting future for the '34-'35 season.



Yours truly,
F. M. Shaine '37

we advertise

We advertise in order that the public may better understand what the Bell System is doing, and why it does it. In this way we keep customers and prospective customers informed of our aims, policies and progress.

We advertise in order to aid the telephone customer in making the best possible use of his service. As our advertising influences one person after another to use the telephone more effectively, the service rendered every other user is correspondingly improved.

We advertise because we have a varied service to sell and by selling more of it we increase its value to each user. Because of the nature of the telephone business, it is our duty to inform the public continuously of the character and varied kind of service we provide.

In line with this broad plan, we find real opportunity in addressing messages to college and university people in their own publications, just as we also use our advertising for women's magazines, farm papers and so on. 1934-35 is the fifteenth year during which the Bell System has published advertisements which take college men behind the scenes of Bell Telephone service.

Louis XIII played with dignity by Mr. Angus who failed to show by speech, action or expression the shifting moods or petty passion, suspicion and jealousy that make up the psychology of the lovelorn Louis.

Comic relief was furnished by the absurdly humorous courtier Joseph de Laroque (Irving Smith) and Joseph Father Joseph, Richelieu's confidant and emissary (Arthur Hall). Both characters were well done and lent their advancement and adventure in a humorous vein. This happy touch was largely due to Mr. Hall's interpretation of Father Joseph. Mr. Hall is a summer theatre trained actor, although Andrew Jackson tells me that we remember Mr. Hall was excellent as the puppet of Richelieu's machiavellian plots. Mr. Hall's interpretation of Father Joseph, a fanatic monk, was a masterpiece of subtle characterization. Even Richelieu's confidant could not escape the ridicule of Father Joseph. Athletic Council has done everything in its power consistent with our financial conditions to provide better facilities and equipment for the players. One thing more is necessary and that is men. There should be at least ten more men out on the field every night in order that we may obtain the best team possible.

Undoubtedly the present opportunities of coming notice under the Federal Emergency Relief Act have prevented some students for playing who might otherwise come out. However, in spite of this fact there should be enough material available to produce ten more men especially when the majority of the men out of the team are working in addition to playing football.

It is not always size that counts. It is the interest, force, energy, and enthusiasm which the man puts into the game that counts in winning.

There is no need of writing a long story. The opportunity exists and we believe that Vermont tradition will produce the men. If any student knows of any other student who has potential football possibilities, he should urge him to come out and work for the team.

There is a motto that could be used very appropriately in this condition since it is a motto founded on action rather than words

"Prove by deed, not conversation.
Offer work, not explanation"

"Don't tell how much wood you've been sawing.
Show your pile of sawdust"

A. D. Butterfield,
Chairman, Athletic Council

"A football team is no stronger than its reserves." The reserves are the men who make a team through a strenuous football campaign. From this group come our teams of tomorrow. Naturally we are much concerned with our present squad which is made up of only twenty-even men to date.

When major injuries incapacitate a good percent of this number the coach must call on the reserves to a game duty on the firing line. Without adequate number of reserves who can the coach call upon to carry on the battle. Without the necessary number of men, how can a coach carry out his program from day to day. Without reserve material how can we build for the future.

Personally I am very interested in our present squad but I am also very seriously concerned with the future of football at Vermont.

I believe that there are men attending the University who could be of great help to us if they would come out and join the squad. The opportunity to learn how to play football is within reach of any man who possesses a fighting heart.

On behalf of the coaching staff, I wish to extend an invitation to any student who is interested in playing football. Furthermore we will do everything humanly possible to teach any new candidate the fundamentals of the game.

TENNIS AND HOCKEY ARE SPORTS OF THE HOUR FOR U. V. M. WOMEN

In hockey every class will play every other class. The first of these games will be held Tuesday, October 6, at the athletic field. Managers will be chosen shortly from each class. Mary K. Tupper is campus manager.

According to Amy Haig, campus manager of tennis, the people are signing up for the doubles tournament. The winners of the doubles make points for their class which count toward the all-sports cup given at the end of the year. The singles tournament is in the spring at which time a cup is given to the winner.

Tennis coaching classes meet every Tuesday at [illegible] under the direction of Miss Anna Baldwin.

Miss Conning is chosen in hockey instead from the standpoint of teaching it in high schools. These occur every Tuesday at 4:45.

As soon as the first few lessons are over the girls will be given an opportunity for practice teaching in hockey. Miss Conning believes this week will prove invaluable in finding positions. A very successful hockey team in Vermont was started by a U. V. M. graduate.

There are four beginners' classes, three intermediate, and one advanced class in tennis. The freshmen are making excellent progress in learning strokes especially considering the fact that very many have had no previous training.

Any boat seats from freshmen, sophomores or upperclassmen who are taking physical education for credit which have not yet been passed in, should be brought into the gym office at once.

Junior Lake is hoping to finish the [illegible]

TENNIS TOURNAMENT HAS FIVE PRELIM MATCHES

The annual fall tennis tournament has gotten under way with most of the seeded players drawing byes which makes it a little difficult to foretell who will come out the winner.

Paul Stevens one of the few seeded players was pressed in the first round, defeated Walt Clark, a freshman, 7-5, 7-5. Paul was hard pushed to take his match, as the frosh star matched him shot for shot.

There were only four other matches in the first round. LaRiviere defeated Morgan in the longest match coming from behind after losing the first set, 2-6, 6-4.

J. C. Wentzell defeated Chuck Derven 6-1, 6-0. This was an interesting match to watch in spite of the one-sided score. P. G. Worcleman also won his match from Bill Powers in straight sets, 6-4, 6-1.

In the final match of the first round A. Harris took B. Goldberg into camp 6-4, 6-1 in a rather dull match.

The second round, which begins this Saturday, will see the seeded men in action.

Paul Stevens will play his teammate John Swift. Jack Hart, Starbuck Hart Costello and Henry Swift will also be playing, though they should have no trouble in defeating their opponents.

physical exams this week, so that if any girls have not as yet been examined, please make arrangements to do so at once.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT SPONSORS FALL SPORTS FOR GIRLS

Activities Arranged Include Volleyball, Hockey, Golf, Tennis and Riding

Junior and senior girls at the University of Vermont have taken up fall sports featured in an intensive sport program arranged by the physical education department, it was announced from the women's athletic office today. Among fall activities already arranged for are volleyball, hockey, golf, tennis and horseback riding.

During the winter season, basketball, between class teams, bowling, rifle shooting and fencing will be featured. Swimming will be part of the program for the first time, with the new indoor pool at the Burlington Y. M. C. A. Building made available.

Spring activities will include archery, baseball, horseback riding and hiking, which is undertaken during the entire year. A new course in the coaching of all sports, has been offered for girls this year, enabling them to offer instruction later in these sports throughout the State.

Glenn Cunningham, famed University of Kansas (Lawrence) miler, will enter the University of California this fall, where he will assist Brutus Hamilton, California coach. He will serve without pay so that he may preserve his amateur standing.

FROSH HARRIERS HAVE FIRST TIME TRIAL

Roland Steele Shows Way to Squad in 16 Minutes 53 Seconds Over Freshman Course

The kitten harriers closed a week of intensive practice with a time trial over the three-mile course last Wednesday afternoon, Roland Steele, a strong runner from Ryegate, led the pack to the tape in 16 minutes and 53 seconds, which is good early season time. The squad had been over the course only once before. They run Dartmouth '38 tomorrow.

Following Steele were Keith, Stark, and Lamson all well bunched. The others in order of finishing were Carpenter, Webber, Robinson, Rosanelli, Dewart, Paterson, Gilman, Tronstein, and Barrow.

The squad looks good for the short time spent in practice. But Dartmouth frosh loom as a powerful opponent tomorrow.

MOUNTAIN DAY FRIDAY

The Vermont Cynic

VOLUME 53 — BURLINGTON, VERMONT, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1934 — NUMBER 5

BOULDER WEEK STARTS THURSDAY AFTERNOON THREE-DAY DURATION

RULES FOR CANE RUSH STATED IN THIS ISSUE

No Limit Set to Number of Freshmen and Sophomores Who May Compete

Boulder Week this year will begin [illegible] October 11. W. F. [illegible], president of Boulder, announced that the annual Boulder Week would be closed Saturday with a dance [illegible] the gym.

Festivities will start Thursday afternoon with the hose fight between sophomores and freshmen. Both classes will be represented by teams of ten each.

A signal from a blank gun each team will turn the hose on the other team that succeeds in disrupting the other scores one point. Cass Reeves is to supervise the hose fight.

Ralph M. Reeves '35 is in charge of the annual smoker to be held Friday evening. The smoker will consist of boxing and entertainment. It is hoped that all U. V. M. men will turn out to cheer the team to victory on Saturday against Ithaca.

Between the halves of the Vermont-Ithaca game, the third of the freshman-sophomore scraps, the cane rush, will take place.

Walter E. Palmer '35, in charge of the cane rush, has issued the following rules:

The scrap shall last seven minutes.

On a signal both classes shall rush forward and struggle for possession of the canes.

There shall be as many freshmen and sophomores as come.

No person shall wear other than rubber shoes or moccasins.

A pistol shot will close the rush. Canes in the hands of men of opposing classes shall be given to one another upon decision of the referee according to the number of canes he has wrested the crook.

Each hook of a cane with a foot of the stub shall count one point; [illegible] shall count two points. [illegible] the close of the match each [illegible] who has past a designated number [illegible] them for the computation.

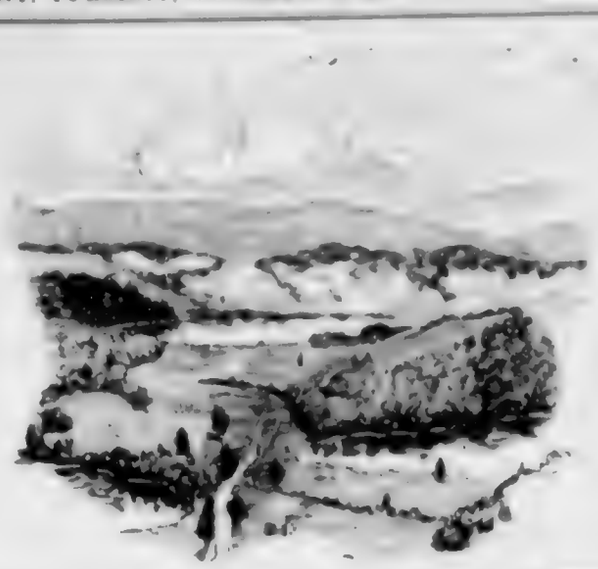
STUDENTS URGED TO MAKE MOUNTAIN DAY A COMPLETE SUCCESS

Special Busses Will Be Provided for Those Unable to Go in Private Car

SMALL NUMBER SPELLS DEFEAT FOR NEXT YEAR

University Council to Set Aside a Similar Day Next Year if This is Successful

No classes Friday! All aboard for the mountain! Get your ticket at the College Book Store or wherever you can [illegible] the crowd. Start the week end by a round trip to the Halfway House [illegible] which busses leave the Old Mill at 8, 8:30 and 9 o'clock on Friday morning.



Lunches put up [illegible] may be packed at the Kappa Kappa Mountain Day meeting and will be packed free at Davis. The return trip will be started at 4 p. m. in order to get the hikers back for the many events of the evening, which include a dance, the Leaders' Convention and a Community Concert.

R. C. Densmore '36 and Carolyn Hall '36, the student directors, wish to impress that the freshmen who have not made this hike will take the opportunity of going and thereby insure a holiday next year for the event. It has been positively stated by the administration that unless a large number of students go this year Mountain Day will not be granted next year. Only by making the trip can one realize the beauty of the Lake Champlain and the Green Mountains which are so much a part of the University. Indeed the mountain top is actually a part of the college property.

In case of rain, there will be no hike this year for there are no other free days.

The students who are going in private cars are asked to take as many other students as possible as the total number will count toward next years holiday. The route is by way of Jericho and Underhill to the Halfway House and from there by way of two trails, the Old Hotel or the Sunset Trail to the summit picnic. It is a climb of two miles and all should be willing to rest after arriving at the Hotel. Hot coffee may be obtained there at a small fee.

ANNUAL HOSE FIGHT SCHEDULED THURSDAY BETWEEN TWO CLASSES

Freshmen are Out to Avenge Fountain Defeat of a Few Weeks Ago

Next Thursday afternoon, October 11, at 4 p.m. marks the renewal of the battle for supremacy between the two lower classes when the two classes tangle in the annual hose fight. The fight will be held on the open space just south of the gymnasium, the scene of past encounters.

The hose fight will be one of the features of Boulder Week and will be in charge of W. F. Case '35. In commenting on the fight Case stressed the importance of wearing old discarded clothing. All freshmen and sophomores who intend to enter the fight are requested to sign up on the gymnasium bulletin board.

The rules for the encounter as established by Boulder Society state that the fight shall consist of three contests. Each contest will be between two different teams, each team to be composed of ten men from the respective classes. There will be no time limit, each contest continuing until one team is successful in securing the other on its feet. The class which wins two of the three contests will be declared the winner.

MANSFIELD DAY

[illegible] Champlain lies the [illegible] ridge called Mansfield. Its [illegible] among mountain masses and wilderness claim that [illegible] approaches and side trails. With so many [illegible] among the rocks and rocks of the mountain side [illegible] has permeated here for those who once have [illegible] the impressiveness of the region.

Ever since the land where the redman stood upon the cut of the Glen [illegible] the ridges on the east that topped far distant Mount Royal [illegible] Mansfield has been a landmark for all Vermont and there [illegible] must have been dreams to follow the ridge of gray and green [illegible] the Long Trail which stretches along the backbone of [illegible] Mansfield is by far the most popular with hikers and [illegible] Mansfield is the highest of all the peaks.

Mansfield Day was created some half dozen years ago for the [illegible] of giving Vermont men and women a chance to find their [illegible] on Mount Mansfield and spend one day of the splendid fall in [illegible] the mountain atmosphere and standing on the highest point [illegible] look to the north across to Champlain spread out beneath them. It was suggested at that time and has been repeated ever since [illegible] that the V. C. A. should determine that enough students would go to participate [illegible] to justify the presentation of the event [illegible] But this year President Butler has asked us particularly to have the Mansfield Day sponsored. He has [illegible] that on October 12 of this week over to the student body. Upon the response made by interested students to this opportunity depends the possibility of future Mansfield Days. It this year sees as many students [illegible] the summit as last, heights of Mansfield as there have been in other years, then we may expect the same favor next year. [illegible] the day as traditions to mind students are not interested [illegible] college at Thursday. Only be said in regard to transportation.

[illegible] the motor bought on the summit ridge was decided by the Liberties of Vermont a few years ago and thus presented [illegible] Commonwealth. Whereby we have one of the most distinct [illegible] Mansfield. [illegible] Mansfield, one has [illegible] to see [illegible] of the V. C. A. Help the Team

Fortunately our football team came through the Dartmouth game without any serious injuries, due mainly to the good physical condition of the players. However, when you consider the physical effect of the game on those players (namely Cook, Ramon and Giardi), who remained in the game for the full sixty minutes, and several others who played practically the entire game, it seems rather unfortunate that the men at the University of Vermont are not interested enough in football, and their classmates, to give a helping hand in producing a squad with a reasonable amount of reserve strength.

If Vermont could have had reserve material equal to the team which started the game, and could have substituted as Dartmouth was able to do, the score would have been much closer, the players not so tired, and the whole game made more enjoyable, both for players and followers.

This year for the first time in several years, I believe our players are in excellent physical condition due mainly to proper coaching. This alone determines greatly the extent of injuries. However no amount of coaching can keep the players from tiring in the latter part of the game, when they are most susceptible to injuries.

Let's have some more men out to build up our reserve strength and help the men who are now bearing the brunt of the burden in trying to develop a winning football team.

SOCIAL WORK ASSEMBLY SECONDS BIRTH CONTROL

The Vermont Conference of Social Work which was concluded last Wednesday, was a great success, according to a statement from Miss Holbrook, who took an active part in the conference. In her opinion this was the finest conference of this type she has ever attended.

The principal speaker at the closing meeting was Cheney C. Jones, president of the New England Home for Little Wanderers. He spoke of the need for social workers and was most interesting and worth while.

One of the most outstanding resolutions of the conference was the favoring of "the sending of birth control information through the United States mail."

Another of the resolutions was for "the ratification of the child labor amendment. There was also a resolution passed favoring the establishment of old age pensions by the Federal Government with the co-operation of the state.

TED SHAWN DANCERS

Ted Shawn and his ensemble of men dancers hold promises of great attraction in their appearance which is to held in the Municipal Auditorium on Thursday, October 11, at 8 p.m. The interpretive and educational symbolism is sure to make a direct appeal as a major event in the college calendar.

A varied and sustained performance free from monotony bears out Mr Shawn's doctrine that the dance is fundamentally a masculine art. Mr. Shawn and his ensemble are trained to keen precision so that the dance may be at last what it really is, "an all sufficient and self-contained art through which also works imagination."

Vermont Holds Dartmouth to 32-0

CAT'S MEOW

By Sports' Editor

Words of praise go to the football squad for their great showing at Dartmouth, Saturday. The score gives no indication of Vermont's strength against those Wah-Hoo-Wahs.

Hobbing the Big Green to a 7-0 score for the first half, the Catamounts showed plenty of fight and determination. If our reserves had been as numerous and experienced as were Dartmouth's, we would have given them a great battle.

As it was, Vermont exemplified that never say die attitude throughout. It was a great display of fortitude and the whole team deserves all the credit it is due.

In Cook we gave the greatest hand. His punting tool saved the situation for the Green and Gold squad on numerous occasions. Cook did all the kicking for Vermont averaging 48 yards on his twelve boots whereas the Indian booters only averaged 36 yards per kick. One Cook punt traveled 67 yards and that's a prodigious boot in anybody's ball game.

Red Noyes and Pete Ramon were the other two men who played the entire game. You've got to have what it takes to withstand the punishment for a whole game, especially against that Dartmouth tribe.

From the press box we were able to observe the situation in fine style as well as view those great bunch of Vermont rooters who braved the elements. We overheard several favorable comments regarding Vermont student support of the team.

The only injury of the day was received by Kenworthy of Vermont. He was helped off the field in the third quarter after desperately attempting to stave off the march of the Indians. We were not able to learn the extent of his injury, but in any case hope for a speedy recovery.

Down at Northfield the Cadets showed surprising power against St. Anselms and they offered a great display of forward passes which were used effectively.

Middlebury had a nip and tuck battle with Williams. However, the Panthers were not quite as strong as the local writers had anticipated.

FROSH HARRIERS EDGED BY DARTMOUTH FROSH ON SLIPPERY COURSE 27-28

Frosh Show Surprising Strength at Hanover—Steele First Vermont Man in Running in a light rain over a two and one half mile course, the Vermont freshman harriers dropped their initial meet to the Dartmouth yearlings by the close score of 27-28 at Hanover Saturday.

Showing surprisingly good form and strength far beyond the hopes of their trailmates, the Vermonters lost by Ray Steele who finished third made an impressive showing despite their defeat. However, the combination of Wyckoff and King, stars of the Dartmouth squad, proved too much for them. These two finished in a dead heat for first place, and despite the unfavorable weather conditions, ran it in fairly fast time.

The Vermont team was handicapped by the loss of Rosamilli who was unable to compete because of an injured side muscle, and by the fact that they were equipped only with sneakers, which had little traction on the wet grass of the course.

Last year the Kittens lost to the Dartmouth Freshmen by the score of 39-16, Dartmouth garnering the first four places.

The order of finish was as follows:
1. Wyckoff (D.), 12.40
2. King (D.), 12.40
3. Steele (V.), 13.02
4. Booth (V.)
5. Stark (V.)

DARTMOUTH HOLDS OFF FIGHTING VERMONT TEAM WINNING 32-0 IN RAIN

A hard fighting Vermont team battled to [illegible] last Saturday against the Dartmouth Indians before it bowed to a 32-0 score. Holding the Big Green scoreless for the first quarter and only allowing one touchdown in the first half, the Catamounts gave every indication of being completely as the equal of even the mighty Indians on Memorial Field.

For the second consecutive week both teams battled on even Dartmouth territory and neither team scored once but that were unexpected. The Indians' superior punting placed Vermont on the defensive most of the time and the wet ball caused the Dartmouth team to fumble four times, Vermont recovering twice.

Shortly after the start of the second period the Indians began a steady march down the field, featuring sizable gains by Phil Conti and Norm Reed. During this advance the only pass of the game was attempted but was grounded. Immediately Phil Conti finally went over for the first touchdown of the day. Hagerman tried for the extra point, but was unsuccessful.

Ram which had fallen steadily on the small crowd at Dana Woods let up considerably with its usual advantage. Coach Black's men started to connect to shatter the Catamount line. Up to this time Vermont had been supplying stamina to holding off the onrush of the Indians.

The third quarter was hardly underway before a spectacular run by Cook brought the ball to Vermont's 30 yard line where behind excellent interference he broke through on an off tackle play to score again. A rush, with Reed carrying the pigskin, brought the tally to 13-0. Towards the close of the quarter the Vermont line, now totally on the defensive, tightened up, but Hagerman managed to score again with Don Hagerman kicking the point.

Determined but scattered the Vermont eleven still featured the work of Capt. Red Cook, Pete Ramon and Red Noyes, all of whom played the entire game. Barefoot, on another off tackle play, netted added to the Dartmouth total and Cook once carried over the final touchdown after a run of 30 yards down the side line, bringing the count at the final whistle to a 32-0 win for the Hanovermen.

FROSH SUBMERGE SOPHS AT ANNUAL HOSE FIGHT

The frosh were victorious in yesterday afternoon's annual Hose Fight, deluging their opponents by a 3 to 0 score.

This second of the soph-frosh scraps took place beside the gymnasium, with the necessary assistance of the nearby fire station. The Fountain Fight first in the series, was once more won by the sophs, two weeks ago.

W. A. A. SPONSORS NEW FORM OF ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

This Program Includes Middlebury-Vermont Playday October 20 —Midd Girls to be Guests at Robinson

W. A. A. is calling especial attention to itself for two good and notable reasons. First it is sponsoring its annual membership drive, and, secondly, it is playing hostess to a host of fair athletes from Middlebury College.

The drive is taking on a new form this year in an attempt to increase the numerical figure of W. A. A. members. Our University has always been up-to-date and W. A. A. wants to help keep it so by promoting the recently instigated idea of keener competition between dormitories.

This plan is to be carried out in the form of a race between each of the dormitories and the town girls. The fraternity houses will be classified under the heading "town girls" for the occasion. A representative from each dormitory will be elected and will meet with the Council every two weeks to report progress. Because of the varying sizes of the houses, the final score will be based on percentage. The winning team will be awarded a banner and a nice big one, too, one worthy of the honor. Charts will be made and posted in each dormitory to explain in detail the system of obtaining points. To facilitate this "point getting," W. A. A. is dedicating one week to each of the different sports. Next week, beginning Monday, will be "tennis week." Watch the Cynic for further notices. Members of the Council will be in charge and they want everyone to answer the knock of this great opportunity to get points, good health, and good fun.

This drive is not only to get new members, but it is also to encourage the present members to increase their score and when you get more points you get more decorations. Incidentally there will be a new emblem for the 400 mark. Good looking, too. December 1 marks the closing date of the contest and awards will be presented at the last women's mass meeting before Christmas vacation. Everyone start now and help your dormitory to win. Caution! Watch your chest expansion when you receive your numerals or letters at mass meeting. And all for a few points that are not hard to get.

And here is a grand way to get ten points right off with a bang. Don't miss it! Plan to attend the Middlebury-Vermont playday, the first one here in five years. We have journeyed down there twice and now it is our turn to entertain them and let's show lots of spirit about it. There are seventy-five Middlebury co-eds to come and at least 150 of our own Vermont lassies are expected to attend. Help make it a more sizable number. By the way, in case you have not heard, the date is Saturday, October 20, from 2 o'clock until 6. It is to be in the form of a rodeo with different ranches participating under the lassoing leadership of Madeline Davidson, Sue Deance, Winona Oatley and Natalie Hilliker. Let's all buck up and head for the last round up.

Harrie Gray '36 has charge of the programs. There will be two one indoors and one out. The sports on the latter are hockey, volleyball badminton, tennis, deck tennis and croquet, while volleyball, baseball, shuffleboard, badminton and

PALMER IN CHARGE OF FROSH-SOPH TUSSLE

The third and final contest between the freshmen and sophomores will take place tomorrow with the annual Cane Rush, the struggle for canes between the halves of the Vermont-Ithaca game, in accordance with tradition.

The frosh will meet at the gym at 1.30 tomorrow afternoon, to form behind the R. O. T. C. band for the march to Hayes and Carney's. There each frosh will receive his cane, and the procession will march to Centennial Field.

At the end of the first half, the frosh will gather at one side of the field, and the sophs at the other, and at the crack of a Boulder member's gun, the scrap will be on, according to the following rules, issued by R. E. Palmer '35, in charge of the rush:

1. The scrap shall last seven minutes.
2. The canes shall be placed on the fifty-yard line, between the classes, who will rush from the side lines.
3. On a signal both classes shall rush the canes and struggle for possession of them.
4. There shall be as many freshmen and sophomores as come.
5. No men shall wear other than rubber-soled shoes or moccasins.
6. A pistol shot will close the rush.
7. Canes in the hands of men of both classes shall be given to one class or the other upon decision of Boulder, according to the number of hands nearest the crook.
8. The crook of a cane with a foot or more of stub shall count one point; a whole cane shall count two points.
9. At the close of the match each class will file past a designated number of Boulder men for the computation of scores.

OPPORTUNITY FOR ALL GIRLS TO JOIN Y. W. C. A. THE WEEK OF OCT. 15

There Will Be Members of Y. W. Council in the "Y" Room During That Week

All girls who would like to become active members of the Vermont Y. W. C. A. may take out membership cards during the week beginning Monday, October 15. Including and following that date, there will be a member of the Y. W. Council in the Y room at the side table from 10.30 to 11.30 in the morning and 2.00 to 3.30 in the afternoon.

All women who are interested in active work in the Y. W. are cordially urged to join. There are opportunities for different kinds of social work, both on campus and in connection with the project at Rock Point under the direction of Mary Whitney '36.

Girls interested in discussion groups under the leadership of such men as those who lead vesper services here are also invited to join. Members of the Cabinet will be heads of committees in charge of various activities throughout the year. Active members will be asked to serve on these committees.

If members have any choice of the type of activity they wish to take part in, they may indicate this choice at the time of joining.

Ruth Barron '36, president of the Cabinet, said: "Membership isn't limited to girls who are interested in the various branches already mentioned, but is for all who unite with us in the desire to realize full and creative life and to have a part in making this life possible for all people."

MEDICAL MEN DETAILED FOR PRACTICE WORK

Seniors in the Medical College of the University of Vermont have begun their annual fall "practice," with established doctors throughout the state, and in various institutions. In the Mary Fletcher Hospital, Burlington, the following men have been detailed for four weeks: Reed, Marvin, Rosenfeld, Roller and Keil. During the month of October Adams and Smith will be on duty at the Mary

SID CARSLEY TO PROVIDE MUSIC

Tomorrow night, October 13, the senior men's honorary society, the Boulder, will stage their annual hop, with Marshall Patch '35 in charge. Sid Carsley will syncopate from 8.30 p.m. to 12.00 in the gym.

Besides Patch, the receiving line will will include Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kiphuth and Prof. and Mrs. H. A. Prentice. The members of the football squad will be guests of the evening's affair.

Boulder is an organization of a self-perpetuating group of senior men and is responsible for student leadership. Election to this society is recognized as one of the highest honors a Vermont man may attain. On each Founder's Day the members gather around the Boulder when the list of new members is read.

The activities include the presentation of pep rallies and dances for the benefit of the student body at large.

Smoker Tonight

The annual Boulder Smoker will be held in the gym tonight as a pep rally before the Ithaca game. Cider, doughnuts, and cigarettes will be provided.

The band will be present under the leadership of Joe Lechnyr. J. S. Wood '35 and his assistants will lead cheers. Coaches Sabo and Crehan will talk and R. P. Davison '35, manager of the team, and Red Cook '35, captain, will also give pep talks.

"We hope there will be a big crowd out and a lot of spirit. We want to show the team that Vermont is backing it," said T. M. Reeves '35, who is in charge of the smoker. Helping him are R. E. Palmer '35, M. E. Patch '35, and W. E. Cass '35, all members of Boulder Society.

October 19 starts the open season on varsity debating this year. On that date the team starts on its annual trip to Maine where it will meet Bates, on the nineteenth, and the University of Maine on the afternoon of the twentieth.

The question for both of these debates is "Resolved, that the Federal Government should adopt the policy of equalizing educational opportunity throughout the nation by means of annual grants to the several states for public elementary and secondary education." Both of these debates will be Oregon style and the Vermont team has the negative side on both. The Vermont team for this trip will be: Constructive speaker, C. A. Rogers '35; cross-examiner, F. W. Timmerman '37; and rebuttler, F. W. Hale '36. This will be a good chance for U. V. M. to show its mettle, as Bates usually has one of the best debating teams in the East.

Freshman debating is also well under way now and ten freshmen and two sophomores have signed up for the Bailey cup debate. There is still room for some more freshmen and many more sophomores in the competition. Unless more sophomores sign up, the debate will be defaulted to the freshmen.

The Bailey cup debate is an annual affair between the freshmen and the sophomores for a cup presented to U. V. M. by H. H. Bailey of the class of 1915. The sophomores hold the cup now, having won it last year. The freshmen held it for two years before that. The subject for both the preliminaries and the debate itself this year is "Resolved, That all intercollegiate athletic contests at the University of Vermont should be abolished." The preliminary tryouts will be held on October 25 and 26. The sides of the contestants will be drawn and one sophomore will be pitted against one freshman. The cup debate will be straight American style, to be held in early November. The exact date has not yet been determined.

Liggett & Myers, the people who make Chesterfields, have about 4½ miles of storage warehouses where they age the tobacco.

Down South where they grow tobacco folks say . . .

It's no wonder so many people smoke Chesterfields. The tobaccos are mild and ripe to start with, and then they're aged the right way to make a milder, better-tasting cigarette.

the Wellman Process does this —

In the manufacture of Granger Rough Cut Pipe Tobacco the Wellman Process is used.

The Wellman Process is different from any other process or method and we believe it gives more enjoyment to pipe smokers.

...it gives the tobacco an extra flavor and aroma

...it makes the tobacco milder

...it leaves a clean dry ash —no soggy residue or heel in the pipe bowl

FIRST OF DEPUTATION PROGRAMS TAKES PLACE AT RICHFORD, VERMONT

Six Members of Vermont Christian Association Conduct First Deputation Trip of Season

The first in a series of deputations was made to Richford the week-end of October 13-14. Those taking part were Eleanor Stoddard, Prue Powell, B. Standing, A. S. Everest, L. A. Dickinson and R. C. Muldrum.

Saturday evening the group presented a program of stunts, games, songs and a skit to an audience of twenty-five.

Sunday morning a short service was held at East Richford.

At the morning worship service A. S. Everest, L. A. Dickerson and R. C. Muldrum spoke. Florence Stoddard and Phyllis Peacock also took part in the first of the service.

At the Young Peoples' Meeting in the afternoon the worship service was conducted by A. S. Everest and the discussion group was led by R. C. Mildram.

COLLEGES USE COURSES IN RECOVERY PROGRAMS

(By Intercollegiate Cooperative Press)

Washington, D. C.—A recognition by many of the nation's outstanding higher learning of the interest their student bodies are displaying in the President's recovery program, including NRA, is shown by the tendency of colleges and universities to install courses on NRA code administration and other parts of the recovery program in their regular curricula this fall.

A larger enrollment in economics and sociology courses than at any time in history is being recorded by many colleges and universities according to word coming the Office of Education of the Interior Department.

While full details of the number of college courses on NRA are lacking, a typical example is a class on industrial organization, to be offered at the University of California, dealing with NRA. Another is a course in the Business Administration School of Barnard College on the conduct of business under NRA. A graduate of a public administration course at Princeton will deal at length with NRA executive orders and code.

During the past summer the School of Public Affairs at American University, Washington, devoted part of a session to a study of NRA. Western Reserve University, Cleveland, conducted a course on current problems in labor and industry. Columbia University, too, has held sessions on [illegible] Administration. The University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., at a two weeks' summer session, devoted some [illegible] to discussions on NRA.

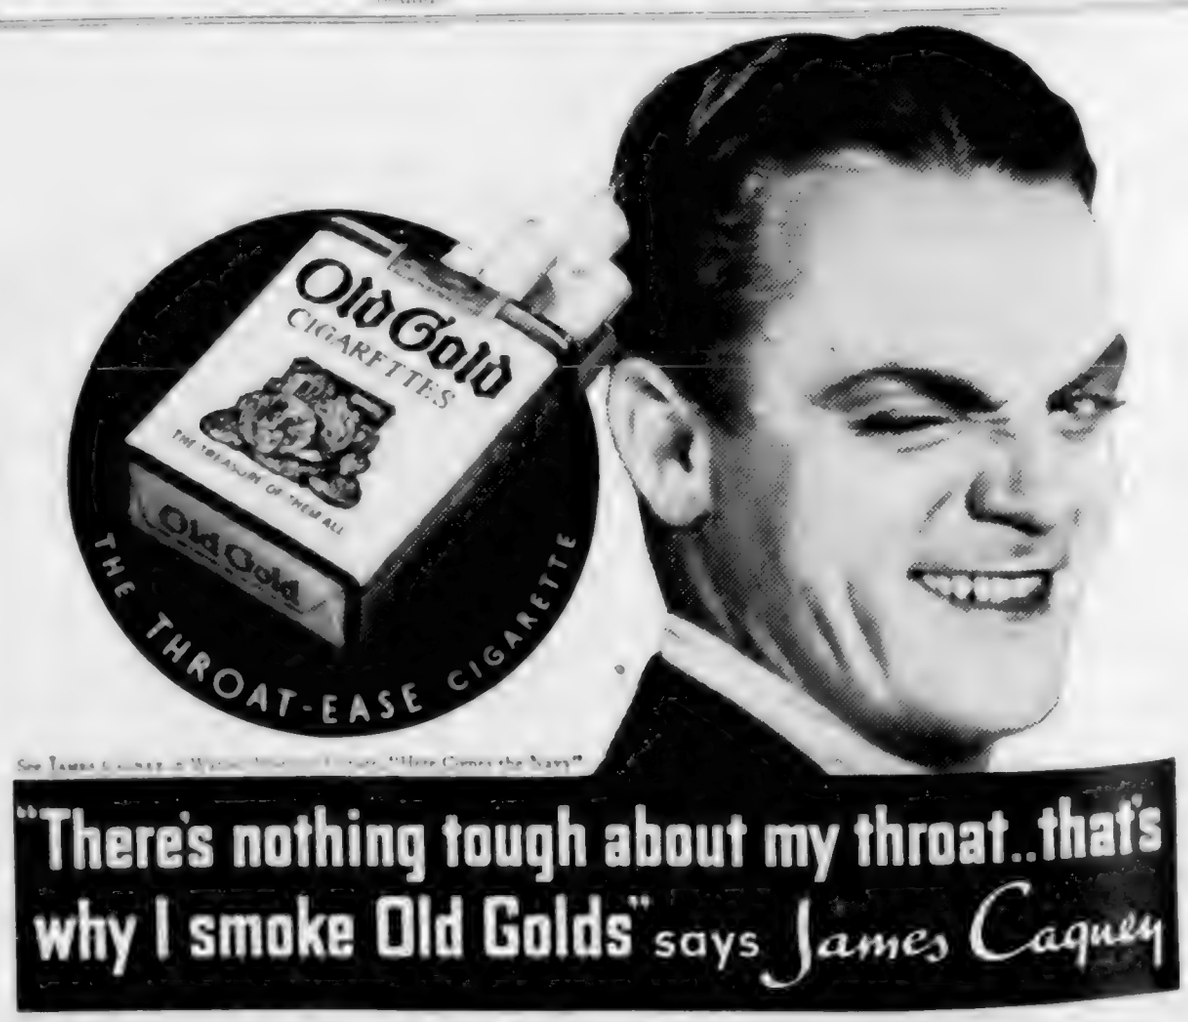
APPLICATIONS NOW OPEN FOR RHODES SCHOLARS

Closing Date for Application is November 17—Applications Should be Made to Prof. Kidder



November 17 is the closing date for applications for the Rhodes Scholarships. Applications at the University of Vermont should be handed in to the chairman of the Committee, Professor Kidder of the Latin Department, before that date. The elections take place in the Vermont district about December 1st and about a week later the final elections are to be made in Boston.

The Rhodes Scholarship is a very desirable and worth trying for honor. It goes to Oxford University, England, for two years of study and may be renewed for a third year if his records warrant it. The successful scholar receives yearly the sum of $2,000 to cover tuition, traveling expenses, etc.

The Rhodes Scholarship is awarded on the basis of scholarship, character, leadership, athletic and all interest in undergraduate activities. He must be a male citizen of the United States, unmarried, and between the ages of 19 and 25. He must declare in writing that it is his intention to apply for a Rhodes Scholarship and that, if elected, he will pass the required examinations. He must have completed at least his sophomore year at some recognized college or university at the time he makes application, but not more than two years previous to his application.

The forty-eight states and territories are grouped into eight districts, of which the State of Vermont and the District of Columbia form the first district. Each district elects four scholars.

The cost of education per student has dropped as much as $[illegible] per year at the University of Michigan (Ann Arbor).

MEN'S TENNIS TOURNEY PROGRESSES TO THIRD ROUND DESPITE RAIN

If Weather Holds Out, Tournament Should be Climaxed by Middle of Next Week

The men's fall tennis tournament which got under way shortly after school opened has to date progressed to [illegible] the third round, a spot it [illegible] this week-ends. Most of the matches [illegible] been eliminated, and the field has narrowed down to the most experienced veterans.

This week Bart Costello, captain of the tennis schedule to meet La Rosiere while J. Swett, also a veteran of last years varsity, encounters Reed Grant and Hart who have also had varsity experience. George Levine and Eastman respectively. These should be good matches with the more experienced veterans favored to come through.

One of the outstanding features of the tournament to date has been the showing of the freshmen. Such has started last year's Vermont subscriber champion Coombs, runner up in the same tourney Johnson and Harris all of whom have come through the preliminary rounds in fine shape seem to be a dangerous threat. This week starbuck engages Wright, Johnson takes on Harris, while Coombs tackles Pratt. Each one of these matches promises to be hard fought and well played.

Another contest that should bring forth the best talents of both contestants is that between Manser and Hoover. Manser has advanced to his present position by defeating Harris, Swett and Pratt respectively while Hoover has defeated Freeman, Hart and Costello.

If good weather holds out the tourney should come to a climax by the middle of next week when the semi-finals are being contested.

FROM time to time we tell you facts about Chesterfield Cigarettes.

We say that Chesterfields are different from other cigarettes—that the tobaccos are different, the paper is different, and the way they are made is different.

Everything that modern Science knows about or that money can buy is used in making Chesterfield a milder, better-tasting cigarette—a cigarette that Satisfies.

You can prove what we tell you about Chesterfield. May we ask you to try them —that would seem to be fair enough.

CHANGES IN REQUIREMENTS IN ENGLISH

1. English 8—Argumentation is no longer required of juniors, but is offered as a one-hour elective.
2. The reading and reports formerly required of arts seniors are now required of arts juniors, except in the chemistry and C. and E. curricula. For this work students not majoring in English will receive one semester hour's credit.
3. A more extensive course in reading will be prescribed individually for students majoring in English. This course will receive two semester hours' credit. Students majoring in English should consult the English department in regard to their major requirements when registering for the junior year.
4. Requirements for an English major.
   a. English 1 and 2.
   b. Nine hours of elective English, including English 6.
      Not more than one course in advanced composition may be counted toward this requirement. At least one course must be taken in the senior year.
   c. The reading course indicated above in (3).

There will be a Press Club party at the Alpha Chi Omega house Friday night, October 19, at 8.00 o'clock. All members and scrubs are invited and requested to bring a suggestion for a part of the evening's amusement. A contribution of ten cents will be taken at the door to help pay for refreshments.

Breakfast will be served at the Pi Phi house Sunday morning, October 21, from 9.30 on. The price will be fifteen cents. Everyone will be welcome.

DRAMATIC CLUB

Important meeting of the Dramatic Club, Monday, October 22, at 1.30 p.m. in Room 3, North College. All members be there.

Mary Cunningham, President.

ATTENTION!

The sport for the week of October 22-28 is to be horseback riding. There will be further information on the bulletin board in the Y room. Everybody watch for notices—there may be an exceedingly surprising and pleasing revelation.

Freshmen, this is an interesting way to get your fifty points.

All sophomores who wish to scrub basketball should report as soon as possible to Asst. Mgrs. Donald Davis or John Williams.

C. J. Howe,
Manager of Basketball.

Doctor Foote will be at the Vermont Club House for her last appointments on Friday afternoon from 1.30 to 7.15. All juniors and seniors who are planning to take any sport during the year and have not had an examination should come to the club house at this time.

All students interested in participating in the Public and International Affairs Club are asked to meet in Room 3, North College, Friday at 1.15 p.m. for a short organization meeting.

[illegible] Delts were terribly peeved to discover that the CYNIC thought there was another local founded before theirs. They were afraid the Freshmen wouldn't believe the line about 'the oldest fraternity of all.' It is a good rushing point, too, I guess."

The Sigma Nu's walked off with some grand Freshmen last year. I wonder how they'll come out this year. I understand they're rushing Bud just like all the others are. It must be grand to be a Freshman MAN and be so much in demand. I wonder where he will end up."

"I wonder how many athletes the Kappa Sigs can find in this year's class. Their ranks are fast being depleted. It would be a shame for the A T O's and the Sigma Nu's to take the 'athletic' reputation from them, wouldn't it?"

"I'll bet the Teps are thankful they don't have any rivals any more. It must be grand to just take your pick of any of the eligibles."

"What would our friends the Phi Mu Delts do without young Professor Woodard. He seems to be leading them this year. Incidentally I wonder if Nell is working for them this year or if she's rushing for someone else. Will she be loyal to her 'first love'?"

After the unfortunate weather Mountain Day, many students were heard to declare their interest in the Outing Club. Sunday afternoon telephones were ringing as a hurry call went out [illegible] By eight fifteen they had gathered at the Phi Delt house.

Twenty-two was the number gathered for this first meeting, nineteen students, Miss Brown, Professor Puffer and Professor Doane. Great interest was shown by faculty members and students alike.

This small group, the active Outing Club, voted unanimously to join the Intercollegiate Outing Clubs Association, which insures them the cooperation of the college outing clubs of eastern United States.

After this formal business, the meeting devolved into an open forum. Experiences and suggestions were discussed and the group decided to take a trip to Camel's Hump next Sunday.

Dave Hawley '37, newly elected chairman of the trips committee, is arranging the tramp, which will start from Professor Monroe's farm on the eastern slope of the mountain. Trails from the Couching Lion Farm are numerous and for that reason the weather and trail conditions will decide the route.

The group will meet in front of the gym at 9.30 Sunday morning equipped with their lunches and cups for the soup to be concocted at the huts on the summit. Each is expected to contribute his share to the cost of gasoline used in the car in which he rides. In this way the expense will be as small as possible. For those who wish to cook their lunches there will be an opportunity to do so.

Two groups that went up from school last Sunday say they have never seen anything more beautiful than Camel's Hump now. Individual frost feathers measured as long as nine inches, pointing straight into the wind. Trees, bushes, rocks and even the individual blades of grass had their share of "nature's sugar coating." From the summit one could see the Presidential and Franconia ranges of the White Mountains glistening on the eastern horizon. Weather and landscape was perfect for one of the more spectacular climbs of the season. It is hoped conditions will remain the same until Sunday night.

EDUCATION STUDENTS TAKE ARITHMETIC TEST

The arithmetic test for the education students was held Wednesday, October 17, at 7.15 in the Williams Science Hall.

This test was divided into three parts of forty-five minutes each, covering all the fundamentals of arithmetic through concrete problems.

Those students obtaining the highest scores will be excused from this course for a half year.

As soon as the papers have been graded, Mrs Nellie S Adams will post the list of excused members. The others may inquire at the education office for their grades, if sufficiently interested.

GROUP PLAYS SELECTED FOR NOV. 14 PRODUCTION

Three one-act plays were selected by the University Players for production November 14 as Group Plays, at their meeting yesterday.

They are "The Valiant," "Suppressed Desires," and "How He Lied to Her Husband," by G. B. Shaw, as far as is now known. Changes may be made today or tomorrow. These plays will be presented at the University gym, free of charge as far as it now known, following the custom at past Group productions; but the "hat" will be passed to cover expenses.

Casting will be accomplished entirely from Masque and Sandal, and Wig and Buskin, the women's and men's honorary dramatic societies.

The casting judges are Dorothy Murphy '33 and M. H. Miltimore '34. Miss Murphy, who has spent the past winter in New York in dramatic work, will coach the three plays.

The first Group Play was put on the spring of 1932, by men and women of the University Players. It was Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler," and the title role was played by Miss Murphy. The following spring a group of four one-act plays was presented, coached by student members of the Players, and this spring three were presented also coached by students. The plays this spring were Bennett's "A Good Woman," Sudermann's "Far-Away Princess," and Tchekov's "The Boor." S. Pierce '34, Rosamund Cahill '36, and R. S. Wright '35 coached.

Burke once mentioned that he had written a tragedy. "Did you let Garrick see it?" inquired his friend.

"No," replied Burke. "I indeed had the folly to write it, but the wit to keep it to myself."

THE MUSE CONVERSES

Latin America sets Europe some practical examples in the matter of cutting down the size of armies. Mexico's standing forces reached 150,000 during the days of internal troubles a few years ago, but today, with law and order restored, the total is 50,000. The President of Costa Rica signs a bill passed by Congress limiting the regular army to 900 men. A non-political anti-communist volunteer militia is forming as a result of the recent banana workers' strike. Wise Latin America finds that a small army beats a big army in keeping a nation out of [illegible]

Washington sees Paul Robert D[illegible] become the first occupant of the new office of archivist of the United States. Professor of American history at the University of North Carolina, he is named to the post created by the last Congress by President Roosevelt. He will plan and estimate costs of collecting and publishing historical material of importance while it is still in existence. Perhaps, with the actual facts thus preserved, history will no longer qualify under a certain famous definition—a cynic called it falsehood agreed upon.

Rome prepares to include former King Alfonso of Spain in its social events of the winter season. Far from attempting to reenter the Spanish scene on the heels of the revolt, the one time monarch, tiring of France, takes a six months' lease on the sumptuous villa of Tito Ruffo, the grand opera singer in the north suburbs of the Eternal City. Signor Ruffo is a home-loving man, but he must spend his winter charming audiences at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. Kings with golden scepters often fade from the scene, but kings with gold voices bind hard the loyal hearts of men.

Opportunity for Freshmen to Become Acquainted With Fraternity Women and Their Houses

OUTDOOR CLASSES END SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27

The outdoor program for the physical education department will close Saturday, October 27 and the first indoor classes will begin on the following Monday, October 30. Every student should attend the first class and bring his gym clothes with his name printed on the suit, socks, and shoes in indelible ink.

The sophomores who have not handed in their hour plans must have them in by Saturday noon, October 20. If they have not indicated on the hour plan whether they are taking sports or dancing they should come to the gym office and do so at once.

Make-up classes for tennis will be held on Saturday, October 20 and 27, at 9:30-10:30 and 10:30-11:30.

The indoor program is planned this year so that each freshman girl will have one team sport, one individual class, and one dancing class each week.

HUMAN MUSIC

By means of charts recorded by highly sensitive instruments, it was demonstrated by Harold G. Seashore, Eastman fellow in the psychology of music at Iowa State University, that great singers effect color in their singing, emotion and richness of tone by singing slightly off pitch. The demonstration was given at the meeting of the American Psychological Association at Yale University. The charts had been made during songs by Tibbett, Crooks, Homer, Ponselle, Kraft, Baker, Marsh and other widely-appreciated singers. "No artist ever sings in true pitch," Doctor Seashore pointed out. "The pitch designated by the musical score is primarily a reference level about which the artist deviates in an artistic manner. In a degree the artist hunts for the correct deviation from the pitch oscillating between two pitches which may be as much as eight-tenths of a musical step apart." The "gliding attack" so universally condemned by music teachers, the charts revealed, was practiced by all the good singers tested. Prof. Edward L. Thorndike of Columbia University reported that extensive tests showed that the sound of words had nothing to do with their being considered pleasant or unpleasant. The [illegible] assumed superiority of [illegible] sounds and the inferiority [illegible] and aspirates, he said, have been estimated. Meaning, he found, determined appreciation. FROSH GRID SQUAD TO MEET SEMINARY TEAM AT MONTPELIER TOMORROW

Kittens Have Improved Plays During Past Week of Scrimmages

Coaches Wignot and Larmer of the freshman football team have directed this week of practice in correcting the faults which were very evident in the game with Green Mountain Junior College last week. Passing, kicking have been stressed and have been tried out in scrimmaging the varsity.

On Saturday, October 20 the team will travel to Montpelier to play Montpelier Seminary. Now that the team is more organized and the faults have been corrected, a better and more well balanced team is ready to amend its defeat of last week. A few changes in the starting line-up will also be made in order to get the best possible starting team.

Sunderland, who did the greater part of the work in the game against Green Mountain Junior College is expected to lead the Kittens in their attempt to beat the Capital City lads. Coaches Wignot and Larmer have plenty of potential material, and with added experience the squad should turn the tables.

WOMEN'S CLASS TENNIS

Tryouts for the women's class tennis teams will be held at Grassmount on Monday at 1.30 p.m., weather permitting. All try to be early.

[illegible] The season opened tomorrow but [illegible] game tomorrow. The team will [illegible] the same strength it [illegible] rival.

[illegible] Although the team made a very [illegible] against Hobart last week it [illegible] past week that the rest of the [illegible] had to bring victories. Coach [illegible] is determined to uncover new [illegible] strength before the state [illegible] begin.

[illegible] It is great news to know that Holley, [illegible] and Delfausse will be in there [illegible] tomorrow. They should bolster up the [illegible] considerably.

[illegible] Last Saturday the Union squad were [illegible] cut on Andrews field. The Dutchmen [illegible] defeat after the 7 to victory of [illegible] Princeton the previous week prevented them from putting on a winning outfit the following week.

[illegible] In a like manner we are anticipating a revival in the Catamount squad. Union has no great wealth of material, [illegible] the game should be anybody's.

RIFLE TEAM BEGAN PRACTICE MONDAY

Coaches Wignot and Larmer have [illegible] two weeks drilling out the [illegible] made in last week's game and [illegible] looking for better results this week.

We hear the boys are getting plenty [illegible] of knocks and bruises in the new rug[illegible] a game in the back campus. If you [illegible] that game hand try a hand at [illegible] rushes.

The advanced sergeant of the basket[illegible] team has started practice already. Capt. Winters, Pearson heads the cage [illegible] this year. More about it later.

SOCCER ADDED TO LIST OF INTRAMURAL SPORTS

WELCOME SONG

To Middlebury let's raise a cheer
Ye Ho! Ye Ho! Ye Ho! Ye Ho!
We're glad that you with us are here
Ye Ho! Ye Ho! Ye Ho!
Our spirits and enthusiasm will mount so high
As we in keen and friendly competition vie
And enter into everything with fun for all
Ye Ho! Ye Ho! Ye Ho!
O Middlebury, your friends we'll always be
So cheer them, girls, cheer three times three
O Middlebury, your friends we'll always be
Your friends we'll always be

GOODBYE SONG

Goodbye, there, Middlebury
You have been the kind of sports we like
Goodbye, there, Middlebury
This day has been our delight.
With all the spirit that you possess
You've helped make this day a great success
So goodbye, there, Middlebury
Here's a cheer from old Vermont
A cheer from old Vermont
A cheer from old Vermont to you

Mrs. Claggett and Students Declare Experiment With Division of Labor, Most Successful

Inquiries have been received at the University of Vermont from [illegible] parts of the United States about the cooperative housekeeping plan [illegible] ter this year at Rand House. [illegible] cording to Mrs. Le Leona Claggett under whose supervision the plan [illegible] being carried out, pursuant to Chapter Oberlin, Cincinnati, Hartford, Pa the University of Tennessee, and other places are watching the experiment with great interest. Twenty-three girl[illegible] representing all four classes in the University of Vermont are living at Rand House, under the new plan. The house is completely managed by the students under Mrs. Claggett's supervision, from the buying of food to cleaning the building. Each week a new set of workers [illegible] ing cooks, waitresses and dishwashers is in charge. The plan is systematized so that the girls work one week and for two weeks have complete freedom from household duties. Thus there is no burden of work.

First attempted by Hazel Schultz at Chicago, the movement for cooperative housekeeping is rapidly proving its merit, said Mrs. Claggett. One of the prerequisites is a willingness for personal cooperation, as well as financial and labor cooperation, the director said. The girls at Vermont have worked remarkably well together and are themselves delighted with the community living. At the University of Tennessee the plan has been tried with considerable success by men.

CONTRIBUTIONS ASKED FOR "WINNOWINGS"

According to Douglas Kennedy, [illegible] editor in chief of Winnowings for the [illegible] the literary magazine of [illegible] the first issue of 1934-35 will be out in November. The date depends largely upon speed and quality of the contributed manuscripts. The better the contributions come in the sooner it will appear said Miss Kennedy.

All contributions are welcome but the editors are urged to get contributions in on time so that Winnowings may appear on the campus next month. There have been no book reviews yet. The board would appreciate a few reviews if some student would be interested.

Last year Winnowings came out in an enlarged size. This innovation was greeted in many ways. The magazine board, however, feels that it can improve upon the entire magazine by making a [illegible] because the size [illegible] year and we can [illegible] things about as large as [illegible]

Fashion Notes By Collegiate Digest

Rough and Ready

College men have turned from the smooth, sleek lines and cloths and are adopting with surprising celerity suits with a nonchalant hang of the coat, natural shoulders and soft rolled lapels. Many of the latest designs have the military satchel pockets, although this type is somewhat in the background as yet.

Fall stylists decree that the easy-fitting suits be of rough fabrics—with woolens predominating. With colder weather in the offing, the smart collegian will accept this mode as both stylish and practical. Fall showings throughout the country are featuring these new designs and cloths.

The English Started It

And the well-dressed college man will follow his colleagues-across-the-sea in wearing the new snap brim hat with the crown which is telescoped in the manner in which the English quaintly term "a pork pie." The acceptance of this new hat mode is spreading widely over the country among the younger men and college students, and just in case you want something that is ultra-smart we suggest that you get one of these immediately.

The hat in itself is novel and "interesting," and should prove the "regular" thing for class and street wear, as it is particularly well adapted to the easy-flowing cuts of the new suits and coats.

VERMONT PROFESSORS GO TO ENGINEERS' MEETING

At the meeting of the New England section of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education held in Kingston, R. I. on October 20 the following members of the University of Vermont Engineering College faculty were present: C. F. Eckhard, dean of the college; A. D. Butterfield, professor of mathematics and presidency; E. A. Bullard, professor of mathematics and mechanics; J. R. McKee, professor of electrical engineering; and W. T. Fulton, associate professor of mechanical engineering.

The New England section of the society were guests of Rhode Island State College during the event. The program included an inspection of the college plant, and talks by authorities in the various fields of engineering and engineering education. Among them were Gen. R. I. Rees of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and Prof. J. P. Den Hartog of Harvard University.

SENIORS APPLY FOR RESERVE COMMISSIONS

Applications for commissions in the United States Reserve Officers' Training Corps are being made out at the present time for seniors taking the military course at the University of Vermont. They will be sent in to headquarters some time in December.

Of the twenty-eight seniors taking the advanced military course all are expected to receive commissions. One of the requirements for a commission is that the applicant have attended a regular military camp during the summer. While the Medical Corps has been disbanded it is expected that medics from the University will be accepted for commissions although some of them have not attended training camp. The commissions are returned to the University in June and presented at the time of graduation.

CALENDAR FINDS MOST WEEK-ENDS FILLED

Most week-end evenings have been filled with entertainment of some sort by student organizations at the University of Vermont according to recently published social calendar. Informal entertainment nights," which cost only ten cents are proving very popular this year.

Following is the program for the first semester: October 26 Mortar Board dinner-dance; November 3 Kappa Sigma and second dance; November 4 Phi Mu Delta dance; November 10 entertainment evening and open night; November 17 Armistice Day; November 25 group plays; November 27 entertainment evening; men's informal; December 2 class plays; December 8 women's informals; December 12 college play; December 14 men's formals; December 15 women's informals; December 21 mid-year prom; January 5 men's informals; January 12 Health Council and W. A. A. dance; January 19, entertainment evening.

Ruth Bryan Owen, minister to Denmark is still convincing herself that the remark of the Eskimo village head on Greenland was a compliment.

Mrs. Owen was in conference with him and the governor of Greenland. He asked a favor, and the governor asked Mrs. Owen her opinion. She ruled in favor of the "King."

The "King" smiled and said: Knowing my eyes are failing. We old ones must stick together."

Fall arrives in the capital. The hundred-and-one little florist carts about the streets glow with great bunches of buttersweet brought in from the nearby Virginia hills.

SAVING STEPS IN THE KITCHEN IS STUDIED HERE BY MISS MUSE

A study of the time spent and the steps taken in kitchen work in relation to the kind and arrangement of equipment has been made by Miss Marianne Muse of the agricultural experiment station at the University of Vermont. For the purpose of the experiment two Vermont farm kitchens and the experimental laboratory kitchens at the Experiment Station were used. The findings show that much of the housewife's time may be reduced and many of her steps eliminated if improved equipment is made available and is efficiently managed.

In one instance where a check was kept on the time and number of steps required to prepare and serve three meals a day for a week and wash the dishes, it was found that the average time per day in performing these household tasks was four hours and forty-five minutes, involving 2,257 steps. After slight and inexpensive rearrangements the time increased to four hours and forty-eight minutes, but the steps decreased to 1,445, or about one-third. In another instance the time was reduced from three hours, forty-seven minutes to two hours, forty-six minutes, and the steps from 3,215 to 1,604.

The results of the study are published in Bulletin 377 of the Experiment station which states that process charts such as were used in the study could easily close in the same manner as applicable to any under home conditions or wherever one is giving demonstrations. Class room lectures by a person possessing the necessary knowledge are made to suggest better ways for accomplishing work. Sample charts are given in the bulletin.

RACIAL ANTAGONISMS MANY IN YUGOSLAVIA

[illegible] a plague of Yugoslavia since post war organization of the kingdom received a setback in the assassination at Marseilles, France of King Alexander I.

[illegible] Slovenia, Croatia, Bosnia, Herzegovina and Dalmatia freed from the Hapsburg yoke by the collapse of the Austro-Hungarian empire, voted in December, 1918, to join with Serbia in the [illegible] kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, and Montenegro in 1921 gave up its independent status to join the federation. Ancient rivalries of language, religion and culture have kept the realm turbulent.

Wanted National Consciousness

Alexander from the start worked assiduously to inculcate a national consciousness in his heterogeneous subjects. He attained it in form at least in 1929 when he erased the old provincial lines, replaced them by nine new "banats," or administrative districts, and changed the title of the country to "the kingdom of Yugoslavia."

But drawing new lines on the domestic political map did not persuade a Croat that he was any less a Croat, did not transform a Moslem into a contented subject of a Christian ruler nor replace wild pride in Yugoslavian blood brotherhood a Serb's complacency in his own racial origins.

Loved Independence

One thing the Serbs, Croats, Slovenes and Montenegrins had in common was a deeply seated love of independence, nurtured through generations of recurrent efforts to throw off alien yokes. Their section of the Balkans for centuries had been the arena of Moslem and Christian fighters, the melting pot of Germanic, Magyar and Slavic aspirations.

The statesmen who at the close of the World War remade the map of Europe had high hopes that this bond of history, coupled with common racial origins, would mould the South Slavs into a happy family.

But the first constitution of the kingdom divided the country into [illegible] tary districts largely along [illegible] tionalistic lines. The [illegible] cluded such racially signif[illegible] "Croatian peasants' party" and [illegible] Catholics."

But Slavs Were Split

There were 9,730,000 Slavs in the kingdom, against 500,000 Germans, 490,000 Hungarians, 480,000 Albanians and [illegible] Italians. But the Slavs were split. Serbs totalled roughly 3,500,000 and were [illegible] eastern orthodox in religion. Catholic Croats numbered nearly [illegible] and Montenegrins used the Cyrillic alphabet; Croats, Slovenes and Dalmatians knew only their Latin letters.

In all the country there were 5,4[illegible] Greek orthodox, the state religion, 4,475,000 Roman Catholics, 1,500,000 Moslems, mostly in southern Serbia and Bosnia, and 300,000 of other faiths. The last division included a cohesive German Protestant element in the northeastern section of the new kingdom where infiltrations had created a hodge-podge of nationalities.

Impressions are fine things to have ... they are not obtained at your own expense. Nevertheless, the impression I have of the medical exam was very much at my own expense. I wonder if everyone could have been as embarrassed as I. Well, skit that, too, please.

Unfortunately, two concluding impressions concern my disappointment over Burlington—city—and the football teams. Two very sad impressions.

Now that the first month has been endured, I am very firmly settled here and am at last doing what I like, instead of having to ask other ignorant partners-in-misery. I do wish to add that first impressions have weighed, in the whole, very favorably. Last impressions appear later—if I live to tell the tale.

COMMUNITY CHORAL SOCIETY ORGANIZED

First Rehearsal Will Be Held Wednesday Evening at Eight O'clock

A choral society is being formed ... university students and towns... people who enjoy singing. The first rehearsal is next Wednesday evening at eight o'clock at the Edmunds High School auditorium.

Miss Frances Coolidge conducted a meeting of some twenty interested persons at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Powell-Morris to discuss the founding of the Burlington Choral Society. An executive committee was selected at a meeting held at the Ruggles Foundation Monday.

Excellent cooperation has been shown by people in town. Mr. Lyman C. Hunt, superintendent of schools, has volunteered the Edmunds High School auditorium for rehearsals. Prof. Howard Gordon Bennett of the music department will be the conductor; Harlie E. Wilson is to accompany the group; Prof. J. D. Lindsay of the English department is publicity manager; and R. A. Keenan of the Lions Club has agreed to serve as business manager.

It is hoped that a good many college students who like to sing will take advantage of this opportunity to exercise their vocal cords. No individual tryouts will be held. The first rehearsal is Wednesday evening at eight o'clock at the Edmunds High School.

INFORMAL DISCUSSION OF COMPARATIVE RELIGION

Dr. Joshi Will meet Those Interested at Ruggles Sunday Evening

... of you are interested in comparative religions there is to be an opportunity to meet Dr. S. L. Joshi ... Ruggles, 87 S. Prospect Street, Sunday evening after the vesper service at which he is speaking. A light supper will be served and for a while afterward there will be an informal discussion with Doctor Joshi who is professor of comparative religion at Dartmouth.

Plans are being made for such a group after each college vesper service in order that students may have the opportunity of meeting the speakers informally and of discussing topics suggested by the service or by the interests of the group.

ATHLETIC SEASON TICKET BOOKS

In view of the fact that there seems to be an increasing tendency among the student body to loan their ticket books to other people for admittance to varsity home games, may I call the following rules, which are printed on the inside cover of your ticket book, to your attention:

"IT IS UNDERSTOOD

1. That this coupon book is good only for the person named hereon, that it is not transferable, and if used by any other than the person named hereon, it will be taken up and recalled and under no circumstances will it be reissued.

2. All detached coupons will be void.

3. All coupons not used for the game numbered thereon will be void.

4. Coupon No. 1 will be used for the first game, No. 2 for the second game and so on.

5. That if lost it will not be replaced nor any allowance made therefor and no part of the same shall be redeemable.

6. That the management reserves the right to withdraw this book at any time.

In accepting this, I agree to use it subject to the above conditions and will sign my name on each coupon before presentation at each contest."

While the Athletic Council has been reluctant to deprive any student or his or her athletic ticket book, unless this practice stops, it will be necessary to revoke the student books for the remainder of the year if it is found in the future that they are being used illegally.

In order that the students may more thoroughly understand the system of ticket books at the University of Vermont, I would like to explain that the entire student activity fee does not go toward athletics. The Athletic Association receives $20 from male students and $7.50 from the women students. This athletic fee is not a payment alone for season ticket books but is primarily an athletic tax which contributes to the support of athletics. In return for this fee, the Athletic Association issues a student season ticket to all games.

If the books are loaned to outsiders who would ordinarily pay to attend the games, you may readily see that the revenue from home games is cut down considerably. Consequently, the cooperation of the student body in using their own books and not loaning them to others will be greatly appreciated by the Athletic Association.

On the sunny slopes of Smyrna . . . in the fertile fields of Macedonia...along the shores of the Black Sea ...grows a kind of tobacco that is different from any other tobacco in the world.

THESE Turkish tobaccos are the only tobaccos of foreign cultivation that are used to any great extent in making American cigarettes.

Turkish tobaccos are famous for their spicy aroma, and a blend of the right kinds of Turkish tobacco with our own home-grown tobaccos is better than any one kind used alone.

In Chesterfield we balance mild, ripe tobaccos grown in this country with just the right amounts of the right kinds of Turkish.

It is by blending and cross-blending these different tobaccos that we make Chesterfield the cigarette that's milder, the cigarette that tastes better.

[illegible] the second of a series of current history lectures given at the City Hall Auditorium before a large gathering Thursday evening, October 25, Professor Evans discussed the internal condition of Germany. He declared the [illegible] regime in Germany has increased hatred [illegible] and has lowered the standard [illegible] Germans.

Professor Evans, who spent a few [illegible] in Germany this summer at the time of the great national election said he was greatly impressed by the cleanliness and order in the large cities contrary to general belief. He said that the number of well-armed men was smaller than he had anticipated.

After the election, Professor Evans discussed the underlying principles of Nazism today. Linked by a subtle understanding of the use of propaganda Hitler and the Nazi regime dominate Germany today," the lecturer said. "There is, however, nothing original in the Nazi system. ARE MUNITION MANUFACTURERS TO BLAME?

[illegible] we have been hearing a lot of talk about munitions manufacturers. They have been charged for causing the World War. At this time there is a great deal of sentiment in the air about the whole thing. And, granting that where there is sentiment there is no capable judgment. What is the true statement of the case?

The munitions makers undoubtedly have a great influence in the world today as they have had a great deal. Have they used it rightly? Do they use the same methods of advertising as any big business does? Those methods cannot be condemned for one and not for the other.

The log corporation method is also used by firms other than those of the munitions armaments. And that method cannot be condemned [illegible]. A clear distinction must be made between the firms which may bring about dangerous situations by the use of big business methods and those which are not apt to do that. However I quote Currie [illegible] as saying that if the munitions makers were effectively put out of business by some method such as government ownership then some other big business such as the chemical trusts, etc., would immediately [illegible] as a danger to our peace and security.

AUSTIN?

I dare say there are precious few students at U. V. M. who are eligible to vote in the coming elections. Furthermore, I would guess that those few are practically all juniors, seniors, and P. G.'s. So why should a sophomore, let alone a freshman, get all hot and bothered about who'll be Vermont's choice in the race for U. S. Senator? Probably a matter of ideals of public spirit. Very commendable. But it comes perilously close to being an outburst of missionary spirit, of evangelism. Not so commendable.

Perhaps I, a native of a big (and dirty) state, am meddling when I try to make small comments on this matter. I do claim Vermont background, however, my mother being 100 percent native Vermonter and my other parent, 50 percent. And, too, I have lived, worked, and studied within these political confines for a total of slightly more than two years. Maybe my very outsidedness gives me a more objective viewpoint.

Let me sum up Freshman Gambell's noble effort of last Friday: ". . . the absolute folly and unrestraint with which the present government (of the people, by the people, etc., mind you!) is throwing away money—money which we and our children must some day pay back . . . party . . . now in power . . . nefarious policies . . . supplying the masses with free this, that, and the other thing . . . Very least we can do to control (!) these outrages is to send . . . Austin back to Washington . . . but many small farmers and mill workers have discovered a cheap source of meat . . . according to the political know, the Democratic Party in Vermont has plenty of cash and silver-tongued orators at its disposal . . . Rome [illegible] take its cue we" Which is the theme of the body of our freshman's [illegible] The content is built principally about such morsels as "if you'll just make sure of your own vote, you may walk past the statue of Ira Allen . . . show what you stand for . . . adding a little P. S. to your next letter to the folks and your sweet pertootie . . . you are a patriot—a Vermonter—an American."

What do I know about the worthy Warren Austin? Little, except that he has a behind him a brilliant career as a lawyer, that he is known as the biggest [illegible] in Congress, he has voted against every policy of the Roosevelt Administration; he has a most pleasing personality; he plays high in politics, the kind of politics that make democracy seem a farce, the careful playing of the game which brings in votes and assures the safe turning of another election, the [illegible] of his own personal and [illegible] ambitions. I grumble to follow [illegible] contribution to last week's CYNIC.

His main concern is being "thrown [illegible] 'on' aid and our children and [illegible] to pay for it. In a generation such [illegible] should [illegible] normal [illegible] exists a state of emergency. DEMONSTRATION RUGBY GAME BETWEEN HALVES OF THE TRINITY GAME

When Trinity comes to Burlington on November 10 to meet the University of Vermont football team on the Centennial field, it will be the first time in many months that Vermont has had a chance to see Rugby played. Realizing this fact, and also that the Trinity game is the only one on the schedule, the Athletic Association has planned a demonstration of Rugby football.

Each team will consist of eleven men of Junction rank. A team was announced today. The game will be somewhat short but a period is assigned each week on the green of the new Dudley House. During the fall season, the Rugby players will practice at Centennial field. The best players of the college will be picked to represent Vermont in the game with Trinity. Coach Rogers has been selected to choose Vermont's team. Players have been picked for their natural adaptability to Rugby.

PROF. EVANS LECTURES ON GERMAN CONDITIONS

between the leader and the devotee. Hitler and God.

Some of the changes brought about by the Nazis may be permanent. On the political side, "No longer is Germany a federal state. Now it is centralized under leadership from Berlin a great I do not say good, achievement adopted from Richelieu and France. The upper house of the legislature had disappeared entirely. The lower house, the Reichstag, exists only on paper. It meets occasionally, but it is merely a "rubber stamp for Hitler."

The old civil service, once the best in the world, is gone. Hitler would not consider it right to have government employees of a different party from his own. It is a revival of the slogan "to the victors belong the spoils."

The court system has been changed. Although the old courts continue to exist, a new set of courts have been set up and Nazi judges, not trained in rendering justice, have taken over much of the judicial work. The judges of the older courts, who were appointed for life, have been removed in cases where they did not agree with the new regime.

"Economically," said Professor Evans, "the changes are really significant. The Nazis have again trespassed on foreign grounds, this time the Soviet Republic, to introduce the doctrine of cooperation between capital and labor in a classless state. A splendid ideal, is it not! Just how does it work?" Hitler has not taken over the factories of Germany, but has set up a system under which they operate. The proprietor of a factory is called a "chief," and the workers are "followers." They must follow their chief with the same devotion that they follow Hitler. The chief has many powers. He makes the conditions under which the men work. He also has control over pay and the number of hours of work. Since the laborers are forbidden to strike, justice is rendered by a "tutor," who is a government agent having power over the factory chiefs. There are also courts of honor in which laborers may appeal.

Hitler has, however, taken full control over agriculture, for two reasons. He believes in the racial doctrine "the purity of the race is tied up with the soil." Besides this, he has not forgotten that Germany was nearly starved out during the war.

Hitler has tied the German peasant to the soil. The peasant may not mortgage or sell his farm. The older son inherits the whole farm, and any men who have had experience in farming are not allowed to work at anything else.

"In conclusion," queried Evans, "has Germany become self-sufficient? Hitler claims a country free from outside dependence within a year. Hitler claims a Germany independent and separate, a complete entity in itself. His claims are unsupported by evidence. The standards of living are lower. An outside world looks on his régime with bitterness."

Professor Evans' third lecture in current history will be given in the Old Mill Auditorium Thursday evening, November 1 at eight o'clock. The subject will be determined by the events of the week.

TWO SPECIAL EXHIBITS IN SHELL ROOM OF FLEMING MUSEUM

There are now on view two special exhibits in the shell room of the Fleming Museum.

The first is an exquisite East Indian shawl of considerable age, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roberts of this city.

The other is a large collection of moss from both United States and foreign given by Doctor Jackson of Barre.

HISTORY OF FOOTBALL AT THE UNIVERSITY

Recently completed records of the University of Vermont's football teams have revealed interesting facts and figures. While football was played before the first year an accurate record was kept is 1897. At that time Waite Johnson now of the United States Army and considerably in the public eye during the World War period as having charge of all athletic activities of the American Expeditionary Forces in France, was captain.

During the time of America's participation in the war, there were no football teams. For two years, 1918-19, Vermont's back campus did not echo with signals or loud remonstrances from coaches because there weren't any.

Much heavier schedules were carried back in the walrus-mustache era. In 1900 eleven games were played. Dartmouth appears on the list, held to a 0 to 0 tie by the sturdy Catamounts. Two institutions listed on the 1897 schedule have long since disappeared, Rutland Institute and Vermont Methodist Seminary. On November 6 of that year Vermont walloped Norwich to the satisfying tune of 62 to 4, the highest score ever piled up against a rival. The satisfaction is erased by a score during the 1929 season when Vermont fell before Yale, 0 to 89.

From the office of the director of women's athletics at the University of Vermont comes the recent announcement that physical education for freshman women has been divided into three parts, taking place on three different days in the week. The work is carried on as a part of an intensive program to afford all women students a part in body building games.

On Monday team sports are emphasized with basketball, volleyball and other team games featured. On Wednesday individual sports are practiced as climbing, badminton, archery, bowling and swimming. Thursday is given over to dancing. Besides tap dancing, various national dances including those of Spain, France, England, Holland, Ireland and Scotland are taught.

During the entire year the program will continue with new and individual events changing according to season. The carnival will be a constant feature of the new and extensive program. The ... being carried out under the direction ... Director C. Cummings, head of the department.

PROF. G. M. WHICHER OF AMHERST TO SPEAK ON HORACE, ROMAN POET

The University of Vermont chapter of Eta Sigma Phi honorary society of students of the classics will sponsor this evening a lecture on the Roman poet Horace the 2000th anniversary of whose birth falls soon. The speaker will be Prof. George M. Whicher of Amherst Mass. Professor emeritus of Latin and Greek at Hunter College in New York and a national authority on Horace. He has translated many of the great poet's odes and has written a considerable amount of original poetry.

Vermonters it has been pointed out may well claim an especial share in the celebration of Horace's birth. In 1905 the Dana brothers brought out a fine volume of translations entitled "Horace for Modern Readers." The work issued from the Elm Tree Press at Woodstock. In the nineties there appeared "Echoes from the Sabine Farm," the work of Eugene Field and his brother Roswell who lived at one time in Newton. Even Horace's second "Letter" upon the Work on the University of Vermont and "Studies of odin horaces" the "Stud[illegible] of things" a good report.

"As for make up," she continued, "it should be used lightly and above all artistically. "Powder should match the skin, and not be heavy. Most girls put rouge too low on their cheeks; it should be used high, for its purpose is to make the eyes look brighter. A Frenchman once said to me "American women suffer from tallow faces." Some faces are improved by eye shadow, those for instance which have eyes which look like wells in need of shade. But it must never never be used in the daytime because it is sure to be obvious.

One of the questions which Miss Osborne frequently meets in her talks to girls is: "How can I be more attractive to men?" or "Why don't I have more dates?" So in order to have a concrete basis for her answers she recently had a conference with a large group of young men, alumni of several colleges, including Harvard, Brown, Princeton and M. I. T. To each of them she asked the same question: "What ten things do you admire most in women, and what do you dislike most?" The answers were written, so they could be used for reference.

What Men Admire

A "salad of humor" and sentiments [illegible] were on almost every paper. A couple were low on the [illegible] listed sexual hearts among their requirements most of them designated "an attractive appearance, grace and poise." Sympathy and gentleness were listed frequently, and close behind were "an understanding of the other sex" and "the ability to make a home." And the number to whom "a good sport" appeared in the column seems to indicate the old adage that men do like intelligent women.

Among the dislikes a harsh voice headed the list, [illegible] the [illegible] at the top of the [illegible].

the Wellman Process does this —
..it makes the tobacco milder

In the manufacture of Granger Rough Cut Pipe Tobacco the Wellman Process is used.

The Wellman Process is different from any other process or method and we believe it gives more enjoyment to pipe smokers.

... it gives the tobacco an extra flavor and aroma

... it makes the tobacco milder

... it leaves a clean dry ash — no soggy residue or heel in the pipe bowl

SIDELIGHTS ON THE BOSTON UNIVERSITY GAME

The game received quite a setback on the Vermont squad the first of the week when Vermont went to bed good old sporting enthusiasm. Only seven

The F. O. T. C. band came to usual assistance both in dressing and in the game. Jim Goodhue and Graham Cross were two outstanding enthusiasts at the game.

It was good to see Jim and Bill Cross at Burlington. Bill, a member of the Interfraternity Council, dashed South to catch after the game. Mr. Cross, who coached the unbeaten Sam Houston team, is also well known in football circles and is respected accordingly. It may be remembered that the Cat boys at Vermont received praise nice to him.

Don't get conceited now, girls!

We were impressed by the ardent support given by our coach, John Sabo. He was up and down the sideline watching every play keenly and was the first to help the injured players coming off the field.

INTERFRATERNITY TOUCH FOOTBALL CONTINUES

A T O and Sigma Nu to Meet Delta Psi and Owls in Semi-finals

Interfraternity touch football swung into full stride this week as Sigma Nu and A T O both breezed into the semi-finals with ridiculous ease. Delta Psi and the Owls will oppose them in the semi-final round.

A T O found the going tough against a surprisingly strong Sigma Phi outfit and were held to two points until the entrance of the great Harry Columbo into the game. Then, however, A T O started [illegible] and rolled up a score [illegible] was their chief scoring threat while Harts and Worden were [illegible] in the A T O victory.

On Wednesday, the Sigma Nu team rolled contented to trounce the [illegible] by piling up a score of 44-0. They accented upon [illegible] during the [illegible] and seem to have a very powerful [illegible] Commuters [illegible] sophomores and one school boy [illegible] a shifty crew which will be hard, in fact very hard, to stop.

STUDENT TICKETS NORWICH-VERMONT GAME November 3, 2.00 P.M.

Instead of exchanging student tickets for reserved seat tickets for the Norwich game, a special student section will be reserved for students consisting of the north half of Section C and all of Section D on the north stand.

(All of Section B and the south half of Section C will be reserved for the public. Sections A and E on the north stand will be open for general admission.)

Admittance to the student section will be by student ticket book. Be sure to bring these to the game.

Will all students kindly walk underneath the north stand and enter the north entrance?

This change is being effected for the purpose of eliminating the inconvenience of exchanging tickets.

Faculty and official tickets may be exchanged for reserved seats at L. P. Wood's until 12.00 noon Saturday or at the front gate after 1.00 o'clock Saturday for 50 cents each if desired.

[illegible] Some of the speakers to be heard dur- [illegible] ing the Short Course Conference for [illegible] those interested in dairy plant manage- [illegible] ment and milk distribution problems are [illegible] announced by Prof. H. E. Fitch, depart- [illegible] head of the department of Animal and [illegible] Dairy Husbandry of the University of [illegible] Vermont and State Agricultural College [illegible] as follows:

It is being devoutly hoped at the University of Vermont that none of the [illegible] students who received imper- [illegible] fect diplomas last June mistook in Latin [illegible] even if but imperfect percentages of the [illegible] error was recently discovered to [illegible] contain a glaring error in Latin. The [illegible] diplomas announce the student graduated [illegible] the class of 1935 rather than 1934.

The Latin wording stating this rather startling fact is in bold face script and cannot be missed by an observant eye. Yet it was learned today that out of the sixty odd students receiving the defective diplomas not one had spotted the error and made evident a desire to be known by all men as a member of the class of 1934.

First noted in the administration offices the mistake is explained by the fact that a secretary practicing script in the diploma headquarters used one of the 1935 specimens for a model and couldn't get out of the habit when the order came for last June's diplomas. The troublesome announcements have been recalled and will be corrected.

CO-ED STAG LINE AT KEY AND SNAKE DANCE

[illegible] At a dance given yesterday evening at the University of Vermont the men's stag line was composed of women students. An invitation was [illegible] translated to the effect that the dance [illegible] an extremely low price if stag because [illegible] a large number of Norwich University [illegible] students were anticipated at the dance.

The dance was sponsored to follow the annual football clash between Norwich and the University of Vermont. Special leave was granted students from the military institution and many of them planned to attend the dance. It was hoped that numbers would come out approximates even by allowing University co-eds to attend stag.

FLEMING MUSEUM HAS ACTIVITIES FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN OF THE CITY

An Average of 360 Attend Each Week, According to Figures Recently Released

An average of 360 school children of Burlington attend each week the activities provided for them at the Fleming Museum of the University of Vermont according to figures released by those in charge. These figures include 300 older children and 60 younger children.

For several years it has been the custom of the Fleming Museum staff to entertain the city's school children with educational moving pictures and lectures on Saturday afternoons. This year a more extensive program is being carried out.

Several members of the museum staff assisted by volunteers from the educational department of the University have divided the children above the fourth grade into several groups each composed of pupils with similar interests. These divisions will study various subjects, thereby receiving instructive entertainment. They meet at various times and places through the week and collectively in the museum auditorium on Saturday afternoons. At these assemblies educational moving pictures and lectures are furnished. At the end of these assemblages there is usually a meeting of the various officers who have been elected by the children.

Each group has an identifying ribbon or watch [illegible] distributed.

Sid Carsley to Play for This Popular Formal—Tickets $2.00 Per Couple

[illegible] This coming week-end is one of the biggest and best during the whole college year. Two big sports events and the Twenty game. The Military Ball is the first formal dance of the college year and is one of the most popular [illegible] It is [illegible] Saturday night by the [illegible] dance of the fraternity [illegible]

[illegible] The committee in charge promises a good time for everyone at this dance which will be held in the gym Friday night from 9:00 until 1:00 a.m. Sid Carsley and his band are furnishing the music. Tickets are $2.00 per couple and may be obtained from Scabboard and Blade men at the door the night of the dance.

Each ticket will contain a ballot for queen of the ball who will then be elected by those attending the dance. In a vote held several days ago the R. O. T. C. battalion chose the following candidates one from each class. For the freshman, Lucile Markham; sophomore, Dolly Bartlett; junior, Kay Mahoney; and senior, Betty Bartlett. One of these will be selected as the queen of the ball by those attending the dance. The duties of the queen of the ball will be performed at the ball and the Scabbard and Blade men say, "Come and see for yourself."

In the receiving line will be Col. and Mrs. Howell, Capt. and Mrs. Craig, Capt. and Mrs. Colby and F. W. Churchill '35. Cider and doughnuts will be served at the dance. Those in charge are F. W. Churchill '35 and G. F. Rowlee '35 at the dance, A. A. Hutchins '35 at the music, C. Sparton '35 at the refreshments and F. W. Churchill '35 at the decorations.

F. T. CHURCHILL '35 CANDIDATE FOR THE PERSHING MEDAL

Frank T. Churchill of Burlington, member of the class of 1935 at the University of Vermont, has been chosen by the Military Department staff of the University, to be recommended to Brig. Gen. Asa Singer, Headquarters of the Second Corps Area, the area to receive the Pershing gold medal for military merit. One student from each of the nine corps areas will receive the medal from President Roosevelt in Washington. Heads of R. O. T. C. units in all colleges and universities have been called upon to make recommendations to their area headquarters where a representative will be chosen for the area.

The choice of Churchill is based upon scholastic standing achievement in camp, and natural leadership efficiency in training classmates and appearance. Churchill is an outstanding member of the student body at Vermont and last summer attended training camp.

International Relations Club Meets Tomorrow

Tomorrow evening the newly-formed International Relations Club will gather in Room 3, North College for its first regular meeting. At a previous gathering a nominating committee was selected but no other important business was transacted.

The meeting tomorrow evening should be of especial interest and all students who wish to join and have not already done so are urged to attend. The latter part of the meeting will consist chiefly of the election of officers as well as all other matters members may wish to bring up. The nominating committee under the chairmanship of D. S. Parker '37 has proposed the following slate: President, W. H. Cramer '36; vice-president, Ruth Cowgill '36; H. I. Morris '36; L. M. Stanley '37; I. Coombs '38; secretary, Margaret Levarn '35; treasurer, R. W. Hurley '35; librarian, J. Barsalow '37, A. Mayville '37, R. G. Bartlett '37; pass committee, Edith

Is a Complete Statement of Rules Governing Scheduled Social Affairs

1. Please note the following rules. Your organization will be held strictly responsible for their observance. The University expects, however, that its organizations will not be bound merely by the letter, but will in all cases observe the spirit of these regulations which are designed to provide for the proper conduct of University affairs and to make sure that these are given with suitable dignity.

2. In every instance the organization giving a dance will be held responsible for the observance of the usual rules of decorum, both by its own members, their guests and any others present at the dance. Women, whether college students or not, while participating in affairs given by college organizations must conform to the rules laid down for the behavior of college women.

3. Attention is called to the standing rule that each society can have only two dances per semester—not more than one formal dance being allowed each semester.

4. Dances such as tea dances and victrola parties which close promptly at ten o'clock or earlier will not count on the quota of allowed dances. (See paragraph 3.) They must, however, be chaperoned and registered at the Dean's Office at least two days in advance.

5. In all cases chaperones must be approved by the Dean of the Arts College or the Dean of Women. For dances which come under paragraph 3 the chaperones must include one person of at least the rank of Assistant Professor.

6. Petitions, for permission to hold dances under paragraph 3, properly filled out—indicating date, place, floor committee and chaperones—must be in the office of Dean Swift one week (seven days) in advance of date and date desired.

7. The place where the dance is held must be approved. In case of doubt as to whether a given place is approved

FENCING

All those who have signed up for fencing please meet in the Vermonters' Club House, Tuesday, November 6 at 6.45 p.m. for the first lesson. Please bring your dollar.

I. R. C.

The next meeting of the local International Relations Club will be held Wednesday night, November 7, at 7.30 p.m. in 3 North College. Following a short business meeting Professor Lantsch, the faculty adviser, will lead a discussion on the government and politics of either Italy or Canada.

University Students Attend Pep Rally Friday Evening

A large crowd of students, both men and women, turned out for the Pep Rally Tuesday evening, November 2, to cheer the team on to victory in the game Saturday against Norwich. The rally sponsored by the Key and Serpent society, was led by R. I. Cassidy '35, "Peaky" Flynn '35 and [illegible] pals to the cheers and songs which made the Green Mountain echo to challenge [illegible] the Cadets from Norwich. Lt. Lockhart, R. O. T. C. band, played college songs [illegible] and enthusiasm to the rally. [illegible] were interrupted by Hazel S. Cannon [illegible] After the cheering in the gym the crowd assembled on the back campus to cremate in a bonfire the body of the Norwich Cadet who had been hanging from a rope since morning on front of the gym. After the mock funeral services were spoken and the paper and cloth had gone up in flames, the crowd formed a snake dance,

State wide attention is drawn to the Fleming Museum at the University of Vermont where, on November 3 the annual exhibit of the Burlington Stamp Club opened. Last year collectors from every part of the state attended the showing and many were present from other states. The interest this year has already shown itself of an even wider scope.

Among exhibitors are Mrs. J. J. Middleton, showing a complete set of U. S. Airmail and [illegible] Commemorative stamps, Alexander Parks, who has a [illegible] U. S. cancellations and a transcontinental U. S. stamp [illegible] 1900, James Cooper with a course of selected British Colonials, and a specimen of the musical type can" delivery variety, used on islands where boats seldom if ever land and mail must be carried out by swimmers, sealed in tin cans.

Other exhibitors include Beryl Frank H. C. Smith, Mrs. Paul D. Evans, W. F. Rohair, Capt. E. C. Colby and Milo C. Reynolds. Stamps and sets included will be U. S. Bicentennials, the National Parks Series, rare and interesting Canadian stamps, Newfoundland issues, scarce Civil War issues, Liberian stamps, Belgian Congo pictorials, Philippine Island varieties and complete sets of surcharges Kansas, Nebraska, Molly Pitcher and Hawaiian Islands. Of particular interest will be a valuable and complete set of Chinese and Manchurian issues.

The Women's Athletic Association is Sponsoring a U.V.M. Badminton Club

By Harriet Gray '37

W. A. A. is starting a Badminton [illegible] club to organize interest in this sport [illegible] which is gaining in popularity [illegible] throughout the whole country. It is a sport for everyone, old or young, novice or expert. It is the only sport in which women are on a par with men for physical strength is not considered as importance and instead a quick eye and coordinated body action are brought to the fore. It can also refute the much deluded impression that it is a distinctly ladies' game just try out two or three real games of it. If you saw the exhibition Professor Carpenter put on last Tuesday you will recall how—shall we say "pushed"—he was at the [illegible] and at less than ten minutes play. According to Corinne Frazier, a [illegible] Record of Badminton found in the [illegible] Library, two games of Badminton are comparable to a two-out-of-three set tennis match and it is played in much shorter time.

It has an interesting history. It is an English game of Oriental and Greek ancestry with its essential features dating back to China and Japan some 2,000 years ago. The first court built especially for Badminton was in 1873 at Poona, India. The British Army in India became very enthusiastic over it and these soldiers brought it back some [illegible] what citizenship is regarded to be [illegible] definite answer will be made although it would be very [illegible] in this connection. For our purposes it suffices to say that citizenship in our country means that we owe our allegiance to that country at all times, that we depend on that country for the functions usually assigned to government and that we promise to that country the support we are willing to give in return for the services rendered to us. Further, as a democratic country such as ours, we take such part in the functions of government as we feel we should.

The statement that citizenship has a future implies that at this time it is lacking in but all that it can or should be. Any one will admit that it could be changed. The question: Should it be changed and, if so, in what direction or directions? You probably will agree that if we can show you a more logical and a better definition of citizenship, you will accept it. Will you not?

Let us look back to the time when our traditional idea of citizenship came into being. A time of strong national feeling, when war was not the exception but the rule in the community of nations. Today our more efficient economic organization makes this continual warfare impossible. We exhaust our resources in a comparatively short time. So great adherence to one country is unnecessary. Our new economic structure makes it necessary for us to cooperate with the rest of the world. We need the things they can give us and to get them efficiently we must have peace and security in the world.

Many of the organizations of modern times are going international. The postal services, the cartels and the trusts, cable services, etc., all have their international connections.

Perhaps the pertinent calls for an international citizenship, to work with these new businesses of our modern life.

LITTLE THINGS IN LIFE ANNOY PEOPLE MOST

Los Angeles [illegible] the "little things in life" that are most apt to get on one's nerves and gather from a list of responses an experiment conducted recently by a psychology student at Los Angeles [illegible] College found anything, the list of "annoyances" checked by a number of subjects [illegible] such as cockroaches and tornadoes were comparatively ignored.

In arranging out the experiment, lists of ten annoyances were made by the subjects and these put person were in turn compelled [illegible] to be marked as either extremely moderately or slightly annoying, not annoying at all, or a situation that has never been met.

Many agree that back seat driving is extremely annoying but listening to baby talk is considered the worst possible annoyance. Loud girls, excess use of makeup, and bitten fingernails also bother men.

Unreliableness annoys women most of all, and quarrelsome people are next in line. Cowards evidently do not like conceited people, as "people who know it all" and braggarts were high in percentage among the "peeves." College men should know that when they keep their "dates" waiting, they are aggravating them to the uttermost degree.

Night School in Wisconsin

One can hardly imagine a night club in the very "backyard" of a college, yet such actually is the situation at the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

Seeking an answer to the problem of educating a student recreational center which will keep large numbers of the good time seeking [illegible] on the campus and out of roadhouses and cabarets [illegible] must have heard of the Rand and the Parlor, even way out there, the university authorities operated their own night club on week-end evenings during the past year. Wisconsin's rathskeller is done in the Heidelberg manner and is one of the points of scenic interest of the locality. Here the fall and winter evenings there will be a floor show, lighting effects, and even a master of ceremonies. Beer flows freely (no other liquors allowed as yet), meals are served as well as lighter refreshments, and all at such startling prices as to make the whole a real Mecca for rich students and poor alike. No local tavern, club or similar establishment in the vicinity can boast of an equal volume of sale.

Alas! What a pity 'tis we should have chosen staid old New England for our experiments with knowledge.

A Student-at-Large

[illegible] we might also mention the pitiful tactics of a couple of the younger S.A.E.'s at the Shriner's Ball as they attempted to obtain a couple of dances for an Eligible Rushee.

Costello, the valiant! How about it Cookey?

What happened to the Null and Void combination? Not enough Capital Stock?

It has come to our attention that the Allen House is painfully suffering from a bad attack of conscience . . . . . said conscience fairly bursting for want of expression. However, Dame Rumor has it that their theme song "I Get the Blues When It Rains," takes all precedence over this ailment.

Button, Button. . . . Who has Nona's ring?

The loss of the "boy friend" from North Adams does not seem to have entirely broken the heart of Harriet Giles as youse guys and youse gals can readily see. Great fondness that Harriet has for freshmen. . . . must be that motherly instinct.

Why, Edith, and such a nice girl.

And now we hear that Sylvia "Barre" Jarvis is rating request numbers from Ronny Lee, the latest crooning sensation of Station WCAX. Adv.

And we have to save this one for the end. A number of co-eds we know have taking a liken to bigger heels and on request the names of the heels will be given.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the Cynic:

Referring to the article concerning the FERA work at the University. To my knowledge all articles submitted should be signed or initialed. Why, may I ask, should this individual be an exception to this rule? Perhaps he or she did not want to assume responsibility for such remarks.

The article states that a freshman working at Grassmount snapped a rake while resting on it. I would like to inform the writer that there is no freshman employed at Grassmount, and that no rakes have been broken. The article implies that very little work is being accomplished at Grassmount. I happen to be a member of the crew of two working there and I assure him that the work is done diligently, honestly and sincerely. If the individual will inspect the grounds he will notice a decided improvement in the appearance of the cemetery. It would be best for the writer to know the facts before attempting to write an article.

The writer refers to the fellows working for the janitor of the Medical College. I have taken special pains to observe these fellows and they work at a steady rate, and accomplish a great deal of work.

I would like to ask this person what is wrong with getting paid to answer the telephone? In this way a very efficient system has been put into effect.

The FERA besides giving employment to several needy students has improved the appearance of the college grounds and buildings to a great extent.

For Freshmen Only

We are glad you decided to come to Delaware. But why did you come to college at all? In order to be able to get a good job when you graduate? It would be against human nature for you not to want to earn a decent subsistance.

But if you learn how to earn enough to exist physically, yet have not learned how to live, of what good has college been? No matter how hard you may try, no matter at how dizzy a speed you whirl, from card party to cocktail party, from movies to dances, you cannot escape from yourself. If your talents and intellect have been so developed you can master material things, but yet are bored with your own company, your time in college has been wasted.

It is horribly trite to state that the main thing for which everyone is striving is a deep and lasting happiness. Yet, if you cannot amuse yourself, if you find that when you're alone you're in bad company, you cannot reach any degree of real happiness. Therefore, cultivate other fields of knowledge than that in which you expect to reap a good wage. Endeavor to relate your special subject to the world in general, so that you will not have an exaggerated idea of your own importance. Read omnivorously and in all fields. Think on what you read.

If you were buying an automobile you would examine it carefully to see if it was worth the price you were paying. At present you are purchasing an education. Outside of the monetary fees required, are you going to spend four of the best years of your life for a cheap and tawdry article? Or would you prefer something beautiful and serviceable, something that will never let you down at last you the rest of your life?

The purchase of such will cost you much hard work. But when you get into the harness, the momentum of your desire for a liberal education and a genuine understanding will carry you tirelessly forward as on the crest of a never-ending wave.

We hope that when you graduate four years hence you will already have embarked on your voyage towards a richer and fuller life so that storms and vicissitudes will not find you drifting in a sea of doubts and fears, but sailing true with the wisdom of the ages as your chart and compass.

College can teach you how to earn a living and how to live. One is of little value without the other. May you gain both.

Exactly thirty-nine freshmen at the University of Florida were promised the freshman class presidency during the active campaigning of rush week last year.

FROSH CROSS-COUNTRY TEAM WINS BY SINGLE POINT OVER WATERBURY

Haseltine Noses Out Steele in 15 Minutes and 8 Seconds Over the Three-mile Course

... ...ing out a hard earned victory over a strong Waterbury High School cross-country team the Vermont freshman harriers chalked up their second consecutive win of the season on Saturday afternoon. The score was 25-26.

Even though Haseltine won of the outstanding high school runners in the State and star of the Waterbury team, came first, seven seconds ahead of Steele, the first Vermont man to finish, the always dependable Stark and Lamson came in in a dead heat for third place to nullify this temporary advantage. Keith also ran his usual steady race finishing eighth for Vermont, while Gilman turned in his best performance of the season to finish among the first ten.

The weather conditions were ideal and consequently very good time was made, Haseltine traversing the three-mile route in 15.08, with Steele right at his heels the entire distance. This is the fastest time made over the course this year, and one of the best ever turned in.

To date the freshmen have only dropped one meet, that to Dartmouth by a single point; and by defeating Waterbury, one of the strongest high school teams in the State, they seem to have shown themselves to be one of the best balanced freshman teams Vermont has had for several years.

The order of finish was as follows: 1 Haseltine (W.), 15:08; 2. Steele (V.), 15:15; 3. Stark (V.), 4. Lamson (V.), tie, 15:37; 5. Dolloff (W.), 15.40; 6. Marshall (W.), 15.57, 7 Kennedy (W.), 16:04; 8 Keith (V.), 16.08; 9. Morse (W.), 16:15; 10. CAT'S MEOW

By Sports' Editor

A completely rejuvenated football team made its début at Centennial Field Saturday with the result that the Norwich Cadet was wholly disarmed in the battle.

It was a sight for sore eyes to watch Vermont charge through the line for repeated gains, and for the first time this season we saw a hard-blocking interference open up holes for the ball carrier.

The Catamounts outplayed the horsemen in every department but through the air, and had it not been for several costly fumbles when in a scoring position, the score would have been much greater.

With Delfausse carrying the ball, the interference clicked well. In Kenworthy we found a new scoring threat, and his interception of a Norwich pass paved the way for the lone touchdown.

Jesukawicz played bang up ball. He was taken out of the game in a dazed condition after being hit hard on the head on a line buck, but his injury fortunately was only temporary.

Cook, Gardner and Lawton showed up well on the defense. In fact, the whole team should be praised for its encouraging improvement in a week's time.

We cannot, however extend praise to the officials at the game. The refereeing was very careless and more than once Sabo expressed his feelings on decisions rendered.

The crosscountry team turned in a perfect score against New York State Teachers. Our long strides had it all over our opponents and didn't exert too much energy to win. However it must be remembered that this is the first year of that sport at the Teachers College.

And the frosh hill and dalers eked out a win over Waterbury High School thus giving Vermont a banner day in sports.

There are only thirty five women students in all the universities in Japan.

WOMEN FROSH HOCKEY TEAM TRIUMPHANT

Freshmen women at the University of Vermont are exhilarated over the fact that their hockey team recently turned in a spotless slate and walked off with the championship. The frosh team beat everything in sight, including teams representing the three other classes at the University. The hockey tournament began early in October.

THREE RECREATION COUNCILS FORMED

Three Recreation Councils have been formed in the State for the purpose of developing recreational interests in their respective counties. The Councils are under the direction of the 4-H division of the Extension Service of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Bennington County established a Council two years ago. Caledonia and Washington Counties established Councils this summer, following the series of Recreational Institutes conducted by John Bradford of the National Recreation Association.

The Councils are for recreational leaders from various organizations who wish to learn the principles of recreation work, how to lead games and different sports. They are attended by recreational workers in schools and church societies, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Granges, 4-H organizations, Home Demonstration groups and others. These representatives come from different towns and organizations within the county and meet once a month for discussion and training. The meetings are devoted to songs, folk dancing, organization, games and other features of recreational work.

An examination paper at the University of Mississippi asked for the principal parts of any Latin verb. Upon one paper was written: "Slippeo, slippere, falli, bumptus." The returned paper had these words: "Failo, failere, fluncto, suspendum."

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE GAME

Delfausse pulse was constantly increasing with the chance the quickest man of the game and accidentally scored more than New England offense got itself a warped picture of the rules. His first offense was the handing of a forward pass by an illegal receiver. If a fighting spirit means a fighting team, the Cats should have as much fight as any team in the country.

When Delfausse flanked right end in the last quarter to the Cadet line spectators were treated to the best bit of blocking that they have seen all year. Norwich secondary men were not only blocked out but knocked off their feet. With any kind of blocking Delfausse should always be good for a gain on that play.

Coach Sabo inserted Howie Niles who has been playing third team in practice into the game in the first quarter. Either Howie is a much improved player or Sabo was warning some other men to get down to business.

The cheering showed a marked improvement over that of the two previous games. Maybe there is something in this cheering stuff after all.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT NEARS ITS END

Bad Weather Has Held It Up a Great Deal Up to Now

From a large field of entrants only an expert few remain in the general student tennis tournament at the University of Vermont. The tournament has been held up this year because of bad weather and if necessary the remaining few games will be run off on the gymnasium courts, it was announced today from the physical education office.

Successful candidates for tennis honors to date are John Swift of Burlington, F. Shaine of Cambridge, Mass., Bart Costello of Rutland and the winner of the as yet unplayed contest between F. C. Lounds of Brattleboro and R. E. Hart of Montpelier. The last named game is scheduled for the immediate future and from the remaining field of four contestants the University of Vermont championship will be decided within a week, it is expected.

Despite the fact that Vermont outplayed her opponent the win was by no means in easy one. Vermont contestants clogged the horsemen back with a running attack or by virtue of Red Cook's long high kicks, but each time Norwich remained adamant when her goal line was threatened. Finally late in the third quarter with the ball deep in her own territory Norwich who threw 29 passes in the course of the game foolishly elected to pass. Kenworthy intercepted on the 30 yard line and raced back to the 14th before he was brought down. Kenworthy made 4 yards through the line as the quarter ended. After Norwich had been penalized to her 3 yard marker because of pass interference, Kenworthy lugged the ball forward on four occasions and ultimately carried it over for a touchdown. Cook converted with a place kick.

This was not the Catamounts only chance to score. In the second period after a penalty had driven them back to their goal line, Norwich had a kick partially blocked which went out of bounds on the 29 yard stripe. After two ineffectual tries at the line Jezukawicz on a fake reverse dashed off right tackle behind perfect interference cut to the right and chopped his way through the Norwich defense to the 1 yard line. Here Vermont's customary tough luck came into play and they fumbled on the next play, Norwich recovering and kicking out of danger. Jezukawicz who had played a sensational game up to that time both in carrying the ball and backing up the line had to be removed at this time because of a head injury.

In the third quarter after an exchange of kicks in which Cook with the wind on his back gained consistently, Ver

LACK OF KNOWLEDGE OF ENGLISH, REASON FOR FAILURE OF STUDENTS

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Athens, Ga.—Lack of knowledge of English words and their meanings is one of the most serious causes of student failures at the University of Georgia, it has been announced here by the department of psychology.

Freshmen of the University of Georgia were compared with the freshmen of other colleges by means of psychological tests given the first year students. While in ability to use English the Georgia college beginners did not rank as well they did better than those of other colleges in tests that required thought and judgment, such as in the arithmetic and artificial language tests.

COLLEGES CHANGE NAMES

Several of the colleges in the United States have changed their names. A partial list follows: The Agricultural and Mechanical College, Jonesboro, becomes Arkansas State College; John E. Brown College, Arkansas, becomes John Brown University; California Christian College, Los Angeles, becomes Chapman College, Evanston Bible School, Illinois, becomes Evanston Collegiate Institute; Colleges of the City of Detroit become Wayne University; St. John's College, New York, becomes St. John's University; Spokane University (a four-year institution) becomes Spokane Valley Junior College (a two-year institution); St. Stephen's College (of Columbia University) has become Bard College.

The dean of Clarinda Junior College, Richard D. Rowley, is also a student in that institution's freshman class. He is working to obtain credits in French and German to obtain a master's degree.

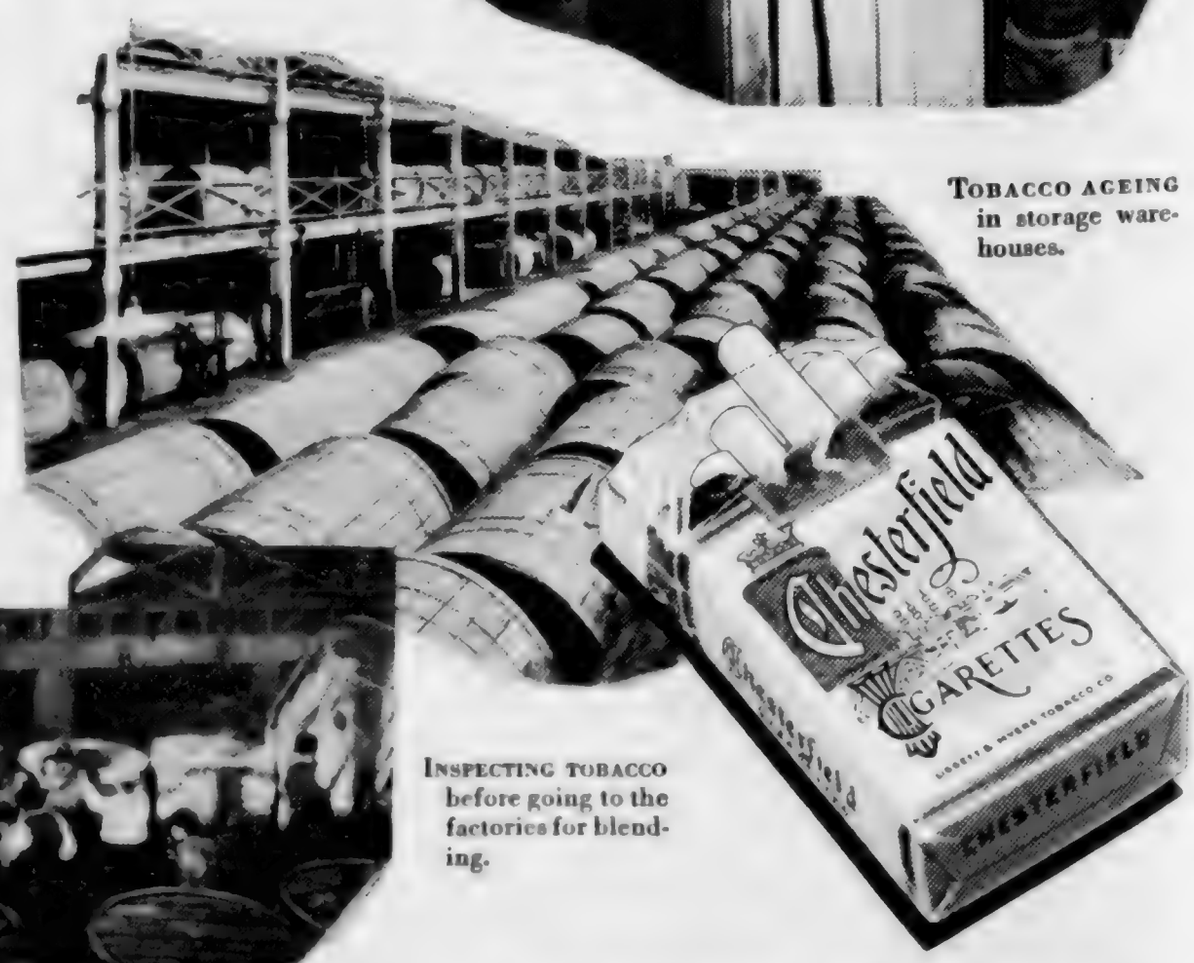
PRIZING TOBACCO in 1000-pound hogsheads for ageing.



WE have tried a good many methods to age cigarette tobacco, but we have never found any method that equals the slow old-fashioned plan of ageing it in wooden casks for two years or more.

All the tobaccos we use in Chesterfields are aged this way.

It takes time, money, and miles of warehouses—but it's the one way to make a milder better cigarette.

Cast Selected for University Players' Production This Fall

M. Libby '35

R. C. Muldrum '35

[illegible] for the fall play, "Outward Bound," were held November 6 and 7, [illegible] Metcalf, Myrick and Tupper, the judges, assisted by Mrs. [illegible] Taggart, who will again coach [illegible] players.

A large number turned out for the tryouts Tuesday but Wednesday quite a few freshmen were disappointed by a notice from the deans office which stated that all freshmen were ineligible to try out during the first semester.

The play, "Outward Bound," is rather more serious than heretofore attempted by the dramatic societies. It is not a tragedy, being interposed with comedy bits, and is by no means a heavy or depressing production. It gives ample opportunity for the chosen ones to exhibit their dramatic prowess. The play itself deals with nine widely varied characters aboard a mysterious ship bound for no one knows where, not even the passengers.

The cast will start rehearsals immediately, as the play is to be given December 12.

FIRST REGULAR MEETING OF I. R. C. HELD IN OLD MILL LAST WEDNESDAY

Contrast of Canadian Government With That of United States Discussed

The first regular meeting of the International Relations Club at Vermont was held Wednesday evening in the Old Mill lounge.

The topic of the evening was a discussion of the government of Canada as contrasted with that of the United States led by Professor Laatsch, faculty leader of the group. Speaking on the various aspects of Canadian government Professor Laatsch discussed the various governmental organs, showing the parallel and the contrasting features of the United States government.

Preceding the discussion, a short business meeting was held. The club approved the slate of officers presented by the nominating committee. Then in discussing plans for a program for the next meeting, to be held in about three weeks, Professor Laatsch suggested that various members present a review of the new book on Russia presented by the Carnegie Endowment. Each member will review two or three chapters, thus permitting greater discussion.

The meeting was adjourned early in view of the coming hour exams. However, Professor Laatsch remained to discuss further the topic of the evening with those who desired to do so.

"Why—I don't believe I have used a pipe cleaner in three or four weeks Granger leaves no gum in the bowl of my pipe —or moisture in the stem. It burns down to a clean dry ash."

In the manufacture of Granger Rough Cut Pipe Tobacco the Wellman Process is used.

The Wellman Process is different from any other process or method and we believe it gives more enjoyment to pipe smokers.

. . . it gives the tobacco an extra flavor and aroma

. . . it makes the tobacco milder

. . . it leaves a clean dry ash —no soggy residue or heel in the pipe bowl

Range Has Been Enlarged and Many Improvements Added This Year

The first tryouts for the men's rifle team will be held on November 19 at 4:00 p.m. on the rifle range. All [illegible] novices, juniors and seniors are eligible to compete. However, all sophomores who expect to try out are urged to see Captain Craig, coach of the team, previous to the date mentioned above for a preliminary conference.

During this last year the range facilities of the University have been improved a great deal. The range has been enlarged so that at present it will hold eight shooters at one time, and the gallery has been equipped with new painted [illegible]. A better lighting system, which derives its power direct from the city lines, has also been installed. This is to prevent the dimming of the lights on the range when lights are turned on elsewhere in the building. The background of the targets has been made more clear, and also all of the rifles have been equipped with a 17a Lyman Front Sight, a great improvement over the sight used last year.

Due to these innovations and improvements, a more successful season is expected this year, than ever resulted last year, when the Vermont Rifle Team won the championship of the First Corps Area, which comprises all of New England. This year, besides entering the tournament, the team expects to attend the intersectional match at Boston at the close of the National Rifle Association matches.

FOOTBALL OVER RADIO

The fine points of the Rockne System of football strategy, will be discussed over NBC-WEAF network at 6:45 P. M. E. S. T. this Saturday when Thornton Fisher interrupts his football chatter on the Briggs Sports Parade to interview one of the foremost proponents of the system, Eddie Anderson, coach of Holy Cross. Coaches Dan Little and Benny Friedman have already been interviewed in this series which features football scores and news by Thornton Fisher, nationally known authority on sports.

More than 300 students representing thirty-two foreign countries are enrolled at the University of Southern California (Los Angeles).

Trinity College of Hartford, Conn., Vermont's opponent tomorrow, has been undefeated in football this year. The season's record of Trinity is as follows.

Trinity	46	Hardwick	0
Trinity	27	R. P. I.	0
Trinity	34	W. P. I.	0
Trinity	14	Coast Guard	6
Trinity	25	Conn. State	0
Trinity	27	Wesleyan	8

Observers will note that their schedule has been comparatively soft. For this reason, as well as possible overconfidence, the Catamounts have an excellent chance of toppling Trinity from the undefeated class.

[illegible] the undefeated and unscored [illegible] college football squads [illegible] With Vassar and Dartmouth [illegible] Connecticut, and Syracuse to [illegible] and Yale representing [illegible] Navy and Colgate [illegible] the other [illegible] eastern college teams we have [illegible] here.

It is quite a coincidence that the Panthers of Middlebury tackle an undefeated opponent also in a game tomorrow. Tufts, who has not been scored upon this season, plays host at the Medford oval to the Panthers. Although Tufts, Trinity and Northeastern are undefeated, their small size prevents them from earning the title of champion of the East.

Did you know that [illegible] Connie Mack never known for his [illegible] replaced managed the [illegible] baseball [illegible] at Penn [illegible] Glenn Cunningham became the coach at Cornell as the result of a [illegible] game.

Dooley Keller the famous wrestler was thrown over the line of scrimmage for a ten yard gain and a touchdown.

The longest run in football was made by Jack Cass of Lehigh, who picked up a fumble on the five yard line and, in bearings, ran to his own goal line and then realizing what he had done ran the length of the field for a touchdown.

That Tulane-Colgate game at the Yankee Stadium Saturday afternoon ought to create much enjoyment for the lover of colorful college football. Both are well drilled, hard hitting, fiercely tackling and ardently blocking teams and are equipped with plenty of passes of both lateral and forward qualities.

Last year the [illegible] were defeated by Middlebury and [illegible] held to a scoreless tie by the [illegible] of St. Lawrence and [illegible] to record a clean slate.

[illegible] the freshmen played [illegible] games [illegible] and [illegible] were outclassed [illegible] lack of [illegible] Lack of [illegible] and inexperience of the team undoubtedly [illegible] their very poor [illegible] showing. [illegible] do not click together very well. [illegible] But the outstanding player of the season to date is undoubtedly a back named [illegible] Albans. He was chosen to the all-state [illegible] last year.

Coach "Eddie" Wenzell said "The team as a whole has decidedly improved. We shall give the Panthertots a good battle Armistice Day."

The frosh played their first game against the Green Mountain Junior College at Poultney, October 15 and were swamped 45 to 0.

Then on the following Saturday, they went down to Montpelier to be beaten by the Seminarians of that city by the score of 14 to 0.

Their third game was played with the soldiers from Fort Ethan Allen at the Ethan Allen Field. The freshmen held the Army boys to a scoreless tie. There was an improvement over last year as the freshman team was beaten by the score of 7 to 0 at the hands of the boys from the Fort when the latter scored on a last minute forward pass.

The game between the Fittons and the Panthertots Armistice Day should prove to be interesting and mates of the Vermont rooters will be on hand to give the freshmen their support.

Christmas recess. Class team practices are to start immediately.

Last year's tournament provided considerable interest to the student body and ended in a fierce championship. Veteran team the team are back again this season to make up the varsity squad. The strength of the freshman aggregation is unknown as yet but some well known prep school and high school stars will appear for the starting [illegible]

Professor Ellenberger Had General Supervision of Program for Conference

The Short Course Conference for those interested in dairy plant management and milk distributors' problems was held in Morrill Hall Wednesday and Thursday, November 7 and 8. Prof. H. B. Ellenberger, head of the Department of Animal and Dairy Husbandry of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College, had general supervision over the program.

Problems of inspection, control and quality were discussed by C. K. Johns, Ottawa, Canada, President International Association of Dairy and Milk Inspectors; Dr. J. D. Brew, market milk specialist, Ithaca, N. Y.; H. E. Bremer, Supervisor of Creamery Inspection, Montpelier; A. B. Pike, State Dairy Inspector, Concord, N. H.; Lester F. Tompkins, representing Milk Regulation Board, Boston, Mass.; Prof. A. M. Goodman, Agricultural Engineer, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.; F. E. A. Smith, Morrisville; and J. M. Fraver, Burlington.

The policies and progress of the Massachusetts Milk Control Board and the results which it hopes to attain was presented by the chairman, James O'Brien.

Problems of processing, distribution and surplus utilization were discussed by Mr. Johns, Mr. Brew, Prof. E. S. Guthrie, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.; H. I. Wilson, Bureau of Dairy Industry, Washington, D. C.; Dr. J. H. Shrader, President, Research Laboratories of National Dairy Products Corporation, Inc., Baltimore, Md.; and a paper by Dr. J. M. Sherman, Department of Dairy Industry, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

(From the Medical Digest)

A man of great talents is a public nuisance in this respect, that he often becomes a magnet which attracts a horde of Little Men whose sole excuse for existence is that they ape the ways of the Great Man. BILLIE BARTLETT CHOSEN CO-ED MAJOR AT BALL IN GYM FRIDAY NIGHT

The Military Ball, the first formal dance of the year, featured the election of Mildred Bartlett '35 as the co-ed major to lead all those attending the dance. "Majors" are awarded a saber by F. T. Churchill '35, cadet major and the members of Scabbard and Blade fell into formation and gave a little drill in her honor.

In the receiving line were Col. and Mrs. Rowell, Capt. and Mrs. Colby and F. T. Churchill '35.

Refreshments of ice cream and cookies were served. The programs were blue and white and the decorations were a la militaire.

WOMEN DEBATERS HAVE INTERESTING SCHEDULE

New Debaters Needed for Ambitious Program of Fall and Spring Debates

Phelps has received many requests for debates with other colleges says Anita Knoell '35, Manager of Women's Debate, and dates are not being booked too tall and strong encounters. Four calls to be remembered is the spring trip of a week or longer which the varsity team will make next year.

Plans are also being made for debates between class teams of both men and women. Later in the fall, matches or three will be the Carleton Cup Debate between freshmen and sophomore women. This debate was not held last year but two years ago the class of '36 won the cup.

Trips to Canada and Tournaments of All Kinds Featured by Newly Formed Club

The Badminton Club, which is being organized at U. V. M. has already received much interest in the sport held its first meeting Tuesday, November 9 at 1:40 in the gym.

At this meeting it was decided to have social meetings once a month and have the general committee meet once a week. Those who had had previous Badminton experience meet weekly. The general committee is made up of Harriet Gray '35, chairman, Frances Rowe '36, Ruth Brown '38 and Lois Hammond '37.

This week-end a group of the club members went to Montreal to participate in a round robin tournament and also to get a few instructions from a professional. It is hoped that several similar trips can be taken throughout the year.

The Badminton Club has access to the gym:

Tuesdays and Thursdays, 2:00-4:00 Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 1:40-2:30; Saturday from 10:30 to 5:00 and Friday afternoon from 2:00 to 5:00.

Tournaments both singles and doubles mixed and not are planned for the season. The club has about fifty members now and is still looking for more. Come on everybody! Let's play badminton!

Fair enough—

WE tell you that Chesterfield Cigarettes are made of mild, ripe tobaccos. We've told you about the paper—that it's pure and burns right, without taste or odor.

We have said that Chesterfields are made right. The tobaccos are aged, then blended and cross-blended, and cut into shreds the right width and length to smoke right.

These things are done to make what people want—a cigarette that's milder, a cigarette that tastes better—a cigarette that satisfies.

You can prove what we tell you about Chesterfield. May we ask you to try them—that would seem to be fair enough.

Extensive Plans Made to Include Membership Drive and Full Winter Sports Program

The first meeting of the Outing Club of the University of Vermont was held in the gymnasium Wednesday evening, November 14. D. N. Sutter '36, president of the club, opened the meeting explaining the advantages of becoming a member of the club. "There are numerous advantages derived from becoming a member of the club. Each member has the privilege of going on the hikes which the club sponsors every week-end or every other week-end. The club plans to have a few sleigh rides. Last year the one that we had was a success. Free skiing and snowshoeing instruction will be given to any member who desires it. Besides all this, membership offers a special attraction to the girls, because the club plans to send the women's winter sports team to the Middlebury Winter Carnival this winter, as it did last year."

The membership drive, under the direction of G. M. Sabin, Jr. '35, will start immediately. One member in each of the dormitories and fraternity houses will enter membership cards for sale. The membership fee is fifty cents. Anyone who does not live in a dorm or a fraternity house and who wishes to join the club should see D. N. Sutter or G. M. Sabin, Jr.

A call will soon be issued for candidates for the winter sports teams. Meets have been planned at Norwich, Middlebury, St. Michael's. A home meet is being contemplated for the week-end of the Kake Walk, as in former years. Skating, skiing, and snowshoeing events will be held, including short dashes, cross-country, relay, and obstacle races. Prof. W. P. Pierce of the Botany Department will assist in coaching the teams. Professor Tupper, of the English Department, is also very much interested in the future of the club.

A representative of the Mount Mansfield Ski Club made an offer to the club

The talks will be interspersed with ... and a ... feature of the conference this year will be the sectional conferences from 1:30 to 3:00, where the newspaper, business and literary groups will meet by themselves to discuss problems and exchange ideas. Mr. Bassett will have charge of the newspaper discussion, Miss Mary E. Pease, Burlington High School, of the business section, and Prof. Leon W. Dean of the English department of the University, of the literary section.

Cats Play Middlebury Tomorrow to Decide the Conference Champions

Football Team Goes to Middlebury Tomorrow Hoping to Overcome a Jinx of Several Years' Standing—Big Rally Tonight at the Gymnasium to Cheer Team on to Victory—Cross-country Teams Will Also Meet Middlebury Tomorrow

KEY AND SNAKE RUNS HUGE RALLY TONIGHT

With the football season working up to its most exciting and important Middlebury game upon which hangs the conference championship in the offing, the most important pep rally and meeting of the year's football season is being staged tonight at the gym at 7:30.

Added to the fact that Vermont must beat Middlebury for the conference championship there is the added incentive that Vermont has not defeated the Panthers in seven years and spirit at present is at just the point where that seven-year jinx will be smashed to bits.

Vermont is all set to go out on the field tomorrow and take some of the wind out of Ray Becker and Stan Cuddy's sails. The entire school body is to come out and lend an spirit and show the team we'd like to see that jinx busted as well as they. "So let's all get out there tonight and cheer," said J. S. Swift '36, chairman of the rally.

R. O. T. C. Band to Play

To lend plenty of noise and rhythm the entire R. O. T. C. band will turn out to play the songs of Vermont. Led by Joe Lorimer, the band will give a ... of the songs they're going to ... tomorrow when it knocks on ... to Middlebury.

Of course there are going to be the usual ... and yells. This time however the student body will have the pleasure of listening to Sabe Mott, graduate manager to Coach Johnny Sabo, Coach Gordon, Burt Garrett, ... at Vermont and other athletes and others ... speeches will be short, to the point and enthusiastic.

Snake Dance to Follow

Following the rally there is going to be one of the noisy, howling, yowling, roof-raising, damaging, turning, twisting snake dances starting at the top of College Street, and led by Joe Wool, Peaky Flynn and Ray Sabin, the cheer leaders will wind its way down College Street to Church Street, then up and down that main thoroughfare, winding in, out and Four fraternities, Delta Psi, Kappa Sigma, Phi Mu Delta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, will hold pledge dances tomorrow night.

The Delt dance is under the management of co-chairman R. C. Prindle '36 and H. H. Hunt '37. Prof. and Mrs. H. A. Prentice and Prof. and Mrs. H. B. Kiphuth will be the chaperones. The dance hall will be decorated so as to resemble a French art studio. Music will be furnished by Sid Carsley and his orchestra.

The Kappa Sig dance will be something similar to a Bowery Ball. There will be novel decorations and sandwiches and drinks will be served. Marshall Morelli and his orchestra will provide the music. W. McKay '36 and H. A. MacMillan '37 are the co-chairmen.

The Phi Mu Delts will have a Victoria dance. There will be a buffet supper at 7:30 and dancing will last until ten. Prof. and Mrs. L. L. Briggs and Prof. Laatsch will chaperone the affair. C. I. Keelan '35 and R. W. Hurley '35 are the committee in charge of the dance.

The S. A. E.'s dance will be chaperoned by Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Briggs. Music will be furnished by Eddie Starr and his orchestra. A. I. Hardin '35 is chairman of the dance committee.

Touch football fans at the University of Vermont were given a demonstration Tuesday of the game as it best was the final game in the interfraternity tournament was played between the Alpha Tau Omega and Sigma Nu fraternities. The former now stand undefeated as champions of the League, winning the title game 28-12.

Declared by Physical Education Department officials as the best game of touch football ever played in the annual fall tournament, the contest was featured by the scores until the last period. The series was started early in the fall.

FIGURES OF ENROLLMENT SHOW DECREASE OF ONE FROM LAST YEAR

A startling decrease of one student shows in the enrollment figures at the University of Vermont this year in comparison with last year. It is thought that this minus student must be a woman as there is a slight increase in the number of men over last year. The total number of students, as carried in the year's directory, which is now being published, is 1,261. Of these, 775 are men and 486 are women.

Nine hundred and twenty-two are from the State of Vermont. Massachusetts, New York and Connecticut follow with 108, 84 and 68, respectively, and there are students from scattered parts of the United States and the world, including France, Germany, Washington the Canal Zone. Four are from Canada, others are from Wisconsin, Maryland, Montana, Ohio and Michigan.

The College of Arts and Sciences leads in enrollment with 767 men and women and the College of Medicine follows with its 173 students. Six of the medical students are women, as are three of the 120 engineers. There are 26 graduate students.

FIRST BASKETBALL GAME TO BE STAGED IN EARLY PART OF DECEMBER

The basketball team is rapidly developing into shape under the able direction of Coach L. P. Sabin. The team has been practicing every night in the armory gymnasium for the past few weeks and the boys look to be very well trained. As yet the ground being drilled in the fundamentals of shooting passing dribbling and foot work.

Many stars from the freshman team last year are out including Shaw and Dunnett, both forwards. Dunnett was the scorer of last year's freshman team, caging 90 out of 180 tries for the season's work. Wilson Prosser, a veteran guard, is out for a berth and Lou Dimmock is expected to be out a few days in the football season.

The Commons quint, last year's champions of the ends, part of December.

Freshmen at the University of Vermont have organized a basketball team. The first game was played on Monday, November 5, with the Green Mountain Boys of Essex Junction. The game was played at Burlington. Another game with Essex Junction is scheduled for Friday, November 15, at Essex Junction.

BADMINTON CLUB HOLDS MEETING ON FRIDAY

Coaches in Badminton Chosen for Different Periods of the Week

An executive meeting of the Badminton club was held Friday noon and plans were discussed for a general meeting to be held before the Thanksgiving vacation. Watch the bulletin boards for a notice of this meeting. Possibly there will be an exhibition game with the different strokes and when to use them explained.

A tentative list of people who are willing to be acquainted with the game has been made and each of these has charge of a different period during the week as follows: Tuesday 2-3, Barbara [illegible] 3-4, Jean Lowell.

Wednesday, 2-3, Frances Rowe; 3-4, [illegible] Riley.

Thursday, 2-3, Ruth Bronson, Lois Hanna; 3-4, Helen White; 4-5, Harriet [illegible].

Each will be willing to show you the game and help you in any possible, as well as be there to play with you. They also are ready to play at any other time when you may also feel free to go to them for games whenever they come up. The written list of when members may play and time is posted in the gym so that you can look at it any time and see who else can play when you have time. If you have not signed on the list yet do it as soon as possible. Signing on this list does not mean that you have free time then so that others can ask you or you can ask them.

There will also be a list of members at the office where you can check up on how many times you have played.

VERMONT OUTING CLUB FIRST IN NEW ENGLAND

First Mansfield Hike Event of New England Winter Sports

The Winter Outing Club has the unique distinction of being the first New England college group to participate in Winter sports this year.

Armistice Day the club traveled to Mt Mansfield and found enough snow for excellent skiing.

Mt Mansfield, which is owned by the University affords an excellent place for the members of the Outing Club to take part in winter sport. Members of the club declared that snow was falling quite hard and that skiing was excellent.

The Outing Club has an extensive program planned for the winter. On November 17 they will travel to Taylor's Lodge for further participation in early winter sports. Other trips to different points have been planned.

Lectures at various places of winter sport will form a large part of club's program. The club will have as its guests authorities from Dartmouth who will lecture and demonstrate a thousand dollar exhibit of skating equipment.

FROST-BITTEN COWS ATTRACT UNTERMEYER

Well-known Lecturer to Make Third University Lecture Thursday Night

Louis Untermeyer, poet and critic who lectures at the University of Vermont this evening at Thursday, November 22 in a personal letter to Prof. A. R. Gordon, chairman of the committee on lectures, writes:

"I am more than usually pleased that I am to speak at the University of Vermont this year. I will be presenting on the campus of a home coming for me since the editorial offices, I delight to mention, my present headquarters are actually housed in Lexington, across the lake from Burlington. I feel as the lake were Burlington and I are separated by the opportunity to express greetings to my friend Sam and the many fellow alumni who remained on the campus.

"Dear Professor Gordon: The pleasant memories which I have of the Athenaeum, especially in light of the fact that I have had the pleasure of addressing a number of audiences in Burlington, have made me look forward to my visit to Vermont with the greatest pleasure. I am looking forward to the opportunity of meeting you and the members of the faculty and students whom I have had the pleasure of meeting on previous occasions. I am looking forward to the opportunity of meeting you and the members of the faculty and students whom I have had the pleasure of meeting on previous occasions. I am looking forward to the opportunity of meeting you and the members of the faculty and students whom I have had the pleasure of meeting on previous occasions."

NO ADMISSION CHARGE

Tonight at 8:15 the curtain will rise on the auditorium of the Fleming Museum for the presentation of three one act plays by the dramatic societies of the University. The plays originally scheduled to appear at the gymnasium were found to be more suitable to the acoustics in the Museum and so were transferred to the latter building.

After a single rehearsal of The Valiant in the gymnasium, there was no doubt left in anyone's mind that as ambitious a play as the one within a prison could hardly be produced effectively in such a large, echoing barn as the gym as a member of the players termed it. Therefore a last-minute decision was reached to use the Museum Auditorium in spite of its many stage defects amply in order that The Valiant might not suffer in presentation.

The plays to be given this evening are "The Valiant," "How He Lied to Her Husband" and "Suppressed Desires." These plays were chosen by the students, cast by students, and are to be produced under student direction. There will be no admission charge, but a hat will be passed during intermission for voluntary contributions in order to defray incidental expenses.

"The Valiant," a drama of prison life, directed by Dan the Magician, will be the first play given. "How He Lied to Her Husband," directed by M. M. Bellows, will follow. "The Valiant" also [illegible] directed by R. S. Wright, will be the final play of the evening. The two latter plays [illegible] Dr. & Jessie [illegible] Oakes.

Due to the difficulties of transporting scenery, both plays will be given on one stage, and the time required between plays will be occupied in rearranging furniture. The curtain will be raised promptly at 8:15 and the audience is requested to be seated before the curtain rises. Ushers will be present to assist in properly seating the audience.

Vermont — Beardsley [illegible] for Bodell, Denhoff [illegible] for Lanahan, [illegible]man for Whitney, [illegible]coto for Boehm [illegible]g [illegible]n [illegible] Olney. [illegible]ssary

The game, although it [illegible] a contest, was easily the best game that Vermont has played this year and can at least be considered a moral victory. Featuring Vermont's play were Austin Ross, Jack Bodell, Beardsley, a sensational sophomore named Nason and Captain Red Cook. Ross and Bodell, two of the backfield [illegible] a Middlebury writer was in the middle of every play, while the backfield Bodell showed plenty of ability and played a great game at center until he was relieved late in the game. Ross was the bucking up the line, played a great defensive game and was the Cats' chief offensive cog.

If Austin Ross, Jack Bodell, Beardsley and Red Cook can be placed on the all state team by virtue of their Saturday performance, the all-star selection board is going to be totally inadequate.

Wally Boehm and Williams, Middlebury's highly advertised backs, failed to break away for any substantial gains. Boehm slipped around left end for 60 yards but had stepped out of bounds at the start of his run. Williams, famed for his runbacks of punts, was consistently smothered by Ross when he attempted to run back kicks.

Capt. Red Cook playing his last game for Vermont, put his typical fight and grit and closed his career on a blaze of glory. Ranson, Delcasse, Beardsley, Lanahan, and Saxton also wrote the closing chapters of their careers at Vermont.

For the first time in a number of years, Vermont students, showing the fighting spirit which characterized the team, broke up the parade which marked Vermont, by tearing down posters, signs, etc., and completely demolishing the bus which had gone unmolested until reaching the U. V. M. stands. The battle didn't last long but was effective in breaking up the parade.

One couldn't be too complimentary in praising Coach Sabo for the work he has done here this year. Faced at the beginning of the season with a complete shake-up in material and only support from the student body and few others, he set to work to build a team which would be the most feared and respected in the state. [illegible] and the team [illegible] matching straight hard football against Beck's wouldbe strategy. Admired by the student body and worshipped by the players Sabo should have a brighter outlook for the future.

When the Burlington Symphony Orchestra presents its first concert of the season on December 6 the membership will be enlarged by a group of students of the University of Vermont, students' wives, faculty members. Charlotte deGoosh, pupil of the late Leopold Auer and head of the violin department of the University's music faculty, will appear as concert master.

Freda Harris, assistant dean of women, appears in the violin section of the orchestra and other members connected with the University are Mary Whitney of Northfield Vt., Dorothy Ball of Burlington, Jeannette Bullis of Milton, Vt. and Doris Brown, Alice Fredrick, D. W. Jenks, and R. S. Jenks, all from Burlington. The orchestra, under the direction of Joseph E. Ledoux will appear with Ludwig Lewisohn, well-known author and critic and now a resident of Burlington, and his wife, Thelma Spear Lewisohn, who before returning with her husband to Burlington, was one of the most popular of the younger singers in Paris.

Father, Son, Mother, Daughter Dinner Planned by Mr. Oatley and His Co-workers

According to a recent announcement tentative plans are now under way under the sponsorship of the Alumni Council and with the active cooperation of Boulder and Mortar Board Societies for an enormous banquet for the students of Vermont, their parents and all alumni. This banquet will be held the same week end as the Kake Walk, thus making this a gala occasion. The plans adopted from the annual Williams College father and son banquet calls the banquet to be held the same night as Kake Walk, thus enabling more parents and alumni to be present for both occasions.

The program for the occasion will be in charge of Henry B. Oatley, chairman of the Alumni Council. Through the council letters will be sent to the parents of the students explaining the nature of the occasion and urging their attendance. Boulder and Mortar Board will be active in assisting in the carrying out of the plans for the get together.

COL. ROWELL DEFENDS MILITARY TRAINING

Man may face war in his lifetime. Why not prepare him for it as he is prepared to meet other problems of life while educating himself?

Thus said, in effect, Col. F. W. Rowell, commandant of the Reserve Officers Training Corps unit at the University of Vermont in defense of R. O. T. C. military training while addressing the week's luncheon meeting of the Burlington Rotary Club at the Hotel Van Ness recently.

"We are not trying to make soldiers of them," Colonel Rowell declared in speaking of the R. O. T. C. which is compulsory at the University of Vermont for the freshman and sophomore years and optional for the last two. "We teach them fundamentals and develop in them qualities of leadership needed in an emergency.

"I assure you the R. O. T. C. is successful only in getting a sufficient number of trained young men to serve as officers in the reinforcement of the regular army in the event of war. Those who are now taking the course can be used as officers in the national military training camps.

NOTICE

Concerning Thanksgiving Recess

Students are advised that the recess begins Thursday, November 29, at 7.30 a.m. and closes on Monday, December 3, at 7.30 a.m. Dates and hours should be carefully noted. Wednesday, November 28, the usual chapel service will be omitted and classes will meet in accordance with the following schedule:

First hour	8.00- 8.50
Second hour	9.00- 9.50
Third hour	10.00-10.50
Fourth hour	11.00-11.50
Fifth hour	1.10- 2.00
Sixth hour	2.10- 3.00

The above hours should be carefully noted to avoid unnecessary absences.

Students should note the following extract from the University Regulations: II, paragraph 4 (b) "A student who absents himself without permission (secured in advance from the dean of his college) from any University exercise or exercises on the day immediately preceding or following a recess or holiday may be placed on probation."

The University Council in voting to lengthen the Thanksgiving vacation agreed that there should be an understanding that no applications for extensions would be considered.

E. Swift,
Secretary, University Council

Prof. M. H. Lantsch, faculty adviser of the International Relations Club, announces that the meeting scheduled for Tuesday, November 27, has been postponed to Wednesday, December 5, at 7.30 p.m. in 3 North College. At that time the government of Russia will be discussed by C. B. Eaton '35, K. N. Scott '35, J. E. Crane '35, G. H. Cooke, Jr., '35 and P. T. Barber '37. The meeting will be open to all students interested in international relations.

Please remember that the deadline for Winnowings contributions for the second issue is December 1, and that this means they should all be in before you go home for Thanksgiving. Dorothy Kennedy, editor, 24 Latham Court, tel. 3866 (1273 in afternoons). Contributions may be left at the Press Office in the Medical Building.

A scavenger hike is to be held Saturday, November 24, at 2.00, starting from the gym. All women students are urged to go and get W. A. A. points. Eight points are to be given for this special hike.

There will be a Badminton Club meeting of all the members at 4.00 sharp on Saturday, November 24, in the gym after the scavenger hunt. Demonstration game with strokes and technique will be explained directly after the meeting, followed by games in Badminton, tennis, deck tennis, ping pong, shuffleboard, horseshoes and handball for everyone. All women students come, get acquainted and have a hilarious time.

It is disquieting because both Europe and East Asia are packed upon as explosive powder magazines. On one area is manifold feuds and passions and at least current resentments the other a theater in which two great militarisms towers grimly face each other mutually ... ments ... hickering ... strained from striking, perhaps by only momentary considerations of prudence.

In these conditions, Washington sees the possibility, though not the probability, of an accident, some tragic happening upon frontier or local outpost ... which suddenly might light an unextinguishable international fire.

What are the favorable factors in world relations just now. Why do competent observers speak of the outlook as not intrinsically and imminently dangerous.

Take Europe first. It is on its back. It has not been able to get up since it was knocked flat by the Great War. It has troubles innumerable, troubles of morale and of mind, political, social, economic and financial troubles. Its center of gravity of power is uncertain.

Scarcely any nation feels sure, in the event of war, who necessarily would be its friend who might be its enemy. Russia is unreliable. Poland's attachment to France is not so undoubted as it was.

All these conditions, as Washington estimates them, are a drag upon belligerency, make for peace. And others are cited. In 1914 everything was different. We just have remarked how highly fluid are European relationships today. Twenty years ago they were relatively solid, the chief opposing forces definitely known and firmly integrated. Europe was organically ready for war. And her peoples did not know what war meant. They know now, and about 500,000,000 of them do not like it.

Consciousness of this popular feeling is not absent from the minds of statesmen and statesmen are aware of the ... of war even when their peoples' hearts are passionately in it. Aggression in these circumstances leaving entirely aside the anti-war treaties, is deemed almost out of the question since the war recognized fundamental condition of successful war is the impregnability of the home front.

The Change Since 1914

Sweaters With A Pull

Sleeveless sweaters, of the V-neck type, are becoming increasingly popular with the well-dressed collegians. Coming in colors of navy, wine, gray and brown, they are exceedingly fashionable in the cable stitch. They have a natural place in the wardrobe of today, for they can correctly replace the waistcoat for wear with a tweed suit.

The fashions of 1934 are extremely practical throughout, and the low-cost variations in dress provided by the stylists, such as the sleeveless sweater, make it possible for the college man to have a completely fashionable wardrobe at the barest minimum of expense. These "change-offs" also make it possible for him to avoid the sameness of day-to-day attire that becomes so tedious and unpleasant.

"Scotchy" Socks

The English may be dictating just what is the correct style in hats this season, but the Scotch seem to be dominating the remainder of the wardrobe. With the plaids and roughs predominating in suit cloths, it is only natural that socks with many variations of plaid designs should be ordered. The argyle type plaids are the most fashionable and serviceable for campus wear.

As a pleasant variation from the plaid design, socks with a horizontal bar type of pattern have been created for the smart college man. Either of the two new designs will fit in with the new ensemble, and carry out the "rough" idea completely. They'll be especially smart and practical during the cold days approaching. Don't miss on this!

Student Union Building Now Campus Project

M. D. Powers, General Secretary of the V. C. A. and Coach of Debating has long Advocated Such a Building for Both Men and Women

...A University Center would be a ... supplying a need forming many ... services common to the students and ... faculty of all the colleges. It would be ... and ... a social meeting ... with all the social and business life of ... the student body.

... and ... also the University ... with complete printing shop and ... public stenographic service. This University Center would be the logical place for a central university telephone exchange, and information bureau. A Freshman Commons with training table accommodations for the athletic department might be another feature. Then another dining room for upperclassmen and university guests might well be included. It would also be helpful to have one or two private dining rooms for members of the faculty and guests of the administration.

In visualizing this University Center for the use and enjoyment of all in the University, one thinks at once of a natatorium and facilities for bowling, pool and billiards. On the main floor of the unit there might be a large lounge for students, alumni and guests with a smaller ladies lounge. Separate club rooms for the ladies and men of the faculty should be provided; also, offices for the Alumni Council and the University Department of Publicity. The graduate and undergraduate employment bureaus would naturally find their location in this University Center, as well as the offices of the Vermont Christian Associations. Perhaps the feature of paramount importance would be a spacious auditorium with fully equipped stage and dressing rooms. This would be used for dramatics, lectures, dances, and banquets. It would save a great deal of stress and confusion in the present gymnasium, and would be better suited for such programs.

Two more service units which are badly needed might be included. A reading and work room with a library for dramatics, and the same for debating. Then there might be in the building several undesignated rooms which could be reserved as occasion might require for committee meetings or for seminar groups, for a week or month, according

UNTERMEYER PREDICTS CULTURAL REVIVAL AND NEW LANGUAGE

"We are on the threshold of a great cultural revival," stated Louis Untermeyer, internationally famous poet and critic, as he lectured on his theory, "New Language for a New Generation," before an amused appreciative audience that packed the Fleming Museum. This lecture held Thursday evening, November 22, was third in the series of University lectures.

As evidences of a great cultural revival, Mr. Untermeyer gave examples in architecture, in arts, in music, in drama and especially in literature. No longer are the classics used as models. A new style distinctly American in every aspect is being developed. Distinctly American are skyscrapers in pattern, style and compressed design. In music, as in architecture and in art we have distinct idioms. George Gershwin, in contributing rhythmic jazz, has given America music symbolic of our mechanized civilization, of syncopated rhythm, dynamic action and of the America today. A similar change in motion pictures in development of color films and inclusion of three dimensions the lecturer predicts.

In literature especially does Mr. Untermeyer foresee a drastic change. Up to 1900, excluding, of course, the period from 1860 to 1870 which produced the works of Longfellow, Bryant and Whittier, our literature was a replica of classic models.

"Today there is not a part of America that is not expressing itself, not a locality or hamlet which has not produced its own laureate. Within 150 miles of this platform are two of the world's greatest poets," said Mr. Untermeyer. "I rank Robert Frost whose home is in your own South Shaftsbury with Virgil and with Wordsworth."

The new American language will be characterized as one apart from English. Even now the two are vastly different in spelling and in grammar. "America home of racial and language changes and interchanges is a melting pot out of which will burst a new language, clear cut in its brevity, concise in its meaning and telegraphic in its entirety."

R. O. T. C. APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED BY MILITARY

Appointments in the R. O. T. C. unit at the University of Vermont were announced this morning from the Military Office. First sergeants named are: E. G. Allen, Brattleboro; A. C. Werner, Torrington Conn.; L. A. Lasker, Brattleboro; and R. Warren, Bennington.

Paul Craig was appointed staff sergeant, with assignment as battalion sergeant major. The following men were appointed sergeants with assignments as platoon sergeants: C. H. Buchanan, Burlington; D. F. Coburn, Newport; W. G. Gibson, Wells River; E. M. Keeney, Fort Ethan Allen; C. Thibault, Waterbury; J. H. Ainsworth, Hardwick; E. G. Young, Craftsbury Common; and M. D. McCarthy, North Brookfield, Mass.

"Coming events cast their shadows before," concerning which is herewith brought to notice that the various sororities on the hill are contemplating holding their dances in the near future, namely, December 8 and 15.

These are among the few affairs of the year which women invite the men to attend, and have the opportunity of reciprocating for past favors.

Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Xi Delta, Delta Delta Delta and Pi Beta Phi are having their dances on December 8. Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Delta and K. E. L. will have theirs on December 15.

The Alpha Chi affair will take place in their own house with Grace Spelman '35 directing. Prof. and Mrs. Leon W. Dean and Coach and Mrs. John Sabo will chaperone. Eddie Starr's Orchestra will furnish syncopation.

The Alpha Chi Xi's will hold their dance at their rooms on College Street. Prof. and Mrs. G. V. Kidder and Prof. and Mrs. L. L. Briggs will be the chaperones. Ouimette's Orchestra will play.

Tri Delts and escorts will gather at the Klifa Club. Marjorie Cook '35 is in charge. Prof. and Mrs. W. H. Behney and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Livingstone will chaperone. Eddie Starr's Syncopators will furnish the orchestration.

Pi Phi's will entertain at their house under the direction of Natalie Hulbert '35. Sid Carsley and His Gang of Rhythmic Rascals will supply the music.

At this writing the Thetas are uncertain as to the why's and how's of the dance. They will reveal, however, that Sid Carsley will play for them, also.

Kappa Delta will have its affair at the Catholic Daughters' Hall. Billie Gove '36 and Ruth Jewett '36 are in charge and Prof. and Mrs. George Dykhuizen will chaperone.

The K. E. L. informal will occur at the K. C. club house. Sylvia Margulis '37 is in charge of the evening's proceedings. The rhythmic strains of Dupaw's Syncopators will serve the musical menu.

Discontinuance of the degree of bachelor of philosophy at Brown University, which was the first academic institution in the United States to institute it in 1850, has been announced.

Accompanied by Herbert Jaffe, Mr. Seidel Gives Concert to Receptive Audience, Sat.

A capacity audience greeted Toscha Seidel at the City Hall, Saturday evening, where he was presented by the Community Concert Association. It was an audience which gave most attentive address to the violinist and hearty appreciation for his performance.

Seidel is one of the younger group of violinists who have attained eminence under the tutelage of Leopold Auer. Seidel's artistry is pervaded and dominated by his personality; it is the man giving his message by means of the violin and not a magician opening a bag of musical tricks. All his playing is dominated by an inward dancing or marching of rhythms and an exultant dramatic fervor which found expression not alone through his fingers but in his face and by the sympathetic swaying of his body. This undercurrent of the sincere and authentic rhythmic flow of the music which to Seidel is rooted in the expression of the ideas is most gratifying and gives the listeners a satisfaction of even motion and vital effects. Because of this predominating virtue the many dance movements on the program received particularly fine performances.

Mr. Seidel's technique is masterful. His intonation was at all times faultless, being conspicuous in octave passages. His articulation was sharp and clear. His bowing was free and powerful, and his fingering exceedingly dexterous. The beautiful Mendelssohn Concerto gave full play to his many virtues. The Allegro movement brought out his excellent control of tone volume whereby he gave his violin the range from a tiny melody of almost dreamlike quality to the volume of a small string choir. The Andante was an outstanding performance of a melody on one string accompanied by alternating tones on another in perfect balance. The vivace was almost breath-taking in its speed and clarity.

The encores Mr. Seidel was persuaded to add were much enjoyed. The Spanish Serenade by Granados-Cassado. Dances by Beethoven-Kilman, and Gavotte by Grasse were all worthy additions to an already generous program.

Herbert Jaffe at the piano was one with the artist in tempo and volume, giving perfectly adequate support with no transgressions. Mr. Jaffe also added a group of piano solos which were well received. His place with precision, balance, and brilliance. As an encore Mr. Jaffe played Debussy's "Girl With the Flaxen Hair."

The very artistic and fully enjoyed concert was the second in the present Community Concert Association season. Many guests from Middlebury, Rutland and Montpelier were in the audience.

TARANTULA AND BOA FOUND IN BANANAS

When officials of a local fruit company discovered a large and lively tarantula nested in a bunch of bananas recently arrived at the warehouse, they were only mildly surprised, because this happens not infrequently. But when in the same carload, they discovered a live snake, coiled around one of the bunches of bananas, they became definitely perturbed. University of Vermont zoologists were called to the scene and announced the reptile to be a baby boa-constrictor.

Both specimens have been gingerly removed to the University of Vermont's Fleming Museum, where they went on exhibition today. The snake is about three feet long and the spider of average tarantula size. Museum officials were unresponsive when asked what they intended to do when the constrictor reached maturity. The Museum is quite large.

AERONAUTICS LECTURE TOMORROW MORNING

Mr. van Haitsma, of Boeing School, Speaks in Museum at 10.00 A.M.

Announcement has been made of a special lecture to be given at the Fleming Museum of the University of Vermont on the morning of November 28, by W. van Haitsma, of the Boeing School of Aeronautics in Oakland, Calif. Illustrated with motion pictures, the talk will be particularly for students of the Engineering College.

During his stay in Burlington, Mr. van Haitsma will discuss the Boeing School with individuals, and detail to them the plans of the W. E. Boeing scholarships, which are open to any male undergraduate in any college working for a degree. In previous years men have been sent to the California school from Clarkson, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, University of Maine, and many other institutions in the West and Middle West on scholarships.

In speaking of the lecture, Dean George F. Eckhard of the College of Engineering, declared that while primarily for students in this department of the University, it would be open to other students and to the general public as well. It is scheduled for ten o'clock in the morning, and engineers will be let out of classes especially to hear Mr. van Haitsma.

NOTICE

Ariel Proofs for Juniors may be had by calling for them at Dean Swift's office. Look them over and decide which you care for. You will shortly receive notice from the representative of White Studios as to further procedure.

UNTERMEYER PREDICTS CULTURAL REVIVAL AND NEW LANGUAGE

"We are on the threshold of a great cultural revival," stated Louis Untermeyer, internationally famous poet and critic, as he lectured on his theory, "New Language for a New Generation," before an amused appreciative audience that packed the Fleming Museum. This lecture held Thursday evening, November 22, was third in the series of University lectures.

As evidences of a great cultural revival, Mr. Untermeyer gave examples in architecture, in arts, in music, in drama and especially in literature. No longer are the classics used as models. A new style distinctly American in every aspect is being developed. Distinctly American are skyscrapers in pattern, style and compressed design. In music, as in architecture and in art we have distinct idioms. George Gershwin, in contributing rhythmic jazz, has given America music symbolic of our mechanized civilization, of syncopated rhythm, dynamic action and of the America today. A similar change in motion pictures in development of color films and inclusion of three dimensions the lecturer predicts.

In literature especially does Mr. Untermeyer foresee a drastic change. Up to 1900, excluding, of course, the period from 1860 to 1870 which produced the works of Longfellow, Bryant and Whittier, our literature was a replica of classic models.

"Today there is not a part of America that is not expressing itself, not a locality or hamlet which has not produced its own laureate. Within 150 miles of this platform are two of the worlds greatest poets," said Mr. Untermeyer. "Frank Robert Frost whose home is in your own South Shattsbury with Virgil and with Wordsworth.

"The new American language will be characterized as one apart from English. Even now the two are vastly different in spelling and in grammar. "America home of racial and language changes and interchanges is a melting pot out of which will burst a new language, clear cut in its brevity, concise in its meaning and telegraphic in its entirety."

When officials of a local fruit company discovered a large and hairy tarantula nested on a bunch of bananas recently arrived at the warehouse they were only mildly surprised because this happens not infrequently. But when in the same carload, they discovered a boa snake coiled around one of the bunches of bananas they became decidedly perturbed. University of Vermont zoologists were called to the scene and pronounced the reptile to be a baby boa constrictor.

Both specimens have been properly consigned to the University of Vermont's Fleming Museum, where they went on exhibition today. The snake is about three feet long and the spider of average tarantula size. Museum officials were unresponsive when asked what they intended to do when the constrictor reached maturity. The Museum is quite large.

"Coming events cast their shadows before," concerning which is herewith brought to notice that the various sororities on the hill are contemplating holding their dances in the near future, namely December 8 and 15.

These are among the few affairs of the year which women invite the men to attend, and have the opportunity of reciprocating for past favors.

Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Xi Delta, Delta Delta Delta and Pi Beta Phi are having their dances on December 8. Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Delta and K. E. L. will have theirs on December 15.

The Alpha Chi affair will take place in their own house with Grace Spelman '35 directing. Prof. and Mrs. Leon W. Dean and Coach and Mrs. John Sabo will chaperone. Eddie Starr's Orchestra will furnish syncopation.

The Alpha Chi Xi's will hold their dance at their rooms on College Street. Prof. and Mrs. G. V. Kidder and Prof. and Mrs. L. L. Briggs will be the chaperones. Ouimette's Orchestra will play.

Pi Delts and escorts will gather at the Klida Club. Marjorie Cook '35 is in charge. Prof. and Mrs. W. H. Behney and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Livingston will chaperone. Eddie Starr's Syncopators will furnish the orchestration.

Pi Phi's will entertain at their home under the direction of Natalie Hilliker '35. Sid Carsley and His Gang of Rhythmic Rascals will supply the music.

At this writing the Thetas are uncertain as to the whys and hows of the dance. They will reveal, however, that Sid Carsley will play for them also.

Kappa Delta will have its affair at the Catholic Daughters' Hall. Billie Grace '36 and Ruth Jewett '36 are in charge and Prof. and Mrs. George Dickinson will chaperone.

The K. E. L. informal will occur at the K. C. club house. Sylvia Margolis '37 is in charge of the evening's proceedings. The rhythmic strains of Dupaw's Syncopators will serve the musical menu.

Discontinuance of the degree of bachelor of philosophy at Brown University, which was the first academic institution in the United States to institute it in 1850, has been announced.

Accompanied by Herbert Jaffe, Mr. Seidel Gives Concert to Receptive Audience, Sat.

A capacity audience greeted Toscha Seidel at the City Hall, Saturday evening, where he was presented by the Community Concert Association. It was an audience which gave most attentive address to the violinist and hearty appreciation for his performance.

Seidel is one of the younger group of violinists who have attained eminence under the tutelage of Leopold Auer. Seidel's artistry is pervaded and dominated by his personality, it is the man giving his message by means of the violin and not a magician opening a bag of musical tricks. All his playing is dominated by an inward dancing or matching of rhythms and an exultant dramatic fervor which found expression not alone through his fingers but in his face and by the sympathetic swaying of his body. This undercurrent of the sincere and authentic rhythmic flow of the music which to Seidel is rooted in the expression of the ideas is most gratifying and gives the listeners a satisfaction of even motion and vital effects. Because of this predominating virtue the many dance movements on the program received particularly fine performance.

Mr. Seidel's technique is masterful. His intonation was at all times faultless being conspicuous in octave passages. His articulation was sharp and clear, his bowing was free and powerful, and his fingering exceedingly dexterous. The beautiful Mendelssohn Concerto gave full play to his many virtues. The Allegro movement brought out his excellent control of tone volume whereby he gave his violin the range from a tiny melody of almost dreamlike quality to the volume of a small string choir. The Andante was an outstanding performance of a melody on one string accompanied by alternating tones on another in perfect balance. The encore was almost breath-taking in its speed and clarity.

The encores Mr. Seidel was persuaded to add were much enjoyed. The Spanish Serenade by Cazabatte, Country Dances by Beethoven-Elman, and Gavotte by Gosser were all worthy additions to an already generous program.

Herbert Jaffe at the piano was one with the artist in tempo and volume giving perfectly adequate support and no transgressions. Mr. Jaffe also added a group of piano solos which were well received. He plays with precise balance, and brilliance. As an encore Mr. Jaffe played Debussy's "Girl With the Flaxen Hair."

The very artistic and full, enjoyed concert was the second in the present Community Concert Association season. Many guests from Middlebury, Rutland and Montpelier were in the audience.

Mr. van Haitsma, of Boeing School, Speaks in Museum at 10.00 A.M.

Announcement has been made of a special lecture to be given at the Fleming Museum at the University of Vermont on the morning of November 28 by Mr. van Haitsma, of the Boeing School of Aeronautics in Oakland, Calif. Illustrated with motion pictures the talk will be particularly for students of the Engineering College.

During his stay in Burlington Mr. van Haitsma will discuss the Boeing school with individuals and detail to them the plan of the W. P. Boeing scholarships which are open to any male undergraduate in any college working for a degree. To promote safety methods Boeing sent out to the California school from Clarkson, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, University of Maine and many other institutions in the West and Middle West as undergraduates.

In speaking of the lecture, Dean George F. Eckhardt of the College of Engineering declared that while primarily for students in the department of the University it would be open to other students and to the general public as well. It is scheduled for ten o'clock in the morning, and engineers will be let out of classes especially to hear Mr. van Haitsma.

HEARST'S REPLY

Mr. Hearst shows the old ideal of rugged individualism that is sold as best by all unthinking Americans. Today we need cooperation not a chip on each shoulder.

He has completely dodged the questions that were asked him in the letter. That, however, is his affair, no one made him answer any of them. But not only has he completely dodged the questions asked, but he has tried to cover up his answers by a number of miscellaneous statements which might serve to fool a very casual reader.

To quote the Williams Record he is "depending on the cumulative effect of numerous platitudes to make his point." The platitudes are all right in themselves but they are misleading when they are used in this connection. For example Mr. Hearst says that he believes that the police departments should be abolished when there no longer is a criminal to make it necessary. But is the parallel accurate? Does the German army stand in the same relation to World Peace as Scotland Yard does to the peace of London? Obviously not.

Today many of the important nations of the world are preparing to strengthen their armaments. Among them are England, France, Germany and Japan. Will we sit quietly by and let ourselves be drawn into a race for armaments which will cause the expenditure of millions of dollars and will not increase our security one bit? Mr. Hearst may be sincere in his beliefs, but if he is, he is the innocent tool of the armament makers who will profit by his folly.

MR. JAMES HUBBARD TO LEAD INFORMAL DISCUSSION GROUPS

On Wednesday evening, December 5, will occur the first of a series of informal discussions on religious and social problems, to be held between seven and eight o'clock. The leader will be the Rev. James Hubbard of Rock Point. The place is the Ruggles Home, 262 South Prospect Street.

Both men and women have been cordially invited to drop in Wednesday evening and to bring along any special discussion subjects, such as communism, or munitions manufacturing, or Christianity. Discussions of this sort have long been suggested by different people, and now that an energetic young leader has been found, the sponsors expect interesting results.

Mr. Hubbard has been living at Rock Point for three years, having arrived there from Boston to take up Toc-H work in Vermont. He has spoken many times in various Vermont towns, having made his special subject war.

5. If you must have a date—have three or four good ones and don't use the same one on all girls.

6. Don't try to neck a girl on the first date.

7. Don't sit in front of her house and honk—but go up to the door.

8. Don't wait until the last minute to ask her for a date.

9. When you know she's interested, show her that she has some competition.

10. Don't be too jealous of her.

11. Always appear neat.

12. Don't be conceited.

13. Don't brag.

14. Don't be too nice to her.

15. Know how to dance.

16. Don't do things for spite.

17. Don't sit around and talk to her family if she's "raring" to go.

18. Don't drag another fellow along at the last minute and expect the girl to get him a date.

19. Don't smoke incessantly.

20. Don't tell her to shut up.

21. Don't tell dirty jokes.

22. Have something planned to do.

23. Be courteous.

24. Do little things she likes.

25. Talk about things in which she's interested.

26. Don't tell everyone what you did on the date.

27. Be on time for a date.

28. Don't come early and gripe because she's not ready.

29. Don't act bored—even if you are.

30. Be natural.

31. Don't try to be funny.

32. Don't try to be conspicuous at a public place.

33. Don't be sarcastic.

34. Don't be pulling sashes, zippers, unbuttoning buttons, playing with her hair, et cetera.

35. If you must kneck (after the first date), for heaven's sake—have good technique.

Thus Bradley Tech Emily Post adds, "If you conform to all these rules you'll be the perfect man and no one will love you. Some of them, however, can be taken to heart by both fellows and girls."

PATAGONIAN PECULIARITIES

By Chester Post

Patagonia in the Scientific World

No one has ever attempted to consider all the scientific achievements of Patagonia. To do so would be an impossibility, for Patagonia's contributions to science are practically incalculable.

Many of the truisms of today, uttered as a matter of fact, have been scientifically established by Patagonian experiment.

During my sojourn in the country, I was honored by an invitation to a meeting of the Research Fellows Association. Needless to say, I was delighted to accept the invitation.

I was very much impressed by one experiment in particular that was performed at that meeting. It expressed most clearly the scientific acumen of the Patagonian mind.

The apparatus was very simple, consisting merely of a series of wooden tubs varying in size, a pane of glass beside each tub and a hammer. These were placed upon a platform clearly visible to everyone.

Amid a hushed silence (for he was a very famous scientist) the experimenter stepped to the platform. He regarded the audience, the audience regarded him. He began to speak. "Gentlemen," he said, "tonight I am going to perform the last of a series of experiments. If it is successful, my hypothesis is correct. (A loud cheer arose.) If it is a failure, my original reasoning is faulty." (Sympathetic silence reigned.)

Then he proceeded with his experiment. By means of a rubber hose attached to a faucet, he filled the tubs with water in succession. As soon as a tub was filled, he struck the pane of glass beside it a smart blow with the hammer. In each instance the glass was broken.

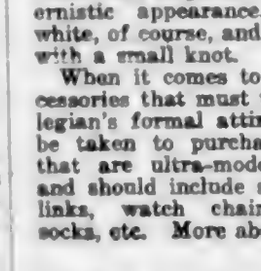
The experimenter looked up. There was a gleam of triumph in his eyes. "Gentlemen," he remarked, "my experiment is a success." The ensuing din was terrific. He raised his hand for silence. "Fellow scientists," he said, "I have proven beyond the shadow of any doubt that no matter how deep the ocean is, you can always break a window with a hammer."

I think I fainted.

Cornell University (Ithaca, N. Y.) scientists have raised two sheep which never ate a blade of grass, but lived solely on synthetic diets. They were fed a mixture of casein, cellulose, starch, vitamin concentrates and salts.

WINTER DAIRY COURSES OFFERED BY UNIVERSITY

Applications are now being received for Winter short Courses in Dairying offered by the Department of Animal and Dairy Husbandry of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Anyone desiring to attend such short courses as may be given this winter should apply at once to Prof. H. B. Ellenberger, University of Vermont, Burlington, Vt.



Courses offered to start in January include such subjects as feeding, breeding, judging, management and showing of cattle, testing milk and milk products, and quality control including dairy bacteriology.

The purpose of winter short courses is two-fold. First, they offer an opportunity to men and women, unable to spend a longer time in school, to become acquainted with modern agricultural science and practice. Second, they offer to experienced men and women an opportunity to refresh their memories and to secure the latest and most up-to-date information on special subjects applying to farm and dairy-plant operation.

Fashion Notes By Collegiate Digest

For Tails Only

The most exacting care for correct dress must be exercised when the college man is making preparations to attend formal affairs. For the truly formal occasion he must don full dress tails and not the "formal" dinner jacket.

It has long been the custom at many institutions that the tuxedo is the correct formal dress. The experts have long ago decreed that it should be worn only at the formal dinner, and if you are well Post-ed on what is correct attire you will not wear your tuxedo at the formal dance.

The white waistcoat should be worn with "tails", with the latest design in formal vests having no back and pointed ends. The lapels are cut square across the bottom, giving a "broadening" effect that is new and modern.

A la Airplanes

The days of the cutting wing collars seem to be passing rapidly, for the latest designs of formal neckwear are bringing into vogue a collar with a wide wing-spread which should prove more comfortable. The collar illustrated in the accompanying inset is one of the smartest of the new cuts, and the square-end tie worn with it gives it a truly modernistic appearance. The tie is white, of course, and should be tied with a small knot.

When it comes to the small accessories that must top-off the collegian's formal attire, care should be taken to purchase only those that are ultra-modern in design, and should include studs and cufflinks, watch chain, suspenders, socks, etc. More about these later.

were well if you sought it elsewhere. Washington, in an international sense, is genuinely friendly, but cautious and realistic.

It suspects that to arm certain nations in the world today is to arm the possibility of aggression, while it understands that to arm America is to arm the certainty of non-aggression. It looks with utter disfavor upon the idea of allowing a reduction in America's relative fighting strength. As for President Roosevelt himself, it is permissible to say that he is in the mood of the mariner who loads his cargo with the hope of a fine voyage, but with the vivid recognition of the possibility of rough seas.

Breakers in plenty are conjectured, if not visible, ahead. For one thing, too many influences are operative to discredit American prestige, and weaken American diplomacy. It has become a novel idea in some quarters abroad that the American people have become immutably pacific, apathetic as to their rights and interests in the big world, too lazy, if not too proud, to fight. That hardly augurs well for tranquillity.

Then there are the depressing economic and monetary confusion. [illegible],000 American citizens on the relief rolls create an impression in some foreign capitals that the United States is on the verge of a violent upheaval: these weigh heavily on America's good name overseas. Then there are the exaggerated reports of crime, scandal, and corruption in high country, deliberate anti-American propaganda in both hemispheres all contributing to a state of foreign opinion under which the wisdom of seeing to it that the American public has ample defensive [illegible] strength. None of these things escapes the notice, or fails to excite the concern, of responsible men in Washington.

Japanese policy is unmistakably one of the principal objects of Washington official attention. Its further [illegible] is awaited with great interest. The practical implications of the Japanese "Hands-Off Asia" pronouncement excite deep curiosity.

Signs of large Japanese ambitions [illegible] to emerge in her naval representations, so far as they are understood. [illegible] naval parity for Japan with Great Britain and the United States would mean Japanese naval supremacy in the Pacific: it would mean a Japanese Great Wall down the middle Premier Ocean of the world. It would mean that Japan could do as she chose to elect, not only in Manchukuo and in Inner Mongolia, but [illegible] Yangtze Plains, and perhaps as far as she chose to go.

Washington thinks, [illegible] concomitants counted the annexation of Pacific islands [illegible] that Japan has naval parity [illegible] she appears to be demanding [illegible] late parity into supremacy. [illegible] Washington, do the islands [illegible] so strong?

Another feature [illegible] notable: Japan is, in these fateful days, the only [illegible] with both a powerful navy and a powerful army. Remember when Great Britain afraid of Kaiser Bill's Tremendous striking power [illegible] the will to have tremendous power on water. There is the ability of invasion in the navy, alone, a nation [illegible] a triumphant navy, alone, a nation can invade.

True, the Pacific Ocean [illegible] we live in the times [illegible] not only on the land and on the sea, and America an island. Nothing [illegible] the liveliness of Washington the necessity of the American fleet in any emergency. International [illegible] ship, and a square deal something else more [illegible] lute surety of the [illegible] shores.

Acting as president of the Association of College Editors Frances G Smith Jr editor of the Cornell Countryman addressed to William Randolph Hearst and gave out for general publication an open letter containing most complimentary comments regarding international peace and disarmament

The letter said that the questions had been prepared in England by Sir Norman Angell the greatest authority and probable winner of the Nobel Peace Prize for this year to be announced by Lord Beaverbrook owner of the London Daily Express

Because of the laborious nature of the questions Lord Beaverbrook declined to answer them

My dear Sir

I AM happy to hear that Mr Norman Angell is a "probable Nobel Peace winner," but I have not been overwhelmingly impressed by actual peace conferences so far as their political aspects are concerned

Because of which (and irrespective of which), I do not feel obligated to answer categorically disingenuous questions propounded on the foregoing

THE SPORTING

With most of the major football teams in the country mustied with their current schedule, the time for forecasting the possibilities for the Rose Bowl game is at hand. Those gridiron enthusiasts who follow the weekly results of the larger squads are also primed to give their selection of the All-American team as selected by the press correspondents throughout the nation.

That greatly publicized New Year's Day spectacle on the West coast, the Rose Bowl game, has become a by-word for the faithful supporter of the greatest of college sports—football. At the time of writing, it appears that Stanford is the logical choice from the West. In the East it is another story. Alabama appears to be all set to accept the invitation, and is a rightful claimant to the honor. Without a doubt Minnesota has the greatest array of punkin talent in the nation, but the Big Ten Conference rules prohibit a post-season contest. Unless the inner sanctum of the Midwest football potentates declare a moratorium, the Gophers will have to be contented with the mythical national championship.

There are several other great teams in the East, who, although they have met defeat in at least one game, can be considered as candidates for the game at the Tournament of Roses. In this group we include Pittsburgh, Colgate, Temple, Rice, North Carolina, Louisiana State and Syracuse. Your guess is as good as ours, as to the final choice of the judges. Undoubtedly those teams which are not selected, will arrange post-season games for charity, so you may see your favorite in action again in fast-stepping company.

We decline to give our choices for the All-American team at this point as we are not anxious to leave ourselves open to criticism. We have, however, compiled an All-Tonguetwister Team which we should like to see in action. In case you wonder if this game is an American sport, consult your line-ups. Here's our choice:

SOPHOMORES AND FROSH BEAT UPPERCLASSMEN

The underdog had his moment last night when hard fighting and slightly surprised senior and junior basketball teams at the University of Vermont fell before sophomore and freshman fives, in the second play of the annual interclass tournament, sponsored by the Physical Education Department of the University.

The sophomores outscored their betters by one point, winning 21-20. The bitterest pill was swallowed by the juniors who came out on the wrong end of the rope in their contest with the freshmen, losing 25-24. Both games were close, as indicated by scores, and the whole underclass student body was jubilant today over the triumph of their theoretically inferior teams.

Notes Off the Cuff

Harvard University, oldest institution of higher learning in the United States, will celebrate the 300th anniversary of its founding in 1936. . . During prohibition, more than a million dollars worth of fraternity property was "padlocked" at the University of Michigan . . . The University of Wisconsin regent who most bitterly opposed the admission of co-eds to that institution now has a women's dormitory named after him—Barnard Hall. . . More college newspapers lay claim to the title of "oldest" than do college fraternities and no one has yet determined which one is entitled to the honor. . . The University of Texas has two million acres of land that will yield oil and precious metals that will soon make it the richest institution in the world . . . Joe Penner has been offered a professorship of penmanship. Get it?

FALL SPORT SCHEDULE SHOWS FAIR SEASON

As to with Middlebury, 0-0-0 for the Green Mountain Conference football title and a win, the both varsity and freshman cross country teams over the same institution last Saturday brought to a close the University of Vermont's fall sport schedule. With a decided dearth of material, Coach Johnny Sabo ended his first season as Vermont's football mentor with two wins, two ties, and four defeats on his team's record. Considering his material and an unusually small squad at that, he did a good job.

The varsity and freshman cross-country teams had one of the most successful seasons in years. The varsity fell once, before Union, but managed decided wins over Amherst, N. Y. State Teachers, Williams, and Middlebury. The frosh lost to Dartmouth by one point but otherwise your safe is clean.

Prospects for a football team next year are fair. Capt. Red Cook, of Leominster, Mass.; Delfausse, of Rockville Ctr., L. I.; Lansdale of Rutland Vt., and others, will be lost through graduation, but there remain Holley, Funk, Negus, and Kenworthy, who carried the ball with little success during the 1934 campaign and will be a junior next year, as well as last material from the present frosh team. In the meantime, basketball becomes the center of interest. As yet a full squad has not been announced.

CO-EDUCATIONAL SCHOOLS INCREASE ENROLLMENT

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Madison, Wis.—With co-educational institutions reporting an increase in enrollment of 10.2 over their registration figures of last year, the total gain in registrations of 142 colleges and universities in the United States included in an Associated Collegiate Press poll for the 1934-35 school year is 4.42 percent, it was revealed here today.

In the tabulation made by the Associated Collegiate Press and Collegiate Digest staffs it was revealed that the women's colleges led the men's institutions with a total increase of 2.7 percent, .4 percent greater than the gain in men's colleges.

Despite the fact that the total enrollment of the institutions included in the survey has increased some 4.4 percent, the faculties at those institutions have been increased by only .101 percent. The co-educational colleges which enjoyed an increase of 10.2 percent in enrollment have decreased their faculties by .8 per cent. While the women's colleges have increased their faculties 1.6 percent, the men's colleges have decreased their faculties by 1.06 percent.

The men led the women in the tabulation of increased enrollments throughout the United States by 1.97 percent—the men increasing by 6.24 percent. In the co-educational colleges the number of men enrolled has increased 7.3 percent, while the number of women registered has increased 4.6 percent.

Varsity Cross-Country Team Closes Successful Season

Season's Record of Four Wins and One Loss, Including the State Title is One of the Best Records of a Vermont Cross-country Team

By winning four out of five meets, the Vermont cross-country team had one of the best seasons in many years.

The first meet was held at Schenectady, against Union College. The result of this meet was not very gratifying, Union winning by a perfect score. This being the first meet, Vermont was not in the best physical condition, which accounts for Union winning by such a score. Woodruff did not accompany the team on this trip and his presence would have helped the Vermont team a great deal. Lehrer was the only Vermont man to place among the first eight in this meet. The strength of the Union team should not be under rated, however as they were decided a strong team.

This result showed that hard work had to be done. A period of intensive training and study that was prescribed by Coach Post. For two weeks the team worked together every night. They were now ready for their second test which was against Amherst.

This meet was held on the home course of four and one-half miles. Although the first man to finish was from Amherst, Vermont placed enough men to win. Captain White, Woodruff, Lehrer, Daigneault, Rogers, Jenks all placed among the first ten. The final scale was Vermont 24, Amherst 31.

The harriers rose to great heights in the next meet against New York State Teachers College. This meet was also held on the home course. The first six men were all from Vermont, thus winning by a perfect score.

The team was now full of confidence and the next week traveled to Williamstown to encounter Williams. This was a very close race and Vermont was hard pressed. The final score was Vermont 24, Williams 31, the same as the Vermont-Amherst meet.

The final meet of the season was with Middlebury, to determine the State title. It has always been the goal of Vermont to win over Middlebury in this important meet. This feat had only been accomplished twice since 1926 before this present team did it again. Woodruff, running his last race for Vermont, led the team to victory by capturing first place. The score was Vermont 26, Middlebury 29.

The success of the team, however, was not due to any individual stars. It was the fellows working together as a team that won the meets. Each man gave everything he had in order that the team might win. It was this spirit that filled the men with confidence and made them try hard.

Coach Post should be complimented for producing such a well balanced team. Night after night he worked with his men. He worked with each man individually, pointing out his faults and helping him correct them. Coach Post instilled the spirit of teamwork and gave everyone the same degree of attention. In this manner he acquired the confidence of all and was held in great respect by his entire squad. At times he was one of the fellows, but when the time came he was stern and directive. It is this type of coaching that accomplishes things and puts out winning teams. Besides the varsity, he produced one of the best freshman teams ever had at the University.

The inspiring leadership of Captain White calls for much credit. He was a true leader of men always willing to help his fellow teammates.

The team elected co-captains to lead the team in 1935. Lehrer and Daigneault were the ones chosen. These two men are very sincere and diligent workers and should make a great pair of leaders.

Captain White, Woodruff and Rogers have run their last cross-country race. All three men have earned three letters in the sport.

Although Hathaway and Merchant did not win their letters, they helped the team a great deal, and these two men together with the co-captains will be the nucleus of next season's team.

A T O AND SIGMA NU MEN MAKE ALL-COLLEGE TEAM IN TOUCH FOOTBALL

After the recent spectacular championship game in the University of Vermont's intramural touch football tournament, won by Alpha Tau Omega, the Physical Education Department picked what it considered the best players in the University for an honorary all-college team. Three of these men were from Sigma Nu, runners-up, and the rest from Alpha Tau Omega. The other ten fraternities were not represented at all.

The men chosen are: (Sigma Nu) Haug, Shaw, Beattie, (A. T. O.) Hollman I. Hart, R. Hart, and Warden. These two fraternities and department officials had so thoroughly mastered the peculiar technique of touch football that other fraternity teams were outclassed by scores sometimes differing by more than forty points.

It's said and it's true we will admit, but we still think that it reads good: The college president was addressing the student body at the opening convocation of the year. Said he:

Fresh girls at Alaska College are made to wash professors' shirts as part of hazing. This is the farthest north college, by the way, with a north latitude of 64° 51' 21".

The statisticians of a life insurance company have discovered that college men live longer than others.

"I would be dubious about my standing in the south with my name," was his reply.

Mister came the reply just march through Georgia, that's all we ask—just march through Georgia!"

You've read about them, you've listened to them, but you really have never been able to do much about them. The old jokes filed in the library brain of the college professor, we mean.

But, things have been done about them at the University of Wisconsin. Witness: The quips of one famous lecturer were repeated to him so many times that his library was no longer a private one. During one lecture, however, he forgot one of his quips and the class woke up with a bang!

After the class period closed, a committee of students waited upon the offender and presented to him a memorandum which ran somewhat as follows: "We beg to inform you that you have committed a grave error in omitting one of your prize 'jokes' from your lecture this hour. The class is deeply hurt by your slighting them, and requests an apology."

Let's give them a break, and recount one of the jokes that really deserves a place in history: A philosophy instructor at Ohio University yearly recreates his "regular" pun in this manner: After passing out the papers for his final examination he sits back and slyly waits for some nervous co-ed to touch a puff to her nose (puff to you). Then, all haughtiness, he arises, bends an accusing finger, and dryly remarks:

"Young woman, this is not a make-up examination!"

MEDICAL APTITUDE TEST TO BE HELD THIS FRIDAY

Pre-medics Must Take Exam to Enter Grade A Med School

Students planning to enter the University of Vermont Medical College or another grade A medical college have been given notice that the medical aptitude test usually required for entrance to such colleges, and patterned after the Association of American Medical Colleges, will take place in the Science Hall of the University of Vermont at 3 p.m. on December 7.

A fee of one dollar is charged those taking the test which is turned over to the Association, said Prof. Hoxie Neale of the Medical College with whom prospective students are required to register well in advance of the date set for the examination. He declared the results of these tests to be one of the three factors upon which an applicant's entrance into medicine is based.

Visual memory, memory for content, comprehension and reflection ability to follow directions, understanding printed matter, scientific vocabulary, and general knowledge of physics, chemistry, and biology, are included in the examination which takes place about one and a half hours to finish. The papers are corrected by a special committee, designated by the Association.

WILLIAMS COLLEGE HEAD FORBIDS STUDENT AID

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Williamstown, Mass.—Characterizing the current practice of the federal government in giving aid to every needy student as "little less than deplorable," Dr. Tyler Dennett, president of Williams College, has refused FERA aid for students attending the institution which he heads.

Doctor Dennett's chief objection to the FERA was that it would, in his opinion, eventually be harmful to the college by placing it in a position of dependence upon the government and that it would inflate the annual budget of college finances, a budget "that on the whole should be readjusted to existing conditions."

I find it also difficult to square the plan with a very definite impression that there is in this country at the present time a larger proportion of college-trained men than can be absorbed in the channels of the profession. It would probably be a con-

NEW SCHOOL PLANNED AT COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY

$3,000,000 Fund to be Raised to Provide Further Study for Students

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York Graduate school at Columbia University, Teachers College to be known as the Advanced School of Education where executives could be trained to provide leadership in American education, as West Point and Annapolis provide trained leadership for the Army and Navy, was announced by William F. Russell, Dean of Teachers College, Columbia University, in his annual report.

Dean Russell suggests the raising of an endowment fund of $3,000,000 the interest of which would be used in setting up the new school so that graduate students would receive advanced training without cost. Only the best men and women in the country selected through a process of rigid examinations would be admitted. Once the student is chosen, however, he will be guaranteed economic security and given a position for life.

Pointing out that he is patterning his proposals upon the Ecole Normale Superieure, school in Paris which has existed for years, Dean Russell states that he feels confident that a similar school can be set up at Teachers College. As at the Ecole Normale graduate students become as graduate students the best minds that the country can offer.

Dean Russell states further that following the French plan, the Advanced School of Education could be established on the model of the Ecole Normale and the rest of Teachers College, Columbia University. Dean Hollingsworth Wood, the Julliard School and other institutions in the same relationship to the University of Paris as the Ecole Normale.

Thus he explains much of what he recommends in having close by the students a patient and to work a library and other needed laboratories to conduct research would be needed as pointed out. Teachers College could be accessed by rail or short run.

Young graduates in higher positions could be selected on their merit to work with these students, the latter could continue ...

CAST PROMISES GRAND EVENING AS "OUTWARD BOUND" IS PRESENTED

Admission to City Hall Thursday Night Fifty and Seventy-five Cents as Usual

[illegible] Outward [illegible] Everyone knows [illegible] Lasser's and [illegible] [illegible] "Outward Bound" [illegible] [illegible] Hall" and [illegible] [illegible] and $.50.

[illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] every one of the cast [illegible] [illegible] R. S. Wright '35 [illegible] [illegible] a trained class [illegible] at least the cast has [illegible] real drama. There is an unusual plot and an unusual situation concerning the [illegible] of the characters. Instead of having an equal number of men and women there are six men and three women in Outward Bound. Yet it is claimed that there are no minor characters, that the play depends entirely upon characterization and that the cast is well balanced.

The cast is not only well balanced by the efforts of the playwright but also in the matter of their aptitude for the parts and their dramatic ability. It is asserted that the players are as well balanced as in previous years in the productions "To the Ladies," "March Hares," "Torchbearers," and "Rebound."

All of these plays were directed by Mrs. Taggart, who is known to have great dramatic ability and as one who has done a laudable piece of work in previous years. Mary Whitney '36 [illegible] expressed the faith of everyone in Mrs. Taggart's ability when she said, "If the cast can but live up to the standards which Mrs. Taggart has set for us, there can be no doubt that the play will be a success."

"Outward Bound" certainly appears to have qualities that will make for its success. It is reported to have mystery, a dramatic love story, and humor. There is mystery in the fact that six men and three women are sailing into the unknown, the love story has been called the "idealistic love story in literature," and the humor as almost farcical in its extreme at times. It is noticed that every one of the cast insists that it is not a tragedy and it is not a comedy. As one of them said, "Farce has always been tried before, but this is different."

The cast is composed of: Stubby, the bartender, E. B. Kane '36; Ann, a young girl, Mary Whitney '36; Henry, a young man in love with Ann, J. M. Libby '35; Mrs. Cliveden-Banks, a society woman, Eleanor Douglas '37; Rev. Wm. Duke, a poor London preacher, R. Mirdram '35; Mrs. Midget, an English charwoman, Marie Maguire '37; Mr. Lingley, a business man, H. Bickford '37; Rev. Frank Thomson, the inspector, R. S. Wright '35.

This experienced cast will be at City Hall next Thursday evening, December 13, in "Outward Bound," coached by Mrs. C. Ives Taggart.

The $.75 seats are reserved in the best sections of the hall and the $.50 seats are rush seats. Ticket sales started Thursday, December 6, at the University Store, McAuliffe's, and Hayes and Carney.

WHAT ABOUT WAR?

[illegible] asked what the United States can do to keep out of another war, I replied that the best we can hope is that not much chance that [illegible] will get before the next election year. [illegible] War generally gives the opposition party a big chance to oust the administration. During the World War [illegible] a party to oust war. You know how true that proved to be. There have been many wars since that time. Not involving the [illegible] but the important point is that the United States has not been involved. The world still has the war habit.

It seems as a rule it is almost a foregone conclusion that the whole world will be involved. Exceptions could be made in many cases. Where a [illegible] generally confined to two countries the rest of the world will not care. But can you just think for a minute that the United States [illegible] would not be involved in a war between two great countries involving the loss of millions of lives and billions of dollars?

The complete extermination, running up of many of the institutions of the world, many people have nothing to withdrawing from the world as a nation can [illegible] complete isolation at a moment's notice. Self-sufficiency to the largest possible degree for any great nation. And in a war of international dimensions every nation would be compelled to fight.

In the event of war what would you do? If the United States was [illegible] to another country would you bear arms? Or if this country were to invade another would you bear arms? No attempt is being made to make you decide on one side or the other but you should [illegible] it to yourself and to this country to make up your mind now and not [illegible] according to the years to come.

A Student-at-Large

Through the many devious ways that [illegible] it has come to our notice that Professor Lawless' [illegible] are lower than we would [illegible] a normal campaign. Our [illegible] is that we have at least succeeded in arousing the ire if not [illegible] of the faculty so that perhaps [illegible] will read the urge to keep their [illegible] a little more.

The question: Is a wig to be considered a proper overhead expense?

The answer: What do you think, [illegible]?

We never knew that there was a [illegible] in this County on the campus until we learned the other day that Leader [illegible] had put in an order for some new [illegible]. Did I hear a whisper? Right [illegible] little.

Here's one brought to our attention by an Aggie (incidentally, how these Aggies keep their eyes open!). Stand at the corner of Science College as it meets the English office and look up toward Converse Hall. If it's not too early in the morning you will notice a row of trees where the road should be. It seems that there was a bit of a mix-up when the tennis courts and road were built and the former won the right of way but what a peculiar looking set-up we have as a result.

Love is blind: Reily Delfausse and Miss Santakos. Or is it a result of [illegible] that Home Ec cooking?

Now definition of a guest: A person who drinks what his host serves.

Highlights of the International Relations Club meeting were corrected by Messrs. Cook, Isdell, Barber and Scott. It seems that the subject chosen by Jim Cease met with the most approval, but [illegible] subsequent material limited his discussion to a mere blush.

What junior retused to have his picture taken for the Ariel when he learned that the campus activities would not be recorded in his grind?

The wittiest one yet heard by a member of the faculty is his comparison of a professor and coffee. 90 percent of the active ingredient removed from the bean.

[illegible] Wisconsin [illegible] Washington [illegible] War [illegible] Robert M. LaFollette, Jr. was [illegible] the [illegible] Republican [illegible] Progressive. The late Robert M. LaFollette, Sr. was [illegible] the [illegible] political [illegible] Although a Republican the [illegible] LaFollette would always be [illegible] spirit to best suit the [illegible] needs. He was a New Dealer [illegible] Democrat to Roosevelt was [illegible] but the same changes what was [illegible] in the days of "Fighting Bob" [illegible] New part is incorporated into the New Deal. Yet another "first" had arisen to [illegible] the Socialists in the party in power.

As the youngest senator since Henry Clay, the present Bob LaFollette then some thirty years old was elected to the senate in 1925 to finish the unexpired term of his famous father. Thus past November 6 in ended his third success [illegible] but he brought [illegible] Young Bob is the leader of Wisconsin's [illegible] Progressive Party.

In the Hoover debacle of 1932 Senator LaFollette [illegible] the Republicans and went over to Roosevelt. Wisconsin has been the battleground of conservative and progressive Republicans for thirty years and the Republican LaFollettes have championed liberalism. In the recent election Senator LaFollette believed that New Deal policies would not swing far enough left to suit Wisconsin progressives. Democrats with Roosevelt backing had captured their greatest power in years with Democratic Governor A. G. Schmedeman in office and [illegible] and team LaFollette and his insurgent Republicans.

Expecting little help from Democrats and less from Republicans, Bob LaFollette campaigned as a member of the Progressive Party from Wisconsin with his brother Phil running for governor. The new party won on its first test, and the LaFollettes were elected.

Bob LaFollette, only thirty-nine years old, is no fledgling in the Senate. He received a thorough schooling in the mysteries of Washington as his father's secretary, confidant and counselor for six years. Elected to the Senate, he showed himself to be sane, industrious and sincere. He is the Senate's finest parliamentarian.

He lives in the old family residence at Maple Bluff Farm on the outskirts of Madison; his brother Phil has a new home on the other side of town. Darly "Young Bob" climbs the wooden stairs leading to the old fashioned law office where his father worked for twenty five years. He is shrewder more patient and steadier than his brother, has his father's fire on the platform and his [illegible] at raising or lowering his voice [illegible]. Amiable good looking and [illegible] he likes humor with an ironic twist to it. He's a "rotten golfer" and a baseball fan. The long training he went through left little time for the lighter side of a young fellow's life but he can step at excellent tea-trot on any dance floor.

To him and his brother is left the task of maintaining the dynasty of liberalism which their father created. They have taken over the "LaFollette Magazine" established in 1909 merged it with the new party's "Progressive" and will attempt to set the political pace as their father did formerly for the rest of the states.

LIVINGSTON AND REES ADDRESS GRADUATE CLUB

The Graduate Club met Tuesday evening, December 4, at Morrill Hall. The two speakers at this meeting were R. I. Livingston, who spoke on "Studying Bacteriological Spores," and F. M. Rees, whose subject was "The Biochemistry of Diabetes Mellitus." Ice cream was served later in the evening.

The second national Conference of Students in Politics will be held in St. Louis, Mo. from December 27 to 29.

POETRY MUCH MORE DISCIPLINED THAN EVER

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Greencastle, Ind.—"The poetry produced by American college students today is much more disciplined and controlled than it ever was in the past," Mr. Louis Untermeyer famed anthologist and poet told a university student newspaper recently.

"The collegiate age, eighteen to twenty, is the period of life most conducive to writing poetry," he said, with his mouth full of cake. "Then, the emotions are most alive, and the impulse to write and express oneself is almost second nature.

"There is much surprisingly excellent verse emanating from university writers, too, even in the accepted, orthodox forms such as sonnet. Of course the vivacity of youth always seeks expression in sheer radicalism, and termed heretical."

In advising young poets I should urge experiment, experiment, experiment, said the author smiling at his bewilderment. "Try all the forms, especially those you don't like. Improve your taste and technique, above all, serve an apprenticeship in structure crafts-manship, not trying to spin an epic at twenty-one. At that period the philosophy and emotions are not sufficiently fixed to be interpreted."

Thirteen of the twenty highest ranking students in the college of liberal arts and sciences at the University of Missouri are men.

SENIORS AND SOPHS DEFEAT OPPONENTS IN INTERCLASS GAMES

The Seniors moved into second place in the interclass basketball league last night when they downed the Freshmen 20-7. The Seniors, by their win Wednesday seem to be the only team that is likely to challenge the Sophomores who won their third game by defeating the Juniors 31-29, and who consequently hold first place for the first half of the season. If the Sophs can defeat the Seniors the next time they play, they will be going lower than a tie for first place.

The first game, the Frosh vs. Seniors, started with a bang. Both teams were nervous and they wanted to get a safe lead at the start. However, the defense of both the two teams was very good, neither could get any real tangible lead. The half time found the '35 lads on the end of the 11-9 score.

The second half was every bit as interesting as the first, but the Seniors were a little too determined, and the game ended 27-22 in favor of the Seniors. Carver captured high score honors with 10 points, with Rowe and Carver following him with seven points to their credit. Pete Joly also should be given praise for his work, not only did he lead both teams in points scored, but he outplayed the men he guarded to a great extent between them.

CLASSES ORGANIZED IN BOXING AND WRESTLING

Mr. Levine and R. Segur '35 Will Act as Coaches; 30 to 40 Men Reporting

Classes of instruction in boxing and wrestling are being held every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday in the auxiliary gymnasium under the able tutelage of Mr. Levine and Bill Segur.

At present there are from thirty to forty men who report regularly, most of these being sophomores with a sprinkling of juniors and seniors.

The fundamentals, particularly of these noble arts of self defense are stressed, and all work is in preparation for the annual tournament, which will be held sometime in March.

This tournament will consist of regular wrestling bouts between members of these classes, besides exhibitions of wrestling and boxing put on by more expert fighters.

Last year over two hundred spectators witnessed the tournament, which was a great success, and a credit to the physical education department of this college.

CAT'S MEOW

By Sports' Editor

Tomorrow night we witness the opening game of the 1934-35 basketball season. It marks the beginning of a schedule that will not terminate until February 23rd, and we've got plenty of long nights to watch for a while.

Our perennial opponent McGill returns to the home circuit and that means a host of fast team. Montreal always puts on a great show for the home fans.

The general consensus of opinion is that Vermont has a comparatively weak and inexperienced team this year. The followers of that sport point to the fact that new veterans are on hand to form a nucleus around which a team can be built.

On the contrary we are inclined to be slightly optimistic about the outcome. Led by Capt. Whitey Palmer at varsity guard and supported by such performers as Duncan Stone, Lamarche, Snow, Nevin, Eames, Werner and Young we feel that the array at that position is more interesting than in past years.

Moreover we have Coach Sabo at the helm this year and that means still more improvement. If he can develop a team equal to well as he developed a freshman team from a practical nonentity we have to cease for being disillusioned.

By the way Vermont fans are going to be treated to an exhibition of pep and sport tomorrow evening. There will be a new style of play as introduced by Sabo and above all this will witness a Green and Gold team determined to start off the season with a victory.

FRESHMEN BEGIN ON RIFLE MARKSMANSHIP

The week freshmen at the University of Vermont began their annual target practice in the new and much improved rifle range of the University military department. Although required of all freshmen, the embryonic soldiers cheerfully and diligently take up arms each year, hoping to win marksmanship medals.

With indirect lighting and every improvement known for rifle galleries, the Vermont range this year is rated one of the best in New England. Most of the work was done by members of the military staff who have already attracted nation-wide attention with their improvement on the Lewis machine gun.

While learning to fire in the four standard army positions, small bore rifles are used. Thorough instruction is given in the care of the larger army rifles at the same time. The guns are completely dismounted and reassembled many times during the year, until the student can tell at a glance what is wrong with his firing piece and remedy the difficulty in a minimum of time.

A cribbage intramural fraternity contest has been started at the University of New Hampshire (Durham).

Hoop Season Opens With McGill Here Tomorrow

Cats Inaugurate Basketball Season on Home Court Against Canadians—Sabo Taking Over New Coaching Duties This Year—Starting Line-up Still Undecided

Capt. Whitey Palmer '35

WHITEY PALMER LEADS QUINTET THIS YEAR

The men's varsity basketball team opens its first appearance tomorrow night at the gymnasium when they play host to the fleet quintet of McGill University. It will be the first game that Vermont fans will get a line on the Green and Gold team in action.

Coach Sabo has commenced intensive coaching the best of material available to put forth in the court. Every effort will be made to develop a defense that has not been made thoroughly at this writing. However it is safe to say that with Capt. Whitey Palmer will be at the stronghold on one of the guard positions. The other defensive place is not a given but either Dave or Parker will get the berth. Nat Duncan, freshman center, last year will be at center. Duncan has looked well in practice and should give his pivot position in fine style. The forwards will be composed of Ross, Stone, and probably Bernie Quattrucci. The former has been up and in the practice sessions and Quattrucci has produced well at late to warrant a starting berth at the starting whistle.

Aside from the reserve supply of players there is good material. And yet there are rumblings of being put on the bench at any time and Sabo will undoubtedly experiment with various combinations during the first few encounters to determine the best possible playing unit.

In the reserves we have Werther and Davis at guard and Lamarche and Young at forward. Andy Werner, Dave Eames, Ray Carew, Quattrucci and Capron are the other members of the squad who are fighting for a place on the team.

The Canadians, four times intercollegiate champions of Quebec, are meeting McGill's Panthers tonight. The probable lineup as Coach Sabo Wagner sees opposite is composed of Huff and Cunningham, forwards, Schroeder, center and Brooks and Bissett, guards.

FALL TOURNAMENT STARTS THIS WEEK DESPITE SNOW

The long deferred women's tennis tournament will be played off within the next week announced Jerry Haig. The exact date of matches will be published on the bulletin board in the Y room.

The class teams are:

Sophomore: Jane Hammond and Shirley Barlow.

Junior: Harriet Cole and Elizabeth Haig.

Senior: Sue France and Lois Whitcomb.

Will any persons interested in refereeing the tournament get in touch with Elizabeth Haig. The first match will probably be Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Craske is now a resident of Boston. He was born in England. His first interests were in medicine and anatomy. Later drama attracted his attention. He has appeared in the company of the famous Ellen Terry. The plays that he has written have aroused considerable comment. In 1912 he came to America. During the war he was associated with the English Company of the Copley Theatre in Boston.

His chief interest is in the field of sculpture. He excels both as a creative artist and as a lecturer upon artistic and dramatic subjects. He received part of his training under Paul Montford, an English sculptor.

Of Mr. Craske's most famous works are the "Gloucester Fisherman" at Gloucester, Mass., and "The Boy at Late" a graceful and spirited youthful figure. In this work he displays "his classic sense for smooth contours and graceful lines with an artistically restrained suggestion of life and vivacity in the modern pose."

The public is invited to the lecture. There will be no admission charged.

DR. BELL ADDRESSES VESPERS IN CHAPEL; DISCUSSION FOLLOWS

The Rev. R. C. Bell of Providence, R. I., was the speaker at the vesper service last Sunday afternoon. Dr. P. C. Ladd of the College Street Church in Burlington read the Scripture and led in prayer.

Doctor Bell spoke on the two paths by which to find God—the path of the three wise men and that of the mystic.

"Christmas," said Doctor Bell, "is Advent, the time for preparing for the advent of God into our minds and souls. He must enter into our souls for our problems cannot be solved without Him. The reason for the present impotence of Christianity is that very few know anything about it.

"There are two pathways to God: the first the search for light which is the way of the prophets and the magi; the second is the search for the unknown or the mystic way of the shepherds and fishermen." The first is a way of progress and searching; the second is the way of peace, but the end is the same.

WOMEN HOLD INFORMALS THIS WEEK-END AND LAST

Thetas, Kappa Delts, K. E. L.'s to Hold Fall Dances This Saturday Evening

Four of the women's informals were held Saturday evening December 8 while three more are planned for next Saturday, December 15.

The dances were held at the Alpha Chi Omega house the Alpha Xi Club rooms on College Street at the Kappa Club rooms where the Delta Delta Deltas entertained, and at the Pi Beta Phi house. Next week the scenes of the social evenings will be at the Kappa Alpha Theta house, at the Catholic Daughters rooms with the Kappa Deltas and at the K. E. L. club rooms, where the K. E. L.'s are to hold sway.

The Alpha Chi, where Prof. and Mrs. Leon Dean, Coach and Mrs. Sabo and Margaret Kane '35 and David Jerks '34 stood in line was made to reverberate by Eddie Starr's orchestra.

The Alpha Xis, chaperoned by Prof. and Mrs. G. V. Kidder and Prof. and Mrs. L. L. Briggs, enjoyed the rhythm of Quinette's orchestra.

At the Eta Delt dance Jerry Cook '35 Bart Costello '36, Prof. and Mrs. W. H. Behney and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Livingston stood in line and Eddie Starr's orchestra, the other one furnished the music.

The Pi Phis had that ever popular Sid Carsley and Nat Hilliker '36. Sylvia Miner '35, Prof. and Mrs. J. E. Pooler and Mr. and Mrs. F. I. Kimball constituted the line.

And next week

The Kappa Alpha Thetas with Betty Beckvold, and Dr. and Mrs. Paul E. French in line will enjoy the strains of "The Continental," "College Rhythm" and other popular dance tunes by Sid Carsley.

The Kappa Deltas will trip to the strains of Eddie Starr's orchestra and Billie Gove '36 and Phyllis Peacock '35. Prof. and Mrs. George Dykhuizen and Prof. and Mrs. T. H. Ewert will stand in line.

The K. E. L.'s with Sylvia Margulis '37 as chairman will dance to the syncopation of Dupaw's music.

There are over 400 bicycles at Smith College. They have become such a menace that the student government is forming special traffic rules.

CAT'S MEOW

By Sports Editor

The boys got off to a flying start Saturday night by beating the McGill five in a well played game. Each player on the squad contributed to the victory rather than stealing the show indivi...ually.

We were treated to a new type of basketball as introduced by Coach Sabo. It is the western style of fast breaking game where set shots from near the side are substituted for the usual process of stepsladers out in the east.

The new zone defense as used by Sabo appeared to work well at times. The visiting opponents have coached on this...ssibilities and as the season progresses the new style of play will undoubtedly be...ssified out.

Whitey Palmer continued his silent ...ormance of a year ago. Abe Steirn has ...proved greatly over last year, and Harry Goldberg gave great promise of ...coming forward. Duncan at center, ...ppeared experiences, and Parker and ...Wayne looked to us like other games ...

Don't you notice the deception that ...s put on a Sabo play. The play ...ould be used to great advantage as the season progresses and as the boys work ...t more perfectly in practice.

Some of the boys had trouble with ...their adds readings. Ernie Young nearly ...t out the basket on one shot as he ...ambled over the dangling protector.

We want to add our comment about ...e officiating at the game. It was by ...far the best refereeing we have seen ...n the gym for some time and we urge ...e authorities to continue to use such ...ficials.

This week the team takes a three-day ...ip, playing Dartmouth, Boston University, and M. I. T. on successive nights. We predict that they will win two of the three.

WATER COLORS EXHIBITED IN MUSEUM AFTER DEC. 13

Modern water colors and pastels, in reproduction, will be the next exhibit in the Fleming Museum Art Gallery, at the University of Vermont, it was recently announced. They will be loaned by the Museum of Modern Art, and will be on view from December 13 on.

The exhibition is to be brought here by the Burlington Art Association, in co-operation with University and Museum officials, as part of a year-round program which has included one-man shows and group exhibitions by many of the best known artists in the country. A number of well known European artists have been represented, as well.

Cats Win Opener 41-33 Over McGill

TEAM PLAYS THREE GAMES THIS WEEK

Saturday night last a Green and Gold basketball team made its first public appearance on the gymnasium floor and downed a strange McGill five 41 to 33. Fans who witnessed this game saw a number of plays introduced by Vermont's new coach, Leonard Sabo, which were also executed to near perfection by the Green and Gold squad of Catamounts. It was a fine exhibition of basketball, fast passing based on fine understanding and the victory was convincing on the right road toward a successful season.

Just as Capt. Whitey Palmer the local five displayed a good brand of basketball as they played circles around the Canadians losing the first half. The score alone shows that the Vermont team was playing a much finer type of basketball than was the visitors and the way Steirn and Goldberg broke through the McGill defense to put Vermont ahead is the best bet.

The second half was not the success of the initial one. For the first eight minutes it was all McGill. Goaltender Cote netted three in rapid succession and emerged the winner by an eight point margin. Vermont must shoot and the individual performance during the game is not the combination of all players that made the team work. Shots were high and near the evening with a total of 84 points to its credit. Barney Goldberg showed up well in the other forward position and Dick Duncan played a fine steady game at center. Palmer the spark in the defense played his characteristically stellar game throughout. Joe Parker and Lefty Warden, who alternated in the other defensive post, both showed plenty of promise and ability.

The foul shooting of the Green and Gold squad was exceptionally good. They dropped in seven out of seven during the first half, and 15 out of 22 for the entire game.

Duncan got the first tap and the game was on. Vermont lost the ball to the Canadians, who took to the offensive. However they were unable to cope with the zone defense problem. Palmer took the ball, played a shot which rebounded off the backboard, and Abe Steirn leaped at it to sink the first basket of the season. Goldberg converted shortly afterward. Then began a parade of shots at the Canadian's goal with the result that the Vermont score began to swell. Palmer and Steirn collaborated to bring the score up to 25-15 at the half.

The Cats were unable to get started at the beginning of the second fray, and so McGill countered with a series of baskets to bring the score up to 25-24 in eight

CAPT. CRAIG EXHIBITS NEW SPOT-LIGHT FIRING

Capt. Malcolm E. Craig, member of the military staff at the University of Vermont, left today for Camp Dix, N. J., at West Point, where he has been called to demonstrate the improvements he recently effected in the spot light firing of machine guns used at the University range.

Captain Craig's improvements have attracted considerable attention throughout military circles. By means of a steady ray of light the range and on the target without a machine gun flash is made possible. The new system also avoids the grouping of shots at the point of aim, and at a set of targets the entire area is covered.

The Vermont chapter of Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity has been installed at the Albany Law School in [illegible]

SPERRY CHOSEN AS LAST UNIVERSITY LECTURER

Series of Seven Lectures to be Concluded by Dean of Harvard Divinity School

Dr. Willard L. Sperry, Dean of Harvard Divinity School has been secured for the final lecture in the current series of University lectures at the University of Vermont. He will come to Burlington April 10 and will speak upon The Outlook for Liberalism with Particular Reference to Religious Ideas.

With the booking of Dean Sperry the Committee on University Lectures has completed arrangements for the 1934-35 program.

An extra lecture recently arranged for January 3 will discuss China in the Remaking with reference to the Eastern Trends 1911-1934 in the phases of politics, social life, education and religion. The lecturer is a brilliant young Chinese, Mr. T. Z. Koo, who will spend three days on the campus conferring with students under the auspices of the University Christian Association.

Other lecturers which have previously been announced include: Ludwig Lewisohn, who will discuss The Crisis of the Novel, on March 19, and Prof. S. A. Mitchell, Director of the Morrison Observatory, University of Virginia, who will give an illustrated lecture on Astronomy, at a date early in March to be soon determined.

PROF. MOODY ANNOUNCES PERFECTION OF TEST

Prof. Paul A. Moody of the University of Vermont will present a paper on the Application of the Dale Anaphylactin Test to Study of Zoological Specimens before the American Society of Zoologists and Section F of the American Association for the Advancement of Science meeting in Pittsburgh, Pa. December 27 to 29. The Dale anaphylactin test is a blood test. It has been rather widely employed by bacteriologists and immunologists but to the knowledge of Professor Moody has never before been used in the study of animal relationships. It has required some modification and perfecting to adapt it to this new use.

Blood tests of the type employed in medico-legal cases have been used in the study of the relationships of different kinds of animals to each other, but these tests have not proven very effective in distinguishing between animals which are very closely related. In consequence the Dale anaphylactin test is advanced by Professor Moody to supplement the present tests when dealing with small differences in relationship. He is at present using it to study the relationships of different species of the white footed field mice.

WINTER BRINGS ONRUSH OF INDOOR ATHLETICS

With winter settled down relentlessly on the University of Vermont campus, indoor athletics have taken a decided rise on life among students. Sponsored by the physical education department, tournaments are being planned, many to last throughout the winter months. The latest addition to an already long list is the handball tournament, for which candidates have been signing up during the past week.

Mats have been taken from their wall racks in preparation for wrestling and boxing classes, instruction in tumbling and recreational gym has begun and the badminton courts are spoken for days in advance. Both men and women students are benefited by the extensive program, and more inclusive in years, which has been arranged by the department for the winter semester.

Ramsay Macdonald, speaking on the Friday before Armistice Day, said: "Great Britain has proved to her own satisfaction that disarmament by example, in the present state of mind in the world, is not an effective way to reduce arms or to increase international confidence and to strengthen peace. We have never overlooked what this example has meant for us in diminished power of protection in some circles it might even tempt an aggressor to attack."

The Hearst-owned New York American quick to see the opening snared Macdonald's words and penned them with an editorial: "When Ramsay Macdonald pleads with Englishmen for adequate armaments, the lesson to America is plain. Our policies for national security on a navy second to none, an army of modernized strength, and an invincible air force—must be carried through."

Commander James E. Van Zandt of the Veterans of Foreign Wars stated in Kansas City: "As a final safeguard against participation in future wars by the United States we call upon the Federal Government to enact legislation that will conscript capital and industry, in time of war, on an equal power. The flag waver guard patriots who s war time booms will r for war when they d must make equal sacr who shoulders a gun."

Senator Pope, speak raised a question: "I w of these people are aw that if Japan makes air corps will be flying the very latest Amer patent. I seriously d any nation on earth wa war upon us and not American manufacture."

U. V. M. WOMEN'S RIFLE TEAM IN MEET WITH RUSSIAN WOMEN'S TEAM

Prone Position Match Scores to be Compared With Those of Leningrad, Russia

Arrangements have been completed for a postal match between members of the University of Vermont women's rifle team and the Women's Rifle Club of Leningrad, Russia, it was announced today from the office of the University Military Department. Helen A. Miller of Danvers, Mass., is manager of the team this year.

Conditions of the match are to include the firing of ten rounds on National Rifle Association targets by each of ten team members, the high five shooters to be totalled into the team score. All firing is to be from the prone position. Of all postal matches this will be one of the most interesting in the details of its administration, say officials in charge.

When the respective targets have been fired and scored, they will be exchanged. Mail takes approximately two weeks to reach Russia. Although the head of the Osoaviachim Shooting Committee in Moscow through whom correspondence must be handled reads and writes English well it will be necessary to address the envelopes in both English and Russian, for the benefit of the Russian postal clerks. A. H. Jenkins of Washington will properly address the correspondence using the Vermont team, it was stated.

A sort of subplot is provided by Ann and Henry, the two "half wits" (suicides by past who realize the situation from the beginning though their police is to restrain from any frank speaking with anyone lest they should be separated from each other. Their shadowy nature in this adventure, effectively portrayed, provides a contrast to the unreal reality of the others. Of the two, Henry is even more elusive than Ann, and it is his return to life when his faithful dog breaks the window into the gas-filled room which provides the final surprise, which after all does not take us quite unawares since the author has carefully prepared us for it. After a lingering cry of desolation from Ann, Henry returns to the ship and snatches her back with him to earth and a more courageous handling of their difficult situation.

As for the others each has already got what he deserves the deserted chorus-woman for adopted son to cherish the worthless wastrel, a rather elusive the faithless wife an endless serving of her neglected husband the ardent young clergyman elsewhere to carry on his job. We can't say which of the passing by business almost envy the position by business must who die, succumb to disease. It is the cool, sensible, but unwanted girl, a fit helpmeet who will be left alone on the ship to build anew. It will also be for her to return to port for her four thousand and [illegible] days.

Of Scrubby it was pleasant to speak. Lost upon the scene as well as lost he is who really holds the plot together and he was to the writer the character

W. E. Cass '35 Chosen Rhodes Candidate

J. A. Hayford of Amherst Second Vermont Student Selected by State Committee

W. E. Cass '35 of Burlington and J. A. Hayford of Montpelier were chosen Vermont State candidates for Rhodes scholarships at a meeting of the state committee Monday, announced Prof. George V. Kidder of the University of Vermont, chairman of the committee.

Cass a senior at the University, stands high in scholastic work, and is taking special honors in chemistry. Outstanding in extra curricula activities, Cass has served as treasurer and president of his class and on the faculty-student council. He was editor of the Ariel, a year ago, and has served on the staff of Winnipeg, the University literary magazine. Cass has also played on various athletic teams, earning his numerals in cross-country and also letter in track. He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, senior honorary society, and of Delta Psi.

A student at Amherst College, Hayford has distinguished himself in scholastic fields, specializing in English and has special honors in that department. Already known for his prose and poetry in college literary circles Hayford has also served as organist in the chapel, and has written a carol recently sung by the Amherst choir.

The National Student Federation of America adjourned its tenth annual congress Tuesday after passing a resolution to amend Section 40 of the National Defense Act so that military drill in colleges and universities be made optional rather than compulsory."

The congress also resolved to support conscientious objectors who are conscientious objectors to compulsory military drill and as such cannot receive a college degree.

The Student Federation elected Thomas E. Neblett, a graduate student at Louisiana State University, as its president for the coming year, and selected Kansas University, in Kansas City, as the scene of the eleventh congress next January. Neblett, a brother to John Neblett one of four journalism students arrested at Louisiana State University after a controversy with U. S. Senator Huey Long, defeated Charles Wise of the University of West Virginia, 42 to 39, for the presidency. Margaret Taylor of the Women's College, University of Arizona was re-elected vice-president, and Wesley D. Osborne of Baltic, Conn., a senior in Boston University College of Liberal Arts, was named treasurer.

Immediately after his election, Neblett, a former track star at Milsaps College, Jackson, Miss., announced that surveys would be made on individual campuses to determine student opinion on current problems. He declared the federation would seek to help students in problems of good citizenship and to stimulate interest in national affairs.

Commenting on the military drill resolutions relative to a Supreme Court decision holding compulsory drill in a recent instance, the congress voted that the decision was based on irrelevant and immaterial questions and on draft cases during wartime while the cases under discussion were purely peace time cases.

The congress also resolved that the "work" character clause of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration should be abolished by local administrations to discriminate against people who express political philosophies and take part in political activities." Another resolution declared that the FERA funds have not been administered on the college campus without certain evils and abuses and that the federation ask the officials of the administration of these funds to cooperate more closely with students in the selection of projects. Extension of the FERA for an additional year was endorsed but the students asked that greater emphasis be placed on educational projects and less attention be given to mere manual labor.

The federation, in a telegram to President Roosevelt, thanked him for the con-

SPEAKER OF WORLD-WIDE RELIGIOUS SIGNIFICANCE

HIGHLY RECOMMENDED BY LOCAL MINISTERS

Herewith is given information concerning exactly who Dr. T. Z. Koo of China and the world, is, and what has been said of him by members of his various audiences. There is some repeating, the material being presented again for those who have not before read it.

"Dr. T. Z. Koo is known to thousands of Americans as one of the ablest and most interesting Orientals who have come to this country," declared a statement released by his American representatives for his short 1935 American schedule.

A graduate of St. John's University, Shanghai, China, he was for nine years an official in the Administration Department of the Chinese Railway Service before joining the Staff of the National Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association of China, with special responsibilities toward the Colleges and Universities, to which later was added the cultivation of better international relations.

"I am delighted to know that Doctor Koo is coming to U. V. M.—he is a world famous figure," declared Rev. Charles S. Jones of the First Church of Burlington. "Every student will want to hear him. It is impossible to overemphasize the importance of Doctor Koo's visit."

Dr. Percy Ladd of the College Street Church, who heard Doctor Koo in Denver when he spoke there under municipal auspices, seconds this statement by saying: "It has been my privilege to hear Doctor Koo in four addresses, and they have been perhaps the most memorable experiences of the kind in my life. He is one of the leading students of world problems today and one of the principal advocates of the Cross."

The more recent years have been spent, first as associate general secretary of the China National Committee, latterly and after his resignation from this position he has been giving most of his time to work among students both in China and in cooperation with the World's Student Christian Federation and in visiting countries as widely separated as India, Australasia, Europe, and for the eighth time North America.

In 1925 he was a member of the Second Opium Conference called in Switzerland by the League of Nations, being one of the three chosen to represent the Chinese people as a whole. One newspaper reported "In Doctor Koo's speech the voice of the prophet broke in where

Specialist in Sex-social Hygiene Will Speak to Groups and Consult With Individuals January 6, 7 and 8

Dr. Valerie Parker, specialist in sex-social hygiene, will be on the Vermont campus Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, January 6, 7 and 8.

Doctor Parker will speak to several small groups and will hold personal conferences with any women who so desire.

"All women are earnestly advised to take advantage of the opportunity to hear and to consult with Doctor Parker," says Miss Marian Patterson, dean of women.

The program of conferences is as follows:

Sunday, January 6—9.00 to 10.00 p.m., Pi Phi House. Upperclass girls of Redstone campus.

Monday, January 7—9.30 a.m. to 12.00 m. Individual conferences at Miss Cummings' residence, 153 S. Prospect Street. 3.00 to 4.00 p.m., freshmen at museum. 4.15 to 5.00 p.m., upperclass town girls at Grassmount.

Tuesday, January 8—9.30 a.m. to 12.00 m. Individual conferences at Miss Cummings' residence, 153 S. Prospect Street. 3.00 to 4.00 p.m., freshmen at museum. 6.00 p.m., Grassmount dinner. 7.00 to 8.00 p.m., Grassmount. Upperclass girls of Grassmount campus.

Special arrangements can be made for individuals or small groups outside of this program.

TAU EPSILON PHI AWARDED TROPHY

The Scholarship Committee of the National Interfraternity Conference has announced that the Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity was awarded the scholarship trophy for 1933 as having been the leading national fraternity in the United States, comprising those having thirty-five or more chapters. Kappa the chapter at the University of Vermont aided considerably toward making possible the winning of the award.

The Tau Epsilon Phi National Convention will be held at the Commodore Hotel, New York City, New York, from December 28 to January 1, 1935. Several of the Kappa chapter members will attend.

The Men's Glee Club will hold a rehearsal tonight, Friday, January 4, at 6.45 at the Music Building. Membership is still incomplete in the club for the trip to Portland and tryouts are still welcomed.

HAS JUST LEFT SCENE OF EASTERN CONFLICTS

Therefore Talks Will Be of Particular Current Interest—Subjects Described in Detail

INFORMAL DISCUSSIONS PART OF CONFERENCE

It should be mentioned here that the topics given in this issue for future talks may possibly be changed before the particular event occurs, according to the student committee in charge of Doctor Koo's program, depending upon the desires of previous audiences and upon the situation which he finds here. The subjects herein discussed are probable but not final as this paper goes to press.

Particularly is this true in regard to the discussions on Saturday and Sunday afternoons which form part of the conference on what the thinking student should be thinking about and knowing of in order to justify the adjective "thinking." The theme is arbitrarily stated elsewhere as "Responsibility of the Thinking Student to Himself and His World," but the main heading for discussion consideration will be decided with Doctor Koo at the beginning of the first discussion. That is, discussion will center around whatever subjects the majority is most interested in. And there will be plenty of opportunity for questioning Doctor Koo on any of the previous stands or statements considered by him in his talks.

The entire student body is invited to the convocation tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock when Doctor Koo's twenty-minute talk will be on developing "World-Mindedness." There are problems which involve the Philippines, the Manchurian situation, Japanese militarism, and the open door policy, all of which are knotty tangles in the present international web. Stress cannot be too heavily laid upon the fitness of Doctor Koo to speak on any such subject according to all reports of him. He knows his country well, so well that he was once offered a Cabinet position, and his international experience gives him a breadness of perspective which should make his remarks truly significant.

In selecting the subject for the International banquet tomorrow night, the student committee desired to find one which would give opportunity for the speaker to bring in his fund of international knowledge and at the same time be one to which a thoroughly mixed audience could listen with enjoyment. "Developing World-mindedness" was the result. In this talk Doctor Koo will bring in the significance

ROCK POINT NEEDY GIRLS GIVEN CHRISTMAS PARTY

University Y. W. C. A. Entertains Enthusiastic Crowd at the Athena Club as Pre-Christmas Celebration

The Rock Point Christmas party December 20, was made a reality Thursday, at 6.00, when the enthusiastic girls from Rock Point were entertained by the University of Vermont girls at the Athena Club rooms on Pearl Street. A supper planned and prepared by Winifred Perry '35 and Madeline Amsbaugh '35 was served most attractively. The rooms were decorated appropriately to the Christmas season, the large Christmas tree occupying the center of attraction. The decorations, favors, and entertainment were planned by Jerry Haig '36, Florence Brown '36, Naomi Pickett '38, and Betsy Gallup '37. After supper games receiving enthusiastic participation were played. The evening ended with an hour of social dancing.

The Y. W. C. A. Council is grateful to all who lent their support in making this party a success. Particularly do they wish to thank Miss Terrill for her constructive assistance.

FOUR-DAY PROGRAM TO INCLUDE TALKS, BANQUET

Conference of U. V. M. and Guest Students Feature of Visit January 3-6

TALKS IN GYM TOMORROW AT COLLEGE CONVOCATION

Straight from one of the hottest of the world's present danger spots comes Dr. T. Z. Koo famous Chinese international who is now giving a series of programs here for four days beginning yesterday. This authority on China has also been heard all over the world as a vital religious speaker whose message has been brought to a score of conferences in different countries.

Doctor Koo was secured for the University several months ago by the Vermont Christian Association and his programs are conducted under the combined sponsorship of the University, the Y. W. C. A. and the Christian Association.

His first talk was given last night as a University lecture on "China in the Remaking" held in the Gymnasium instead of the Museum for the sake of the greater seating capacity.

This morning he speaks to a class in history and political science and this afternoon he is due at a faculty tea. All talks will be given in costume. The tea is being held at Redstone for all members of the University faculty from 4.00 to 5.30, with Doctor Koo talking at 4.45. A student committee is in charge.

Tomorrow morning, Saturday he will again be speaking to classes and at 10 o'clock he will be the speaker at the first convocation ever held at this University. Classes have been set ahead half an hour following the usual Wednesday schedule and at the designated hour Doctor Koo will talk in the gymnasium on "Developing World Mindedness." The University Council has made this change in the regular college schedule to give students a chance to hear Doctor Koo when nothing else is going on on the hill. This plan has been used at other colleges with great success, 1000 having heard him at a convocation of the University of Washington.

Tomorrow afternoon the guest students from Middlebury, McGill and Castleton Normal School arrive and with their coming the week-end conference which forms the end of Doctor Koo's visit to the University begins. Its theme, stated tentatively as "Responsibility of the Thinking Student to Himself and His World," may be changed as discussion develops. The first discussion of the conference is scheduled for 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Alpha Chi House. At this discussion, and the one on Sunday afternoon, students will have a chance to question Doctor Koo on the positions he has taken in his previous talks, and to participate in the forum which he will conduct.

An international banquet will be held tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock at the local Y. M. C. A. as the second conference event. Doctor Koo is the guest of honor and will speak on "Developing World-mindedness" to a mixed audience composed of faculty, students and a few invited townspeople and extra Burlington guests. Due to the capacity of the dining hall the number of tickets available to students and faculty not especially invited is limited to about 175 students and fifty faculty tickets. The price is fifty-five cents and tickets are obtainable at the Book Store or from cabinet members.

The Advisory Board of the Vermont Christian Association, the two student Christian Association cabinets, and the guest students form the nucleus of the banquet audience, while a few townspeople and several ministers from nearby towns are expected. Many students of the University representing various countries will be present. There will be opportunity to meet Doctor Koo informally after the conclusion of the banquet which will occur not later than 7.30 in order to allow students to attend the basketball game that same evening.

On Sunday morning a special conference service is being held at the First Church, with Doctor Koo as guest minister speaking on "Vital Religion." A special section is reserved for students in the center of the main floor, seating about 300, and the public has been

SOPHOMORES WIN IN ANNUAL CLASS PLAYS

Capture Dean Cup for Third Consecutive Year in Stage Competition of U. V. M. Women

The sophomore play, by unanimous decision of the judges, won the Dean Cup Tuesday, December 18 at the Fleming Museum in the class dramatic competition of University women.

The play "Wanted—Money," was extremely well cast and entertaining. The other two plays given were "Seven to One" by the freshmen and "Just Women" by the juniors.

The winning play had an entertaining plot. It concerned three girls each with a profession and putting herself through college. The business girl was well interpreted by Ruth Quinn. She had a confident manner on the stage and entered into her part with exactness. Pauline Bristol, adept at portraying any sort of character, took the part of a girl much in love, who was taking Spanish in college. Her sister played by Margaret Bean, was taking singing lessons, and practicing all the time. This was a rather difficult rôle but she put it across with good interpretation.

COLLEGES ARE JUDGED BY 3 LEADING QUALITIES SAYS DR. HAMILTON HOLT

Quality of Teacher, Quality of Student and Quality of School Classed as Criteria

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Memphis, Tenn.—"Colleges may be judged by three things, the quality of [illegible] those who [illegible] the quality of those who [illegible] and the quality of the [illegible] in an educational institution.

"You will find two types of professors now teaching in our colleges and universities. The one teaches subjects, the other teaches students. The one is a research man, the other a beloved teacher.

[illegible] college work, provided only that he [illegible] another man who has not gone through a like process.

"Under the recitation system it is assumed that a student spends two hours in the preparation for a lesson and then [illegible] for an hour. However, [illegible] of the typical study habits [illegible] college students show that [illegible] of the students [illegible] while the [illegible] so [illegible] to the [illegible]

"In other words," he concluded, "we [illegible] the sources of accumulated knowledge and wisdom which have come to us through the ages and we place [illegible] in the guise of professors whom we have chosen because of their aptitude for and delight in working constructively and creatively with young people."

Tulane University college of arts and sciences has dropped the honor system after it has been in force for fifty years.

Frank Lloyd Wright, famed originator of the Wright school of architecture, will [illegible] Taliesin, school community [illegible] Arizona, for three months [illegible] winter so that they may study nature.

The teachers college of Columbia University, New York City, now offers a new degree, Doctor of Education.

While the Roosevelt administration is doing its best to boost prices in general, the price of going to college in America is sliding down the scale. Tuition charges have dropped on an average of $62 in [illegible] the U. S. Office of Education reveals.

Specialists in the office show that the [illegible] student at liberal arts colleges spends from $540 to $630 a year, [illegible] state universities soaking up less of the money than the private schools. Medicine cost is incurred in denominational schools. The most expensive man's college in the country is the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where the [illegible] is $1,080.

One hundred thousand "federal" students are enrolled in the nation, getting from $15 to $20 a month from the government. But President Dennet of Wilson College doesn't think so much of the idea—in fact he claims it just helps the unfit to survive.

Mr. Dennet, however, immediately [illegible] his statement found most [illegible] college papers disagreeing [illegible]

LATIN AND GREEK NOT CONSIDERED OBSOLETE AT MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Middlebury, Vt.—They may be the dead languages in most colleges and universities but it is not scholastically dead at the Middlebury College campus, according to Prof. Raymond H. White, head of the Latin department here.

"As it now is in all colleges, there is a much smaller number electing Latin and Greek now than there were ten years ago, but those who are taking them are on the whole the better students, he says.

"What educators need to remember is that in struggle the measure of the classics will generally spell the same fate for the modern languages," Professor White says, "and ultimately for the progress already made in our country in the cultivation of the arts.

"Our colleges need to teach not fewer languages but more. Many a problem we are trying to solve by endless discussion of studies and committees would be nearer solution if we had the patience to travel the language road.

"The popularity of the sciences is tending to dwindle interest in the arts. The classical teacher, from the nature and content of his subject, is an important ally of those interested in the arts.

"To that extent he is a champion of the aims of the college to see that a balance is kept between those two factors of the modern curriculum, each of which is as vital as the other.

Middlebury's new plan for instruction in the classics is based on the fact that the present and future grow out of the past so inevitably that he who knows only the present does not really know that.

"The ancient languages are so taught that the student will feel that they are really languages and each the sanctum sanctorum of the temper and character of the people that create it, and, secondly, so that the student may acquire a knowledge of the ancient world and thus better understand his own.

"Only through familiarity with the language of a people does one come truly to know that people."

FOREIGN STUDENTS EXPRESS OPINIONS ON NEW ENGLAND WINTERS

Our foreign students on our campus think that we have had more than a sample of a real New England winter.

Peggy Neville who comes from near the canal zone says "I am sure I never saw a colder time than about 85 degrees there all the year around. New England in winter is rather different but I like it. The snow is grand. I can't get enough of it. Two times at a time and one round the mill." When asked about clothes Peggy said, "I never wore a coat or rubbers before or had to buy a heavy one."

Basil Wedderburn another freshman who used to live in France said emphatically "I don't like this. It is too cold. I have a cold from it now."

Else Liesel Bergewardt our German exchange student makes it two to one. She says she likes it here cold though it may be. "We have snow in Germany" she said "not so much as here but some and it is cold there, too, but not like this I love this."

MANY FACULTY MEMBERS TRAVEL TO MEETINGS OF NATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS

Many faculty members took advantage of our Christmas recess to partake of a little unrestricted feasting on subjects in their chosen fields. Many professors and instructors attended meetings of national educational organizations while students were at home forgetting the classroom.

Prof. Frederick Tupper, head of the English department attended the meeting of the American Language Association at Swarthmore. Prof. Paul Moody of the zoology department attended the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Pittsburgh, where he read a research paper. Prof. George Dickinson of the philosophy department read a paper at the American Philosophical Association meeting in New York.

Profs. A. B. Merrick and E. D. Carpenter were present at the meeting of the Modern Language Association in Philadelphia. Prof. Daniel Carroll attended the meeting of the American Political Science Association in Chicago and Prof. George Great attended the American Economics Association meeting in the same city.

Three members of the history department, Messrs. Evans, Briggs and Putnam, traveled to Washington for the meetings of the American Historical Association. Profs. Lester Prindle and Samuel Bassett attended the American Philosophical Association meeting in Toronto, where Professor Bassett read a paper. Prof. R. M. Holmes presented a paper at the annual meeting of the American Physical Society at Pittsburgh.

INGALLS SCHOLARSHIP FUND IS NOW THREE TIMES ORIGINAL SIZE

The Ingalls Scholarship Fund at the University of Vermont has grown to nearly three times its original size since its inception in June, according to Miss Martha B. Leighton, Assistant State 4-H Club Leader.

The scholarship was established as a feature of 4-H Club week at the University last June, in honor of F. H. Ingalls, a graduate of the University in the class of '96, and for twenty years head of the boys' and girls' Club work in the State. Friends and associates started the fund at $50, which will be increased until the income is sufficient to provide a scholarship each year at the discretion of Mr. Ingalls to some worthy 4-H Club member.

Four-H Clubs of the State have taken up the matter, and the rapid growth of the fund is due largely to their efforts and contributions.

There is a fine exhibition of shoes at the museum. It represents a collection from all over the world, Hawaii, Philippines, Mexico, China, Norway, Holland and Japan being represented. There are also representations from American Indians and the Cliff Dwellers of Colorado.

A special exhibition of jewelry, most of them from the Cannon collection is on display. Among the different articles are finger rings, necklaces and jewelry of the dancing girls. This jewelry is of cast silver and is from the Orient and a few pieces from Egypt. The museum plans to continue this exhibition by adding jewelry from all countries.

The boa-constrictor on exhibition at the museum has been removed to the zoological department. During the past week the snake has been forced feed twice. It has taken two ounces of hamburg steak through a glass tube down its throat. This method of forced feeding is often necessary with snakes in captivity, because of their desire to fast for sometimes three or four months.

The Fleming Museum series of broadcasts on Mondays at 6.45 p.m. has included the following talks during the month of December. Dec. 3, President Bailey spoke on Our University—A Human Corporation. Dec. 10, H. B. Eldred, assistant director, Fleming Museum, talked on Cliff Dwellers. Dec. 17, Professor Lindley of the geology department gave an address on The Grand Canyon. Dec. 24, students from Miss Parker's Children's Literature Class told stories to the children. This is in connection with the regular work of this department.

The ox bear, fifteen years ago considered to be fit for consumption by horses and cattle, has today been so intensively developed that Prof. G. L. Schuster, of the University of Delaware (Newark) believes that it will eventually replace 15 to 20 percent of the wheat consumed in the world.

"LITTLE SCORPIE" DIES; BOA AND TARANTULA MOURN DEPARTURE

"Banana Stalk Trio" Now But Two—Beef Cubes Save Baby Constrictor as Weather Becomes Colder

Little scorpie, late of the University of Vermont zoo, has gone. Remaining to mourn his loss are the zoologists, a baby boa-constrictor and a tarantula. Little scorpie was born somewhere in South America, parents unknown, and came to this country on a banana stalk at an indeterminate age. Here he joined the baby boa and the tarantula at the University of Vermont and the three became known in entertainment circles as the banana-stalk trio.

Where there were three, now there are only two. The scorpion has succumbed to the rigors of a Vermont winter, despite efforts of the University zoologists to make a warm house for him. All three smuggled themselves into Burlington via a banana stem weeks ago and have since been inspected by curious hundreds and studied from a scientific point of view by the college zoologists.

Both the snake and the tarantula, which showed signs of weakening a week ago, have taken on new signs of life. Forced feeding of raw beefsteak cubes has helped the baby boa. Its keeper, disturbed over its failure to eat in captivity, adopted drastic measures and with the aid of a hypodermic needle and tube apparatus, the beef tubes were forced down the throat of the snake, and rammed home.

This is in imitation, perhaps, of the method used at the New York zoo upon a boa that will not eat. A large number of men hold the snake out straight, and skinned rabbits are packed into him with a long pole. When he is filled from end to end with raw rabbit, he lies dormant for two or three months, and is then well again.

NEW WINNOWINGS EDITOR

Winnowings from the Mill announces the appointment to the editorial board of Lois Whitcomb '35, who will serve as poetry editor for the remainder of the present year. Miss Whitcomb is a member of Bluestockings, the college literary society for women, and has contributed a number of poems to Winnowings, since her first year in college.

COLLEGES BECOMING LAX COMPARED WITH STRICT RULINGS AT OLD IOWA

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Cedar Falls, Ia.—If you had been a student here fifty years ago at the Iowa State Normal School, now Teachers College, you wouldn't have done some of the things you are doing now as an undergraduate.

You couldn't, for example have left your room at night, or any other "unreasonable hour." Neither could you have carried firearms.

Chaperones watched over the campus most of the time and no school function was held without their presence. The mingling of the sexes was not permitted, except in the classroom or at specified hours. It was expected that under no conditions should a lady student permit a gentleman to call upon her in her lodging house.

Every Sunday morning was spent in Gilchrist chapel carefully observing the exercises, or wishing you were . . .?

From 7 to 10 p.m., the hours assigned for study, you would have been in your own room studying zealously, maintaining quiet and order and working independently. During your vacant hours you were to be in the library for study.

In passing to and from classes you would have to keep to the right in a single file and refrain from conversation. Loitering and loud talking in the halls were forbidden at all hours. You would have been expected to mark plainly your coats, hats, caps, books, umbrella, and overshoes for identification if this should become necessary.

You would have been, unless excused by the head of the English department, required to do monthly rhetorical work designated by the faculty. Those who were members of literary societies and doing equivalent work therein, were freed from the obligation.

There was no student visitation of classes allowed unless permission was granted by the teacher in charge.

Times change—in some ways, for today at Teachers College there are still a few rules that students must observe.

Women students are asked to make it a point of honor not to motor unchaperoned to such places as may bring misunderstanding to the student and injury to the college. Special permission is necessary for off-campus dances.

Co-eds must also notify the housemother before going to the river for boating or other such pastime, unless with a class or organization.

On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings women students may attend a college function without a signed permission and may be accompanied by their—er— men friends.

And so—you see—you can be happy that you were not born fifty years too ——

Ten years ago a football player's outfit weighed twenty-two pounds. Today it averages eight and a half pounds.

DEPUTATIONS ATTRACT MORE INTEREST AS TEAMS CONTINUE USUAL WORK

The Vermont Christian Association at the University of Vermont has maintained a busy deputation program during the first semester of the present college year. Religious deputation teams from the University, consisting of from two to, eight students, visited eight different towns.

Among the towns visited were Richford, Vergennes, St. Albans, Craftsbury, Shoreham, Orleans, Bakersfield and St Johnsbury. In addition, other smaller teams were sent to lend discussions, furnish music and fill in where needed in the smaller churches of the state.

Twenty-seven different students participated in the trips during the first semester, and more are signed up for the second semester. Many good reports are received of the work done by these men and women in the communities which they visit, where they lead church services and conduct entertainments for the young people. M. D. Powers, graduate secretary of Christian Association work at the University, states that an increasing number of underclassmen are becoming interested in the deputation work.

Among the communities which have already requested visits during the second semester are Vergennes, Brandon, Morrisville, Marshfield, Westford, Groton, Richmond, East Berkshire and Milton.

The students who make up the deputation teams travel on their mission in all sorts of weather in all sorts of conveyances and conduct their programs under all sorts of conditions.

CAPT. COLBY PUBLISHES R. O. T. C. DEFENSE ARTICLE

The Georgetown Law Journal, in a recent issue, had as its leading article a defense of military training in land-grant colleges and universities, from the pen of Capt. Elbridge Colby, member of the Military Department faculty, at the University of Vermont.

Captain Colby, author of many articles and not a few books on military subjects, presented a thorough history of the advent of military training in colleges and universities, and a résumé of attempts to arouse faculty members, the general public, and students themselves, against compulsory military training, concluding with the history of test cases coming up in state and federal courts. The subject matter was presented from a legal point of view. Since the appearance of the article the Supreme Court of the United States has sustained the author's opinion in the recent Hamilton v. Regents of University of California case.

VERMONT GIRLS PROVIDE GIFTS FOR NEEDY KIDS

Girls at the University of Vermont are still doing things in a Christmas way for the needy children of their college city. The idea of doing something for someone else started with a party given by one of the sorority groups for sixteen youngsters who might not otherwise have had the opportunity of a happy Christmas. Other groups caught the spirit and as a final fling, amid the hurry of home-going preparations and Christmas college activities, the co-eds at Grassmount, Slade, Robinson and Redstone found time to think of certain wards of the Vermont Children's Aid Society. Boxes from each dormitory were received at the office and sent on their way to help in the celebration of the day of days. Each dormitory took one or two children, ages, sizes and desires being furnished by the Society. The gifts, gay with lovely bright wrappings, were chosen apparently with an intimate knowledge of what youngsters like.

The foreign students in our midst think that we have had more than a sample of a real New England winter.

Peggy Neville who comes from near the equator says of the Canal Zone, "we never have it colder than about 85 degrees there all the year around. New England in winter is rather different. But I like it. The snow's grand. I could go tobogganing for hours at a time and not mind the cold." When asked about clothes, Peggy said, "I never wore winter clothes before or had to buy a heavy coat."

Paul Wiedeman, another freshman, who used to live in France said succinctly "I don't like this. It is too cold. I have a cold from it now."

But Liesel Borgwardt, our German exchange student makes it two to one. She says she likes it here, cold though it may be. "We have snow in Germany," she said, "not so much as here, but some, and it is cold there, too, but not like this. I love this."

MANY FACULTY MEMBERS TRAVEL TO MEETINGS OF NATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS

Many faculty members took advantage of the Christmas recess to partake of a little intensified feasting on subjects in their chosen fields. Many professors and instructors attended meetings of national educational organizations, while students were at home forgetting the classroom.

Prof. Frederick Tupper, head of the English department, attended the meeting of the American Language Association at Swarthmore. Prof. Paul Moody of the zoology department attended the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, in Pittsburgh, where he read a research paper. Prof. George Dykhuizen of the philosophy department read a paper at the American Philosophical Association meeting in New York.

Profs. A. B. Myrick and F. D. Carpenter were present at the meeting of the Modern Language Association in Philadelphia. Prof. Daniel Carroll attended the meeting of the American Political Science Association in Chicago and Prof. George Groat attended the American Economics Association meeting in the same city.

Three members of the history department, Messrs. Evans, Briggs and Putnam, traveled to Washington for the meeting of the American Historical Association. Profs. Lester Prindle and Samuel Bassett attended the American Philosophical Association meeting in Toronto, where Professor Bassett read a paper. Prof. R. M. Holmes presented a paper at the annual meeting of the American Physical Society at Pittsburgh.

INGALLS SCHOLARSHIP FUND IS NOW THREE TIMES ORIGINAL SIZE

The Ingalls Scholarship Fund at the University of Vermont has grown to nearly three times its original size since its inception in June, according to Miss Martha E. Leighton, Assistant State 4-H Club Leader.

The scholarship was established as a feature of 4-H Club week at the University last June, in honor of E. L. Ingalls, a graduate of the University in the class of '96, and for twenty years head of the boys' and girls' Club work in the State. Friends and associates started the fund at $50, which will be increased until the income is sufficient to provide a scholarship each year at the discretion of Mr. Ingalls to some worthy 4-H Club member.

Four-H Clubs of the State have taken up the matter, and the rapid growth of the fund is due largely to their efforts and contributions.

There is a fine exhibition of shoes at the museum. It represents a collection from all over the world, Hawaii, Philippines, Mexico, China, Norway, Holland and Japan being represented. There are also representations from American Indians and the Cliff Dwellers of Colorado.

A special exhibition of jewelry, most of them from the Cannon collection is on display. Among the different articles are finger rings, necklaces and jewelry of the dancing girls. This jewelry is of cast silver and is from the Orient and a few pieces from Egypt. The museum plans to continue this exhibition by adding jewelry from all countries.

The boa-constrictor on exhibition at the museum has been removed to the zoological department. During the past week the snake has been forced feed twice. It has taken two ounces of hamburg steak through a glass tube down its throat. This method of forced feeding is often necessary with snakes in captivity, because of their desire to fast for sometimes three or four months.

The Fleming Museum series of broadcasts on Mondays at 6.45 p.m. has included the following talks during the month of December.—Dec. 3, President Bailey spoke on Our University—A Human Corporation; Dec. 10, H. B. Eldred, assistant director, Fleming Museum, talked on Cliff Dwellers; Dec. 17, Professor Jacobs of the geology department gave an address on The Grand Canyon Diarma at the museum. On December 24, students from Miss Parker's Children's Literature Class told stories to the children. This is in connection with the regular work of this department.

The soy bean, fifteen years ago considered to be fit for consumption by horses and cattle, has today been so intensively developed that Prof. G. L. Schuster, of the University of Delaware (Newark) believes that it will eventually replace 15 to 20 percent of the wheat consumed in the world.

NEW "Y" ACTIVITIES IN FULL SWING WITH FULL PROGRAM OF INTERESTS

Membership Reaches 1,500 Mark and Drive Still on for More College Students

The activities of the new "Y" in Burlington are now in full swing. The new quarters have proved very successful, many people are enjoying the privileges of the building and organization rooms. The swimming pool is a great attraction to college students and plans have been made for special swimming hours. Instruction will be given to women by Mr. Hallock, and to women by Miss Mount. Individual improvement classes will be kept. Probably intercollegiate competition will be conducted. Intramural competition in both diving and swimming is being considered.

The people of Burlington and the college students have supported the new Y very well in the membership drives. The final reports of the leaders came in too late for this issue of the CYNIC. On Saturday, January 5, 1,509 members were reported. Of these, there were 85 men and 65 women from the University of Vermont. The final reports will probably show a great increase in the number of college men and women members. Mr. Prentice and Miss Cummings of the physical education departments are in charge of the drive for U. V. M. members.

A special rate of $6.00 is offered to all college students. Membership lasts for a year from the day it is taken out. The ticket is good for any "Y" in the country. On the subject of U. V. M. members Mr. Cate, general secretary of the new "Y," says, "College men and women will probably get more out of the Y than any one else. Besides the facilities the swimming pool has to offer, we plan to have U. V. M. nights for social gatherings of students. We also contemplate men and women members of the association to mingle in the recreational and social groups."

Membership tickets may be obtained from the physical education offices, or from any member of the student committee consisting of W. E. Cass '35, G. H. [illegible] '35, J. M. Reeves '35, E. R. Saxton '35, W. D. White '35, and C. I. [illegible] '35, chairman.

In the physical department, Mondays and Wednesdays will be devoted to men only, and Tuesdays and Thursdays will be devoted to women. On Fridays and Saturdays mixed groups will be accommodated. A complete schedule of activities, both physical and social, may be obtained at the counter in the "Y." Among the activities listed are:

Basketball, volleyball, handball, indoor baseball, badminton, paddle tennis, apparatus stunts, tumbling, calisthenics, [illegible] ping pong, tennis, tap dancing, tether ball, boxing and wrestling, hockey, gym games, ping pong, golf, bowling, shuffle board, social dancing, archery, shooting

DOCTOR KOO

Shows Change in Own Lifetime in Political, Educational, Social and Economic Lines

Dr. T. Z. Koo, the acknowledged "wise man of the East," lectured Thursday evening, January 3, at the gymnasium on "China in the Remaking." He told of the changes within his own life time in the political, educational, economic, and social spheres.

In this address, Doctor Koo endeavored to give the audience the right background for understanding New China. To accomplish this he contrasted the China of his boyhood with that of his post-college days.

"The political life has been influenced and changed radically by two definite processes," Doctor Koo said. These are the way people think about the government and the nation, and the structure of the government. He went on to say that during his primary school years the flag was never shown, nor the country ever mentioned as a nation. In fact, his father's counsel was "to so live that you need not see a government official if you can help it." In colleges there was an entirely different sentiment rife, however. Patriotism became a prominent and animated subject for discussion. The students were urged to cultivate this new teaching and overthrow the old government in a great revolution. The result of this new and stirring belief was the overthrowing of the 2,000 year-old monarchy and the establishment of a republic in 1911. This brought on the fifteen years of civil war between the old aristocratic group and the new nationalist group. But eventually twenty-five of the twenty-eight states of China were supporting the government at Nanking.

The educational field was likewise undergoing a metamorphosis, Doctor Koo said. The family schools, retained by rich men, were being replaced and augmented by state schools and co-education was becoming an established custom. Ethical education was replaced by practical education. That is, men instead of being taught to live with their fellow beings were taught to earn a living.

VESPER SPEAKER NEXT SUNDAY TO BE CANON SHATFORD OF MONTREAL

Well-known Preacher Has Spoken Before for Vespers and a Baccalaureate Sermon

Canon Allen P. Shatford, D.D., pastor of the Church of St. James the Apostle, Montreal, Canada, will speak at Vespers next Sunday. Doctor Shatford is a very popular preacher and has spoken here several times before. He preached the baccalaureate sermon a few years ago.

The service will be at the Ira Allen Chapel at 4 o'clock p.m. and is as usual open to the public.

A cafeteria supper will be held Wednesday, January 9, from 5.30 until 7.30 at the Alpha Chi house. The mothers and alumnae are the sponsors. The price range is from 25 cents to 35 cents, depending on one's appetite.

Visit of Dr. Koo Marked By Conference, Lectures

McGill Students Guests Over Week-end of Christian Association —Convocation, Class Talks, Faculty Tea Features of Four-day Stay of Eminent Chinese

BANQUET, DISCUSSIONS INCLUDED IN SERIES

Four students from McGill attended the week-end conference with Dr. T. Z. Koo under the auspices of the Vermont Y. W. C. A. and Y. C. A.

Beginning Saturday afternoon with registration and a discussion at the Alpha Chi Omega house. The conference lasted until Sunday afternoon at 4:00 when the McGill students had to leave for Montreal by train. They were guests at the International banquet Saturday night, later attending the basketball game, and then staying overnight with students at Vermont. The Canadian students were Cynthia Randall, Margaret McClung, Marguerite Estano, Keith Lachan, and Herbert McKinnes.

Doctor Koo started the discussion in the afternoon with a short talk on some of the major issues confronting the youth of today.

"One—The state and yourself. Is your religion or nationality to determine your attitude.

Two—The material and spiritual conceptions of life. They are not antithetical.

Three—The economic problem.

Four—Racial contact.

Five—Peace and war."

At the international banquet in the evening, Doctor Koo spoke on the work and meaning of the World Student Christian Federation and world minded-ness in relation to it. Afterwards he played his flute. The dining hall at the new Y. M. C. A. building was decorated with flags of different countries and each table had the name of a country. The banquet ended at 7.30 that all might attend the basketball game or Faculty Club meeting.

Sunday morning a service was held in the First Congregational Church in Burlington with Mr. Jones leading and Doctor Koo giving the address. The subject of this was "Vital Religion." Doctor Koo gave several ways in which one may get to God. After the regular sermon a communion service, held especially for students, took place.

In the afternoon a second discussion with McGill was held at the Alpha Chi Omega house. Questions were raised on mass, varied topics and answered by Doctor Koo. During the discussion tea was served and the McGill students caught the train for Montreal.

SPEAKS NINE TIMES IN SHORT U. V. M. VISIT

Dr. T. Z. Koo, great Chinese orator, terminated a four-day program here Sunday night leaving the impression with all of his dynamic personality and practical Christian thinking. He had a crowded conference, speaking nine times in his short stay.

Doctor Koo arrived Thursday morning and stayed with Prof. F. H. Kreider through the weekend. Thursday afternoon he met with some of the Y. W. and Y. C. A. joint cabinet at Professor Lyon's to discuss plans for the meetings.

Thursday evening at 8 o'clock Doctor Koo spoke to an audience of over 1000 in the gymnasium on "China in the Remaking." The lecture was very well received. After a short question period he played on his Chinese flute a few folk songs.

Faculty Tea at Redstone

Friday morning at 10.30 Doctor Koo spoke to three classes combined on the subject of "The Rise of Chinese Nationalism." In the afternoon a largely attended faculty tea was held at Redstone at which he spoke and played the flute. The topic of the afternoon was Confucianism as showing some of the background of Chinese thought.

Said Doctor Koo, "Culture is the web of life woven about Heaven, the Material Universe and Man. The Chinese were taught by Confucius not to speculate too much about Heaven as it is so remote but to take the time, learning to live rightly with their fellowmen. As to the Material Universe, they have two attitudes—one appreciation of nature and things as they are and second, the sparing use of natural resources.

"In the conception of man there is the Man to Man relationship and to himself. In the first are five relationships—Ruler to Ruled, Friend to Friend and for the family, Father and Son, Husband and Wife, Brother and Sister. Each of these is characterized by a written code. In a man learns to live rightly in all these relationships he has learned the art of being a Confucian gentleman.

In all these relationships and in the Man to himself there is a sense of propriety. In the Man to himself, a spirit of Harmony is the ideal and the nearest route by which to attain the ultimate. The two foundation stones of this harmony are a sense of restraint and the taking of the middle way."

College Convocation Saturday

Saturday morning at 10:00 Doctor Koo held a Convocation in the gym at which the attendance approached 600. Here he spoke on "Developing World Mindedness." From his own experience he gave a few precepts upon how to go about the matter.

Peoples of different nations are to be regarded not as rapid but as individuals. Not all Chinese are heathen, nor are not all East Indians Hindu pedestrians. What we consider oddities in other countries should not be interpreted by our own standards but by the standards of the

Club Plans to Participate as Usual in New England Glee Club Contest

The Men's Glee Club has started preparation for a busy winter and spring schedule of music culminated by a trip to Portland, Me. on March 1 to participate in the New England intercollegiate glee club contest. Efforts are being made to arrange recitals on the going and return trips to and from the contest. Besides that other appearances will doubtless be made nearer Burlington and in the city.

Rehearsals are now held twice a week on Wednesdays and Fridays. Work is being done on some of Bartholomew's songs, Praetorius' "To How a Rose Ever Blooming" and others. A double quartet will again be formed this year in the near future.

More voices are still needed in the club, particularly tenors and baritones. Tryouts can be had with Professor Bennett on the nights of the rehearsals.

The Rev. Arthur M. Clarke of Manchester Center will speak at Chapel tomorrow. He has spoken at the College chapel several times during recent years and is the first speaker since the Christmas recess.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

The Men's Glee Club will hold its regular rehearsals Wednesday and Friday evenings until further notice. The next rehearsal will be Wednesday evening, January 9, at 6.45 at the Music Building.

DR. VALERIE PARKER HOLDS CONFERENCES WITH WOMEN STUDENTS

Talks to Group and Individual Conferences Have Filled Full 3-day Program

Dr. Valerie Parker, specialist in sex and social hygiene, has been on campus for the last three days, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. She has held personal conferences with women and has spoken to several small groups of students. She concludes her visit today with a full schedule of conferences. From 9:30 to 12 was devoted to individual conferences at the home of Miss Cummings. From 3 to 4 p.m. she meets the freshmen at the museum. She is at Commons at 6 p.m. for dinner and remains there from 7 to 8 with the upperclass girls in Commons' rooms.

Beginning January 7 members of the freshman and sophomore classes in physical education, meeting on Wednesdays at 9:30 and 11:30 and on Thursdays at 11:30 have an opportunity to take a winter sport activity instead of the usual badminton practice. Badminton will be held as usual for those who prefer to have an indoor sport.

Groups in skating and snowshoeing will meet on Thursdays at 3:15 on Redstone campus. A few skis and snowshoes are available for those who wish to use them but the supply is limited. There is an opportunity to skate during the evening on the rink in back of the Edmunds High School. The rink on the lake will probably be opened the week following. A small fee is charged for the use of this rink.

Swimming at the new Community "Y" counts as a special activity also and can be taken instead of badminton practice or outdoor sport. The "Y" offers us a splendid opportunity not only to swim many but to explore other activities. We are very fortunate in having this opportunity and it possible should join the

PEACE POLL

The Cynic asks the students at the University to cooperate in the Peace Poll which the Association of College Editors is sponsoring in cooperation with the Literary Digest.

The questions were formulated by the editors at their organization meeting in New York last September. Here the questions come from representative group itself. In that is one of the great values of the poll: it is a barometer of the opinion of college men and women on the questions which they have themselves raised and believe important.

The answers should be thought over carefully and answered in good faith or otherwise the poll will be of no value.

BALLOTS FOR PEACE POLL TO BE MAILED TO ALL STUDENTS SOON

Ballots for the A. C. E. Literary Digest Peace Poll will be mailed to all students during the week of January 6-13, 1935. The association at its organization meeting held last September voted to hold the poll at this date and accordingly asked the Literary Digest for its cooperation.

Below is the final phrasing of the questions that will be sent out on the A. C. E. Literary Digest Peace Poll ballots.

1. Do you believe that the United States could stay out of another great war?

2. If the borders of the United States were invaded would you bear arms in defense of your country?

3. Would you bear arms for the United States in the invasion of the borders of another country?

4. Do you believe that a national policy of AN AMERICAN NAVY AND AIR FORCE SECOND TO NONE is a sound method of insuring us against being involved in another great war?

5. Do you advocate government control of armament and munition industries?

6. In agreement with our historic peace policy in diverting manpower in time of war, would you advocate the principle of universal conscription of all resources of material and labor in order to control all profits in time of war?

7. Should the United States enter the League of Nations?

The ballots will be mailed to every student-editor in your college during the week of January 6-13, 1935.

Activities of Agricultural College Include Large and Successfully Run Dairy Plant

[illegible] Vermont dairy [illegible] the agriculture [illegible] Morrill Hall at U. V. M. [illegible] business without advertising or soliciting for any of its [illegible]. Since it is a government supported institution it is not customary to [illegible] trade by advertising or soliciting [illegible] according to a statement from H. W. Smith, Jr., professor of dairy manufacturing. The dairy manufacturing is primarily for educational purposes and secondarily for sale. The purpose is to break even with the expenses and the money received.

The dairy plant buys its milk from the University farm and the U. V. M. Experiment Station. Seven hundred to one thousand dollars are paid a month to the farm by the dairy plant for milk. Cream is purchased separately from the milk. All milk is purchased from these two sources of supply unless there is an emergency when the milk is secured outside.

The Mary Fletcher Hospital, Coffee Corner, Medical Bookstore and girls' dormitories are supplied with milk by the dairy plant. Chocolate milk from this dairy is also sold at the counter in Morrill Hall, at the Coffee Corner and at the Sandwich Cellar in the Medical Building.

The skimmilk is used to make cottage cheese while the cream is used for butter and ice cream. Cream cheese is another product of the college dairy plant. From 25,000 to 30,000 pounds of butter are sold a month, approximately 5,000 pounds coming from the Experiment Station and 25,000 from the farm. Between 5,000 and 7,000 pounds of cream is received from the farm also.

The dairy plant is probably one of the best and modern establishments of its kind in the state. There are five dis- [illegible] test tubes of [illegible] Ingraham butter [illegible] and cappes.

Sideglances—Harry Von Zell

Harry von Zell, veteran staff announcer of the Columbia Broadcasting System, was born July 11, 1906, in Indianapolis, Indiana. He received his early education in rural and elementary schools in the Hoosier state and was graduated from high school in Sioux City, Iowa. Harry moved to the west coast and matriculated at the Los Angeles branch of the University of Southern California. He left college after his first year when an injury sustained on the football field caused a long period of inactivity. At nineteen he obtained a job as messenger boy in a Los Angeles bank, leaving after a few months to become payroll clerk of the Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad. He studied singing on the side and made his radio début quite by surprise one day when he went with some friends to watch the production of a Saturday afternoon amateur hour on the air. His friends had previously arranged to have the master of ceremonies introduce Harry as a performer, so when he unwittingly heard himself announced there was nothing for him to do but step to the microphone and sing.

FROSH BASKET SQUAD WORKING ON LINE-UP

The freshman basketball squad is working hard this week in preparation for their tilt on Friday night with Montpelier Seminary at Burlington.

Last night was the second night before the Christmas vacation. Because of the short practice periods before the holidays, Coach Proctor is trying hard to find a five combination. Clark and Howard both of whom played with the freshman team last year, have reported and have been working regularly with the squad for the past week. Both have been playing fine ball and may be in the starting lineup on Friday night.

To date the frosh have been successful in defeating Essex Junction High School and Bellows Free Academy of Fair Haven losing only to Cathedral High school in a practice tilt early in the season.

In the economic life travel was so facilitated until today a journey which in Doctor Koo's college days required forty five days of travel now necessitates only one day. The currency was stabilized and travelers' cheques came into being. The hand industry was abolished almost completely.

Perhaps the social life of the people of New China is more noticeably different from that of their ancestors than any other part. The women's position has certainly been almost completely altered. No longer are there the distinctions of "outside" for the men "inside" for the women. Today women are in almost every field of occupation that men are. The clan system has been broken. Incidentally, Doctor Koo was one of the first to break with his clan when he married a girl of his choice instead of the one his parents had picked for him during his childhood. It is interesting that Doctor Koo attributes the poise of Chinese women who have so recently emerged from their cloistered life as housewives to the task instilled in them down through the years of living within their in-laws' house surrounded by the whole family.

Doctor Koo was introduced by Professor Gifford of the philosophy department. The speaker was dressed in native costume which was made complete by his selections played on his flute. These pieces were folk songs: a reverie a song of southern China, one of northern China, and a lullaby.

The gym was well filled with an audience numbering over 600 students and townspeople by all of whom Doctor Koo was well received. As one of the very most interesting of the University's college lecturers he held his audience through his main address an enlightening question-and answer period, and a charming conclusion with musical selections.

MESERVEY RELEASES HIS MOST COMPLICATED LAW

Because of the pageantry of one of our cleverest reporters, the Vermont Cynic is again the first to bring you the biggest scoop of the new year. Our reporter disguised himself as Santa Claus and thereby gained admission to the private meetings where the great physicist E. E. Meservey and his assistant "Bertie" were poring over the Second Law of Motion.

The law was telling: "A body tends to stay at a certain point in one radius. If greater than its own and at a given velocity and creation from an initial source goes thru the square of the constant of federation will never acquire sufficient velocity to overtake itself."

This law is undoubtedly the most astounding and complex that has ever sprung from the Meservey brain and has brought world renown to our beloved University. But the more heard of the great thinker remains that about his well-appointed task ever an utmost significance for he stands unlikely to be long entirely foreign to the vast precincts of scientific research and achievement. He is now at work on his great chemical law, the precise nature of which he does not as yet choose to reveal. It will appear soon in an extra edition.

The women at Boston University sponsored a Doll Festival which included an unusual collection of models of ships, boats, stage coaches, aeroplanes and toy banks.

CAT'S MEOW

By Sports' Editor

Although the Lions has returned to schoolmarials, attended eight weeks of vacation to most credit this must have told that it was nothing to crow about. Vacations gained by returning late, vacations it rains more little or nothing.

However we credit the Union squad as having a smooth passing attack and adept at ball handling. The pat in a few now a time-stalling which preceded the Cats score getting for.

The Cats showed a chance it chance to credit also. It got up a continual fight which lasted until the final gun, and the Lions were more equal than in the waning of the game.

The question of whether one or two foul shots should have been given to Irene Young with two final gun went off a matter of conjecture. Naturally local support favored the Cats but it is debatable whether all the rules for play as did the referee.

Such decisions by officials however warrant argument when a lone tally would have tied the game. We were not interested with the work of the officials at all and urge the return of Davis and Dressel to officiating rules.

In comparative scores Vermont should take over Middlebury handily this year. The Panthers took it on the chin matchless team, time and Union quintet.

Another home game is on the docket for this week when the Terriers from Boston University play here in a return game. They will be out to avenge their previous loss at the hand of the Green and Gold team but the Cats are ready to duplicate the former performance.

Union Five Edges Cats By Single Point, 24-23

Officials Deny Young Chance of Converting Two Fouls for Possible Tie—Rough Game Produces Tight Game of Basketball—Milano High Scorer for the Evening

Saturday night the Universities of Vermont basketball squad was edged out of victory by a one point by the Union College quintet at Schenectady. With the final gun went of Irene Young was [illegible] a free shot at shooting. Instead of getting [illegible] two points which might have tied the score the referee declared the game over and the Union squad won by a 24-23 score.

Union held possession of the ball for nearly thirteen minutes of the game. They were unable to penetrate the Green's [illegible] defense so the Cats, so confronted themselves with the [illegible] of passing around the defensive zone. Milano [illegible] toward the Garnet basket [illegible] received the ball from his guards and [illegible] converted for two points. The end period.

Vermont resorted to a fast [illegible] which never was able to work at just right time. Irene Young and Mc[illegible] helped the local cause with their [illegible] but otherwise the Green and Gold attack was spotty.

It was Milano who opened the basketball [illegible] by sinking one of his [illegible] basket before a short shot and then [illegible] tallied a foul. Demetral scored again, the latter run of the foul circle and after appropriately six minutes [illegible] low pass work McDowell was fouled twice and converted two of his four attempts. Young placed Vermont temporarily back into the picture with two beautifully directed underhand heaves from the center of the floor. Mellen and Milano netted three more goals against the board to give the Garnet a 14-8 lead at half time.

Exhorted to greater effort during the intermission Vermont retaliated in the early minutes of the second half. Demetral and Young collected [illegible] after Milano had scored on a free throw from the side. Young bucketed another running shot and he Letty Warden and Abe Green converted charity attempts.

Finally Warden unsuccessful all evening hurled a long desperate heave from mid-floor that dropped. Vermont was ahead for the first time 17-16 and the crowd went berserk. Milano scored again on a pretty short shot from the foul circle but Abe Green sunked Vermont into the lead with a long counter. Foals by McDevitt and Milano and another by Stern gave Union a one point margin and then Demetral cut through the Catamount think for a top shot the last of the evening. An inspired home [illegible] put Vermont within striking distance but Demetral sub for McDowell hacked home a beauty to the side as an end of Demetral plea to settle the score. When counted on a foul shot but the game ended as Young was fouled. His subsequent conversion made little difference.

SWIMMING CLASSES TO START FOR STUDENTS AT NEW Y. M. C. A. POOL

Will Be First Instruction of Its Kind in Any Vermont College

Back from Christmas holidays students at the University of Vermont will presently enter upon a new program of intramural and [illegible] sports. Howard Prentice head of the physical education department announces. Swimming classes to be held for the first time at any Vermont university or college began yesterday at the pool at Burlington's new Y. M. C. A. building.

Intramural will begin almost immediately in basketball and basketball and [illegible] interfraternity basketball [illegible] at the high spots of the winter sports program begun Saturday afternoon when the Independents met a faculty team.

Other activities will be taken up as the second semester progresses. Boxing and wrestling [illegible] to be the contests of interest for a large and [illegible] class entered in Horace Fleming's [illegible] a star center on Vermont's football team back in that [illegible] palmy days.

WILBUR COLLECTION IN MUSEUM WILBUR ROOM NOW BEING CATALOGUED

Work has begun on cataloguing the famous and valuable Wilbur collection of Vermontiana now housed in the Wilbur Room of the Fleming Museum at the University of Vermont it was announced today. The collection came into the University's possession only partially catalogued, and the work is now being completed by Martha E. Spafford, cataloguer.

Contained in the Wilbur collection are some of the rarest old newspapers, manuscripts and books in New England, nearly all of them dealing in some way with Vermont. Photostats are also a part of the Wilbur Room's contents. The work will take some time, but when completed will offer an invaluable index to New England historians and research workers, to whom the room is always available.

Sons of Veterans of American Revolution to Present Awards

Announcement was made today from the Military Office of the University of Vermont that the medals awarded each year to students in the R. O. T. C. unit by the Vermont Society, Sons of the American Revolution, would again be presented this year, during the annual Federal inspection, due in May. Prof. A. D. Butterfield, member of the University faculty, is president of the organization.

Last year D. W. Jenks '34, F. T. Churchill '35, M. E. Merchant '36, and W. F. Shuttleworth '37, were awarded the medals. The previous year honors went to L. L. Woodward '33, G. L. Davis '34, W. E. Cass '35, and P. M. Andress '36. Woodward and Davis are now members of the University faculty. The awards are presented each year to the member of each class, on the basis of character, conduct, leadership, soldierly bearing and theoretical and practical knowledge of the military course.

LAST PRE-MID-YEAR DANCE TOMORROW NIGHT

Health Council and W. A. A. Sponsors Frolic Scheduled for Saturday Evening

The Health Council and the Women's Athletic Association are sponsoring a dance at the gymnasium, Saturday night, January 12. Sherman's ten-piece orchestra will furnish the musical strains.

Professor and Mrs. L. W. Dean and Coach and Mrs. Gardener will be chaperones.

Irene Lafountain '35 and Peggy Nugent '35 are in charge of the sale of tickets. But they may be purchased from any members of the Health Council or W. A. A. Board for a dollar a couple or stags, fifty cents.

Sue France '35, Peg McCracken '35, Twink Mount '35 and Bobby Taylor '35 are the committee in charge of the dance.

As this will be the only dance to relieve the tediousness of studying until after mid-years, W. A. A. expects to see you all there.

AGGIE CLUB MEETS WITH GALA PROGRAM

On Wednesday evening with W. I. "Bill" Jenks '37 as announcer for Station ICU the sophomores presented a most interesting and varied program. Included in the list were such well-known radio stars as Harry McMillan '37 presenting campus scandal in the form of "News of the Day," short talks by Prof. Leon W. Dean, Prof. M. H. Campbell, Prof. R. W. Smith, Jr., E. L. Ingalls, State 4-H Club leader and a special stunt by the inimitable V. L. "Bud" Weiser of the faculty. The recently organized German band under the personal direction of that Hitlerite Dana Whitman '37 was a big hit in its first and only appearance.

Earlier in the evening at the business meeting the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, G. E. Webster '36; vice-president, G. F. McPhee '37; secretary, F. P. Howard '38; treasurer, E. W. Lake '36.

1. Why are we paying $2.00 more than the class of 1935 for our year book?

2. What are the definite improvements or additions causing this advanced price?

3. Why is there no recognition or mention of activities in which the members of the class have participated?

4. What is the value of a grind which tells about Jane and her November football hero when by June she is going with a member of the debating team? Will a grind containing only slams be of interest five years from now?

5. Isn't it fine that all the special friends of the editor have important positions on the Ariel staff? What happened to the list of Ariel scrubs of last year?

6. Why was it necessary that the women have pictures with white drapes for the Ariel when of the eight proofs received five or more were of black drapes?

7. Why is there no medical section in this year's Ariel?

We should appreciate answers to these questions if the editor is able to make them. We realize, of course, that we have nothing to say about our own year book, but, some points of the editor's policy should be brought to light and explained if possible. We see no reason why the Junior Men's organization could not take action against this arrangement of the Ariel. The majority of the Junior Class would undoubtedly be in favor of such action.

Juniors.

FOUR RHODES SCHOLARS FROM NEW ENGLAND

Baker, Sachse, From Yale; Stockmayer, M. I. T.; Plaffmann, Brown

The four Rhodes scholars from New England were chosen in Boston, January 7. They are Richard Brown Baker Yale '35 of Providence, R. I., William Lewis Sachse, also Yale '35, of Santa Barbara, Calif., Walter Hugo Stockmayer, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, '35 of Rutherford, N. J., and Carl Plaffmann, Brown '33, of Woodhaven, Long Island, N. Y.

These fortunate men were selected from a group of twelve students, who had been chosen as candidates before. There were two from each of the six New England states.

Baker is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa. He studied in Geneva under a scholarship two years ago and contributes to magazines.

Sachse, the other Yale candidate is a graduate of Philips Andover Academy.

Stockmayer, a student in chemistry at M. I. T., is president of his class and of the student governing body. He is also one of the most brilliant students at the Institute.

Plaffmann was a candidate for a Rhodes scholarship in 1933 and 1934. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, a student in psychology and a musician.

All four students will go to Oxford next fall.

OFFICER OF OUTING CLUB

RAY SABIN PRESIDENT OF U. V. M. OUTING CLUB

Club Plans Winter Carnival, Kake Walk Week, at Meeting Wednesday

At a meeting held last Wednesday night in the Commons the U. V. M. Outing Club elected new officers. This is the first year an outing club has existed at Vermont although a Winter Sports Club has served in this capacity to a limited extent. The new organization hopes to offer a more complete program of activity extending beyond the short interest of winter sports. Other projected activities are hiking, canoeing and such for the warmer weather.

At last night's meeting H. H. Ray Sabin '37 was unanimously elected president of the club. Elizabeth Rich '37 continues in her capacity as vice-president. For the position of corresponding secretary the members unanimously selected J. D. Hawley '37.

On the subject of carnivals it was decided that no intercollegiate carnival would be sponsored, but that the annual intramural winter carnival would be held concedent with Kake Walk week. Regarding carnivals held by other colleges it was suggested that all members who could attend them do so but necessarily at their own expense. A plea for more short hikes for week ends was made.

Discussion of plans for a dance occurred but no definite action was taken. The difficulty of finding an open date in the social calendar offers a real obstacle to such plans.

The subject of selecting an appropriate emblem for members of the club was referred to the Council of the U. V. M. Outing Club at its next meeting. Other business for the next meeting of the Council will include drafting a constitution for the organization.

Regarding the substitution of winter sports activities for permanent dues it was announced that the Physical Education Department would permit such action to members of the U. V. M. Outing Club. Immediately following vacation ski classes for instruction in skiing will be formed under the direction of Gym teachers, a professional skier and record holder in intercollegiate winter sports.

WHAT ABOUT THE ARIEL?

Much interest and comment has been aroused, intensified lately by the appearance of second semester bills, by the decision to increase the price of the Ariel from $5, as last year, to $7. The feeling is not to be interpreted by the approach of the bills, but it seems only right that some explanation should be given.

The price has been raised $2 above that of last year. However the bills are now added to the semester bills, so they are sure of payment. So far as is known the amount from the class treasury is the same as in other years. The amount of advertising will probably be about the same.

Judging from the facts which are mentioned above the Ariel should not make more money or has more money than in other years. However no special features have been mentioned or a larger book planned for, than is usual. Furthermore the method of billing is changed this year thus lessening the expense.

Some explanation seems necessary, to protect the reputations of the staff, if for no other reason.

REALIGNMENT OF CBS SUNDAY EVENING SCHEDULE

A general shift in Sunday evening programs on the WABC-Columbia network will bring a new program schedule to many listeners beginning tomorrow night. The Columbia Symphony Orchestra under Howard Barlow will remain at the Hall of Fame microphone at 8:30 p.m. EST, but Andre Kostelanetz will succeed Lee Pattison and Josef Wagner directing the Sunday evening concerts. Jose Mojica and his orchestra will occupy the half hour from 9 to 9:30 p.m. EST, and Lennox Pawle will continue as the narrator of the stories of Famous Crimes. "Columbia Mediaeval" will be heard from 9:30 to 10 p.m. On that program Lucrezia Bori, Conrad Thibault and the Revelers will return to the air for a new Columbia series. Frank Black will conduct the Hall Symphonic Choir during the half hour. At 10:30 p.m. on the new schedule will be Ethel Sinclair Everett's Junior Symphony Hour conducted by Victor Kolar. An augmented musical guest staff and a large mixed chorus is broadcast from Cleveland Hall, Detroit, on each Sunday one hour later than in the past.

"I'm anything," he decided finally. "Gimme that pen."

ELABORATE INTERNATIONAL FEATURES SET FOR CBS

Leaving the microphone into many far away places for the first time the Columbia Broadcasting System is opening the year with an extensive array of international features. More than a dozen European countries and cities are represented on a special cycle to be heard every Sunday afternoon through February and March. Guests will be announced later but the first time in history the American radio audience will receive a direct broadcast of a momentous European meeting when the Columbia network will relay the eye witness account of the battle which will decide the historic Saar basin question. Another feature, Germany in the League of Nations shall rule the coal and industrial valley. A portion of the broadcast scheduled Sunday, January 13 from 1:45 to 2:00 p.m. EST will originate in the Saarbrucken headquarters of Sound Wardenski, expert adviser and translator of the Saar Plebiscite Commission.

When the results of the election are known the CBS network probably will present another international Saar broadcast this time from Geneva, home of the League of Nations. Other outstanding European features in prospect include an annual carnival from a small village in Switzerland and a broadcast from Monte Carlo. Prince Rainier's royal will bring American listeners into direct radio contact with the fun filled plazas of Vienna. Pompeii, the lava covered city of Czechoslovakia and Urbanizing South Africa.

From the Springfield Student comes the following information. It is doubtful as to whether a man is a freshman or an upperclassman by the looks. The freshman is just beginning to wear the new suit he bought for his high school graduation and the upperclassman is still wearing the same one in which he graduated from high school.

STUDENT DECRIES FIRE HAZARD IN OLD MILL

The time when something ought to have been done about the danger of fire in the Old Mill came a good many years ago but we still persist in doing nothing about this danger. Even without considering the smoking on the third and fourth floors of this building, students and professors run a grave risk in attending classes on these floors. The construction of the Old Mill, and the congestion which is the result of just an ordinary passing of students to and from classes, is enough to make one shudder to imagine what would happen if fire broke out in any part of the building during class hours.

It seems to me that we at least need fire escapes on the Old Mill and moreover the ways of prevention which is said to be worth a pound of cure, some part in regulation of the smoking question, a special smoking room or the provision of receptacles with sand in them for use in place of crushing out one's cigarettes on the floor but not doing so as the case sometimes is.

Why don't we do something about this problem before we put our time on matters of somewhat less significance.

Lawrence Ryan '35

EUNICE NORTON, PIANIST, SOLOIST WITH MINNEAPOLIS SYMPHONY

The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra conducted by Eugene Ormandy with Eunice Norton noted American pianist as soloist will feature an all Tschaikowsky program in a broadcast over the nationwide WABC-Columbia network on Friday, January 11 from 3:15 to 5:00 p.m. EST. Miss Norton will play Tschaikowsky's Piano Concerto in B flat minor one of the most romantic and melodious works of this Russian genius. Ormandy will direct the Minneapolis Symphony first in the picturesque "Marche Slav" following the concert with the Fifth Symphony in E minor.

WORLD WHIRLIGIGS

The recent Bok Memorial Jubilee at Philadelphia aroused quite a bit of comment. Some observers pointed to the cause supposed as the attack and a few political opponents came out openly as to motives. Perhaps somewhat the most determined opposition came from both France and Britain who have commercial interests at stake.

The Saar Plebiscite will be underway with the German ballyhoo next Sunday. Partisans claim of "Heil Hitler" usually found many votes up to 20 percent in some cases in the preliminary voting by local servants held January 7. The results of this vote will not be known until Monday. It is reported that many stayed away from the polls.

Wise cracking columnists are making all kinds of sport of the President's latest exhibition of budget making. The total revenues are estimated to be 3,711 millions and the total expenses 8,521 millions. That leaves a deficit of 4,869 millions. The President is careful to explain that the deficit is all due to the emergency. The Depression. It is hard to find any evidences of recovery in the budget the turns for the better are predicted but have not materialized as yet.

Congressmen in favor of the bonus are between two fires. The veterans are urging them to pass the bill, but the President has told them that if they increase the budget they must also increase the taxes. Thus the taxpayer is on the other side urging Mr. M. C. to vote the bill down.

W. A. A. Notes

[illegible] W. A. A. and Hockey Council are [illegible] setting it up[illegible] when you [illegible] this will be the last issue before [illegible] tabloid periods [illegible] explanations and [illegible] notes as well as [illegible] [illegible] Sherman [illegible] program.

Next we have another of the big social events of the outstanding [illegible] January 18. This time it is a "pajama party." Yes a mass meeting. I'm sure you'll all be there. A vote will be taken at the advisability of the Women's Athletic Association's holding a winter carnival separate from that which is to be carried on by the Outing Club. W. A. A. awards will be given out to those deserving souls who have labored long (athletically speaking) to earn points.

Basketball games in the women's department will be played off beginning the week after Kake Walk. More people are needed to represent the juniors and seniors in that spirightly sport. Come on you upperclassmen! Show a little spirit!

Here's a little more news—that active young freshman Enid Perkins has been chosen to represent her class on the W. A. A. Board.

We are being optimistic in expecting a little snow before the flowers bloom again and when it comes Mr. Porter who gave a series of lessons in skiing last winter for those fortunate souls who knew about it, will be at our service again this winter. He is an excellent instructor and, as one who has had benefit of his instruction, I can assure you that it is most interesting and enlightening. The times for the classes are to be Friday at 3.15 and Saturdays at 2.30. A big turnout is expected; especially in view of the fact that winter sports are becoming vastly more popular and a knowledge of them and the ability to participate in them is almost a necessity in this day and age.

There will also be a hike Saturday afternoon—starting from Redstone at 2.30—enthusiasm has been increasing in respect to these hikes and we expect the number of hikers to increase continually—it's really loads of fun, especially when Toddy Taylor has the leadership.

Look for more news of W. A. A. next week—we'll try to have even more.

FLASH LINES

The "Four Tempos," a quartet of aspiring housewives and salesmen who sing, play and "imitate," won the judge's medal in the first CBS "Amateur Night" program. . . . But the nationwide audience vote, now being counted, will reveal which one of the "ham" acts will win a professional encore on the show.

During an evening ping-pong mixup in the CBS lounge, Ralph Wonders emerged victorious in a dozen consecutive matches, thus tying up the table for a long time. David Ross, after waiting twenty minutes, declared "Will Wonders never cease."

Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians who were too busy broadcasting and playing at the Paramount Theatre, New York, to celebrate at the proper time, have just held a Christmas party. Fred gave each member of his troupe a wrist radio trinket which it was said might be taken to indicate that they're going to spend a good part of 1935 on the road.

Gordon White, producer and writer of the CBS hour-long minstrel show, is starting a new wrinkle in minstrelsy. A woman has been added to the cast. Generally, a minstrel is composed entirely of men. However, Gordon has "written an attermath" with a script part for a woman. The radio voice of an old negro woman on the show will be simulated by Georgia Simmons, veteran radio actor of negro parts.

I went over to see a girl the other night. We turned on the radio and started to dance when her father came in. Without saying a word he grabbed me and threw me down the stairs. The next day I called the girl and asked her what the big idea was. "Oh," said she, "father is out and he couldn't hear the radio."—Puppet

One of the features of the coming [illegible] rifle team season at the University of Vermont [illegible] opened with a telegram [illegible] the Vermont National Guard [illegible] be a shoulder-to-shoulder match [illegible] March 16 at the United States Military Academy, West Point.

The matches will be triangular, with Colgate, Army, and Vermont competing. Ten men from each team will each shoot [illegible] shots in the prone, standing and kneeling positions with the scores of the [illegible] highest men in each team to count. The matches will be fired according to the rules of the National Rifle Association.

Frosh Meet Montpelier In Preliminary Game

Terriers Here in Return Engagement Having Been Unsuccessful in Four Games—Sabo to Change Line-up—Frosh Meet Seminary Team

[illegible] Vermont basketball team is the home [illegible] at 8:30 p.m. on a return engagement. This game will be preceded by the Montpelier Seminary vs. Frosh game at 7:00.

Coach [illegible] has completed that [illegible] a [illegible] to the game [illegible] the Green and Gold quintet [illegible] plans to [illegible] Sabo [illegible] Sabo [illegible] Captain Hackett may get his starting call at guard on [illegible] Patty Worden. Parker's height gives him an advantage [illegible] but [illegible] better than [illegible] Palmer will be [illegible] position as usual and Dimeo will hold down his center berth. [illegible] Sabo will probably [illegible] and Young as starters at forwards. Goldberg, Longworth or Shaw may [illegible] the [illegible] assignment.

The F. F. team [illegible] an odd position. Wednesday the all-student athletic council of the Hub institution petitioned the faculty athletic council to have [illegible] Athletics John M. Harrison resign from basketball coaching and confine his activities to directing athletics.

This action followed a unanimous expression of dissatisfaction by the student council members concerning schedule arrangements for football, hockey and basketball. Dr. Frederick Rogers head of the athletic department said such action was problematical because of the budget.

The B. U. team has not had a particularly successful season, losing to Harvard, Brown, Tufts, Vermont and Trinity. In recent games the Terriers have evidenced a decided improvement.

HOLY CROSS CANCELS BASKETBALL GAME

News that Holy Cross has cancelled its basketball game with the University of Vermont, originally scheduled for February 9, comes from the office of the graduate manager of athletics at the University. Famous court rivals in the days when Vermont was spreading stellar teams across the map of New England, relations were to have been renewed this year, but the inability of the Crusaders to schedule other Vermont games to fit into their traveling arrangements made their cancellation necessary for financial reasons, although Vermont increased its guarantee.

PHI DELTS WIN OVER S A E'S AND INDEPENDENTS DEFEAT FACULTY TEAM

The Phi Delta fraternity and Independents emerged victorious from the first rounds of the University of Vermont's annual interfraternity basketball tournament last week. The Phi Delts won 18-16 over the Sigma Alpha Epsilon five, and the Independents took over a faculty team, 39-30.

The tournament will last until March, announced Howard Prentice, head of the Physical Education Department, which sponsors the tournament. In the meantime college athletes are [illegible] regularly in the new Y. M. C. A. pool, under instruction, and an all-college swimming meet is being planned for March.

MASS MEETING FRIDAY IS LAST SOCIAL EVENT OF BIG SISTER PERIOD

Madeline Nordeen '35, president of Women's Student Union announces a mass meeting for Friday, January 18. Big sisters will be there and their little sisters to [illegible] athletic events in [illegible] a novel and instructive entertainment, to [illegible] the [illegible] and Crowley's Orchestra and perhaps to assemble for refreshments. Further details will be revealed later by Student Union.

More than $100,000 a year is paid by the University of Pittsburgh in the annual tax on its stadium.

NEWS FOR THE NONCE

Three people came [illegible] through the blizzard of January 1. Their initials are I. F., B. S. and G. S. Ask them what they think of Vermont farmers or gasket caps.

We hear that West Point is popular with a certain junior [illegible]. I can't understand it, but—

Take off! And a happy landing! We want to offer our congratulations to the two [illegible] of the campus, Fran Colburn and Glad LaPlumme.

The [illegible] wonder has been wondering about [illegible] can you guess? Yes, Fraser Drew, no room to [illegible]. We understand he carries on [illegible] conversation over the telephone at exceedingly early hours.

In a last minute flash from the offices of the Keheloth Tech Clarion we are advised that one pert coed made the pertinent remark that the reason Mae West's picture title, "It Ain't No Sin," was changed was because of the grammatical error.

LIESEL'S OWN STORY OF TRIP TO FLORIDA

Christmas packages had come home. And when our College [illegible] were finally [illegible] and were leaving [illegible] we were able [illegible]

At midnight [illegible] After the first [illegible] we realized that the [illegible] could carry us [illegible] coast.

We stayed in Miami [illegible] days spent most [illegible] beach, where we [illegible] pressions and opinions [illegible] various American [illegible] in the middle west [illegible] south, most of them [illegible] we had to tell [illegible] things over which [illegible] many, and the [illegible] the car were so small!

After a mad race [illegible] point, Key West, where [illegible] live alligator, we went [illegible] side. The drive through [illegible] and the old Indian [illegible] will last forever [illegible]

On the Gulf side [illegible] the house along the [illegible] were not living in the [illegible] ming in spite of the [illegible] or some of us went [illegible] out into the sea for [illegible]

We all were sad to [illegible] to leave the nice warm [illegible] northern winter. We [illegible] the Alleghanies, which [illegible] wonderful part of [illegible] gether, we had such a [illegible] such a good impression [illegible] their inhabitants, that [illegible] we had with the car [illegible] when we came into snowdrifts [illegible] rob our humor. I learned this trip that I would not [illegible] for any price.

Did you ever notice..in a roomful of people..the difference between one cigarette and another..and wonder why Chesterfields have such a pleasing aroma

Many things have to do with the aroma of a cigarette . . . the kind of tobaccos they are made of . . . the way the tobaccos are blended . . . the quality of the cigarette paper.

IT takes good things to make good things.

Someone said that to get the right aroma in a cigarette, you must have the right quantity of Turkish tobacco—and that's right.

But it is also true that you get a pleasing aroma from the home-grown tobaccos . . . tobaccos filled with Southern Sunshine, sweet and ripe.

When these tobaccos are all blended and cross-blended the Chesterfield way, balanced one against the other, you get a flavor and fragrance that is different from [illegible] er cigarettes.

Ariel Editor-in-Chief Replies To Questions On '36 Yearbook

ANSWER TO "JUNIORS"

Q. Why are we paying $2.00 more than the class of 1935 for our year book

[illegible] the NRA code the [illegible] paying have been raised [illegible] more. Hop last year has [illegible] was. All printers [illegible] and a decent [illegible] etc.

[illegible] end of the [illegible] Ariel was [illegible] This year it has been [illegible] $500

[illegible] financial loss at times to [illegible] Even with the increased [illegible] caused by the rise in the [illegible] from $500 to $[illegible] and up the $500 less [illegible] its for past [illegible] are

	2,854.00
	1,706.00

2. Q. What are the definite improvements or additions causing this advanced price?

[illegible] reased cost for fraternity [illegible] rates due to an improvement [illegible] ties in the past [illegible] reased cost for sundry layouts [illegible] decided improvements over [illegible] s.

3. Q. Why is there no recognition or mention of activities in which the members of the class have participated?

[illegible] is a recognition of activ[illegible] grinds. They are not being [illegible] old fashioned way. How[illegible] desire to have mentioned

4. Q. What is the value of a grind which tells about Jane and her November football hero when by June she is going with a member of the debating team? Will a grind containing only slams be of interest five years from now?

[illegible] the editor declares the "humor"

5. Q. Isn't it fine that all the special friends of the editor have important positons on the Ariel staff?

6. Q. What happened to the "lost" of Ariel scrubs of last year?

7. Q. Why was it necessary that the women have pictures with white drapes for the Ariel when of the eight proofs received five or more were of black drapes?

8. Q. Why is there no medical section in this year's Ariel?

[illegible] editorial points as [illegible] cant [illegible] because the [illegible] could not [illegible] represented [illegible] has already been represented to a previous [illegible] level.

The editor sincerely hopes that [illegible] next will go into mid-years knowing as little about their subject as they did about the subject matter of their examinations.

The "majority" in the Junior Class which would undoubtedly be in favor of action is certainly invited to take over the Ariel lock, stock and barrel.

MARKS

It is the time when everyone is worrying about his marks and a plea for mid-terms spell H-O-M-E for a great many would-be average students. The week you did or were supposed to do before Christmas or now of the past term cannot be redone but you still have a chance in the mid-year.

In general the mid-year examination counts for one-third of the course work. Is anything wrong when people place more emphasis on the mid-year? It is a good thing, in fact it is almost necessary to pass the examination.

One year before the two weeks exam period starts why don't you plan your study time. Make a chart of the two weeks period allowing three periods for every day—one in the morning, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. Fill in the correct spaces with the exams that are to be held at those times. Then divide the rest of the time as you think your examinations require. However it will pay to study only two out of the three periods every day to break the monotony.

REGARDING THE ARIEL

In the issue of the Cynic Smith the Editor of the Ariel has answered the charges printed in the last issue that of January 11 1935 a group of Deans who apparently did not approve of the policies of the Ariel Board.

We do not have the information requisite to an impartial judging of the soundness of the charges or of the denials. However from a cursory reading of both statements it would appear that some personal protest was involved. The charges are worded in a sarcastic manner not worthy of such a purpose. The Deans wanted to make the Ariel better not to cause trouble for the Board.

The issue pointed today may be analyzed as follows. Twenty-five percent facts 25 percent evasion 25 percent sarcasm and 25 percent failure to meet the charges. Both parties are obviously at fault. However the Library of the Ariel is elected by the Junior class to procure their yearbook they pay for it and it would seem that the members of the class should be able to state what kind of a yearbook they can expect and what becomes of the money that is spent for it.

The reply to the question regarding the white drapes is especially interesting. It seems that the photographer took several photographs of each woman most of them in black drapes. The decision to have white drapes in the yearbook cut the choice of pictures very low. For example one junior had two proofs with white drapes and one of them was blurred. Yet Lester Smith was trying to foist something original upon a backward campus.

Wail of a Good Boy

My parents told me not to smoke;
I don't
Nor listen to a naughty joke
I don't
They told me it was wrong to wink
At pretty girls, or even think
Of intoxicating drink;
I don't
To dance or flirt is very wrong;
I don't
Wild boys chase women, wine and song
I don't
I kiss no girls, not even one,
In fact I don't know how it's done;
You wouldn't think I'd have much fun;
I don't.

There will be an important meeting of the Freshman Y Cabinet, Wednesday noon, January 16, at 1.15 in the V. C. A. office. All interested in this work are urged to attend. The next semester program will be planned.

Being Collegiate

A student at Miami University went home and got partially undressed before the sight of three sleeping girls reminded him that he had moved to another boarding house.

Notre Dame University (Indiana) gridiron teams won 105 games, lost 12 and tied 5 while Knute Rockne was their coach.

Up to December 1, football fatalities of 1934 have decreased 15 percent below the 1933 figure. Safety measures and improved technic are believed responsible for this decline.

Excuses for oversleeping and missing eight o'clocks are being done away with at Ohio University. Four band members will play reveille from the library steps to arouse late sleepers.

Knox and Monmouth College football teams met on the gridiron for the fiftieth time on Thanksgiving Day.

The 1936 Olympics will see basketball admitted as a contesting sport, with eighteen or twenty teams expected to enter into competition for the world's championship.

Reporter Remarks Anent Spectre Of Oncoming Mid-Term Exams

Exams! Ah, old Vermont custom, you summon! And all of us sigh resignedly and fall to with gusto.

Now in connection with exams, there are several types of students to be considered. First because this type is the most interesting, we have the person who is planning at least a whole semester's work on one night. Why? Because he doesn't know it before. There are four subheads here: one, the person who can't do it and knows it; two, the person who can't do it and knows he can't; three, the person who can do it and knows he can; four, the person who can do it and (unwisely) thinks he can't. A remark at this point to our dearest comrades: one, graduation in February 1935 two, ditto; three, still remains to annex professors with his remarkable method of flunking everything but exams which pull him through; four, either permanent exit due to an overpowering inferiority complex or ditto to number three much to his surprise. You cannot for classic examples? Ah, but my good frau, this is not an exposé, merely an article. It would be too, too tragic in fact some poor souls have been known to leave college by reason of less than that. The latter sentence refers to the second type under consideration: the boys and girls who leave voluntarily after Christmas—foolishly sacrificing the beautiful ceremony in store for them between January 21 and February 2. Opportunity knocks only once—alas too true—but for the lucky ones eight times, a goodly number. Verily I say unto you, children, come back, come back and flunk out with the best of us. Then, very boring indeed, is the third type: the C student: the boy with flat feet and glasses who remains a C student in college, an A citizen under a dictatorship, and an X person through life. Exams don't bother him—as does nothing else.

The Solid B's

Then there are the B students, the solid mass of the school(!), who are the delight of the dean's list, and the answer to the professor's prayer. He is dependable, stable, averagely intelligent, and generally, we hope, a "good egg." And last, and least, judging from a point of popularity, is the all-A student, who asks professors questions they can't answer, is the "example" for his classmates, and the bane of [illegible] existences.

Now come the [illegible] once [illegible] often. [illegible] any 25 [illegible] In the [illegible] people who pose as [illegible] who really wish they [illegible] tation to live up to. [illegible] a headache and a big [illegible] little studying they [illegible] second heading come [illegible] who can't face the [illegible] who think they [illegible] and are afraid to try. Being Collegiate

A student at Miami University went home and got partially undressed before the sight of three sleeping girls reminded him that he had moved to another boarding house.

Notre Dame University (Indiana) gridiron teams won 105 games, lost 12 and tied 5 while Knute Rockne was their coach.

Up to December 1, football fatalities of 1934 have decreased 15 percent below the 1933 figure. Safety measures and improved technic are believed responsible for this decline.

Excuses for oversleeping and missing eight o'clocks are being done away with at Ohio University. Four band members will play reveille from the library steps to arouse late sleepers.

Knox and Monmouth College football teams met on the gridiron for the fiftieth time on Thanksgiving Day.

The 1936 Olympics will see basketball admitted as a contesting sport, with eighteen or twenty teams expected to enter into competition for the world's championship.

George Shaw starting his first game at guard turned in a good game. He not only held his forwards scoreless during his playing time, but tossed in three baskets, himself, all in one half—which appears to be the man Coach Sabo has wanted in his backcourt. He has height and is a good shot.

... said that Vermont lies be... earthquake belts. These are the Appalachian Belt and the belt which extends from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to Arkansas. There also have been a number of strong earthquakes in eastern New York which have been felt in Vermont. Accordingly, the station at Burlington is well placed to secure many useful records.

On account of the closely interwoven relations of the different parts of the country the study of earthquakes and the prevention of damage from them is of interest to all. A particularly interesting investigation is now being made by the Coast and Geodetic Survey in the Pacific coast region, where strong earthquakes have occurred from time to time.

In the Long Beach, Calif., earthquake of March 10, 1933, for the first time accurate measurement was made by instruments of the motions in the central region of a strong earthquake. These instruments are a special kind of seismograph which remains entirely inactive until an earthquake occurs, then is started by the shock, makes the record, comes to rest and remains inactive till another earthquake occurs. The record, of course, has to be removed and thus may involve some risk to the person who does it when there is destruction all around as there was in the earthquake mentioned.

For the present such instruments are confined to California and the Panama Canal, though there are other states where they would be useful. The first instruments were installed early in 1933 and since that time records have been made in the case of twelve earthquakes, nine in California, one of which was severe, two in Nevada and one in Panama. Other studies are being made which relate to the ability of buildings and other structures to resist earthquakes.

These investigations are telling us a great deal about the nature of earth movements, including those that occur in Vermont, and also how to take measures to reduce or prevent damages from earthquake.

MILLS BROTHERS WITH BING CROSBY

The Mills Brothers, "four boys and a guitar" who form one of radio's most popular harmony combinations, appear with Bing Crosby in his current programs over the WABC-Columbia network from 9:00 to 9:30 p.m. E.S.T. each Tuesday. The four brothers arrived in Hollywood after a highly successful personal appearance tour throughout the country to broadcast with Bing and George Stoll's Orchestra.

And then there was the freshman girl who took Anthropology because it was the study of man.

WOMEN'S MASS MEETING HELD TONIGHT IN GYM

W. A. A. Awards to be Given Out; Fire Demonstration; Dancing and Refreshments

Tonight at 7:30 p. m. the gymnasium will be held the second women's mass meeting of the year, under the auspices of Student Union. All women are required to attend, or pay a fine of twenty-five cents. Helen Mount, president of W. A. A., will give out W. A. A. awards and there will be other talks. After the business meeting, there will be dancing until ten o'clock.

Voting is to be sponsored on whether W. A. A. will hold a Women's Winter Carnival in addition to the one by the Outing Club. "Twink" Mount will give the following awards: The banner for the greatest number of W. A. A. points this fall, goes to Redstone, with Grassmount and Robinson in second and third place. Patricia Stanley '37, was in charge of the drive at Redstone. Ninety-five membership ribbons go to freshmen and transfers who have joined W. A. A. this fall with fifty points. Numerals will be awarded to Margery Collins '37, and Virginia Collins '37. The new award will be given to Edna Leach '36 and Kathleen Kieslich '36 and Margaret Patterson '36.

Ariel

In the Friday issue of the Cynic there appeared a list of questions which intimated that the 1936 Ariel is being mismanaged and compiled in a manner which is not satisfactory to the majority of the juniors. The subsequent issue of the Cynic brought forth a series of replies to these questions which have far from cleared up the matter.

The unsatisfied juniors have hinted that the Key and Serpent Society should "take action against this arrangement of the Ariel." Any action which is taken should be representative of a larger group of juniors than the Key and Serpent Society. However, if so desired, the society will act in an unprejudiced manner to help straighten out any objections. If anyone who wishes to have action taken will hand a written statement containing the objections and the desired remedy with an idea of the number of juniors backing these sentiments to W. H. Connor at 420 College Street before 1.00 p.m. Sunday, the matter will be carefully considered by the society.

The Ariel certainly belongs to all of the members of the junior class and should be published in a manner agreeable to its majority. If there is any serious objection to the present arrangement for compiling the Ariel, it it high time that these objections were aired and any proposed changes presented to the editor. On the other hand, if the recently voiced sentiments come from a small group of students or a group not wishing to be active in effecting a remedy, the matter should be dropped at once. The compiling of the Ariel is no simple task, but constructive criticism will undoubtedly be gladly accepted. However, it is not fair to the staff whom the junior class elected to publish the Ariel to make slanderous remarks about them without proposing to them a definite improvement.

Willard H. Connor,
Pres., Key and Serpent.

There will be an important meeting of the Key and Serpent Society Sunday afternoon at 2.00 p.m. in the smoking room of the Billings Library.

OPDYKE SPEAKS TWICE ON ART IN MUSEUM

George H. Opdyke, who spoke Monday night at the Fleming Museum of the University of Vermont, on "Art Appreciation: How and Why," gave a second lecture Tuesday afternoon at the same place on "Patterns in Pictures."

Mr. Opdyke is a representative of the Carnegie Foundation and the American Institute of Architects and the lectures were given under the joint auspices of the University of Vermont and the Fleming Museum Art Association. Mr. Opdyke is a lawyer and mining engineer. His "Art and Nature Appreciation" is said to be the best recent book on the subject.

IT'S WINTER AGAIN

Winter sports enthusiasts at the University of Vermont have been held in leash for some days by a barren campus caused by Vermont's famous "January Thaw." A heavy snow fell, calling out an army of ski and snowshoe addicts and ski suits, ear muffs and oiled boots were in evidence in all classes today, while students as quickly as possible got classes out of the way, in preparation for an orgy of winter sports.

The Vermont Outing Club, recently organized, has planned a number of trips within a few days to nearby minor mountains, and later in the season has longer, more strenuous outings arranged. Both men and women are members of the organization. During Kake Walk Week, an intramural meet has been planned on the campus.

RUSHING!

The women watched the freshman men during their rushing period in the fall a little enviously, perhaps. Now, the shoe is on the other foot, and the men sit back and watch the women. It is a difficult time for everyone. For the benefit of the freshmen, here is a word of advice. Think the whole thing over carefully and don't let other people influence you! Do your own deciding! Don't make a snap decision! Don't be misled by outside appearances! Remember that fraternity is not the essential thing to a well-rounded college education. It is only a small part, not a necessity.

U. OF WISCONSIN HEAD SAYS EXPERIMENTALISTS FLOWER FROM INSECURITY

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Lyman Stone, Hitler, Roosevelt, and the whole gamut of political experimentation have flowered from the soil of insecurity.

That was the remark of Dr. Glenn Frank, President of the University of Wisconsin, when he appeared as guest speaker on the United States and World Affairs series of broadcast sponsored by the Intercollegiate Council over the National Broadcasting Company network (station WEAF, Madison, Wis.).

"Not a single one of these gigantic efforts would have come to power in a national situation of poise, sanity, and psychological security," Doctor Frank continued.

"We cannot hope to conquer insecurity with experimentation, schemes to boost prices by curtailing scarcity in an age of plenty, and even taking care of the victims of the present we have liquidated through elaborate and costly insurance schemes to be paid for by national enterprise that we have deliberately and drastically curbed.

"It will be unfortunate," said Doctor Frank, "if economic statesmanship leaves the problem of insecurity exclusively to the hands of political statesmen. If economic statesmanship wages the war, however, it should in sportsmanlike enough to realize that the problem must be met politically.

"The mass demand for economic security will grow louder and louder. My fear is that the politicians will hear it, while the business man, industrialists, and financiers will not. If this happens, we shall be in for a generation of legislation that will level the men and enterprises of the United States down to a safety sure but unimposing and, in my judgment, ultimately unproductive life, even for the masses.

"I refuse to believe that we are doomed to the status of fairly well-clothed and fairly well-fed puppets of an all-embracing state. And yet it is to just this that political pressure from the masses will drive us unless business and industrial leadership promptly and effectively develops a workable and widely effective economics of plenty."

Doctor Frank's talk over the National Broadcasting Company network was the seventh in a series presented by the Intercollegiate Council in cooperation with the National Advisory Council on radio education.

FLORIDA ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGES ORGANIZED

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Meeting for the first time at the University of Florida here, representatives from ten colleges and universities in Florida have organized a Florida Association of Colleges so that they may more easily keep in step with current progressive movements in higher education.

Institutions of higher learning must better to themselves to take care of the changing needs of students, it was pointed out. A presentation was made of the Rollins College Plan, and a report was given of the progress achieved toward the formation of the lower and upper divisions at the University of Florida.

The purpose of the lower and upper division plan is to provide a general education for students who are unable to complete the usual four year college course but who may benefit by two-year general course and to provide a period in which students may determine the vocation they wish to pursue without taking highly specialized courses.

The meeting was considered a great success, and is looked upon as one of the most progressive steps which has been taken in the field of higher education in the state of Florida.

DONALD RICHBERG—SUBSTITUTE PRESIDENT

By Lowell B. Coffin

The Cynic Team assistant sleuths were assigned problems of government. The government is now engaged in [illegible] Executive Council, and general counsel of the NRA, now dubbed "assistant President" by those capable of hearing [illegible] ities in the one man makes him invaluable in the puzzling task of coordinating industry, labor and farming. Further, he speaks a second language to the employer from experience as chief counsel for the railroad brotherhoods, he understands the difficulties of labor; as aid to his father in the political dilemmas of Chicago, he listens cannily to the politician who enters his Washington office. His mind is practical and logical, and his idealism is based on years of legal training and battling.

"My experience," he said, "leads me to conclude that there is no problem in the world that cannot be settled by reasonable discussion. It is when reason breaks down and emotion holds sway that conflict ensues. Karl Marx's theory was absolutely unsound because, instead of accepting interdependence of classes, it held that class warfare was inevitable.

"I do not believe in the principle of Marxian socialism that social justice can be accomplished by direct political action. Rather have I felt that social justice can be arrived at only by economic readjustment, which may, of course, be indirectly brought about by political action. That has been my only interest in politics."

Richberg's grandfather, Louis Richtberg (the "t" was later dropped) was a German pork packer in Chicago and a member of the liberal political faction of his day, the Republican Party. His son, John, a Union sailor in the Civil War, became disgusted with the post-War attempts at reconstruction of the Republicans, turned to the Democratic Party, later became head of the Chicago school board and married a Vermont school principal, a Randall, descendant of Governor Carver of Massachusetts. When fifty years old, Mrs. Richberg entered medical school in Chicago. At these hands young Richberg received a liberal education.

Born in Knoxville, Tenn., in 1881, Richberg went to the University of Chicago, graduated from Harvard Law School and entered banking, corporation and insurance law. Disliking the work, he ran for State's Attorney in Illinois when thirty-one. The Progressive movement of 1913-14 won him over, and he wrote the 1916 Progressive keynote speech. His law practice took on greater significance when in 1926 he single handed waged legal war against 150 corporation lawyers in the country's greatest railroad valuation case. Hard-hitting, with a store of facts and an easy humor, he beat Insull in many utility rate battles. A member of the law firm of Richberg, Ickes and Richberg, he was co-author of the Railroad Labor Act in 1926.

Novelist, historian, economist, musician, composer, golfer, an excellent cook and an able lawyer, Richberg is heavy-set, partly bald, shy and naturally modest. Critics have denounced him as conservative. Yet he can point to his accomplishments as chief counsel for the railroad brotherhoods as an example of what he has done for labor. But labor eyes with suspicion his efforts at coordinating the factions of NRA into a unit to strengthen the country's industrial attack on a shattered business life. Richberg has never been a radical in the sense of violent change —"Every single right and protection the individual has in our society has been created legally. And it can by the same process be modified to meet our changing needs. There is nothing static in our life." And here, in his own words, is Richberg's political philosophy.

MEN'S RIFLE TEAM BUSY DESPITE EXAMS

With two wins to its credit, the University of Vermont's men's rifle team, coached by Capt. M. E. Craig, of the Military Department, has a busy schedule ahead, despite the imminence of mid year examinations. No matches are planned for the exam period, but practice will continue. The next match is with Norwich University, at Northfield, Vt., on March 2. A return match is scheduled for March 9 at Burlington. On March 16 the Vermont team journeys to West Point for a meet with the United States Military Academy.

This week the team will shoot targets in the William Randolph Hearst Trophies contest, held each year among R. O. T. C. college units. Targets are judged by Corps Area Officials and the best submitted to the War Department judges. Directly after the mid-year examination period shooting will begin in the Corps Area match and the National Rifle Association league matches, announced Captain Craig today. So far the team has consistently shot better than last season's team.

RIFLE TEAM WINS AGAIN FROM NATIONAL GUARD

The University of Vermont rifle team registered their second victory over Company K, Vermont National Guard, on Saturday, winning by the score of 1,283 to 1,236. At the last meet the University team won 1,329 to 1,234. The score was higher than any made last year.

Thirteen men fired, the high eight being used as the official team, and the high five individual scores made up the composite score against the high five of the Company K team, which was composed of eight men. Matches have been planned this season with Norwich University, West Point and other institutions. Freshman scores are not allowed to count in matches run under National Rifle Association rules, but a number of crack shots have been discovered in the freshman class, and are turning in all matches, in preparation for participation in next year's meets.

BATHTUB'S HISTORY IN U. S. TRACED TO DAYS OF BENJAMIN FRANKLIN

Many of the modern day fixtures and commonplace conveniences of a home have had interesting and, sometimes, turbulent histories. For example: the prosaic bathtub!

Students of bathtub history tell us that Benjamin Franklin, responsible for many other constructive acts, sponsored the appearance of the bathtub in this country in the 1770's. However, the Franklin tub was little more than a slipper, fitting over the bather's legs and evoked little enthusiasm.

In 1842 Adam Thompson startled neighbors in Cincinnati by installing a box-shaped affair lined with lead in his home. Shortly after in 1845 historians on the subject say the city of Boston passed an ordinance making it illegal to bathe unless a doctor had so ordered. Not until the early days of the Civil War was the act removed from that city's statute books. In contrast, today sees the Federal Government through the Federal Housing Administration encouraging the installation and modernization of bathrooms and, of course, tubs, through modernization loans.

Further indication of the manner in which early lawmakers viewed the matter of personal cleanliness is seen in a resolution introduced about 1843 in Philadelphia under which bathing would have been prohibited by the city fathers from November to March! As it turned out, the suggestion was tabled.

When Millard Fillmore became President, the tide turned, due principally to his installing a tub in the White House. From that time on, tub bathing increased in popularity with recent bathtub production figures totalling between 900,000 and 1,000,000 annually.

CAT'S MEOW

By Sports Editor

[illegible] past [illegible] perfectly last Tuesday night, and won their first conference game of the year.

The Horsemen were unable to penetrate that zone defense, and as a result, their offense looked meagre as compared with that of the Cats.

Norwich seemed contented to spend plenty of time passing back and forth without attempting to try an occasional shot. The score indicated that fact at half-time.

Once again Whitey Palmer was the mainspring in the works. His steady, consistent playing ranks him as one of the best guards in the state.

Steirn, Young and Duncan all added to the grand total of 43 points made during the evening. The whole team played a type of basketball worth watching.

Our pal Comi didn't get so far with his angle shots as we had expected to see. In fact Hatfield took the honors away from him much to the surprise of local writers.

The officials appeared on the floor in snappy new zebra suits. The fans gave them a good hand as they walked out on the court, and their work was as snappy as the costumes they wore.

The frosh pulled their game out of the fire in the last minute of regulation time to gain a tie, and then proceeded to score a few extra tallies to win the game in overtime. Clark's long shot gave the boys that necessary basket for the tie—a heave from near mid-floor.

We hope the roster of both teams will be as complete after mid-years as it is now. Best of luck to you all!

OHIO STATE ORGANIZES COUNTRY CLUBS TO AID STUDENT SOCIAL LIFE

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Eighty county clubs have been organized at Ohio State University as a means of improving student social life and student faculty relations.

Formed during December, many of the clubs started their activities immediately by arranging student-alumni parties in their home communities during the Christmas holidays.

Additional impetus was given the program recently, when the club presidents and their advisers were guests at a dinner arranged by the student senate and the alumni president. President George W. Rightmire and other university officials met with the club leaders at that time to discuss objectives for the movement.

Headed by President Rightmire and Business Manager Carl E. Steeb, who have aided in organizing the students from their home counties, faculty advisers have been assigned to all groups. In nearly every instance the adviser selected is one who at one time lived in the community and has much in common with the students in his charge.

Dean of Men Joseph A. Park took the lead in the new movement at Ohio State and arranged the organization meetings. Students are enrolled at the university from all of Ohio's eighty-eight counties, but a few groups have not yet met.

Faculty advisers have been opening their homes to their student groups for meetings and parties and have invited the students to bring personal problems to them for any assistance they can give.

A new league in Ohio State's intramural basketball program has been arranged and county teams are being organized to compete during the winter months.

Basketball Team Wins Overwhelming Victory

Whitey Palmer, Dick Duncan, Abe Steirn and Ernie Young Go on Shooting Sprees to Down Cadets by a 43-25 Score—Zone Defense Impenetrable

Last Tuesday Vermont decisively defeated Norwich in its first conference game of the year. The outstanding feature of the game was the Green and Gold's floor work. Their defense was well nigh impregnable, and the only way that the Horsemen were able to score was by tossing long shots all evening.

Duncan easily commanded the first tap but Norwich broke up the signal plays time after time. They could do nothing against the zone defense of the Vermont team and usually lost the ball after attempting a long shot. On Vermont's third sally down the floor, Duncan was fouled attempting a step shot. He made good his free throw and Vermont took the lead. Norwich got the ball on the next tap and vainly tried to penetrate the home lads' defense, but it was impossible. Steirn took a pass from Palmer and tossed a long shot from his right corner, dropping it clearly through the netting. Young followed Steirn by making a shot from directly in front of the basket. Norwich slowed up the game trying to work a play through the Vermont defense. Duncan intercepted a pass between the two Norwich guards and doubled in and made the basket. On Norwich's next try Hatfield tossed in five of his six long shots during the evening. Steirn fouled Fernandez, under Vermont's basket and the Norwich lad made good his free toss.

From this point on however the game became all Vermont. Steirn and Young tossed in another basket apiece, while Hatfield tossed in his second shot from almost the same spot as his first one. Whitey Palmer, who was playing his sterling defensive game put himself in the scoring column by dropping in two field goals, and a moment later sinking two foul shots. Hatfield then made his third shot from his favorite spot, and Steirn also made a long one as the half ended with Vermont leading 22-7.

During the entire first half Norwich was not able to work one play, nor did they get in close enough for a step-shot so tight was the Green and Gold zone defense.

Duncan again opened the scoring in the second half by sinking three free throws. The Norwich lads began to feed Hatfield and in the opening minute he again scored from his favorite spot and followed it up with another a few minutes later. For a while Sabo's men could not seem to find the Norwich basket, and their opponents were gradually closing the 13-point gap.

Young tossed in the first field goal for his team in this half, but none followed his toss. Meanwhile Karr had made good a free throw and Hatfield had pushed in his sixth field goal of the evening. The Vermont lads then turned on the heat, and led by Captain Palmer began to score. Whitey made a short shot [illegible] Young's second basket on this half. Diego took over Hatfield's task and began to throw in long shots. Palmer made his second basket but Diego matched him with his second toss. Duncan helped out by sinking a free toss, and Palmer followed him to the line and made both his free throws. Diego dropped in a long shot as the Vermont reserves came into the fray. Steirn was put out on fouls and Goldberg took his place. Carlton greeted the new team by scoring but with less than a minute and a half left to play, Tomassetti netted five points in rapid succession, the last coming just before the final gun.

There is a certain amount of reason behind Wilfred Smith's prejudice against the military department at Ohio State. Wilfred, after a drill one day, dragged his rifle listlessly across the armory floor. A sergeant dashed up, clamped the gun in its proper place on the boy's shoulder and barked, as he took out his notebook: "What is your name?"

"Smith."

"Oh yeah!" the officer sneered.

—so far as we know tobacco was first used about 400 years ago

—throughout the years what one thing has given so much pleasure..so much satisfaction

Early Colonial planters shipped hundreds of pounds of tobacco to England in return for goods and supplies.

They came looking for gold . . . but they found tobacco

. . . and tobacco has been like gold ever since!

The tobacco raised in Virginia and exchanged for goods helped the struggling colonists to get a foothold when they came to America.

Later on, it was tobacco that helped to clothe and feed Washington's brave army at Valley Forge.

Today it is tobacco that helps—more than any other commodity raised in this country—to pay the expense of running our Government.

In the fiscal year 1933-34 the Federal Government collected $425,000,000 from the tax on tobacco. Most of this came from cigarettes — six cents tax on every package of twenty.

Yes, the cigarette helps a lot—and it certainly gives men and women a lot of pleasure.

Smokers have several reasons for liking Chesterfields. For one thing, Chesterfields are milder. For another thing, they taste better. They Satisfy.

KAKE WALK PROGRAM REVERTS TO OLD FORM

Fraternities to Compete Again for Cup and Points Towards Traynor Trophy

Following ... from ... quarters on the campus the Kake ... Walk committee has decided to revert, ... at least, partially, to the traditional ... form of Kake Walk. This year stunts ... will again be given by the fraternities ... in competition for the customary cups, ... and for points towards the Traynor ... Trophy. The 1935 Kake Walk will ... include the features of the masquerade ... carnival, and Kake Walk King, which ... proved so successful last year, and, of ... course, the famous "Walkin' fo de Kake," ... but, in addition, the element of competition, which the fraternity stunts provide, ... will be present.

There will be, however, some changes ... from the old system. Stunts will be ... ten instead of fifteen minutes in length; ... they will be given from the stage instead ... of from the gym floor, and some stunt- ... ing and between-stunt entertainment will ... be arranged by the Kake Walk committee. It was thought that the fraternities, if they wished, could use coeds in their stunts, but this will be impossible, due to difficulties of rehearsal.

Besides the factor of competition, the reason for this change is that the Kake Walk Committee feels that there is not enough talent in the small group of students to try to repeat the type of entertainment presented last year. Returning to the old system of fraternity stunts means that the work will be spread out over a larger group and should mean a general improvement in the show. It is now up to the fraternities to put the thing over.

Besides the regular stunts there will be between-stunt entertainment. Music ... will also ... for band ... and ... ... and ... ...

PARENTS' BANQUET

The alumni are sponsoring a Father Son Mother Daughter banquet as an added feature of the annual Kake Walk. The success of this venture depends upon the response of the student body. It is an attempt to establish a closer relationship between the parents and the college. Other colleges like Williams, Amherst and Wesleyan have an annual banquet of a similar nature. In the past, these have been successful because, and only because, the student body got into the spirit of the thing and really wanted it to be successful. The Alumni Office has sent out cards to all the parents with information about the banquet and that's where their part ends and the students' part begins. Write your family today urging them to come up and see our Kake Walk with all its features and help make the week-end better than ever and an outstanding success. It's fate rests in your hands.

RUSHING

Women's rushing is in full sway now. The teas are on, the final parties to come soon. It is a critical time in the lives of the freshmen, but not half as critical as they think it is. Fraternity is not a matter of life and death to any individual. Every year there are several broken-hearted girls who do not get bids from their favorite group. These are inevitable but they should not be the ruin of any girls' college life. Fraternity is just a part, a small part of college life. Those girls who were unsuccessful in getting their marks at mid years are, perhaps, more fortunate than the others because they will have time to set back and think the thing through carefully and also to see where most of their friends go and thus where they will be happiest.

The success, however, is not entirely on the freshmen. The upper classmen are on their good behavior and are putting their best foot forward. The rules of Pan-Hellenic keep them from being their natural selves. Nevertheless the rules must be enforced, so watch your step, everybody. Read them over carefully, and try to carry out the spirit, as well as the letter of the rules and try to make this the best rushing season ever.

PROF. AND MRS. JACOBS START ROUND WORLD TRIP

Prof. J. C. Jacobs, head of the Geology department at the University of Vermont, has left on a trip around the world for purposes of scientific research and recreation, returning to Burlington some time in August. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Jacobs.

Some time will be spent in countries bordering the Mediterranean before passing through the Red Sea and on to Bombay, Colombo and Singapore. Visits will be made at Sumatra, Java, Bali and Manila. After proceeding to China and Japan, Professor and Mrs. Jacobs will sail for the Hawaiian Islands, spending several weeks there for study, arriving at Vancouver late in April. The trip across the continent will be made by motor with stops at the Grand Canyon, Glacier National Park and the Canadian Rockies.

Professor Jacobs' work will be taken over by Dr. Richard J. Lougee, geologist and mineralogist of Columbia University, during his absence.

PROF. MOWER JOINS FRIENDS IN EUROPE

Prof. Edmund C. Mower, head of the Political Science department at the University of Vermont, has joined the list of professors from the University who are on leave this year for vacational and educational purposes. He and Mrs. Mower will spend several months in study, leaving New York on the same steamer with Prof. and Mrs. Elbridge C. Jacobs of the University, who are on a trip around the world. Professor Jacobs is head of the Geology department. Another professor on leave who is doing research work on the Pacific coast is Prof. George P. Burns, head of the Botany department.

A. C. E. HORIZON

A CHALLENGE TO THE NEW WORLD

By Sidney M. Lewis

The Rogers Professor of Political Science at Queen's University, Canada, the first commoner of the British Empire to be appointed to the faculty of the foreign [illegible] South America, [illegible] the years a visiting professor to Mexico City, where the Autonomous University is located, in the Canadian Legation, Havana. He has written this article exclusively for the C. E. Horizon.

One of the most promising signs of a return of economic sanity on this continent is the revival of interest in a reciprocal trade treaty between the United States and Canada. In both countries there is evidence of a reaction from the extreme doctrines of economic nationalism which were expressed in the United States by the Hawley-Smoot tariff of 1930 and in Canada by the Bennett emergency tariff of the same year.

Self-sufficiency is at best a mirage. But the illusion has been deceptive and glamorous enough to exert a profound influence on political behavior. The tares and thistles which have cluttered the field of international trade during recent years are traceable for the most part to the doctrines of economic nationalism which had been planted sedulously by the interested exponents of high protection and commercial isolation. It has needed a bitter and painful experience to convince us of our folly. The time is at hand when some nations must court the risks of a bold experiment in lowering tariff barriers as a means of recovery and an avenue to a more abundant and a better distributed prosperity for their inhabitants.

The continent of North America offers an ideal laboratory for such an experiment in trade policy. The political arguments which have supported the extreme variations of economic nationalism in Europe have no real application here. A century of peace and a veritable network of cultural and commercial relationships between our two countries give the assurance that economic transactions between us need not be conducted with language appropriate to warfare.

The time has passed, moreover, when such political considerations as annexation can be introduced with any seriousness into the discussions. The unfortunate interjection of this provocative issue during the Canadian elections which determined the fate of the Reciprocity Agreement of 1911 was due to the failure of some American political leaders to realize the strength and sensitiveness of developing nationhood which they above all others ought to have recognized and understood. But all this lies in the past and need not be recalled except as a warning against the repetition of previous failures.

In the history of American-Canadian relations provides us with warnings it affords also a basis for confidence in our ability to cooperate for our common good. In our political relationships the International Joint Commission has provided a model of successful cooperation in the settlement of boundary disputes. Other differences have been referred to arbitration with lasting advantage to the cause of international good-will. The United States was the country to which Canada sent its first diplomatic representative. The present Under-Secretary of State, Hon. William Phillips, was the first Minister sent to Ottawa by a foreign government. We have learned to live in peace and friendship, and in mutual respect. The boundary which separates us is unguarded. The area of our common and interlocking interests is expanding year by year.

What is needed above all else to restore the health of the world today is that nations should be born again in the conviction that their economic and political salvation lies in the reconciliation of national policies with the elementary implications of an international society. We must renew in our own experience the moral and practical values which are involved in the recognition of neighborhood and interdependence.

It is conceded on all sides that a larger measure of trade between the United States and Canada is possible and desirable. The British Empire trade agreements may restrict the range of reciprocity to which Canada may agree at the present time but they do not preclude successful negotiations for a treaty which may assume more generous dimensions at a later date. The adjustment of the tariff schedules is a task for commercial experts.

The important consideration just now is the attitude towards these negotiations which shall be taken by the peoples and governments of the United States and Canada. A favorable attitude in both countries will be grounded in the belief that a trade treaty will be mutually advantageous. But the calculus of national advantage or even of mutual advantage must not be restricted to a mathematical appraisal of the increased trade which will flow across the international boundary under the provisions of a proposed treaty.

The world today stands desperately in need of leadership in its effort to escape from the tribulations which have followed the excesses of economic nationalism. If the young nations of the New World could but provide this leadership in a determined assault upon the tariff barriers to international trade they would make a contribution to recovery which could not be computed in the currency of trade balances. Such an example at this critical period would be a service as well to the larger purpose of restoring to the nations of the world that consciousness of neighborhood and community without which the familiar prayers for peace and prosperity are as sounding brass and tinkling cymbals.

STATE NATURE CLUBS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The Vermont Botanical Club and the Vermont Bird Club met in joint annual session at the Fleming museum of the University of Vermont on Friday and Saturday, February first and second, 1935. Sessions were held in the auditorium of the museum. Following a short business session on Friday morning, a program of lectures, papers, conferences, and group discussions were presented.

On Friday evening, Mr. Carl T. Ramsey, of Dorset, delivered the annual public address. His subject was "Why Orchids are the Most Fascinating Family of Plants." The speaker is well known as a student of orchids, as a writer and lecturer. He is also a talented artist. He has lectured before various scientific organizations, including the Torrey Botanical Club, the Brooklyn Botanic Garden, the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, and numerous Nature and Garden clubs. He has exhibited his paintings of wild flowers in the New York Public Library and in various other art exhibitions, and has contributed articles on wild life to numerous magazines and periodicals. Mr. Ramsey's lecture before the Vermont clubs will be profusely illustrated with colored lantern slides.

Mr. Warren F. Eaton, representing the National Association of Audubon Societies spoke on Friday afternoon. His subject was "Hawks and Owls—a Conservation Problem." This talk was illustrated with lantern slides or motion pictures. Members of the Chittenden County Fish and Game League were specially invited to attend.

BASEBALL NINE TO PLAY TWENTY-SIX GAMES IN HEAVY SPRING SCHEDULE

Catamounts to Meet Nine Southern Opponents on Annual Dixie Jaunt

[illegible] Vermont baseball team will engage in the most ambitious schedule it has attempted during the spring season, playing twenty-six games and meeting outstanding nines in the East. In accordance with annual custom, the [illegible] will depart on their southern trip in late March, opening the trek at Princeton and then playing nine games below the Mason-Dixon line with the University of Virginia, Washington and Lee, William and Mary, V. P. I., Washington and Lee, Roanoke, Hampden-Sydney, Richmond, Macon and the Navy.

The Vermont home schedule this year includes several great baseball teams to appear here. Williams, Tufts, Dartmouth, Norwich and the University of Virginia will appear here in addition to the three Green Mountain Conference opponents. Norwich plays Vermont on Memorial Day as usual and the University of Virginia appears here as a feature of the Commencement Week.

Coach K. K. "Doc" Newton, former baseball great at the University, was re-appointed recently as assistant baseball coach. Johnny Sabo, originally destined for that post, will take charge of spring practice on the hill. Larry Gardner, for a number of the Red Sox and the Cleveland Indians, will again direct the batting duties for his seventh consecutive year.

Last year Vermont won ten straight games in the spring and this spring has seven veterans returning to positions. For the vacant outfield and catching positions two likely sophomores are available, but the pitching staff has been weakened by graduation. Bobbie Burns, the diminutive second baseman from Woburn, Mass., will captain the team. F. W. Squires of Charlotte is manager, and J. Vervoort of Rockville Center, L. I., and R. G. Warren of Bennington are assistant managers. The squad opens its spring season this month in the University cage.

Y. W. AND V. C. A. LEADERS ATTEND MANY MEETINGS

"Contact With and Ideas of Other Groups of Great Benefit" Says Powers

One of the features of Christian Association work at the University of Vermont according to M. D. Powers, graduate secretary, is the delegations of members sent to different conferences, where they have contact with men and ideas from other campuses. Mr. Powers believes that these contacts are highly beneficial not only to the students but to the religious life on the Vermont campus, which is stronger and more active, with a more stable body of supporters, than was the case for years.

Last May three boys and five girls attended a college week-end for college students of New England held at the Farm in Proctorsville. N. S. Hall of Burlington, chairman of the Student Christian Association, attended a conference held at Yale in April, of the national presidents of the Christian Associations of the Colleges of New England. In June seven members of the Christian cabinet attended the annual New England Student Christian Association conference at Camp Becket, Mass. Every member of the cabinet attended a conference held at Columbia University in June in the course designed for Christian Association Leaders. In addition a group of six students joined with delegates from all over New England at a conference held at Smith College to discuss important organization problems among the student Christian Associations.

Three retreats have also been held by members of the Vermont Association in addition to Freshman camp in September. Rev. W. A. Easton of Saxtons River, leader, included all the members of the Christian Senior cabinet. The theme of this retreat was held jointly with the girls' cabinet at Camp Abenaki. Three retreats, open to both freshmen and upperclassmen, were held during the opening of college. Dr. Ralph Baldwin as leader. Two retreats, especially for freshmen, have

TONGUES WAG AS 1935 BASEBALL SEASON COMES

With the release of the 1935 baseball schedule at the University of Vermont baseball tongues have started wagging. A year ago Vermont won ten straight games and this year seven veterans are still in the fold. For the vacant outfield and catching positions some likely sophomores are available, but the pitching staff has been weakened by graduation. It is there that the coaching staff are hoping for the breaks.

Newton, who has been assisting Gardner for several weeks with the batters and taken charge of the freshmen, has been signed on again for spring work, while Johnny Sabo, who was to have had a hand in the baseball game, will take over a session of spring football.

DELTA PSI AND ALPHA TAU OMEGA WIN GAMES

Sigma Phi and Phi Delta Theta Lose in Interfraternity Hoop Tournament

Two Inter-fraternity Basketball League games were played off Wednesday evening in the University gymnasium.

The Delta Psi's overcame the Sigma Phi's in a close contest 35-31. This game was one of the closest of the season. Pond starred for the losers, scoring five field goals and one foul, a total of eleven points. Swift of the Delta Psi's scored four baskets to lead his team in scoring. Crane of the Sigma Phi's was injured in this game, obtaining an injury to his nose and a slight concussion.

In the second game of the evening the A T O's took the Phi Delta Theta's into camp by the score of 43-22.

Trudeau, occupying the center position for the victors, scored six baskets; and Bedford, right guard for the Phi Delts, led his team in baskets with three baskets.

JOHNSON WILLS 10,000 DOLLARS TO U. V. M.

The will of Alba B. Johnson, former president of the Baldwin locomotive works, who died January 8 in Philadelphia, provides for a cash bequest of $10,000 to the University of Vermont.

Mr. Johnson, the incumbent of many financial and executive offices, was president of the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce, a director of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia and chairman of the board of the Southwark Foundry and Machine Company. He was also importantly connected with scientific, educational and social work.

A few years ago he gave the Commencement address at the University.

PATCH NAMED MANAGER OF FRESHMAN TRACK

M. A. Patch '37 was named manager of freshman track at the University of Vermont according to an announcement made recently from the office of Graduate Manager Salon C. Abell. Members of the 1937 class basketball team, which emerged victors in the annual inter-class tournament, were also named to receive class numerals.

The men are: B. W. Mullen, Saranac Lake, N. Y., D. P. Beattie, Guildhall, R. P. Munger, Peacham, R. J. Labelle, Burlington, R. P. Lawton, Fort Washington, L. J. M. Wheeler, Plymouth, N. H. and A. H. Ross, Middlebury. The tournament recently finished was sponsored by the Physical Education department.

HOOP SQUAD HAS NO RESPITE DURING EXAMS

Sabo Keeps Men in Condition With Practices in Auditorium

The University of Vermont has completed the first half of its basketball schedule. The team has won five games in seven starts, lost one of its two defeats by one point to Union 24 to 23 and gained a lead in the Green Mountain Conference series. That, considering the lack of material and the poor prospects at the beginning of the season, is an excellent record. The school is proud of it and proud of Coach Johnny Sabo.

The story does not stop there. There are mid-years, the annual bane of all students, particularly basketball players. They began January 21 and stop February 2. There has been no respite for Sabo's athletes, however. A schedule was prepared and through the entire exam period the Catamounts practice at various gymnasiums in town. With a series of State games at hand, Johnny is taking no chances.

Abe Steirn, the rugged right forward, is leading the team in scoring at the end of the first lap with 64 points or an average of nine a game. Whitey Palmer and Dick Duncan are next in order with the rest of the team distributed not evenly. Vermont has tallied some 253 points so far for an average of thirty-six points a game. On three occasions they have tallied over forty, against Norwich, Boston University and McGill, and only twice, against Union and Dartmouth, have they failed to score thirty.

SKIING CLASSES ADDED TO OUTDOOR SPORT LIST

Individual winter sports are fast becoming recognized as worthy of class credit, at the University of Vermont. The latest addition to a growing list of sports which may be undertaken in lieu of gym work is skiing. Announcement has been made that Jim Trachier, of Hanover, N. H., was to teach skiing at the University.

Trachier, of New Hampshire, is well known in winter sport circles throughout New England and was on teams at New Hampshire a few years back, when that institution was cleaning up all the New England inter college meets. He teaches skiing at Middlebury, at Mt. Mansfield, in Waterbury, and in Burlington, as well as at the University. His work here is being sponsored by the Mt. Mansfield Ski Club and the University Physical Education department.

Green and Gold Squad Surges in Closing Minutes to Win by Four Points

The Catamount basketball squad won its second game over the Norwich Cadets Wednesday night at Northfield as they edged the Horsemen 31-27. With the Cadets in the lead 24-19, the Green and Gold team put on a last minute drive to win by four points.

At half time Vermont was ahead 18-13 but Norwich soon filled up the gap and took the lead until the closing minutes. Williams of Norwich was high scorer with seven points and eleven collected over all the others.

There is a young national president of a certain sorority (which we had better not name) who is not so popular right now as she was a short time ago. Not quite. During the convention, when she was a candidate, her husband sent a gorgeous bouquet of flowers for the convention platform with his best wishes. She was elected; for the opposition broke down immediately. But then—then he submitted a bill of $50 to the sorority treasury for "flowers."

GILBERT AND SULLIVAN'S OPERA "RUDDIGORE" TO BE PRESENTED APRIL 25

Mrs. Taggart, Mrs. Bradish and Professor Bennett to Coach Annual Production

The music department has announced the choice of the opera to be presented this spring by the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs. Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera "Ruddigore" is the selection and try-outs are being held for parts at the Music Building today and tomorrow. Further try-outs will be held at a later date.

The date of the production is April 25. Mrs. Wilnetta Sproul Taggart will be the dramatic director, Mrs. Elizabeth Bradish the vocal coach, and Prof. H. G. Bennett the musical director. Scores and librettos may be borrowed from Professor Bennett.

The opera is an annual spring function of the music department. The last two have been very successful Gilbert and Sullivan productions.

SOPHOMORE HOP OPENS SOCIAL SEASON LAST WEEK AT HOTEL VT.

Sid Carsley and the Three School-Maids Entertain Large Crowd of Dancers

Friday night witnessed the most colorful event, socially speaking, of the school year to date, the Sophomore Hop, featuring Sid Carsley's new fourteen-piece ensemble and the Three Schoolmaids who have been currently featured for the past fourteen weeks on WGY radio broadcasts. The event lasted from eight-thirty to one.

The price, a mere $2.20, attracted many of the school socialites, and the multi-colored evening dresses of the women and the conventional black of the men created an impressive picture.

In charge of the affair were G. G. Shaw chairman of the Hop; J. Barsse in charge of advertising; P. F. [illegible] in charge of arrangements, and [illegible] Parker ex-officer.

V. C. A. CABINET AND ITS ADVISORY BOARD HOLD BANQUET AT Y. M. C. A.

Dinner Followed by Reports of Various Activities in Campus "Y"

A joint meeting of the advisory board and the Student Cabinet was held in one of the private dining rooms at the Community Y, Friday. Ten members of the advisory board and seven members of the Student Cabinet with M. D. Powers, graduate secretary, had supper at 6.30.

Prof. L. A. Woodward recounted briefly the history of the Christian Association on the college campus, which dates back to 1881, in which year it became definitely affiliated with the student movement then springing up in other colleges. For nearly fifty years before that there are records of religious work on the campus. In the old files one finds mention of candles being purchased to light the meeting room. R. C. Mildram told of the work of the deputation committee. Eight week-end appointments were filled in the first semester and nine are scheduled for the second semester. Over forty students have signed up to take part in this work.

L. A. Dickinson gave reports on the conferences he has attended, emphasizing the importance of students getting out to state and regional meetings. Dickinson made special mention of the group which meets three mornings in the week before classes for devotion. The meetings are held in the pastor's room of the Ira Allen Chapel.

A. S. Everest gave an account of the freshman cabinet work and the projects undertaken. During February there is being conducted a weekly "quest group" on war and peace.

R. S. Wright, chairman of the cabinet, presented details concerning the program for the remainder of the year, mentioning that Sherwood Eddy would be on the campus March 19 and 20. Attention was called to the mid-winter Northfield conference next week-end at Northfield, Mass., and the meeting at Camp Becket next June. Wright also mentioned some projects which were to be taken up at once to try to earn money needed to complete the year's program.

This is a second call for student assistance in the general Kake Walk program. Anyone who has, or thinks he has, any talent or ideas whatsoever is requested please to report same to W. E. Cass, C. D. Howe, P. T. Barker, P. C. Cummings, R. S. Wright, or Betty Rich immediately.

Fraternities must have outlines of stunts in by Friday night, February 15.

W. E. Cass '35.

Battle of Music is Feature Of Years Masquerade Ball

CHAIRMAN

F. J. Lanahan '35

CARSLEY'S AND BLACK PANTHERS ARE RIVALS AT KAKE WALK DANCE

The Masquerade Ball to be held the night before Kake Walk, will be an intercollegiate battle of music between Sid Carsley of Vermont and the Black Panthers of Middlebury. F. J. Lanahan '35 in charge of the dance promises a gala affair.

No requirements are made for costumes and it is hoped that the individual variation of last year will be repeated this year. Tickets for the ball are to be $1.10 for students, and $2.20 for general admission. The committee is offering special strip tickets admitting persons to both events.

Banquet at Hotel Van Ness

Arrangements for the father-son, mother-daughter banquet to be run in connection with this year's Kake Walk on Saturday, February 23, are nearing completion. The dinner will be held in the Ivory Room of the Hotel Van Ness and President Bailey will preside. Very brief speeches will be given by various members of administration, faculty and student body. The dinner itself, which will include roast turkey and all the fixins', through special arrangements made with the Van Ness management, will cost only one dollar.

Replies to the questionnaire cards sent out by the alumni office concerning this banquet have been returning steadily during the past week and the results are fairly satisfactory. Now that definite arrangements have been made for the dinner, students are urged to tell their parents about these and to ask them to come up for the Kake Walk and banquet.

This father-son, mother-daughter banquet should provide a splendid opportunity for the parents to become better acquainted with the college, the administration and faculty, and the students themselves. It is also expected materially to boost the attendance at Kake Walk.

CAMPAIGN FOR KAKE WALK KING TO START SOON

Following the precedent set last year, a Kake Walk King will be elected by the student body. He will preside over all Kake Walk activities including the Masquerade Ball and the production night. Details for the election will be announced later. The selection for Queen will be announced at the Masquerade Ball. Nothing definite is known but it is rumored that "Al" Tomassetti, "Phid" Barber and "Peaky" Flynn will announce their candidacies soon. All candidates are requested to get in touch with C. I. Keelan, 2665, as soon as possible. Watch Cynic and bulletin board for further announcements.

SECOND IN SERIES OF COMMISSIONS ON WAR AND PEACE TOMORROW AT 4

Group to Look at League, World Court and Paris Pact at Community Y

The second in the series of freshman commissions on war and peace will be held tomorrow afternoon at four at the Community Y. The topics to be considered are the League of Nations, the World Court and the Pact of Paris. F. G. Coombs and C. A. Maggs are preparing brief reports on these subjects and general discussion will follow. All freshman men are invited and urged to attend.

An enthusiastic group last week looked into the subject of "Munitions." Every one present participated and much valuable information was thereby contributed.

FRENCH EMBASSY GIVES VALUABLE BOOKS TO U. V. M.

The History department at the University of Vermont recently announced the acquisition of important and valuable books from the French government presented through the courtesy of the French Embassy at Washington. Most important among these are the "Documents Diplomatiques Francais," which are being printed in three series and range in background from 1870 to 1914. When completed the edition will run to nearly fifty volumes, all of which will probably be acquired by the department.

The other books, "La Crise Europeenne et la Grande Guerre," by Prof. Pierre Renouvin of the University of Paris and Poincare's "Memoirs," in nine volumes, are also invaluable additions to the department's library, declared Prof. Paul D. Evans. The "Documents" an addition to those of other countries already owned by the University, will provide a remarkable background for study of the Great War, in that the sentiments of all countries are presented, said Professor Evans.

FACULTY CONTRIBUTES TO BOTANICAL MEETING

Several members of the University of Vermont faculty took part in the recent two-day meeting of the State Botanical and Bird Clubs at the Fleming museum. Among them were Prof. E. J. Dole of the botany department, who read a paper on the new type and classification of plants; Prof. W. R. Adams of the botany and forestry departments, who discussed the "Relation of Birds to the Forest;" Prof. B. F. Lutman, plant pathologist, who talked on "The Search for Primitive Plants;" H. B. Eldred, assistant curator of the museum, who discussed "Bird Hunting with a Camera;" Prof. Paul A. Moody of the zoology department, who presented a paper on "A Study of Relationships by Means of Blood Tests," and W. P. Pierce of the botany department, who gave a study of "Ecological Groups."

One of the features of the meetings was a tour of the University greenhouses, where are assembled flowers and plants from different climates.

At the business meeting Professor Dole was elected secretary-treasurer of both organizations, and Mr. Eldred was elected editor-librarian of them.

TWO NEW ART EXHIBITS ON DISPLAY IN MUSEUM

Two new art exhibits are now open to the public at the Fleming museum of the University of Vermont. Of much interest in the preview was the large original painting by Renoir of "Le Moulin de la Galette." The other exhibit, also proving popular, is a display of Mexican frescoes.

The Renoir was painted in 1876 as a final and practically complete study for the larger picture now in the Louvre, and is one of the masterpieces of Renoir's impressionistic period.

The Mexican frescoes by Rivera are eighteen full color prints and twelve monotones from the reproductions of the Mexican frescoes in the ministry of education and national palace, Mexico City, the agricultural school at Chapingo, palace of Cortez, Cuernevaca.

The Renoir painting will be on view for one week and the Mexican frescoes for three weeks.

Winter Sports Lovers Visit Brownell Mountain Last Sunday

Track! Track! Track!" echoed down the north slope of Brownell Mountain last Sunday, and a snowy figure rounded around the turns and swept into the last long, straight aisle of pines on the trail which has just been "discovered" insofar as the skiing possibilities are concerned, by members of the V. M. Outing Club.

Emerging from a long period of inactivity and procrastination the club found itself surprised with the enthusiasm cutting it held. Twenty members were around at about ten o'clock in the morning and later enjoyed skiing which they previously had not believed existed near Burlington. A cabin at the foot of the trail provided a warm resting place for lunch, and at other times for those temporarily incapacitated by loss of wind from trying to jar too large a tree.

The trail up the small mountain begins in a pasture and leads up devious turns and twines to the top of the mountain from which one should look with awe upon the Champlain Valley. To the east one sees Burlington Bay frozen and beyond the scene of our afflictions. To the west one sees the "broad" of the lake, and the Adirondacks rising beyond in a misted mass, looking so very dark and cold. Last Sunday afternoon that one would not have been surprised to have seen a troop of Valkyries come galloping by, perhaps ski-joring behind their dragon wags. To the south, the lake stretched into the horizon. All was covered with snow; one might almost say sufficiently covered with snow.

At the base of the trail one might have seen Vivian Donaldson taking movies and Dave Hawley taking snapshots of Mr. Ivan Salls masterfully executing a Telemark; or Ray Sabin, Hotty Palmer and Frank Syme piling up on each other trying to accommodate the photographers by doing the run in echelon, or Gladys Sussdorff and Betsy Chase surprising the hikers with their ability to take the turns into stride; Harry Donahue experimenting with promising side trails (promising a fall, shall we say), and gaily singing, "Hie-dee! Hie-dee! Here comes another one!" Gwen Jones diligently striving to crouch and keep her skis apart in response to loud and varied suggestions coming from those who attended the first class of Jim Trachter's ski course; the snowshoers looking a bit wistfully at the graceful (?) skiers, who seemed to be enjoying life so much more quickly and more intensely than they.

In the cabin coffee was brewed, an unsavory, muddy looking concoction which later turned out above all expectations for lunch. The Franklin stove threw a welcome warmth about the room to those engaged in the serious occupation of eating, for by that time it was serious. Not much talking was heard, only the mastication of food. A large couch stretched opposite the stove, and on and from the ends of this in a semi-circle the eaters enjoyed the open fire.

More skiing and hiking—and then at 5.30 the party regretfully departed to ski across the fields to the Hinesburg road where Mr. Salls had parked his new Ford demonstration truck in which he graciously conveyed the group to and from their day's pleasure. They arrived at the University gym at six o'clock.

The club is greatly indebted to both Mr. Salls for his truck and to Miss Mable Brownell who so kindly gave permission to use the cabin on such occasions.

VANDALISM

Some children are plain clever tricksters, but when these same little boys and girls destroy property out of an insane desire to be funny, then they are going too far. It seems to make no difference to them whether the property is valuable or not, even if it is almost impossible to replace it.

This latest bit of vandalism, we may well call it, occurred in the Billings Library. Some clever boy or girl tore seven pages from the Encyclopedia. The section removed was on the Modern Novel. The book so damaged was the latest edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica which is to the shelves just north of the front door of the library.

For persons or persons may wish to know the volume they have destroyed cannot be replaced unless an entire new set is bought. The volumes are not sold singly. The library has to operate on rather limited funds and since the set is only a few years old will not be able to replace it for several years.

It would seem that the very least the offender could do would be to return the pages to the librarians. They could be fastened in place and would serve as silent testimony. We are unable to find words to adequately express our opinion of this vandal.

COLLEGE GIVES STUDY

By Intercollegiate Newspaper Service

St. Louis, Mo.—A two-day study period immediately preceding final examinations has been voted by the faculty of Washington University, here, following the plans of students. That days were not given sufficient time for adequate preparation for their exams.

The suggestion originally made by the student body undergraduate newspaper was brought before the faculty but received little favor until after there in the meeting Dr. George A. Stevens, dean of students, presented it to the group.

It was said

Instructors, examination week has always necessitated going the pace of the regular class work. In the case of many students on account of their outside activities they had several days between exams on the first day of term in the period.

In most cases they had fair claim that they lacked sufficient time to make adequate preparation for their examinations. It is generally recognized that there was some merit in this view. Accordingly it was adopted the present plan of providing a two-day period in which all of the students could be able to do the greatest amount of reviewing and be prepared to take the examinations when they occur.

It goes without saying that it was farthest from the intention of the faculty that this period would be used as a holiday. It is almost certain that it is according to the use that the majority of students make of the two days whether the faculty will continue or suspend the present plan.

To assist students who might have questions which have come up during their review members of the faculty will remain in their offices during the two-day period.

And The Walls Came Tumbling Down

throughout the agricultural South.

Recently I received a letter from a young man in a small town in New York asking what he might do to further the cause of tariff reform. I have received many similar letters within the past few months, but I singled out this one in particular because the young man makes a definite suggestion. "I have often wondered," he writes, "whether there might not be room in this country for a great organization devoted to the cause of tariff reform. It would have to be an educational organization built very much along the lines of Cobden's Anti-Corn-Law League which operated so successfully in England a hundred years ago. . . . I feel the need for an organization of this sort is great, and that there are men who would gladly work for so worthy a cause. As a young man of 23, I realize too well my own limitations for such a part. But this should not keep me from being willing to work along with those best fitted to lead such a movement, even if it were in a most humble capacity."

I am prompted to quote this letter because there can not be the slightest question about the disinterestedness of its author. He has no ax to grind. No "selfish motive" impelled him to write to me.

I decided to make this young man's letter the subject of an article because of my reaction to two other expressions which have come to my notice since receiving it. One of these was a passage in an article by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace appearing in the New York Times. The other was the opening sentences of an address by Dr. Benjamin M. Anderson, Jr., economist of the Chase National Bank, delivered before the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Secretary Wallace's article was a reply to certain critics of the Government's cotton program, and it singled out particularly the group composed of cotton shippers, ginners, and the like, declaring that the activities of this group were misdirected. "If this group is in earnest about a permanent solution of the problem," Secretary Wallace writes, "it should neglect no opportunity to make its influence felt in demanding that this country permit increases of its imports and thus contribute to the development of an increased foreign purchasing power and a reestablishment of the processes of international trade in which it has a vital stake. This group should never be absent from a hearing on tariff adjustment. It should appeal constantly to all sources of authority for such readjustments as would reopen foreign markets on a sound, permanent basis."

The opening sentences of Dr. Anderson's address are very much to the point here. "Washington," he said, "is today subject to terrific pressure from many groups, each seeking to get from the Government and from the rest of the country something of special advantage to itself. Any one group of a dozen could get what it wanted might better its position but when many groups all succeed in getting what they want each at the expense of the rest of the country difficulties obviously arise for all at times. We are going to solve our economic problems instead of merely delivering them only if we look at the whole country and the interrelations of the various elements of the country and only if we also see the country's interrelations with the rest of the world."

I think it will be obvious why I related these two expressions to this young man's letter. Secretary Wallace's suggestion to the cotton shippers, if acted upon, would only add another pressure group to the general scramble at Washington, but not a less powerful one from the standpoint of political influence. Indeed the whole tone of Secretary Wallace's article indicates that he has become convinced that other pressure groups are too powerful to be overcome. "Unless ways can be found to increase American imports," he writes, "the recovery of cotton exports on a permanent basis is doubtful. And it may be that the tariff protected industries will not permit this to be done." In other words, the pressure of the tariff-protected industries is too great to be overcome by that of other groups. The administration is powerless to do something which "the tariff-protected industries will not permit."

Only an upheaval among the people, an awakening of the man in the street and of the folks at the forks of the creek can be expected to bring about a change. And unless such an upheaval of the people can be brought about, I am afraid we are sunk.

I am going to attempt to launch a fighting organization devoted to the task of arousing the people of the United States (not merely of Texas or of the South) to the support of a program of international cooperation, a program which will include the lowering of trade barriers of all kinds, the settlement of the intergovernmental debts once and for all, the stabilizing of international exchange, and the doing of whatever else is necessary to unshackle and restore international trade, and thereby make possible the restoration of the prosperity and resumption of the progress of the United States.

This article, then, is in the nature of a call to everybody who feels as this young man does that "the need for an organization of this sort is great." I want to hear from ordinary, everyday people, people who have no "vital stake" in the matter, such as Secretary Wallace says the cotton shippers have, but who are concerned only about the general welfare of the people as a whole and of the country as a whole.

I deliberated considerably over this matter before deciding to make this suggestion. Having made it, I propose to stay with it until something tangible results. Write me what you think.

MESERVEY SOLVES PROBLEM OF AGES

For some time the well-known scientist E. B. Meservey has been in a state of near collapse from the shock brought on by the VERMONT CYNIC in reprinting his Second Law of Infinitesimals by mistake, but after a contrite apology by this paper he was induced by his assistant, Bertie, to extend his forgiveness. He now announces that he and Bertie have solved the problem that has troubled physicists ever since science was but a name—the problem of the irresistible force and the immovable obstacle. The law, in its simplest form, states:

Should an irresistible force be exerted on a body which is incapable of motion, the absolute component of the resultant force in relation to the transverse component of the resistance is the reciprocal of the mean inverse ratio of the logarithm of the original force and the square root of the absolute component of the resultant force.

This achievement has won the enthusiastic acclaim of the foremost thinking men of the entire world. Indeed, Aristotle himself might conceivably have said, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant." Mr. Meservey remains untouched by fame, however, and bars himself from all visitors. His next law is nearing completion and will appear in a short time.

THE SPORTING EYE

Of interest to the athletic world is the report emanating from the recent congress in Boston of the National Student Federation regarding intercollegiate athletic practices.

Delegates voiced a strenuous objection to "the almost universal violation of amateur standards in college athletics" and then proposed "open subsidization of college athletes as a remedy to present-day conditions" specifying that each college should handle this subsidization in its own way.

An amendment to this resolution was added which said "that the athlete subsidized should be of good character and a good student as well as a good athlete, and that these subsidizations should be handled directly through the institutions as other scholastic helps are handled." Suggestions were made that athletic clubs donate monies for subsidization but control should stop there.

In the discussion which followed these facts were brought out: that athletes risk dangerous injury; that they give much time to training that often so fatigues them that study is difficult; that money derived from competition of these athletes is used for new buildings, support of athletic programs, and other worthwhile projects, while the athletes are supposed to do all this for the honor and glory, training in life work, the good of the university, and so on. What do you think about it?

Evidently the Cadets didn't appreciate the result of the last U. V. M.-Norwich basketball game. The Norwich Guidon [illegible] correspondent says: "For some reason or other Vermont seems to get the breaks as far as referees go. I have yet to see them get a well officiated game in any sport. Vermont is still beating us by close scores, but there'll come a day." To these remarks we simply say: That's your story.

SPECIAL LOW RATES TO AMERICANS OFFERED BY MOSCOW SUMMER SCHOOL

A special low rate will many undoubtedly our American students, teachers and those interested in higher education and sociological subjects has recently been announced by the Moscow Summer School to convene in the Soviet Union from July 10 to August 25 according to A. K. Dawson. The institution initiating summer studies in Russia was first organized in 1923 and promoted by a group of Americans. Last season's enrollment at the University attracted students from Canada, Mexico, Latin America, Scandinavia and the Far East.

Two hundred and twelve students attended the 1932 session. Among them were undergraduates, teachers, principals, professors, psychologists, social workers, physicians, nurses and artists. Some of those attending had Ph.D. and M.A. degrees. One young man was a grandson of a former president of the United States.

During the summer of 1933 the Moscow University will offer a variety of courses. Enrollments are accepted for one or more courses each course taking thirty hours. The total number of classroom hours may not exceed ninety.

Instruction is in the English language, by an all Soviet faculty of professors and specialists. From time to time the school is addressed by prominent Soviet leaders. The State University of Moscow certifies academic credit to those foreign students meeting the requirements of the university and completing a course of study in its Anglo-American Section. The Summer Session is officially an organizational part of the Moscow State University.

Arts in the U. S. S. R.
Literature of Russia and the Soviet Union.
Principles of the Collective and Socialist Society.
Justice and the Correctional Policy of the Soviet Union.
Organization of Public Health and Socialized Medicine.
System of Education in the U. S. S. R.
Science and Technic in the U. S. S. R.
Survey of Psychological Research.
History of the Soviet Union.
Economic Policy and Geography of the U. S. S. R.
Philosophy of Dialectical Materialism.
Advanced Russian for Foreigners (Language).

In addition to the study courses in Moscow, the student will have his choice of six tours, visiting the principal cities. The tours, which are included as part of the Summer School work, have been specially organized. They include journeys on the Volga, to the Crimea district and the Black Sea ports, the Caucasus and the new industrial center of the Kharkov section, also to Odessa and Kiev.

ALUMNI BODY ASKED TO SUPPORT PROJECT

With an increase in alumni activity felt at the University of Vermont an appeal has gone out from H. B. Ostley, of Great Neck, L. I., N. Y., president of the Alumni Council, calling on alumni to formulate and support some definite alumni project.

"A Student Union and Commons," he says, "has been stressed by many as most urgent. The need for a Library Extension is also recognized as pressing. The need for a Field House at Centennial Field is well known and has many strong advocates. The attainment of any one of these objectives would be a worthy undertaking for the alumni as a body."

That alumni are interested is evidenced by the fact that two articles supporting Mr. Ostley's contention have recently appeared in the Alumni Weekly. One of them, written by M. D. Powers of the class of 1915, now graduate secretary of the Vermont Christian Association at the University, advocates in detailed plan a Student Union or Center building. The other, written by Louis F. Dow of Burlington, also a member of the class of 1915, advocates a Field House for Centennial Field, with offices, dressing rooms for teams and guest privileges.

It is estimated that approximately 95 percent of the 200,000 men and women who enter United States colleges and universities each year do so on certificates from high schools or private schools, while the remaining 5 percent enter after passing entrance examinations.

MAPLE SUGAR FESTIVAL TO BE HELD MARCH 1ST

All Towns in State to Take Part in Farm Bureau Project

The Executive Committee of the Farm Bureau, at a meeting held recently, decided to sponsor a Maple Sugar Festival in almost every town in the State the evening of March 1.

Early in the evening it is planned to hold a Banquet which will center largely around Maple Sugar on snow. After supper there will be dancing and an opportunity for both old and young to enjoy themselves. In some places the recreation will take the form of a card party.

Already representatives of the State Farm Bureau have arranged for the County Chairmen, who in turn will cooperate with the Chairmen for the towns within their territory. Although these arrangements have not been made public, already this unique Maple Sugar Festival is meeting with great favor among Vermont Farm folks, also among town officials. In some places the latter have already come forward and expressed their willingness to donate the use of the hall.

The aim behind this project is to push forward the promotional work in the advertising of Vermont pure maple products and thus help the individual farmer who sells maple syrup.

Heretofore the advertising which has been done to help increase the sale of pure maple products has been left largely to the Vermont Farm Bureau and sugar producers. It is felt that if the Maple Sugar Festival is the success its sponsors believe it will be not only will it help to draw attention to one of the State's choicest products but it will become an annual event to which Vermonters may look forward from year to year.

It is expected that between one hundred fifty and two hundred towns will, March 1, join in this unusual celebration to put pure maple syrup in its rightful place. Tickets will be on sale in the near future.

"Great sacrifices have been made by certain producers in the past," states Arthur H. Packard. "They have carried on the promotional work and stabilized the Maple Sugar Industry. The aim is to use the proceeds realized from this occasion to help push the sale of maple syrup everywhere. This will not only further the interests of the individual sugar maker but all Vermont will be helped. Thus we can all go forward together."

"The Maple Sugar Festival will also, we believe, revive old fashioned neighborliness in the towns in which the Festival is held. Farmers will mingle with their village friends, people will get better acquainted and the spirit of friendliness will increase. "The coperation already shown," states Mr. Packard "assures me that this affair is going over in a big way and is going to do much to put sugar producers of Vermont on their feet."

The Rev. A. Ritchie Lowe of [illegible] who has taken a number of [illegible] parish each year on a [illegible] and you presenting Vermont Syrup to Americans [illegible] lic life, has been made State [illegible] and will cooperate with [illegible] town committees.

GILBERT AND SULLIVAN'S "RUDDIGORE" SELECTED FOR SPRING OPERA

Parts in Production Being Selected—Opera to be Held April 25

[illegible] the annual spring opera, [illegible] the music department at [illegible] of Vermont, has been announced as Gilbert and Sullivan's "Ruddigore." The men's and women's glee clubs participate in the production [illegible] now being selected, with chorus rehearsals to follow. The date set for the presentation is April 25.

Mrs. Wilbetta Sproul Taggart, who has directed many of the University plays, will be dramatic director of the production. Miss Elizabeth Bradish of the music department will be the vocal coach, and Prof. [illegible] Bennett, head of the music department, will be musical director.

The opera is an annual spring event of the music department. The last two years have seen Gilbert and Sullivan selections.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB TO SING IN PORTLAND

Thirty Students to Travel on March 1 to Join Intercollegiate Contest

[illegible], singing Vermonters will leave [illegible] on February 28 for Portland, [illegible] where the New England Men's [illegible] concert will be held March 1. [illegible] college makes its choice of two [illegible] from the list selected by the sponsors. The Vermonters will sing "Away Southward We Go" by Bartholomew and "Lo, How A Red Rose E'er Blooming" by Praetorius.

The men have been holding four rehearsals a week under the direction of Prof. H. G. Bennett. Two years ago Vermont men won fourth place in the competition, and a betterment of that record is expected in this contest.

On their return a concert by both the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs will be given in the middle of March.

FACULTY MEN TO ATTEND CONFERENCES

Several members of the University of Vermont faculty will attend mid-winter educational conferences this month.

Prof. B. H. Wallace, associate professor of secondary education; Prof. E. H. Reeder, associate professor of education; and Prof. Sara M. Holbrook, assistant professor of education, will attend the meeting of the National Education Association to be held in Atlantic City February 24-28. Professor Reeder on his return will stop to fill speaking engagements at Fairfield and Greenwich, Conn.

Prof. W. R. Adams, assistant professor of botany and forestry, will attend the meeting of the New England section of the American Association of Foresters to be held in Springfield, Mass., February 21. State and college forestry departments of New England will be represented at the conference, and Professor Adams will represent the University of Vermont department.

MEETING TO DISCUSS EDUCATIONAL LEGISLATION

[illegible] bill on education, recently [illegible] into the legislature, will be [illegible] of the morning discussion of [illegible] of the Champlain Valley [illegible] superintendents with the University of Vermont on Saturday of this week. These meetings are held each [illegible] during the winter months. Prof. Thomas Wallace of the education department of the University is president [illegible] group. At the afternoon meeting this week the discussion of the morning will be followed by a discussion [illegible] section of the Commission of [illegible] report which deals with [illegible] schools and vocational educa-

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 10.00 A.M. IN THE GYM

By special request of the Kake Walk Committee, the President has kindly consented to allow us a half hour Saturday morning to enable the student body and faculty to hear the platforms set forth by the candidates for that most exalted of all honors, namely, "King of Kake Walk." Don't miss it! Also, watch for announcements concerning a broadcast.

TICKET BOOKS REQUIRED AT RAZZ-DAZZ TO BE HELD TOMORROW NIGHT

Eddie Starr Again Features and the Usual Dime the Admission Token

Again Saturday night, the gym will be the scene of one of those popular Razz-Dazz's. The Boulder Society will be in charge, and W. E. Cass '35 chairman, promises a good time for all. The music will be furnished by the popular Eddie Stair, who drew such a large crowd at the last Razz-Dazz.

Due to complaints from various sources concerning the last Razz-Dazz, the head of the University Council has ruled that only college students may attend. To make this possible it will be necessary to have each one bring his ticket book.

This does not mean, however, that students cannot attend with outsiders—one of the couple must be a U. V. M. student. There must be one ticket book per couple.

All stags are cordially invited as usual. But don't forget your ticket books—and dimes.

NOTICE

There will be a Boulder meeting at the Kappa Sigma house on Sunday, February 17, at 7.00 p.m.

This is the last call for student talent to take part in the Kake Walk program. All those talented or with ideas please see W. E. Cass, C. D. Howe, P. T. Barker, P. C. Cummings, R. S. Wright or Betty Rich.

Drawing for fraternity stunt positions in Kake Walk program will take place at the Delta Psi house on Sunday, February 17, at 2.00 p.m. Each fraternity entering should send one representative.

Dress rehearsals will be held Saturday, February 23, in the gym, starting at 1.00 p.m.

FROSH TO DEBATE DARTMOUTH FROSH

First Frosh Debate for Second Semester to Be Held March 5

The first debate scheduled for the freshman team this semester is with the Dartmouth freshmen on March 5. The subject will be: Resolved, "That the nations of the world should agree to prevent the international shipment of arms and munitions."

Other debates planned for the freshmen are with St. Michael's and Middlebury. These will probably be on the subject: Resolved, "That the federal government should adopt a policy of equalizing educational opportunity throughout the nation by means of annual grants to the several states for public elementary and secondary education." The dates for these debates has not yet been arranged. The freshmen are holding meetings every Thursday at 7.30 p.m. at the Fleming Museum, which are open to anyone wishing to try out.

LUCKY BED CASTER REPLACES RABBITT'S FOOT

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

East Lansing.—Much Rabbits' feet may be the pet good luck pieces of most football players, but Eddie Rolon, sophomore basketball forward of the Michigan State College five, trusts his fate to a bed caster.

Rolon carried a bed caster throughout high school as a good luck omen, and he still retained it when he became a member of the Spartan squad. When he enters a game he always hands the caster to Edward Kemp, student manager, for safekeeping. Very few are allowed to handle it because of fear the special charm it is supposed to hold will escape.

HIGH STANDING HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS DO BEST IN COLLEGES

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Buffalo, N. Y.—"Superior high school students almost invariably become the better college students," Edward Safford Jones, of the University of Buffalo, stated here recently.

And in giving a reason for this statement, Mr. Jones continued: "Because the foundation work they have taken in high school overlaps with, or is the basis for, course work in college.

"There is obvious direct duplication in high school and college courses," he said. "The average college, for example, gives the same course in chemistry or European history to those students who have had the respective field of study in high school and to those who have not."

In defense of his theory that students should not be permitted to lag their way through college, he said: "Students who have taken college work, with the A.B. degree in three years at the University of Buffalo, have been found to enter into extra-curricular activities to the same extent as those equally bright students who took four years for the A.B. degree. The great majority did not feel that they were unduly hurried."

BOULDER INVITES FACULTY TO KAKE WALK BANQUET

Teaching Staff to Meet Parents and Students at Festival at Van Ness Hotel Saturday

The father son, mother daughter banquet to be given in connection with this year's Kake Walk will be held in the Ivory Room of the Hotel Van Ness from 5.30 to 8.00 p.m. Saturday, February 23 prior to Kake Walk. President Redell will preside.

All the faculty are most cordially invited to attend and meet the parents of the students. If they find it impossible to attend the banquet itself, the committee sincerely hopes they can come up to the Van Ness to "meet the folks" before dinner. The committee suggests the faculty come at five to make the acquaintance of the parents. But if it can possibly be managed it is most sincerely hoped that the entire faculty will be present.

Any student whose parents are not able to attend the banquet need not feel that he is excluded from an invitation, for he too is urged to come and meet his schoolmates' parents.

Very brief speeches will be given by various members of the administration, faculty, and student body. The dinner itself, which will include roast turkey and all the fixin's through special arrangements made with the Van Ness management, will cost only one dollar.

CHILDREN'S ACTIVITIES AT MUSEUM SUSPENDED BY SCARLET FEVER

Children's activities at the Fleming museum of the University of Vermont have been suspended during the scarlet fever ban of public places in Burlington. Every week scores of boys and girls from Burlington, and on occasion from surrounding towns, gather at the museum for recreational and educational purposes. The second year class of teacher training girls conduct a story-telling hour at this time for their benefit, several clubs have been formed, and moving pictures and talks are provided. All of these activities have been discontinued until the ban is lifted.

FRATERNITIES REHEARSE STUNTS IN PREPARATION FOR KAKE WALK FETE

Variegated Program Assured by Diversity of Subject-matter Offered in Skits

[illegible] as how the day of reckoning [illegible] Kake Walk [illegible] Saturday, February 23, the fraternities entering stunts go deep in rehearsals for their respective turns.

Most fraternities seem to be entering into the spirit of Kake Walk," said W. E. Cass '35, who is in charge of affairs. "This may be because it is easier to put on a ten-minute skit than a fifteen minute one, as was done formerly.

The fraternities would do well to get in as many rehearsals as possible before the final day in order to avoid a most embarrassing situation which arises from good material but bad preparation. All thank-yous for this good advice should be tendered to Bill Cass who certainly ought to know.

"Do you suppose people who must know what is to be presented before you go up after this meal. There will be [illegible] on the Vermont Legislature and Athletic Council, a fast house skirt and a good old fashioned medicine man with [illegible] to the marriage to your cheap," other typical skits will follow.

CHOIR AND ORCHESTRA CONCERT HELD AT MUSEUM YESTERDAY

A concert by the University Choir and Chapel Orchestra at the University of Vermont with Miss Miriam Noyes Morton of the music department as soloist at the organ was given Thursday night at the regular weekly vesper hour. The [illegible] Choral "Sinfonia" consisted of Bach, Mozart, Mendelssohn, Schubert and Handel numbers. It was open to the public.

"DUTCH TREAT" AS A PERMANENT CAMPUS ACTUALITY VISUALIZED

Arguments for Social Equality Voiced by Cynic Reporter

"Dutch Treat" has recently become a subject on which every student on the campus has at some time or other voiced his or her opinions. More and more this subject keeps cropping up before the students of every campus and only time will tell whether we are to see a more socialized and modernistic campus with Dutch Treat in full swing, or a conservative backward and antiquated social life with our meth-eaten system.

We shall herewith endeavor to convince the skeptics that the financial cooperation on the part of both male and female of the species is the only logical outcome of the present tendency towards equality, and the abolition of the double standard.

Since the dawn of time it has been the custom for the male to seek the company of the female and vice versa. Women (God bless 'em) are gradually progressing on the inevitable rights of the men and it is only just that a proportion of rights should go hand in hand with acquisition of obligations appurtenable thereto. Consider this situation. Woman has risen to an equal status with Man. Man's former obligations were dependent on the inferior position of Woman. Therefore Man's obligations are now canceled. They still seek each other's company, and the obligations formally those of the male must now be mutual.

College students, both male and female, attend college with a taxed and stipulated income. If it is necessary for the male to pay for both his date and himself, his expenses are just double. Were the female to share the financial burden equally her social life would be doubled since obviously the male would be able to afford twice as many dates as before. In addition to creating grave social inequality this situation of the party to an

Campaign Managers Announce Kake Walk King Candidates

After careful consideration of our campus I feel that our good fortune to name [illegible] a man whose deeds have brought [illegible] the heart [illegible] of the school. His [illegible] personality has caused him to [illegible] the place of [illegible] honorary [illegible]. After much persuasion on our part, the Democratic Party, and many [illegible] in the Green [illegible] consented to be our candidate [illegible] the student body. [illegible] Mac Is served. We will [illegible] no longer our candidate is [illegible] that discovering personality [illegible] all know so well [illegible] Democratic College.

[illegible] (Latin or [illegible] proper) [illegible], [illegible] and [illegible] other [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] (Latin) [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

How long may [illegible] advocate a share of our wealth [illegible] Father Coughlin to remain out of the World Court Senator [illegible] and the advantage of silver but our candidate James Lucius Gillespie Collegian advocates a woman's smoking room in school buildings dances between periods in the Old Mill Chapel, formal dances until dawn, serving of that beverage that made Milwaukee famous at the Junior Prom and the abolition of freshman and final examinations.

Maintaining these public policies at the expense of no less Vermont tradition to be cast and crowned in her honor, will begin to enjoy the delights of peace, while attacked Middlebury mentors in every corner under the accumulated pressure of administrative authority—measures which will be started by our student body at our government Mr. Gillespie is not elected. In commenting upon his candidacy Mr. Gillespie said:

"I would gladly have declined the honor had I thought myself unequal. While I have not the earlier passions and [illegible] possess I believe I have the calmness and [illegible] which the [illegible] importance of this occasion demands.

"The Legislature threw off the yoke of [illegible] in requiring [illegible] the student body at Vermont to suspend the honor of [illegible] one program of antiquated trade [illegible]. The day I trust the reign of [illegible] protectionism and commerce. We have experienced the struggle of loyalty and [illegible] hope the odds we have faced down the days [illegible] see not cars that bear me and heart like the nether millstone. Therefore I humbly beg the support of the student body in the forthcoming election."

We as supporters of this candidate hope that you will give him your utmost support.

FOR PEAKY FLYNN

As the campaign for Kake Walk King progresses Mr. I. Pluribus Unum announces that Peaky Flynn candidate for the office is the All American Spectator. He will stand on a platform of wood. Mr. Flynn stated that he was forced to withdraw from the Dark Horse Party, whose system stole the horse. The highlight of the campaign will be in the appearance of Mr. Flynn at the gym on Saturday, February 16, at 10 a.m. at which time he will expound the theories of Spectatism.

PEAKY FLYNN

FOR ITZEL ROSENBLATT

After careful scrutiny of the rival candidate's platforms I find that in all interests to the student body of Vermont the platforms of these candidates do not cover the returns that you the students anticipate.

The conservatives in their very windy and lengthy bulletins touch but lightly upon the major issues of our campus. They are trying to hoax the people by [illegible] the issues that our student body wants. True they will give all night dancing, if anyone is fool enough to want to dance all night, but what of the other six days of the week? Do the poor needs have to eat out as usual? I feel sure that as you intelligent students can easily see. My candidate wants you and fellow students he will give you more freedom than you get today. He will obtain unlimited privileges for the women. His policy is to give you girls of the school permission to take any night out till eleven two nights a week and twelve and every Saturday you may have your pleasure where you will until one a.m.

Another feature that he will give us is the Dutch Treat. This is a major interest of the day and he refuses to pass over it as does his opponents. He will also establish a date bureau so that every student in our school may find a member of the opposite sex to suit his taste. Get behind the Student Saviour as that is the aim of my candidate.

And who is this man of the hour. This man why so bravely steps forth to do battle for his scholastic brothers and sisters. A man whose one ambition is to see that his backers, and those who follow may they be a minority get the things they want. And this man, who is over-blessed with physical and mental powers to put through your ideas a man other than one of your fellow classmates. I. M. Rosenblatt.

It has been shown that every tribe or community whose members are at a low age level has a stagnant. This evidenced by the many big or fast moving units that are now sweeping the country, with those parts making up the movements acting as guides to shepherd up to the age of maturity.

Standing alone however without any older group fostering their activities are the college youths of the nation, left, so to speak, to stand and defend their own rights. College educated youths are the Last Legion, with never a chance for employment, and for whom all avenues of work are closed.

It is up to us to blast open the opportunities for the youth of today and we, the Intercollegiate Youth Organizations are the first to take the offensive. In this way college youths will be able to regain their rights to public.

President Roosevelt, in his policy of reconstruction is transcending beyond ordinary political lines. His projects are appreciated and understood mainly by college trained men. The inspirations are of our president though the plans of formation and organization are integrated by the best minds in the country, namely professors of the colleges and universities who are now known as the Brain Trusters.

This organization was formed to work in line with this new social reconstruction program and assist the President, that he may realize the dream of these educators and Brain Trusters, who have placed themselves beyond political touch. These Brain Trusters require the educated people to back them, not only for the present but later on, that their projects may be carried to a higher goal.

Up to this time the young men and women played an insignificant part in the realm of politics in the United States. The older political minds always regarded the younger element with little respect or concern, but events of the past two years have given rise to the prominence of young people in the political arena.

Our organization was formed to provide a medium for the entrance of the young citizenry of this country into politics. We desire to elevate the low standards of politics existing heretofore, so that everyone will be eager to participate and so that we may develop leadership, civic responsibility and a better understanding of our government.

The scientific analysis made by Dr. Theodore B. Brameld, of Long Island University, Brooklyn, N. Y., of the college students in the United States, taken in cross sections, as to the opinion of our college youth on the following topics, brought these results. "It is shown that 78 percent of politics is a tool of wealth and when 76 percent of the students can say justice cannot be obtained in our courts, is certainly an indictment against the knowledge of social, governmental and civic affairs of our educated youth. They all favor the New Deal policies and recommend social reconstruction through government ownership, but it does not lend itself to communism or socialism."

This survey of the economic conditions of today and the change of the scope of Politics brought about by President Roosevelt and the New Deal, paved the way and justified the formation of this League just a year old. The Intercollegiate Democratic League of New York, Inc. is composed of students, former students and graduates of all the colleges and universities. It has a membership of over 75,000. Plans are now in progress for a nation-wide movement under the name of The Intercollegiate Organizations of America with divisions already started in ten states. Our policy is to weigh the value of all candidates put up for office by either party, we will put forth one of our members, best qualified for that position. Picking the right men for office is vital to our existence and that of our government, as the future holds more and greater burdens for our governments and, simultaneously, greater responsibility for the electorate. It is therefore, incumbent upon us to see that in every case only such persons reach public office who believe in the righteousness and efficiency of the New Deal. They should be willing to sacrifice class interest for the interests of the whole people as manifested by our president. In fact, it is the election of the right people to the right office within the coming few years that will decide the faith of the United States, for many years to come.

It is our purpose and policy outlined above, we are prepared to meet this challenge and not only are we enlisting the intercollegiates into this movement, but we are endeavoring to instruct the people of our nation to vote at every election and vote intelligently.

OLD TINSIDES

[illegible] was a [illegible] on high,
And many a [illegible] has laughed to see
"Old [illegible]" passing by,

[illegible] a bargain the old exhaust
And taxed the engine's [illegible],
But memory of the city streets
Shall soon be seen no more.

Her sides once bright with shining paint
Will not show a polished glow.
Worn wheels were bowling 'er the Ford
And ruts were rough below.

No more shall know the owner's hand
Or hear his shouts of glee —
The cyclones of the land shall take
Their heap o' misery!

Oh! better that her battered hulk
You should not try to save;
Her rubbish shook the rubbish pile
And there should be her grave.

Strip her of her useful parts,
Break every worn out hunk,
And give her to the gods of waste—
The rubbish and the junk.

UNIQUE TOURNAMENT TO BE HELD IN MARCH AT UNIVERSITY OF IOWA

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Iowa City, Ia.—Universities and colleges from ten states will be represented at the University of Iowa's most unique forensic tournament which will open here March 1.

In addition to debates on four different questions, a "Congressional Session" will be held at the tournament. A member of President Roosevelt's cabinet will choose the topic for discussion at this session of "Congress," which is believed to be the first of its kind ever held. The usual rules and procedures of the National Congress will be followed, and a vote will be taken after the discussion is closed.

HANDBALL TOURNAMENT REACHES FINAL STAGES

Meligonis to Play Winner of Burns-Noonan Match for Championship

The handball tournament which started on January 12 is nearing its final stages. In the semi-finals Burns will encounter Noonan, Meligonis defeated Renzone in the other semi-final match. Meligonis displayed great ability in defeating Renzone and showed clearly that he was the better man by the score of 21-1 and 21-3. By virtue of this win Meligonis will play the winner between Burns and Noonan for the championship.

FIRST CALL ISSUED FOR CANDIDATES IN ANNUAL HEXATHLON COMPETITION

Rules Released by Physical Ed. Dept. Controlling Competition

The University Hexathlon Championship will be held this year and will consist of six events as follows: The high jump, shot put, broad jump, 440 yard dash, rope climb, and the mile run. The events will be conducted on the point basis and the winner will receive the "Donahue Trophy." All events are to be held indoors. The purpose of such a series of competitions is to bring out the well developed all-around athlete. The student winning such a championship can be considered the best individual all-around athlete in the University.

The Rules Governing The University Hexathlon Are:

1. Contestants must enter each event to be eligible for final rating and award. A student entering the competition agrees to compete in each event.
2. All places shall be awarded on a point basis.
3. The mean for each event equals 1,000 points. For mark above or below this mean use weighted table for points to be added or deducted in arriving at the rating for each event.
4. The man winning the highest total number of points will be awarded the Championship and Trophy.
5. Eligibility.
   (a) All men students of the University who are candidates for a bachelor's degree.
   (b) Men who are under warning or on probation are not eligible.
6. Training Requirements.
   (a) Since the events are to be held in two groups of three events each, on two separate days, it is absolutely necessary that all contestants be in the finest possible physical condition. To this end therefore, each entrant to be eligible will be required to report to Mr. Post, for training purposes, at least nine (9) times prior to the holding of the last three (3) events.
   (b) Before competing for the mile run, each contestant must pass a physical examination on the afternoon preceding that event.

From 1802 to June 1934, 10,182 cadets have been graduated from the United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y.

It would take 503 years for one person to complete all of the courses now being offered by Yale University, New Haven, Conn.

After doing graduate work at Harvard and resident work at Columbia, he and resident work at Columbia, he became an instructor at Burlington High School where he continued for six years. In 1910 he became an instructor at Harvard where he stayed for two years after which he came to the University of Vermont in 1914 as assistant professor of mathematics.

Professor Thompson was one of the most popular and best loved men ever to be associated with the University both in the field of teaching and athletics. It is only fitting therefore that each year we commemorate his name with the Hexathlon contest.

CAT'S MEOW

By Sports' Editor

Yes, the Panthers doubled the score on the Cats last Tuesday, but the score by no means indicates the relative strength of the two teams.

We must congratulate the strength of Middlebury, we add that in no game since this season has there been such a large percentage of baskets made from mid-floor with the Panthers caging most of them in an uncanny fashion.

All the boys feel that they "have one" over Don Cook when he brings his squad to Burlington in a return game. The courts in the two gyms differ greatly, give the visiting team plenty of trouble.

Once again it's the old story of a state series game. As predicted on this column, a conference battle is more difficult than predicting the weather a week hence.

Thus we have nothing to say in regard to the game with St. Mike's tonight. The Hill toppers have a pretty smart aggregation and they always show plenty of fight when engaging U. V. M.

Those of you who like your winter sports had better hop down to the Mad Hatters Winter Carnival this week end. The second annual mid-winter frolic promises to offer plenty for the outdoor enthusiast.

It's too bad Vermont can't inaugurate a similar affair in connection with Kake Walk. An attempt was made along that line last year but we'd like to see it grow in size and popularity. The Winter Sports Club could start the ball rolling in this direction.

INTENSIVE PRACTICE HELD BY FROSH FOR GAME SATURDAY NIGHT

Green Mountain Junior College to Oppose Frosh at Poultney

The Freshman basketball team has been carrying on an intensive training schedule for the last two weeks in preparation for their encounter with Green Mountain Junior College at Poultney on Saturday night.

In practice this during this past week the Frosh dropped an engagement to the W. L. Gossett Co. of this city on Wednesday, and then sportsmanly downed the Medics on Saturday and the Delta Psi Fraternity on Tuesday showing marked improvement over each contest.

In a previous engagement between the two quintets, Fort outdid the Frosh, emerging victorious over C. M. J. C. only after an overtime period on their own floor and playing on a strange court at Poultney will probably cancel this advantage. Coach Pregmon is concentrating nothing and has been drilling his charges hard to keep their record clear.

The starting combination at C. M. J. C. on Saturday will probably include Howe and Van Dyck at forwards, Spaulding at center while Clark and Lacey will probably hold down the guard berths. Coop, Pratt, Cano and Wood will be held in reserve.

BADMINTON OFFERS ANOTHER SPORTS OUTLET

Tourney at Present Eliminates Three Men—Two More Preliminary Games on Deck

Badminton the new sport to the University has captured the attention of many. At present a tournament is being held to decide the champions. In the first match played Strain defeated Anderson in a thrilling and interesting game. Thompson defeated Lehner in a very close battle in the second match. Tanner proved his superiority by easily defeating Liguori in a slow but interesting game. Others who are entered but have not played as yet are: Morgan, Coburn, Buzzell, and Raymond.

INTRA-MURALS OFFER EXTENSIVE PROGRAM FOR SECOND SEMESTER

Variety of Activities to Last Through Remaining Month of School Year

Intra-mural sports will afford many an opportunity to enter some field of competition during the second semester as is shown by the great variety of activities that are contained in the schedule.

The month of February will be taken up with basketball, handball and bad... tournaments. In addition the various winter sports are at their height during the month.

The month of March will bring the indoor relay, indoor track meet, the all important basketball, the Squash Doubles, Ping Pong and the boxing and wrestling exhibitions.

An all-college swim meet will be the feature of the month of April. This will be held at the Burlington Y and all students will be eligible. Toward the end of April and on into May baseball and outdoor track will attract many.

Everyone should enter into some form of athletic competition. A Sport For Everyone, Every one in a sport!

ALPHA TAU OMEGA LEADS IN WINTER SPORTS

With the annual inter-fraternity winter sports meet at the University of Vermont rapidly approaching the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity has taken the lead with 38 points with Morse at Burlington captaining three skating events. Delta Psi stands second with 17 points having taken the one mile relay on skates and placed in the two mile with Wade at Green winning the 220 and the dash and Hawley at New Rochelle, N. Y. capturing the mile in event. Phi Delta Theta is third with 14 points by virtue of a victory in the 880 yd. relay and several seconds and thirds. Kappa Sigma has five points and Sigma Nu three.

HILL-TOPPERS TO HAVE POWERFUL AGGREGATION AGAINST CATAMOUNTS

Sabo to Use Same Lineup Against Saints as Was Used Against Panthers

Tonight Vermont returns to its home court to play a Conference game against St. Michael's. This game the first against the Hill toppers this year is a vital one to Vermont's standpoint and the Cats will find it necessary to display power to overcome the Winooski boys.

The Catamounts determined to wipe out the poor exhibition at Middlebury, will give everything they have in order to win over the Mountaineers. Although Coach Sabo expects tough opposition he is confident that his team will find themselves and work together to win.

St. Michael's has for the brilliant Phil Ferguson, and other a powerful team. Ferguson is considered at Mikes's big threat. Seconds to no one in the scoring line during these games the Winooski quintet displaying a superior defensive as well as offensive combination. Their starting line-up will probably consist of Ruggiero and Brannan forwards, Perrault at center and Mundo and McGlynn as guards.

Vermont will present its usual combination consisting of Captain Palmer, Stone, Donahue, Young and Bass starting and Goldberg, Farnsworth, Gordon, Wheeler and Parker as reserves.

This should be one of the closest games of the season as Vermont wants revenge the defeat given them at the hands of the Mechanicsburg last year.

The game is slated to start at 8 p. m.

"RED" GRANGE LOOKING FOR COACHING JOB

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Los Angeles Cadet Harold "Red" Grange, the University of Illinois football star who played his last game of football for Coach Zuppke, Ghost of the gridiron has returned from professional football and is now looking for a coaching position.

"I've played enough. I'm going to get out of the game before they kill me. It's the old legs. They can't take it any more," he said in announcing his retirement following a thrilling 41 yard run made as a member of the Chicago Bears football team in defeating the New York Giants, 21 to 0.

Grange said he planned to coach football and that a definite announcement would probably be made in March in Chicago.

The operating expenses for Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., amounted, according to a recent report for the twelve months ended last June 30, totaled $1,444,184.97, a decrease of $41,777.68 from the figure of the previous year.

The Amherst Student, of Amherst College, favors a short reading period immediately before examinations. A longer period, rather than the longer periods maintained elsewhere, would be favorable, commented on its first editorial page in accordance with the near-consensus of opinion and chances were pending. Instituting of a brief reading period for the study and correlation of course material already received would result in a marked improvement in examination results, at [illegible] editorial states.

The [illegible] student paper at Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Worcester, Mass., protests against students having to take five or six finals in successive days and suggests two solutions: A reading period before exam week, or a one-week period for exams, rather than the present one week which is now given for exams.

The conflict between professors and students is ventured by The Kansan, of St. Benedict's College, Atchison, Kan., as an unnecessarily fought battle where the professors hold the upper hand for a short time only, during exam period, when the students pay them back during the rest of the school year by "cutting classes, sleeping during classes, bitter remarks, unmerciful criticism, and absolute refusal to laugh at long deceased jokes."

Sound advice to the uninitiated freshmen is given by the Review, of the University of Delaware, in an editorial suggesting "calmness under fire and confidence in yourselves. A reasonable clear grasp of your subjects will cause no particular difficulty in passing the exams with flying colors. Avoid cramming at the last minute. To the conscientious we prescribe plenty of sleep; to all others plenty of studying."

NEW EXPLANATION OF GERTRUDE STEIN MADE BY CAMBRIDGE PROF.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Chicago, Ill.—A new and super scientific explanation of the enigmatic Gertrude Stein who has been touring the colleges giving impromptu and somewhat chaotic explanations of her position is now advanced by the staid Journal of the American Medical Association.

Despite the fact that "A rose is a rose is a rose" to La Stein it is only "da-da-da-da" to Prof. Langlois Brown, of the University of Cambridge, who writes in the current issue of the Journal.

Professor Brown groups Miss Stein with D. H. Lawrence and T. S. Eliot in an explanation of "modernism and even da-da-ism in the recent output of many modern writers."

Professor Brown conceives "That the writings of D. H. Lawrence begin with an angry reaction against the intellect and end up in literary movements which produce what is called baby talk." He asserts, moreover, that such writing communicates little to anyone who does not possess the key. The inspiration wells up from the unconsciousness, or at least the subconsciousness.

"Milton," the good scholar cried, "thou shouldst be living at this hour. England hath need of thee."

TRAVEL AND STUDY COMBINED ON UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA CRUISE TO SOUTH AMERICA

Professor Williams to Lead Summer Cruise-Tour—University Credits Available

An intensive tour of South America, sponsored by the University of Pennsylvania just approved by the school authorities, and scheduled to leave New York on June 15, returning to this country on August 28, offers to college men and women and to anyone especially interested in South America, an educational voyage which will circle the southern continent.

Dr. Frank E. Williams, professor of Latin American geography at the University of Pennsylvania, will be director of the cruise. "The eastern coast of Brazil was sending sugar to Europe before the settlement at Plymouth," said Doctor Williams in commenting on the comprehensive itinerary of the tour arranged by the American Express Travel Service. The factors which have contributed to the economic, social and political development of South America will be among the questions discussed in the study portion of their tour as the group visits the Panama Canal, Colombia, Peru, Ecuador, Bolivia, Chile, makes an aeroplane flight over the Andes to Buenos Aires, Argentina, travels on to Uruguay, Brazil and Trinidad in the West Indies. The entire study trip is described by Doctor Williams as "a summer field course of South America."

Doctor Williams is secretary of the American Association of Geographers, and is very well known among this group of men at the leading colleges in the country. Doctor Williams specializes in Latin America, having made several trips to South America. He is thoroughly conversant with the customs, history and background of the many countries which the cruise-tour will visit, and he will hold lectures and talks en route, as well as lead the sightseeing excursions and direct the field study.

Just what is meant by cross-blending tobaccos . . . and how does it make a cigarette milder and taste better . . .

Well, in blending you take two or more tobaccos and mix them together—a rather simple process. But cross-blending goes a step further . . .

IN making Chesterfields we take Bright tobacco from Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida. We take Burley tobacco from Kentucky and Tennessee, and tobacco from Southern Maryland.

Then in addition to these home-grown tobaccos we take tobacco grown in Turkey and Greece.

We balance these mild, ripe home-grown tobaccos with the right amounts and the right kinds of aromatic Turkish.

Then, instead of just mixing the tobaccos together, we blend and cross-blend them so that all the different flavors go together into one full flavor—the Chesterfield taste that so many smokers like.

Cross-blending tobaccos as it is done in Chesterfields gives the cigarette a pleasing taste and aroma—they're mild and yet They Satisfy.

The [illegible] student paper at Worcester [illegible] Institute, Worcester, Mass., protests against students having to take two or six finals in successive days and suggests two solutions. A reading period before exam. week, or a two-week period for exams, rather than the present one week which is now given for exams.

The conflict between professors and students is pictured by The Lantern of St. Benedict's College, Atchison, Kan., as an [illegible] fight battle where the professors hold the upper hand for [illegible] time only during exam period when the students pay them back during the rest of the school year by "cutting" classes, sleeping during classes, latter remarks, unmerciful criticism and absolute refusal to laugh at long deceased jokes.

Sound advice to the unmitigated freshman is given by the Review of the University of Delaware, in an editorial suggesting calmness under fire and confidence in yourselves. A reasonable clear grasp of your subjects will cause no particular difficulty in passing the exams with flying colors. Avoid cramming at the last minute. To the conscientious we prescribe plenty of sleep; to all others plenty of studying."

NEW EXPLANATION OF GERTRUDE STEIN MADE BY CAMBRIDGE PROF.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Chicago, Ill.—A new and super explanation of the enigmatic Gertrude Stein who has been baffling the colleges giving unsatisfactory explanation and somewhat chaotic explanation of her poetry, has been advanced by the staid Journal of the American Medical Association.

Despite the fact that "A rose is a rose is a rose" or "La Sainte it is only dada to you," Prof. Laudcelot Brown, of the University of Cambridge, who writes in the current issue of the Journal.

Professor Brown groups Miss Stein with D. H. Lawrence and T. S. Eliot in an explanation of "modernism and even dadaism in the recent output of many modern writers.

Professor Brown conceives "That the writings of D. H. Lawrence begin with an artist's reaction against the intellect and end up in literary movements which produce what is called baby talk." He asserts, moreover, that such writing communicates little to anyone who does not possess the key. The inspiration wells up from the unconsciousness, or at least the subconsciousness.

TRAVEL AND STUDY COMBINED ON UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA CRUISE TO SOUTH AMERICA

Professor Williams to Lead Summer Cruise-Tour—University Credits Available

An intensive tour of South America, sponsored by the University of Pennsylvania just approved by the school authorities, and scheduled to leave New York on June 15 returning to this country on August 28, offers to college men and women and to anyone especially interested in South America, an educational voyage which will circle the southern continent.

Dr. Frank E. Williams, professor of Latin American geography at the University of Pennsylvania, will be director of the cruise. "The eastern coast of Brazil was sending sugar to Europe before the settlement at Plymouth," said Doctor Williams in commenting on the comprehensive itinerary of the tour arranged by the American Express Travel Service. The factors which have contributed to the economic, social and political development of South America will be among the questions discussed in the study portion of their tour as the group visits the Panama Canal, Colombia, Peru, Ecuador, Bolivia, Chile, makes an aeroplane flight over the Andes to Buenos Aires, Argentina, travels on to Uruguay, Brazil and Trinidad in the West Indies. The entire study trip is described by Doctor Williams as "a summer field course of South America."

Doctor Williams is secretary of the American Association of Geographers, and is very well known among this group of men at the leading colleges in the country. Doctor Williams specializes in Latin America, having made several trips to South America. He is thoroughly conversant with the customs, history and background of the many countries which the cruise-tour will visit, and he will hold lectures and talks en route, as well as lead the sightseeing excursions and direct the field study.

Annual Event Occurs This Friday and Saturday—Directors Have Combined Some Traditional Events With Some of Last Years Popular Features—Fraternity Stunts Again

The Grand Finale of a Recent Kake Walk

A Kake week, long looked for and long remembered by any who had the good fortune to take part in it, is at hand as this week Friday and Saturday will take place this long heralded event among the colleges of the country due to intensive efforts of the Directors J. M. Libby and [illegible] aided by their capable assistants this year's production will maintain the high standard of amusement characteristic of the annual winter frolic.

The action of the directors to combine some of last year's successful events and the previous fraternity stunts results in a bigger and better program. On Friday evening will be the masquerade ball which is one of the features introduced last year. The decision of University authorities to observe Washington's birthday on Saturday makes this day available for activity the students desire. Friday evening comes the masquerade ball. The program will begin at 9 o'clock with a concert by the University's R O T C band [illegible] the presentation of the Kake Walk, who, incidentally are chosen for by the student body during the week. Following the coronation of the king will be offered the following competitions, consisting of fraternity stunts by each of the seven fraternities. Editorials

REGARDING THE NEW BOARD

The announcement of the election of the new CYNIC boards is printed in another column of today's issue. This new board will have charge of the next issue, dated Friday, February 22, 1935.

To these officers we give our best wishes and hopes for their success, and send them on their way with a God-speed! It would be unnecessary to make any recommendations regarding their future conduct and the manner in which the paper is to be conducted. For that reason none are made, with one possible exception. There is a great deal of talk about the freedom of speech. Many people interpret that to mean that if any person wishes to write anything he must have it printed in the CYNIC. This is obviously an illogical conclusion. Even if everyone is granted the privilege of free speech, does that mean that some organization must print everything he wants printed, without cost to him? The CYNIC has only limited funds—it cannot afford to print everything offered. Should it offer itself as a means of propaganda to every organization whether it be on or off the Campus?

It is at this time necessary to explain certain changes made in the [illegible] organization. The changes now made official have been in practice for the greater part of a year and will we believe, increase the efficiency of the staff. The position of Managing Editor has been abolished because it has not been successful. The new position of Executive Editor on the Executive Board, removes the Feature problem from the News Editors and gives it entirely to the new officer. This will provide a greater degree of originality, timeliness and consistency to that part of the paper.

The organization of the Executive Editorial Board as a unit is necessary to give unity to the policy and also to facilitate the actual work of publication. It is recommended that the board meet twice a week, a meeting for each issue. It would probably be helpful to have executive board include two News Editors, the one in charge of the succeeding issue and the one in charge of the succeeding issue. Certain duties can be borne by the members of the board collectively such as the writing of Editorials and the make-up work on the individual issues.

This is not offered as a final solution to the problem of running a school paper, but will, we hope, prove to be a step in the right direction. We again wish the newly-elected officers success.

WOMEN INVADE MEN'S ACADEMIC STRONGHOLDS

Statistics at the University of Vermont show that in three colleges, the agricultural, engineering and medicine, women are conspicuous more for their lack of numbers than for [illegible] numbers. Yet ten women have successfully invaded these traditional strongholds of the men. One is in agriculture, three are engineering, six are in medicine.

The one woman who is taking the straight agricultural course as apart from the home economics course, which is also part of the agricultural college, is Grace E. Baldwin, a freshman, who comes from North Ferrisburg.

Of the three students in engineering two are juniors, taking the civil engineering course, and one is a freshman, taking the electrical engineering course. The two juniors are Lorame Spaulding, of Burlington, and Genevieve Hutchins, of Upper Lake, N. Y. The freshman is Jean Cunningham of Bridgeport, Conn.

The six women in medicine are divided into one each in the freshman and sophomore classes and two each in the junior and senior classes.

We haven't had any mail for two weeks, and we love to get mail. So-o-o-! Each week we're going to ask a question, and the best answer, along with the answerer's name, will be printed. Today, my children, I ask—"Why isn't a canary a hippopotamus?"

AMERICAN ANCESTRY REQUIRED FOR COLBY

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Waterville, Me.—Five or more generations of American ancestry are one of the requirements for 20 new hundred-dollar scholarships to be awarded annually by Colby College beginning next fall, it has been announced here.

This unusual requirement is due to a stipulation in the will of Charles Potter Kling who left the sum of $50,000 to Colby College for the specific purpose of providing scholarship aid to "needy male students of American Colonial or Revolutionary ancestry."

Mr. Kling was a strong believer in the historic New England tradition, and thus wished to promote the welfare of young people representing that type of background, as well as to strengthen this early New England college. Besides this specific bequest for scholarship endowment, Mr. Kling left to Colby a share of his residual estate which, according to unofficial estimates, will amount to between half and three-quarters of a million dollars.

Applicants for the Kling scholarships will be required to present genealogical proof that one or more ancestors resided in one of the American Colonies before 1776, or served as a soldier in the Continental armies of the American Revolution.

INTELLIGENCE CANNOT FOOL LIE DETECTOR

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Madison, Wis.—If you are an extremely intelligent person you have a poorer chance of fooling the "lie detector" than if you are on the other end of the intelligence scale, according to Leonard Keeler, of the Northwestern University crime detection bureau, who spoke here recently.

The polygraph, which is the correct name for the "lie detector," records a person's emotional changes through blood pressure and respiration recordings. A highly intelligent person is more conscious of the dangers confronting him when being examined, and, as a result, his blood pressure reactions are likely to be more pronounced, Keeler said.

Leto's Nora produced 14,181 pounds milk and 534 pounds butterfat. She was the French Prize Winner in 1933. U. V. M. Jessamine Actress and U. V. M. Silver Actress have produced respectively as four-year-olds 10,909 pounds of 4.54 percent milk containing 495 pounds butterfat and 9937 pounds of 4.80 percent milk containing 477 pounds butterfat. A three-year-old, U. V. M. Emerson 2nd, has produced 10,050 pounds milk and 439 pounds butterfat.

The fourth Silver Medal award by the American Jersey Cattle Club within the past few months has been won by the Jersey heifer U. V. M. Rustic Claire. As a two-year-old this heifer produced 8412 pounds of 6.14 percent milk containing 517 pounds butterfat. She is the first daughter of U. V. M. Rustic Sultan to complete a record. This young sire raised on the University Farm is from the Gold Medal cow, Rustic Molly, while his half brother has been designated as a "Superior Jersey Sire."

YALE, HARVARD, AND PRINCETON MEN GET RHODE SCHOLARSHIPS

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Swarthmore, Pa.—Yale, Harvard and Princeton students were awarded nine of the 1935 United States Rhodes Scholarships, according to the list announced by President Frank Aydelotte of Swarthmore College, American Secretary to the Rhodes Trustees. The thirty-two awards are still subject to ratification by the Rhodes Trustees.

Yale led with four students placed, with Harvard second with three, and Princeton third with two. Twenty-three other schools had one representative each.

Each scholarship carries with it a stipend of 400 pounds annually for two years study at Oxford. Students who make outstanding records during their first two years are awarded a third year.

Candidates for the scholarships must be citizens of the United States, between nineteen and twenty-five years old, unmarried, and must have been students for at least two years in some recognized college or university. In making the awards, scholastic ability and attainment, character, and physical vigor, as well as leadership, are taken into consideration.

The United States is divided into eight districts, each containing six states. Two representatives from each state are chosen by competition with the district committee choosing four students, irrespective of the state, to be the Rhodes Scholars of that district.

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Philadelphia, Pa.—Here's a picture of a contented Temple University student. He is sitting in a journalism class presided over by Prof. Henry E. Birdsong, head of the department of journalism, surreptitiously reading snatches of Anthony Adverse, while he lightly hums the tune of "Stars Fell on Alabama."

All this was revealed recently by a poll conducted by the Temple News, undergraduate newspaper.

The average Temple student is fond of movies, and of Norma Shearer particularly, likes Jack Benny's radio program, and has faith in President Roosevelt.

Hand in hand with the favorite books went the favorite authors, with John Galsworthy, Shakespeare and Charles Dickens heading the list.

More in the popular vein was the question on favorite radio programs. Jack Benny won, with Fred Waring following closely. Glen Gray and his Casa Loma orchestra, who blow tuneful "Smoke Rings" for Camel cigarettes and Prince Albert, placed third, and first in the programs sponsored by the leading tobacco firms.

A poll to select the handsomest man on the campus of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute (Troy, N. Y.) indicates that the male engineers believe that "brutishness" means handsomeness.

After holding an aggressive Green Mountain team at even terms until the half, the freshman basketball machine dropped the second game of a series Saturday night at the Pearl[illegible] gym having taken the first in an overtime period on their home floor. A noticeable handicap to the visitors was the diminutive court which continually harassed the players. However, the home team displayed an aggregation much superior to the one playing at Vermont and a victory would have been well earned by either side.

Vermont opened the scoring with a set shot but following a rally by G. M. J. C. found themselves on the short end of a 12-4 score. At this time Spaulding tallied twice with fast breaking offensive plays, two long shots found their mark and then Cass put the team in the lead 14-12. After an exchange of points that brought the crowd to its feet the half ended with the score all 15.

Spasmodic scoring accounted for a lasting G. M. J. C. lead from the opening of the second half and these tallies were intermingled with long periods of hard played basketball. Although Vermont were seriously threatened, the play was exciting throughout.

The selection, buying and preparation of the right kinds of Turkish tobaccos for making Chesterfield Cigarettes is a business in itself . . .

WE have buyers in all the tobacco markets of Turkey and Greece, including Xanthi, Cavalla, Smyrna and Samsoun.

And at Smyrna Chesterfield has built the most modern tobacco plant in the Near East.

Here the spicy, aromatic Turkish leaf is sorted and graded under the eyes of our own tobacco men.

Then it is put away to age in its own climate for two years or more to make it milder and better-tasting.

When you blend and cross-blend the right kinds of aromatic Turkish tobacco with mild ripe home-grown tobaccos as we do in Chesterfield you have . . .

the cigarette that's milder

BANQUET FOR PARENTS OF STUDENTS HELD IN VAN NESS SATURDAY

Pres. Bailey, W. E. Cass '35, and Barbara Taylor '35 are Speakers

DOUBLE QUARTETTE SINGS

172 Parents and Children Present at Turkey Dinner

The first annual father-son, mother-daughter banquet proved to be a success, as was thought by those who attended. Both students, alumni and members of the faculty began to congregate in the Ladies' Room of the Van Ness at about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. For a half hour people intermingled, talking over old times and sundry subjects, mostly concerning the Kake Walk.

At 5:30 p.m. they all sat down to eat. The tables were decorated in green and gold, the U. V. M. colors. The meal was enjoyed by all.

Pres. G. W. Bailey, after giving a welcoming speech to this gathering, presided over the rest of the program. Dean E. Swift spoke, urging more parents to communicate with the dean concerning their sons and daughters. Barbara H. Taylor '35, on behalf of the Mortar Board and W. E. Cass '35, on behalf of the Boulder Society, told those present that they hoped this banquet would become an annual event and were overjoyed over the outcome of this year's festivity, the first to be attempted. One hundred and seventy-two were present. H. B. Myers '00, representing the parents, also spoke. A double quartet, composed of members of the Women's Glee Club, presented two numbers: "Hark, Hark the Lark" by Cook, and "Now is the Month of Maying," by Morley, arranged by G. Bennett.

The assemblage broke up about seven o'clock, to enable the people to get seats for the Kake Walk.

VERMONT AND STANFORD HAVE DEBATE OVER WCAX

First Transcontinental Debate Tour on Stanford's Program From Rocky Mts. East

J. W. Timmerman '37 of Morrisville and R. E. Greemore '36 of Winooski joined with John P. McFarland and Robert A. Grantier of Stanford University over WCAX last Friday evening from 7.30 to 8.30. The question debated: Resolved, All collective bargaining should be negotiated between non-company unions safeguarded by law. The U. V. M. debaters spoke for the negative. There was no decision.

McFarland has participated in the Northwest tour and numerous other debates and symposiums. He is junior at Stanford, majoring in economics, prominent in activities of the Union Club, and active in dramatics and debating.

Grantier, a senior, is also one of the leading Stanford debaters and captain of the Western Canadian tour in 1933. He is majoring in history as a preparatory to law. Grantier is all-university amateur boxing champion and a member of the Men's Council. Both Grantier and McFarland belong to Delta Sigma Rho (national honorary forensic fraternity).

This is also on the first transcontinental debating tour ever undertaken by Stanford. The tour, which is being made by two separate teams of two men each, will extend from the Rocky Mountain States across the Mid-west and Atlantic northeast, and on down through the old South and Southwest, with debates with about forty of the leading colleges of the United States.

FROSH DEBATE AGAINST DARTMOUTH ON MARCH 5

On March 5 the freshman debating team of U. V. M. will give its first debate against Dartmouth at Hanover. The subject will be "Resolved, that the Federal government should adopt a policy of granting educational opportunity throughout the nation by means of annual grants to the several states for public elementary and secondary education." It will be a two-man, American style debate. The team will be R. F. Waterman, R. Farnham, and C. Gronbeck.

Phi Delts Take Two Firsts; Sigs Two Seconds in Kake Walk Competition

PHI DELT KAKE WALKERS RECEIVING THEIR PRIZES SATURDAY NIGHT

NINE STUNTS FEATURED WITH MANY NOVEL SKITS

"The Return of Dr. Squeegee" Gives Phi Delts Cup and Cake for Clean Sweep

The thirty-eighth annual Kake Walk is over. The fraternities can give up their frantic bull sessions in search of a stunt and the hectic practices. The Kake Walkers can relax for another year. The Kake Walk is over. The Phi Delts and Sigs came out well on top. J. H. Suitor '38 and H. M. Pratt '38 took first for the Phi Delta Thetas. And W. J. Connor '36 and A. Gray '38 took second for the Sigma Phis.

The program started at eight o'clock with a half hour concert by the R. O. T. C. band. The stunts were then presented. Before the first, Miss Baldwin's tap dancers did two numbers. The first stunt was "Curses, Curses" or "No, No, A Thousand Times No" by the Delta Psi fraternity. This was an old-fashioned melodrammer with the usual villain-hero-beautiful daughter-mortgage combination. After this there were two songs by the Men's Glee Club, "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming" by Praeforius and "Away to the Southward We Go," and then the Sigma Delts presented "The Wisest Men Still Make the Laws." This was a scene in a country store with a group of men sitting around the fire discussing the measures passed by the Vermont Legislature. The title is deceptive.

Before the next stunt there were two songs by Fid Barber '37, Lucille Maxham '38 and Helen Jenkins '34, "Take a Number From One to Ten" and "Hands Across the Table."

The third stunt was the "Goose That Laid the Golden Eggs" by the Owls. This was a fairly amusing take-off on the Dionne quintuplets. The title was evidently supposed to be part of the joke. Next was the Sigma Phi stunt, "Around and About." This was a news reel of the Campustone News showing the election returns for King of Kake Walk. The characters appeared in silhouette on the screen and, after casting the last four votes for himself in order to win, the king is finally assassinated. Then, as everyone was applauding the happy ending, Gillespie spoiled the illusion by coming out and singing.

The next stunt was a scientific satire, "The Return of Professor Squeegee" by Phi Delta Theta. This dealt with a new invention of the profs, the Mail Order Procraetor, a machine which chemically produced children of any desired sex, age or color at a moment's notice. The electrical apparatus was quite mystifying. Following this there was a short chorus scene by Miss Baldwin's tap dancers, Gwynneth Jones '37, Martha McCullieuddy '37, Pauline Bristol '37, Madeline Wheelock '38, Doris Herrick '37 and Alice Lechmyr '37.

NOTICE TO FRESHMEN

Freshman nominating committee meeting will take place Thursday, February 28, at 4.00 p.m. in Room 27 of the Williams Science Hall. This meeting is open to all freshmen. Candidates nominated will be announced in Friday's Cynic. Additional nominations may be made by a supporting list of twenty names handed in to a Boulder man by Saturday noon at the latest. The freshman election will take place Monday, March 4, in Dean Swift's office from 8.30 to 12.00 and 1.30 to 4.30.

ANNUAL SLEIGH RIDE TO TAKE PLACE SUNDAY GIVEN BY OUTING CLUB

Trip to Hinesburg Will Start at Four—Supper Will Be Sugar on Snow and Doughnuts

On Sunday, March 3, a jolly troop will set out from the University gym at four in the afternoon. The Outing Club is sponsoring this all-college function and is shouting vociferously from the proverbial housetops that one and all will regret very deeply if they do not partake of the sport of this sleigh ride.

This is an annual affair and according to rumor, last year's was a rip-roaring success. Dame Rumor has also been whispering around that this year's frolic will surpass anything offered to the student body at large since the founding of our fair University.

The sleighs are to be decked out in the traditional fashion with stomping horses, huddled drivers, straw, hot bricks and blankets to the tune of a lively chorus of sleigh bells.

From the gym the procession will progress eastward to Hinesburg where a bounteous supper for the super-inexpensive price of thirty-five cents per capita will be served. Here we have the highlights: New, fresh, fancy 1935 maple syrup on snow, home-made Vermont doughnuts, every one with a guaranteed full-fledged hole, made as only the Colchester-ites can make them, hot biscuits, corn chowder, pickles, maple cream patties and what not. As these tempting dishes are served, the participants sit, lie, or stand around roaring fires, drinking in the vagabond atmosphere and clean-cut joy which only a party of this sort can afford.

Bill Burrows '37, Toddy Taylor '37, and Bill Worcester '36 are in charge, striving to bring something new and quaint to the Vermont campus. They are expecting a huge turn-out and disappointment would be fata! Watch the Cynic for the big news scoop on this sleigh ride, on Sunday, March 3, at 4 p.m.

JERRY KIPP '37 CHOSEN QUEEN AT MASQUERADE

Colorful Costumes From Children to Gipsies Vie With One Another

The most colorful event of the season was reached in the annual masquerade ball held last Friday at the U. V. M. gym. The music was furnished by Sid Carsley's new fourteen piece ensemble vying with the Middlebury Panthers in a battle of music. The three schoolmaids, well-known radio stars, assisted the orchestra with vocal accompaniments. The gym was beautifully decorated with green and gold streamers, but the costumes of the masqueraders shouted this into insignificance.

There were Chinese mandarins dancing with red cross nurses, while the doctor was whirling around the floor with a young lady in an R. O. T. C. uniform. There were old fashioned girls, girls in clown suits and even one sweet young thing dressed as a rat. The gentlemen came as clowns, Spanish toreadors, Russians, Indians and cowboys. There were two or three couples who had turned back the clock and came as kids, the girls in short skirts and long curls; their partners wearing knee pants and blouses. One couple, following the Amos 'n Andy influence no doubt, came as negroes. Peaky Flynn, as befits a candidate of the American Spectetist Party, was decked out in the ghostly robes of his office.

At about eleven o'clock, Jim Gillespie, newly crowned King of Kake Walk, took the stage and his Kake Walk bride was chosen. The names of various campus beauties were put in a hat and he drew one. Geraldine Kipp '37 was the lucky girl. Gillespie then ordered his subjects to unmask and then, by popular request, sang his theme song, "P.S. I Love You."

One o'clock came all too soon, the last strains of the music faded out and the motely crowd left the hall regretting the passing of the masquerade but looking forward with renewed interest to Kake Walk the next night.

CYNIC BOARD

A meeting of the entire Cynic board will be held Wednesday afternoon at 4.00 o'clock in the Cynic office. This is an important meeting and attendance is required.

A meeting of Eta Sigma Phi, honorary classical fraternity, will be held Thursday evening, February 28, at the home of Prof. James E. Pooley. Initiation of new members will take place and a short program will be held.

REV. LUCCOCK OF YALE SPEAKER AT THE SERVICE ON SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Says "If We Fortify Ourselves Against Change We Live in a Cemetery"

PROF. AT YALE SCHOOL

Tells of Experience in Italy and Visit to Museum

Dr. Halford E. Luccock, professor of homiletics at the Yale Divinity School was the speaker at Vespers Sunday afternoon. He was introduced by President Bailey.

Doctor Luccock commenced his sermon by saying that we were now living in days of low visibility and old landmarks were disappearing. He then gave two instances of Jesus' life. The first, when He left the success he had gained in Nazareth to go out into unknown territory. The second was His departure from the safety of Galilee for the danger of Jerusalem. Doctor Luccock quoted a short poem called "The Little House" which represented "the opposing forces in the life of every young person." He said the growth of our lives depended on our capacity to answer the call of the road and that "the more we fortified ourselves against change, the more we lived in a cemetery."

The speaker stated his belief that "God is the most exciting run of any life and the ultimate run of the world." He said, of course, it couldn't be proved that an infinite spirit lies beyond this world but those who have sought Him have found breadth and heighth which is totally lacking in those who have not.

Doctor Luccock went on to describe the most interesting thing he saw on his recent trip to Europe. It was the charred remains of a female human body in the Museum of Naples. On the glass case that contained it, an inscription related how these ashes had been taken from Herculaneum which was buried in the lava from Vesuvius two thousand years ago. In this woman's arms were the remains of a crippled child whom she had lost her life in attempting to rescue. Doctor Luccock said he stood in reverence before the remains of a love so great that it had sacrificed its life.

He then quoted the following speech that Jesus made to Pontius Pilate in G. B. Shaw's much-discussed play, "Too True to Be Good": The Empire that looks backward with fear must give way to the kingdom that looks forward with hope." He said that the United States was a frightened empire since our government spent a billion a year on armaments though it was fifteen million dollars in debt.

Doctor Luccock agreed with Huxley that "in the future we'll either have science in chains or science set free to serve the human race." He closed by saying that it was possible to make a choice between the house and the road.

The Rev. Raymond A. Hall of the University read the Scripture lesson.

The choir sang "The Legend," by Tschaikowski.

BLUE STOCKINGS TO HOLD MEETING AT PI PHI HOUSE

Initiation of New Members and Discussion of Poetry on Program

The Bluestockings, the women's literary society, having furnished seven new members with stockings to hang up this Christmas, are now ready to get down to work again. The next meeting of this organization which now has eighteen members will be held at the Pi Beta Phi house the second Thursday in March for the purpose of formally (or informally, we don't know which) initiating the seven new talents.

After initiation the group will study, discuss and criticize the old and new chef d'oeuvres of the poetically-inclined members.

The class in social dancing will meet Thursday evening, February 28, at 7.00 o'clock at the Vermonters' Club House. Those interested are urged to come, since a small attendance will necessitate the class being discontinued. The price is twenty-five cents.

The selection, buying and preparation of the right kinds of Turkish tobaccos for making Chesterfield Cigarettes is a business in itself . . .

WE have buyers in all the tobacco markets of Turkey and Greece, including Xanthi, Cavalla, Smyrna and Samsoun.

And at Smyrna Chesterfield has built the most modern tobacco plant in the Near East.

Here the spicy, aromatic Turkish leaf is sorted and graded under the eyes of our own tobacco men.

Then it is put away to age in its own climate for two years or more to make it milder and better-tasting.

When you blend and cross-blend the right kinds of aromatic Turkish tobacco with mild ripe home-grown tobaccos as we do in Chesterfield you have . . .

Phi Delts Take Two Firsts; Sigs Two Seconds in Kake Walk Competition

PHI DELT KAKE WALKERS RECEIVING THEIR PRIZES SATURDAY NIGHT

NINE STUNTS FEATURED WITH MANY NOVEL SKITS

"The Return of Dr. Squeegee" Gives Phi Delts Cup and Cake for Clean Sweep

The thirty-eighth annual Kake Walk is over. The fraternities can give up their frantic bull sessions in search of a stunt and the hectic practices. The Kake Walkers can relax for another year. The Kake Walk is over. The Phi Delts and Sigs came out well on top. J. H. Suitor '38 and H. M. Pratt '38 took first for the Phi Delta Thetas. And W. J. Connor '36 and A. Gray '38 took second for the Sigma Phis.

The program started at eight o'clock with a half hour concert by the R. O. T. C. band. The stunts were then presented. Before the first, Miss Baldwin's tap dancers did two numbers. The first stunt was "Curses, Curses" or "No, No, A Thousand Times No" by the Delta Psi fraternity. This was an old-fashioned melodrammer with the usual villain-hero-beautiful daughter-mortgage combination. After this there were two songs by the Men's Glee Club, "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming" by Praeforius and "Away to the Southward We Go," and then the Sigma Delts presented "The Wisest Men Still Make the Laws." Review of "The Late Christopher Bean"

By Professor Lindsay

"The Late Christopher Bean," a comedy in three acts by Sidney Howard, first presented in New York in the autumn of 1932 and recently shown here in a much ... substituted "Emma" version, was the most ... event offering of the Theatre Club at the Strong Theatre last Thursday evening. Ranging in emotional excitement from farce to near-tragedy by turns humorous and solemn portraying rustic ... and urban sophistication, grasping greed and self-effacing generosity, calloused commercial craftiness and unaffected devotion to an ideal, both ... and unlovely sides of human nature being displayed rather fully, "The Late Christopher Bean" is no simple matter for amateurs to carry off successfully. That Thursday night's presentation was successful bespeaks much credit upon the cast and the coaching.

The Plot

This ingenious and deftly constructed play, developing as it does through its successive acts to a well-motivated climax, unfolds with ever-rising tenseness a story of small-town New England life of the present time. The story centers about some pictures left to Doctor Haggett by a drunken, sickly painter named Christopher Bean, whom the doctor had befriended in the artist's last illness. The good physician, as he first appears, is a hard working rural practitioner, unimaginative, unappreciative of art in general and of Christopher's work in particular, and completely free of greediness for money, as his sad accounts reveal. Overcome with gratitude when a professed friend of Christopher pays, as a mark of respect to the latter's memory, the artist's long unpaid bill, the doctor gives his benefactor two of the supposedly worthless pictures. It is about as much as he can bear when another professed friend but really a crafty dealer—pays the same old bill for the second time on that eventful morning and seeks to purchase for the amazing sum of a thousand dollars whatever pictures by Bean there may be remaining, and it is completely demoralizing when a connoisseur arrives to declare the newly discovered greatness of Christopher and the almost fabulous value of his heretofore condemned works. The doctor is nearly beside himself when he learns that his wife has long ago burned all of the now wanted pictures. But it appears that one had escaped destruction, a portrait of Abby, the maid of the Haggett household, which she herself has long cherished and preserved in loving memory of Christopher who had brought happiness into her monotonous life. MEN'S GLEE CLUB SINGS IN NEW ENGLAND CONTEST AT PORTLAND, ME.

Twenty-seven Members Leave by Bus Thursday—To Return on Sunday

Twenty-seven members of the Glee Club will leave the Mill at eight o'clock Thursday morning for Portland, Me., where they will meet other New England men's glee clubs in the annual college glee club contest.

Prof. H. G. Bennett

Prof. H. G. Bennett of the music department will accompany the club. F. C. Mildram '35 will be the student director at the contest.

The club will arrive in Portland Thursday afternoon and will make its headquarters at the Hotel Lafayette. Friday, the club will compete in the New England festival. Its two numbers will be "How a Rose E'er Blooming," by Tschaikowsky, and "As Off to the War We Go," arranged by Bartholomew.

The winner in this collegiate contest will take part in the national contest at Pittsburgh, Pa.

The club leaves Portland Saturday afternoon and will journey to Boston. The men will stay at the Hotel Huntington and will have the afternoon and evening in the city. The members will return to Burlington by bus Sunday. The trip has been in part arranged by A. S. Everest '36, manager, and by R. D. Whitcomb '38 and H. T. Bickford '37, assistant managers.

The tentative list of those making the trip is as follows:

S. P. Belcher '37, L. J. Bingham, A. S. Everest '36, H. A. Gamble, B. V. Grant '38, E. L. Guyette '37, K. Houghton '38, R. C. Mildram '37, F. Nuissl '36, H. W. Stanley '37, R. Wilcox '35.

UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT HAS ACTIVE REGULATORY SERVICE UNDER WALKER

Department Handles More Samples Than Any Other in U. S. for Its Size

The University of Vermont has one of what is considered the most active regulatory service of its size in the United States. This Regulatory service of the Vermont Agricultural Experiment Station is under the direction of J. L. Hills of the Agricultural College, and is supervised by Walker as chief chemist in charge. This department handles more samples in proportion to its size than any such service in the United States.

Briefly, how does the analysis of all kinds of dairy feed sold in the state? The laboratory has two of the most well-equipped [illegible] consisting of balances, [illegible] types of apparatus for [illegible] Babcock and Reich. Many tests are done a year [illegible] spring, as here here [illegible] one man can run 64 tests per day or 20 fiber determinations.

The tests consist of sampling, grinding, weighing and chemical analyses which is a simple operation.

Samples are taken twice a year of commercial dairy feeds sold in the state. These samples are brought to the laboratory and tested to meet the requirements on the tag attached to the bag. If the resulting analysis is [illegible]. Last year 7 out of 174 guaranteed feed failed to meet requirements, and 17 out of 377 mixed feed also failed.

The manufacturer has to pay a license fee of $20 per brand. This showed that by this service the farmers were saved from fraud by the feed manufacturers.

ALUMNI COUNCIL FAVORS CENTENNIAL FIELD HOUSE FOR ALUMNI PROJECT

Council Also Favors Building Student Administration Center

At the semi-annual meeting of the Vermont Alumni Council last Saturday morning, recommendation was made to back the Centennial Field House as the alumni project.

This recommendation was made by Dr. Peter P. Lawlor, chairman of a committee which has conferred with the administration concerning the building projects of the Council. Another project that was favored was the construction of a student administration center. No plans were definitely adopted, but a project will be decided on and announced at its June meeting.

LUDWIG LEWISOHN GAINS DIVORCE FROM HIS WIFE

A divorce has been granted to Ludwig Lewisohn, author and lecturer, from his first wife, Mary Arnold Child, also a writer.

Mr. Lewisohn filed the Juarez action after his New York attorney advised that there might be some doubt about the validity of a rabbinical divorce granted eleven years ago in Poland.

Mr. Lewisohn was married to his present wife, the former Thelma Rosman Spear, once a concert singer of Burlington, Vt., a few months after the rabbinical divorce from his first wife had been granted in 1924. The first Mrs. Lewisohn obtained a separation decree in the Supreme Court in the same year which provided her $55 a week alimony. She had steadfastly insisted that Mr. Lewisohn has never been legally divorced from her.

In April 1928 the next Mrs. Lewisohn received a judgment of $10,440 for back payments. A payment under the same judgment in October the next Mrs. Lewisohn is also said to have received an appointment of $500 a month for life from the publication of Lewisohn's book "Mid-Channel," in which she contended she was libeled.

OPERA REHEARSALS BEGIN THIS WEEK CAST CHOSEN

Tryouts for Chorus to be Held Early in March

Tryouts over and a talented cast picked, Prof. H. G. Bennett of the music department is ready to start work on "Ruddigore," the Gilbert and Sullivan opera chosen for this year's performance. "The Gondoliers," by Gilbert and Sullivan, was presented here last year with huge success and "Iolanthe," also a production of the same two noted artists, was equally enthusiastically accepted a few years ago.

Recalling past fun in opera successes, both director and cast are eager to tempt their talents with this new opera. Remembering the excellent performances given in the past by such veterans as Margaret Kane '35, R. S. Wright '35, Madeleine Ainshoro '35, A. R. Wilcox '35, Viola Long '37, and Edith Petrie '36, we are all looking forward to April 25 to see them live up to their old records. We're all expecting the best from Marguerite Perkins, the [illegible] to [illegible] the past, and we [illegible] get it.

We hear Professor Bennett needs a chorus, too. Tryouts are to be held the first week in March. Come on now.

FROSH HOOPSTERS WIN FIVE OUT OF SIX GAMES TO END GOOD SEASON

Coach Prentice Moulded Efficient Ball Handlers From Inexperienced Scrubs

The freshman basketball team climaxed one of its most successful seasons, last Tuesday night, in defeating Montpelier Seminary in a spirited, last-half rally, to annex the fifth triumph in six regular scheduled starts.

Starting last November with a squad of willing, yet inexperienced, candidates, Coach Bunny Prentice molded a team of well-drilled, efficient ball-handlers and shooters, which dropped only one regular game, and that to a hard-fighting Green Mountain J. C. quintet, which they had previously whipped on their own boards. Clark, Spaulding, and McCrae were the only regulars of the squad who had previously played high school basketball, so it can be seen that the work done by Coach Prentice in developing this team was excellent.

After defeating Enosburg Falls High School in their initial start, 36-20, the frosh traveled to St. Albans where they eked out a hard-earned victory over an alert B. F. A. quintet by 23-17, after trailing at half-time. Coming home on their own floor they successively checked Montpelier Seminary and Green Mountain J. C., the latter by five points in a thrilling overtime contest.

After the gloom of mid-years had cleared away, the frosh resumed their campaign, again going on the road, this time to attack Green Mountain and Montpelier Seminary in their own respective back yards. However, they were repulsed at Poultney by a 33-23 count, but then wound up their season gloriously in downing Montpelier Seminary, 28-26.

On practice games during the season, the Kittens lost to Cathedral High School and W. E. Greene Co. of Burlington, and the A T O fraternity, while downing Delta Psi and the Medics.

Spaulding, tall, aggressive center, and Van Dyck, hard-working right forward, led the scorers with 47 and 46 points, respectively, while Gray was third with 23. However teamwork rather than individual play was the outstanding characteristic of this combination, since it depended on over 50 percent of its points from set plays, which required the cooperation of every one of the five men involved.

Following is the list and scores of the regular scheduled games and the points as made by the players in these contests only. Dick Woodard managed this team, coached by Howard Prentice, director of physical education.

CAT'S MEOW

By Sports' Editor

[illegible] will be transferred to the [illegible] athletic [illegible] boxing and track. Just about this time every year all the pent up energy that has been storing up all winter breaks loose and there is unleashed on the gym and cage athletes of every size, shape and degree of ability. The running track will be filled with the pounding of feet, the basketball court will have but a few stragglers and the majority will congregate in the cage.

Coach Larry Gardner issued a call for candidates for the pitching staff a couple of weeks ago and the reports coming forth have not been exultant. Marchie Swartz is going to have to bear the burden of the pitching and whether he will be able to stick it out remains to be seen. The casualty of Stretch Kirley leaves Coach Gardner with no other veterans. Saxton, Gerow, Foote, Negus and Lanahan are all working out but none have had varsity experience.

Coach Archie Post looks to be sitting pretty in regard to the track situation. The loss of Joe Delfausse, a great point getter, will be hard to make up but his younger brother, Rollie, is in excellent shape and should enjoy his best year. Last year Rollie stuck to baseball till after the southern trip and then blossomed out as a record-breaking sprinter. Perhaps some other wonder is hidden among the masses!

We notice Chris Meligonis took over Bob Burns in the finals of the handball tourney without much trouble. Bob is one of the best at the game here in college but the height advantage combined with the fine stroking of Meligonis could not be overcome by Bob's scrap and quickness.

The old story, "experience counts," was proven last week when W. B. Morgan turned back Meredith Turner's challenge in the finals of the badminton tournament. The older player cagily let Turner tire himself out and won the last set easily after splitting the first pair. This is a great game set up on the principle of tennis but on a modified scale. It provides plenty of action and exercise and is becoming increasingly popular as the number playing it shows.

Anyone who saw the recent Kake Walk cannot fail to have observed the difference in condition between the kake-walking couples, those who had trained perfectly had all the confidence in the world and handled themselves casually and expertly till the very end, while those ill prepared were anxious and unable to finish well. There is a good moral for those of you who are going to indulge in spring sports. Get in shape early!

Evidently that heavy beard that Whitey Palmer spent so long in growing during the past weeks failed to faze the Williams five over the week-end. The Cats held their own until a few minutes before the end of the game when Sheehan ran wild and put the game on ice for the Purple.

Wednesday night the boys sing their swan song for the present season against Middlebury in a game which will decide the Conference title. Midd with five wins and one loss will hold the title in case of victory. Vermont with four wins and one loss can only hope for a tie.

The battle should be fairly even in spite of the fact that the Panthers won by a big score earlier. On our own floor and with renewed confidence because of two wins over St. Mike's we pick Vermont to win in a close game and not for sentimental reasons either.

Incidentally, don't forget the Key and Serpent Smoker tonight at the gym. Smokes will be passed out and some of the town celebrities and "former" greats will speak. Spook Flynn, Ray Sabin and Joe Wool will lead cheers with the band. Everybody out!

VERMONT SUBMITS TO WILLIAMS IN LAST FEW MINUTES SAT. NIGHT

Falters From Lead Throughout Game to Final Score of 34-30

[illegible] badly after leading throughout the game. Vermont took sufficient [illegible] Williams to eke out a 34-30 win. The Cats were in a poor condition [illegible] after traveling to Cleveland [illegible] all morning before playing a 2 o'clock game. Considering the fact that Williams had previously walloped Middlebury and took Princeton to 12 points, Vermont [illegible].

During the first ten minutes of play the team battled at even terms, but a sudden Vermont offensive surge sent them into a 24-17 lead at the half.

At the start of the second half Vermont maintained its advantage, the score going to 27-17 and finally 29-21 with ten minutes to play. Here, however, the strain of a long trip began to tell and the Purple slowly closed the gap until the score was knotted at 30 all. At this point, faulty officiation cost Vermont the ball game. A Williams shot struck a wire support above the backboard and fell into the court, only to be taken by Sheehan of Williams and tossed into the net to break the tie.

The common interpretation of the rules is that a ball striking a support is automatically ruled outside, but the officials either failing to see it or cowed by a

OPPORTUNITY TO RENEW LIFE SAVING LICENSES

Students at the University will have a chance to renew their Red Cross Lifesaving licenses by swimming this week Wednesday night at 7:30.

Commodore W. J. Longstaff is in town this week to examine any one in town for this license. College students who wish to try out will have a chance tomorrow night. This is an opportunity usually offered by the opening of the Y. M. C. A. building on College Street.

Mr. Longstaff, who is known to many as "The Skipper," is in Burlington for the week. He has traveled all over the country, teaching people to swim and instructing them in life saving.

Take a cigarette like CHESTERFIELD

You know I like that cigarette...

I like the way it tastes... there's plenty of taste there.

Chesterfield is mild, not strong ... and that's another thing I like in a cigarette.

What's more, They Satisfy ... and that's what I like a cigarette to do.

I get a lot of pleasure out of Chesterfield ... you know I like that cigarette.

CAPTAIN OF DEBATE

VARSITY TO DEBATE THE PUERTO RICO TEAM AT BURLINGTON MARCH 10

Other Debates Scheduled Before Spring Trip to Mid-west

The varsity debating team will meet the University of Puerto Rico team in a no-decision, American style debate in the First Church, Sunday evening, March 10. Vermont will uphold the affirmative side of the question "Resolved that the nations should agree to prevent the international shipment of arms and munitions."

The team from the University of Puerto Rico is making an extensive trip among the eastern colleges. Four men will visit Burlington: Gaspar Rivera-Cestero, of Bayamon, P. R.; Francisco Ponsa Feliu, Bayamon, P. R.; Otto Richkohl, Santurce, P. R.; and Arturo Morales-Carrion, of Rio Piedras, P. R.

The Vermont team has not been selected from the varsity members as yet. R. Greemore '36, F. Tummerman '37, F. Hale '36, C. Rogers '35, and H. Stanley '37 now make up the squad.

Saturday afternoon, March 16 Vermont will debate Massachusetts State College here. Vermont will have the affirmative side of the education question in the three man, American style decision contest.

Either March 18 or 19 the team will have a decision debate with St. Michael's, there, with St. Michael's upholding the affirmative side of the munitions question. This is the last debate before the start of the annual spring trip. The team will leave on the trip March 24, for a series of about fifteen debates throughout the Middle West. After the spring trip, the team will meet Penn State here, and Middlebury, there. Other

"ECONOMIC SECURITY IS VITAL," SAYS GROAT IN FREE FORUM LECTURE

"Necessity for Economic Security of American Workers" Subject of Second Lecture

Prof. George D. Groat, head of the economics department, spoke on the subject "The Necessity for Economic Security of American Workers" in the second of the free forum series, held in the City Hall Auditorium Wednesday evening, February 27.

Professor Groat said that economic security is vital. "Unless we do something we shall separate ourselves from liberty."

In discussing some of the major problems in the present program for social security, Mr. Groat touched upon compulsory and contributory unemployment insurance, old age pensions, and also old age.

Professor Groat believes that what is to be enjoyed, must be earned. [illegible] seems to him to have much of its [illegible] related to economic security. FRESHMAN APPOINTED TO NAVAL ACADEMY

F. G. Coombs Successful Candidate in Exams for Annapolis

F. G. Coombs '38, of Brattleboro, has received an appointment to the United States Navy Academy, according to an announcement from Washington, D. C.

He is the successful candidate to represent the State of Vermont. Competitive examinations were given to all candidates last January. He will enter Annapolis next fall.

Coombs is a sports reporter on the Cynic, class vice-president of the International Relations Club, a member of the Men's Glee Club, the R. O. T. C. Band and Kappa Sigma fraternity. He is also a prospect for the freshman tennis team, being number one man and captain of his high school aggregation.

The feller who drove the military department crazy looking for last week's canner report has broken into print again. This time he answered Captain Colby's question, "Where is the balance of your rifle?" with a triumphant, "That's all they gave me!"

Showing an unusual outburst of ambition, we made another census. This time it was to acquire a list of things that just shouldn't be. We listed the ten answers that were most typical.

1. School
2. Winter
3. The six days between checks.
4. Limited cuts
5. Whiskers
6. C's, D's, and X's (F's, too.)
7. Women who say "No."
8. Nickel donuts in the Coffee Corner (they otta be two for a nickel.)
9. Seven-thirty military
10. Midnight

Life Careers For Women Subject Of Professional Relations Conference

a large part on what society owes to the individual the college would be making a mistake if it did not point to the needs for thinking of what the individual is going to give to the job.

Mrs. Catherine Filene Shouse chairman of the National Board of Directors of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, points out. The Institute on Women's Professional Relations believes that women's problems are community problems and that women will solve their problems only as they become intelligently active in civic life. Only as each does her job well and sees its relationship to the world at large will the economic organization function in a smooth and socially desirable way. Therefore speakers prominent in public affairs will meet students at the opening dinner and will participate in the round tables.

Thursday, March 28, 2-5 P.M.

Group testing and counseling especially arranged for this conference by the Psychological Corporation. Students participating limited to 100. Applications to be filled out and returned before March 18. On Thursday afternoon a series of group tests will be given. These will be scored and the results, the interpretations, and other data as an aid in educational and vocational planning will be discussed by experienced counselors at a two-hour session. Saturday morning limited to the 100 participating students. Counselors and deans registered for the conference may attend the Saturday session as observers and subsequently discuss methods and the procedure conducting it. This experimental program is designed not as an indictment of the present methods of counseling and counseling procedures. It is in no sense a substitute for such procedures where require individual interviewing and many hours of time under the most favorable conditions.

When Hearn was taken out the spark plug seemed to have left the team and thereafter there was not the same spirit.

The game was a heartbreaker for Whitey Palmer, who was making his last collegiate appearance. Even in defeat he was brilliant as he got all over the floor attempting to stem the avalanche of shots that poured into the nettings. Coupled with the great defensive work he passed and dribbled his way to several points at crucial moments to keep in the game. We want to take this opportunity to congratulate him and wish him as much success in the future as attained in his athletic career at Vermont.

We are thinking of taking up a ... better for a part of pay for Roscoe King. How about it, fans?

Coach Sabo is to be congratulated on producing a team which started out with little experience and developed into a fine season. If Middlebury had been so hot Wednesday night perhaps our boys would have looked a bit better.

The Cloran brothers enjoyed quite a lot of razing from the bleachers. Those boys thought the Midd athletes were wasting their time in college and should go on the stage they were such hot actors. Actors or not, they certainly can and that keep. Would that we had more dramatically minded people at Vermont if they are like that.

These Medics certainly have to be in the spotlight all the time don't they? Not content with giving Beck a taste riding, a great many of them made sure to stand up just before the photographer took the picture of the crowd.

We grieve when we think of the great success Dave Beattie is making as a basketball player in the city. Has had some of those good athletes are not available for varsity duty. Dave might have made the Catamounts a champion this year.

With the ending of the basketball season the old baseball feeling begins to permeate the campus, but till the opening of the season we will try to keep you fans content with the indoor meets, the hexathlon and the wrestling and boxing tournaments.

MARTIN GROWS WHISKERS AT TEN DOLLARS A CROP

Richard J. Martin, Brooklyn, N. Y. sophomore at the University of Vermont is raising whiskers at ten dollars a crop. He already has a good stand of stubble and expects to have a sufficient growth of hardwood timber by spring to provide nesting places for the birds when they return to the campus.

Martin might never have discovered his possibilities if he had not joined the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. His brothers in a reckless moment wagered that he could not go until May 2 without a shave. Martin, an electrical engineer, vowed by the House of David that he could. The public now eyes Martin's chin but the whiskers are still growing. When they get so long as to interfere with his diet and other pursuits he expects to bag them up. Meanwhile at the annual Kake Walk, he flaunted them, bravely before a thousand spectators appearing in the cast of his fraternity stunt in an impersonation of one of the protesters, with most of the audience thinking the whiskers only a part of the make-up.

The University of Nebraska (Lincoln) is sponsoring machinery and shop work classes throughout the state as a part of its extension department program.

Dickinson College (Carlisle, Pa.) is the oldest college west of the Susquehanna River. It was founded in 1783.

By an act of the Michigan legislature dated August 26, 1817, there was established Catholepistemiad, or University, of Michigan in Detroit.

SOPHOMORE GIRLS WIN FIRST GAME OF TOURNAMENT

The sophomore and junior girls' basketball teams vied for a good start at the initial game of the Girls' Basketball Tournament last Thursday afternoon, February 28, in the Gym. The sophomores were victorious by the close score of 16 to 15.

The game began with a center throw which was soon followed by three field goals by the sophomores and one by the juniors. After a few more goals by the younger group, Harriet Gray scored several points, bringing the score of the juniors up considerably. At the half the score was 13 to 9 with the sophomores in the lead. The second half showed plenty of action with Lois Hammond '37 and Harriet Gray '36 most outstanding.

Alice Wonett '35 umpired.

INDEPENDENTS ON HILL TO ORGANIZE FRIDAY

[illegible] and the [illegible] to the University and all non-affiliated men are urged to be present to help in the organization of the University at large.

The aim is to hold more than [illegible] a year, and [illegible] an evening for [illegible] a get-together meeting [illegible] Every man [illegible] present is urged to be present to help in the movement.

College authorities are ready and willing to help with their cooperation and assistance. The movement has the whole-hearted approval of Dean Swift and other faculty members.

The Independents have had in their ranks for many years many outstanding men both in the fields of scholastic and athletic endeavor. R. J. Dubuisson one of the best athletes Vermont has turned out in years, a year and also an outstanding student in the College of Liberal Arts, is one of the best examples of the caliber and type of man that the organization stands for. Some of the most outstanding scholastic are enrolled in the Independents among them being the only two students to receive an all-A average H. R. Gilmore and S. Alpert. J. A. Lehoux, co-captain-elect of the 1935 cross-country team, is also a leader in the organization and F. G. Young, one of the stars on the 1935 basketball team, is another representative.

Last year the Independents had the championship relay team and a strong baseball team. This year they intend to enter the indoor track meet, relays and baseball league, and are determined to capture as many honors as predecessors have.

An interesting program has been prepared for the rally with speeches by Professor Prentice of the physical education department and several of the more notable of the Independent men. Election of officers will also be held.

VOLUME 53 BURLINGTON, VERMONT, FRIDAY, MARCH 8, 1935 NUMBER 30

INDEPENDENTS ORGANIZE TONIGHT IN WILLIAMS SCIENCE HALL AT FOUR

All Non-fraternity Men are Urged to Attend—Swift and Prentice Will Speak

All nonresidents of the University of Vermont are urgently requested by the committee in charge to attend a meeting for organization today at four o'clock in the lecture room in the William Science Hall. Dean Elijah Swift and Prof. H. N. Prentice will speak on the purposes and advantages of organizing the Independents. Election of officers will follow.

The term "Independents" includes all male students not members, nor pledges of a fraternity at Vermont. The purpose of the organization is to carry out their slogan, "Vermont First."

The movement for organization has the approval of Dean Swift and many faculty members. College authorities are more than willing to aid in building up such an organization.

The Independents compose, probably, at least a third of the men in college, and the organization has been dormant for many years.

Among the members of the independents there is much material for winning teams, both in the scholastic and athletic fields. The organization intends to enter the intramural contests at the just opportunity. One of the advantages which the organization plans is that students who are now inactive will enter some of these contests, thus developing their natural skill, and creating a greater interest in college.

The organization plans to promote social activities later if the organization is successful.

OUTING CLUB TO CLIMB MT. PHILO NEXT SUNDAY

Joint Hike With Middlebury College is Novel Feature

The Outing Club at the University of Vermont will travel to Mt. Philo Sunday morning, March 10, to be joined there by the Outing Club from Middlebury College for the day. Hiking and kindred pastimes will probably occupy the time spent on the mountain, since winter sports will be largely impossible because of the lack of snow.

Both men and women are invited to join the party, and will spend the entire day on the mountain, leaving for home at 5:00 p.m. Coffee will be served to those making the trip, but they will have to carry their own lunches.

Continuing in its program of activity, the Outing Club will go to Mount Philo next Sunday, March 10, to participate in a joint hike with the Middlebury Mountain Club. This promising idea was born at the Intercollegiate Outing Club Association ski week-end on Mount Mansfield during New Year's holidays, and has the possibility of becoming an annual affair.

Although originally planned for a skating outing, due to the disfavor the Outing Club seems to have fallen into with the weather man, it seems better that it be merely a hike unless snow falls before Sunday.

Transportation will be furnished to all who wish to go, in individual cars unless a sufficient number signs up to warrant engagement of a truck. Each is bringing his own lunch and a cup for coffee a treat of the Middlebury club. The hikers will leave the gym at 10:00 Sunday morning and return at about 4:00 Sunday afternoon. A small charge will be made to cover cost of gasoline. All who wish to go must sign up on the sheet in the south bulletin board in the Old Mill. Middlebury will have a large aggregation, as they always do, and the officers of the club are looking for an equal show of enthusiasm from Vermont.

NOTICE

Professor Bennett wishes to announce that the try-outs for the chorus of "Ruddigore," the Gilbert and Sullivan opera to be held April 25 will be on Thursday and Friday, March 7 and 8 at 4.00 p.m. in the music building. The pieces used in try-outs will be those sung by the glee club in the concert Wednesday, March 6. Everybody out and try your luck.

JUNIORS NOMINATE JR. WEEK OFFICERS

At a meeting of the nominating committee of the class of 1936 held in the Old Mill tower at 4:00 o'clock Wednesday, March 6, the following men were nominated for Junior Week officials and Founder's Day speaker:

Junior Week chairman:
J. E. Crane.
J. S. Swift.

Financial manager:
R. I. Martin.
A. G. Buxton

Founder's Day speaker:
B. J. Costello.
L. R. Greenmore

Although Buxton was originally nominated for Junior Week chairman, he withdrew in favor of Swift. As a result of petition, he has been nominated for financial chairman.

Voting for these officers will take place in the dean's office Tuesday, March 12, from 9:00 to 12:30 and from 2:00 to 4:00.

BASKETBALL HOP TO BE RUN BY GOLD KEY ON SATURDAY, MARCH 16

Shaine to Head Official Close of Basketball Season When Awards Will Be Made

The annual basketball hop, closing the basketball season officially, will be held Saturday evening, March 16, one week from tomorrow, in the University of Vermont gymnasium.

Gold Key, sophomore men's honorary society, which will run the dance, met last Tuesday evening to make plans and preparations for the coming affair. F. M. Shaine '37 was put in charge of the event.

The first dance of the year was held by Gold Key last fall with Sid Carsley furnishing the music. It is planned to get Carsley and the boys again for the hop, which will be the last school dance before the Easter recess.

It is rumored that letters will be presented that evening to A. M. Steirn '36, R. E. Palmer '35, R. W. Duncan '35, E. G. Young '36, G. G. Shaw '37, S. R. Warden '37, A. R. Tomassetti '37, S. B. Goldberg '35, H. S. Gerou '37, D. S. Parker '37, W. L. Reed '37 and H. J. Cannon '37.

JUNIORS, NOTE

Junior questionnaires are obtainable at the University Book Store. Please fill them out and return them either to the Book Store or to some member of the Ariel Board by Wednesday, March 13.

G. A. Smith, Editor-in-Chief.

SPRING PLAY TRYOUTS DUE FOR MARCH 18, 19

Play to be Chosen Next Week by Honorary Societies to be Comedy or Melodrama

Spring play tryouts are scheduled for March 18, 19 and possibly the 20th at 4:00 o'clock in 3 North College. The play will be selected by Masque and Sandal, women's dramatic club, by the middle of next week.

Plays that are now being considered are "Secret Service," a melodrama by Gillette, "Laburnum's Grove," now playing in New York, and "The Lawyer of 'the Wells'" by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero. The plays will be either comedy or melodrama.

Casting will start early as Mrs. C. J. Taggart, who is to coach the play, is also coaching the opera "Ruddigore, or the Witch's Curse." The opera will be presented April 26 and the spring play May 17.

There will not be any spring plays this year as the schedule is too full.

NOTICE

There will be a meeting of French Club Thursday, March 14, at 8.00 p.m. at the Alpha Chi Omega House. All interested in French are invited to attend. Please bring dues.

PROF. GROAT LECTURES UPON CAPITALISM AT CITY HALL WEDNESDAY

"As It Is, Capitalistic System Nears Its End in America," Says Speaker

Prof. George G. Groat of the Economics Department at the University, in the third lecture in the series of free public forums, spoke on "The Future of Capitalism in the United States," Wednesday evening, March 6 in the City Hall Auditorium.

He says that the "American people have succeeded in establishing a political democracy as a working institution built upon the realities of liberty. so far, is economic and industrial democracy possible, it channels are carved out for its expression along several lines." The "it," Professor Groat emphasized strongly. He quoted Secretary Wallace. "The capitalistic system, as is is approaching its end." "It must be changed but it is not necessary for the entire system to be smashed. America needs a leader to exploit its possibilities. If properly done, this very pressing problem will have a happy and optimistic ending."

In defining capitalism, the speaker said that the elements of capitalism embody the institution of private property and freedom of contract, exchange and enterprise, its traits those of private enterprise, self-reliance and individual enterprise. These seem to be the foundation of modern industry out of which have merged, through the years, several by-products which loom larger in significance than the products themselves. Most important of these is private property.

Private property is today the basis and structure of our activities. It is one of the most prominent functions of the government to defend property. The fifth amendment "A citizen shall not be deprived of life, liberty, and property without due process of law" was quoted as proof. "Property is the source of authority in our modern industrial life."

"The capitalist system is so constructed that it suffers its losses last and recovers first. Despite the inevitable depressions obvious in this system, the property owners are gradually moving in the direction of security, while the wage earners move toward insecurity. Who suffers first in time of hardship? The wage earner. Who profits most in time of plenty? The property owner.

Private profit is the dominating motive of capitalistic industry. It is the center of business. In the final analysis, new rules must be adopted for its socialization to provide the happy ending."

VARSITY TO DEBATE PUERTO RICAN TEAM

Subject—Munition Questions in Oxford Style at Parish House Saturday

The varsity debate team has been chosen to meet the University of Puerto Rico team in the three man, no decision debate which will be held at the Christian Endeavor meeting at the Parish House of the First Congregational church Sunday evening March 10, at 7:15 o'clock.

The debate will be modified Oxford style, with three minute speeches and one rebuttal on each side. Fred Tummerman '37, Carl Rogers '35, and Bill Myers '35 will represent Vermont upholding the affirmative side of the question. "Resolved: that the nations should agree to prevent the international shipments of arms and munitions." Following the debate there will be an open forum in which the debaters will attempt to answer any pertinent questions on the subject. The question is timely, and one of importance, so that the general discussion should prove of interest.

This debate is the last that the Puerto Ricans will engage in on their trip, which has included many important colleges in the east.

The Vermont team will debate Massachusetts State March 16 on the Education question, and St. Michael's March 18 or 19 on the Munitions question with Vermont upholding the affirmative side in the first, and the negative in the second.

NOTICE

All Independents are urgently requested to attend the rally tonight at four o'clock in the Williams Science Hall, to organize and elect officers. Dean Swift and Professor Prentice will speak.

One Hundred and Ninety Students Make the Arts and Science Dean's List as Released by Dean Swift Which Includes All With B Average or Better

HEALTH COUNCIL HEAD

BARBARA TAYLOR '35

HEALTH WEEK BEING OBSERVED BY COEDS

Health council has been placing posters in the various dorms and Y room this week. These posters are changed every day by a member of the Health Council.

Each of the posters emphasizes a certain phase of Health. Monday was Skin day, Tuesday, Posture and Feet, Wednesday, Prevention and Spread of Communicable Diseases, Thursday, Food, Friday, Mental Hygiene, Saturday, Exercise and Rest.

Miss Cummings was in her office Tuesday afternoon to help girls to correct posture.

Miss Cummings said "the girls of the Health Council should be congratulated on the fine set of posters they have placed in the dormitories and the Y room, changing them daily."

HEALTH NOTES

Yesterday was Nutrition Day. Miss Bailey, Home Economics Department prepared in a demonstration for the Y room, a list of food which should never be left out in any diet or dieting.

The Bridge Party to be sponsored by the Health Council this afternoon has been postponed until next Friday.

Mimeographed sheets of Exercises and Suggestions for good posture were given out to all the girls.

"Your Carriage, Madam," an excellent 1934 book on posture was placed in each dormitory for one day this week.

Suggestions

1. Stand as tall as possible at all times.
2. Do not carry books or brief cases on one side or in front. Change sides.
3. Stand on both feet—not on one foot.
4. Sleep on a low pillow. Sit erect.
5. Exercise faithfully.

Posture Means Poise. Be Well Poised!

CAP AND SKULL STAGES DANCE IN GYM TONIGHT

Features Planned to Make Evening Interesting and Novel

Cap and Skull senior honorary medical society, has arranged for a dance at the University gymnasium tonight at eight o'clock. The girls affair open to both medics and academs will be given by Sid Carsley and his orchestra of eleven pieces.

Special features will make the event unique and interesting. If this dance is as successful as expected it will be made an annual affair.

J. C. Cunningham, M. K. Dunsmore, R. C. Fuller, T. R. Marcotte, F. Perkins, G. F. West and R. F. Williams are members of the Cap and Skull society this year.

FOUR SENIORS, FOUR JUNIORS HAVE ALL A'S

Of the long list of U. V. M. students that made the Dean's List four semesters, four juniors, two sophomores and two freshmen made the all A list.

One hundred and ninety students made the Arts and Sciences Dean's List according to announcement just made from the office of Dean Elijah Swift.

Of that number twelve people made an all A average including four seniors, four juniors, two sophomores and two freshmen.

The Dean's List is comprised of those students making a B average or better and is as follows:

HEALTH WEEK BEING OBSERVED BY COEDS

Health week-end has been observed posters in the various dorms and Y room this week. These posters are changed every day by a member of the Health Council.

Each of the posters emphasized a certain phase of Health. Monday was Sunday Posture and Eye. Wednesday Prevention and spread of Communicable Diseases. Thursday Food Friday Mental Hygiene. Saturday Exercise and Rest.

Miss Cummings was in her office Thursday afternoon to help give out certificates.

Miss Cummings said the girls of the Health Council should be congratulated on the fine set of posters they have placed in the dormitories and the Y room changing them daily.

HEALTH NOTES

Yesterday was Nutrition Day. Miss Bailey, Home Economics Department, prepared in a demonstration for the Y room, a list of food which should never be left out in any diet or dieting.

The Bridge Party to be sponsored by the Health Council this afternoon has been postponed until next Friday.

Mimeographed sheets of Exercises and Suggestions for good posture were given out around the girls.

"Your Carriage, Madam," an excellent 1934 book on posture was placed in each dormitory for one day this week.

Bell System engineers long ago began to work out a way to clear city streets of overhead wires. The first telephone cables were crude affairs—a few wires drawn through a pipe. Continuous research brought forth improved designs, better manufacturing methods, cables of smaller size yet far greater capacity. The cable with the greatest number of wires today—3636—is 2⅝″ in diameter.

THE INDEPENDENTS

An organization of the independents of the campus is taking place today. The success of this afternoon's meeting will determine the size, strength and methods of the group in the future.

Such an organization is highly commendable. It is based on the premise that all non-fraternity men never joined because of financial reasons, because they couldn't get in the group they wanted, or because some object to the present fraternity system. These reasons account for the large number of non-fraternity students at present.

Union of these men will bring several distinct advantages. It will provide representation and equality for the group in all forms of competition, both scholastic and athletic. Its teams will be definitely organized to take their places in the interfraternity sports. It will allow for equal opportunity at campus and class officers, which are now gobbled up by the fraternities. It will provide for a certain degree of social life in whatever form of meetings may be arranged, and in dances and other functions. Although probably a non-secret society, yet it will provide for most of the advantages of a fraternity, without the burden of dues and other obligations.

The leaders in this move are to be wished success. But they are also to be cautioned. If their purpose is to build up a strong group with which to enter campus politics, their efforts are not so commendatory. And if they allow their organization to become just another fraternity, with its dues and other features, it will fail in its avowed purpose. However, there are enough prominent non-fraternity men to make a strong and highly desirable society of independents on the campus.

BURLINGTON'S MAYORS

College students watched with some interest Tuesday's election for Mayor of Burlington. In recent years we on the hill have had more contact with the head of the city than formerly. Therefore, when Mr. Dow was running against Mr. Burke, students watched from the sidelines.

Ex-Mayor Burke has on two occasions in particular, had contact with campus life. The first was three years ago, when, in the Vermont Legislature at the time, he strongly advocated a bill to tax fraternities at Vermont. A large delegation of students went to Montpelier to oppose the law, and it was defeated when brought to vote.

The other occasion we heard of Mr. Burke was during the famous Hallowe'en apple-throwing episode, at which time he suspended the policeman who fired the shot which wounded a student in the arm.

Mr. Burke has been well-known in the East for his vigorous denunciations and his active term in office. He has been called Burlington's octogenarian mayor; he has undoubtedly earned a respite from his activities.

PROF. GIFFORD TALKS AT DEWEY CLUB—"MACHINES"

A meeting of John Dewey Club was held at the Vermonters' Club House, Tuesday evening, March 5, with Prof. A. R. Gifford, Prof. J. T. Metcalf, Prof. P. H. Ewert, Prof. G. Dyddusseu and about twenty members present.

In the business meeting which was held, Anita Weir '35 was elected secretary. It was decided that a picture of the club would not appear in the Ariel; only a list of the members.

Professor Gifford gave an interesting lecture on "Machines." Art and music also were subjects of discussion.

A campus drive for membership will begin soon. Anyone who received an A or a B in Psychology or in Philosophy is eligible for membership in John Dewey Club. All those who are eligible will be notified.

Auto salesman—Yes sir, and this car has floating power.

HEALTH WEEK

One of the first requisites of happiness and success, both in school and in the business world, is good health. In an attempt to promote interest in physical well-being, Health Week is sponsored annually by the Health Council of W. A. A. Today terminates a five-day schedule of events, which were intended to give all girls an equal opportunity to check up on their health.

Spring, in spite of all pessimistic observations, will soon be here. The ground will be clear and free from snow. It is everyone's privilege to breathe good, clean air after months of wintry atmosphere—air either very damp or very cold. In the winter, a person develops sedentary habits, but, with spring close at hand, the ill effects of the long, dragged-out winter are easily thrown off.

Now is the time to build for a healthier life. To be effective, one must make the entire year a period of continuous good health, instead of confining his efforts to one week. To those who have failed to observe faithfully good health doctrines, the time to reform is now at hand.

"Health is the normal condition of life and one supreme objective of education should be to promote and improve the individual and collective health of society, physically, mentally, and morally. It has been the aim of the Health Council to start the ball rolling and get people health conscious." The success of their efforts depends upon you.

We close the week with the fond hope that its theme will linger long in the minds of all those concerned and will influence them strongly toward an honest attempt to raise the health standards of Vermont as far above average as possible.

The Catty Co-ed

One of the supposedly smooth co-eds seems to be faring rather badly in her latest venture. At the recent pledge dances the sisters didn't seem very "Eager" about Jean's new boy friend.

"Billy" Bartlett should be complimented on concealing her age so well. "Bo" McMillan mistook her for a freshman early in the evening. What's the matter, "Algy," forget your glasses?

The flare for doughnut eating has produced a new song, "What a Difference a Bite Makes," inspired by one contest in which the winner got by by the margin of a quarter of a doughnut.

Professor Douglas had a nice conversation early in the week with Phi Bete Klavan as they discussed Plato, Locke, Aristotle and every other philosopher while the class listened intently with mouths open.

Vermont usually produces some great fishermen, but Jarvis and Kipp at our last notice were still angling for a bid to Don Bestor. Any catch, girls?

Undaunted by the defeat of their Kake Walk candidate in the last election, the T E P's are looking forward to next year and are grooming a new candidate named Jeannette, whom Itzel feels is bound to carry him through.

Herb Holley created a minor sensation the other day in the Old Mill when he even forgot to limp from his recent operation in describing the beautiful nurses who attended him.

Miss Shearan advocates the installation of rubber bibs in the Coffee Corner for the purpose of getting chocolate eclairs down successfully.

A new successor for Sammy Pierce has been found as Herb Fitch and Buddie Creagh have a lease on all the windows in the Old Mill.

Dick Billings and Miss Watson have been trying to compete with them, but at least they confine themselves to one window. More competition can be expected from Ed Reeder and Helen Workman.

The T.T. girls enjoyed themselves last Saturday night as they had their usual one yearly date at the Epsilon Sigma dance.

At the Maple Sugar Festival, as is usual at town dances, the fair co-eds were neglected as the town gals made their customary play for the Joe Colleges.

The Main Tavern is getting a bit of competition from some new place up north which is appropriately named "Paradise."

Chick Dervin has found a "bird of the same feather," as he has recently joined up with Arlene Perkins.

STOOPNAGLE AND BUDD TO REVOLUTIONIZE RADIO, OR SOMETHING

Convinced that radio is here to stay and that the broadcasters have a great thing, Colonel Stoopnagle and Budd have decided to take a vacation from their other activities, like, say inventing stuff, in order to get into the business on the ground floor. The Colonel and Budd are going to form their own company for building and producing radio programs and on Fridays from 10.30 to 11.00 p.m. EST, commencing March 8, will give listeners on the coast-to-coast Columbia network an opportunity to tune in on what they are doing in the way of revolutionizing radio. The following statement, issued by the Colonel, practically explains everything, sort of: "On account of Budd and I don't expect to be doing much of anything from 10.30 to 11.00 p.m., EST; 9.30 to 10.00 p.m., CST; 8.30 to 9.00 p.m., Rocky Mountain Time; and 7.30 to 8.00 p.m., Pacific Standard Time, on Friday, March 8, we are going into radio. We plan many new ideas. For instance, all winners of sporting events who broadcast on our program must say 'Hello, PAPA' instead of 'Hello, Mama.' Mamas have been getting all the billing up to now. We haven't decided on a name for our program or our company as yet. Somebody suggested 'Hot Air, Inc.,' but we didn't hear him. Mr. Warnow's orchestra will assist us, together with our staff of studio entertainers. We can't tell you any more about it right now because somebody might steal our ideas, if any. But you can just bet we're going to give the broadcasters something to mull over."

NOTICE

Within a short time notices will be posted in the Y room and in the dormitories giving students an opportunity to apply for dining room work for next year. Watch for these notices and sign up promptly in order that assignments of work can be made before spring vacation.

Hoopsters Close Season With Eight Wins And Five Losses

The University of Vermont varsity basketball team concluded one of its most successful seasons in recent years on Wednesday, February 27. Even though they finished only second to Middlebury, Green Mountain Conference champions, they managed to capture eight out of their thirteen scheduled games, besides making an unusually fine showing in out-of-state contests.

Coach Johnny Sabo started the season with but two veterans, Capt. Whitey Palmer and Abe Steirn, and around these two he built a new type of basketball machine, getting most of his other material from the ranks of the sophomores and juniors. Into this club he introduced the 3-2 zone defense, besides the quick break, and a continual long-shot barrage.

In their opening game against McGill University of Canada, Vermont used these innovations very effectively to trounce the visitors 41-33. In this contest the Green and Gold quintet showed unexpected power, and when they started their road campaign a few days afterward, they were watched closely. A desperate last half rally was not enough to counteract the deadly shooting of Bonwell, of Dartmouth, and consequently they dropped this game to the Big Green team by the score of 34-22. Undismayed, however, they finished their road trip in a blaze of glory by downing Boston University and M. I. T. on successive nights by the score of 38-24, and 35-34 respectively.

Coming home again, they lost a one point decision to a highly-tooted Union aggregation, and then repulsed Boston University for a second time to conclude their pre-league play.

In their initial conference tilt, Vermont soundly trounced Norwich in the V. M. Gym by 43-25; then traveled to Northfield and again downed the cadets, this time by 31-27. Their hopes high, they left for Middlebury for the critical game of the league campaign, only to be decisively whipped by a superior Middlebury combination, 40-20.

At this point, the hopes of the basketball team were at a low ebb. They seemed to have lost that touch they had possessed in earlier games, and were slipping. However, they rallied together, and showing steady improvement, they downed St. Michael's twice by the scores of 21-20, and 33-21.

On February 23, Vermont lost to a Williams quintet that had defeated Middlebury and Princeton. The score was 34-32, and the game was lost in just the last few minutes of play. They then returned home only to be again decisively outscored by a Middlebury five led by Hoehn, in the last game of the season, 48-34.

Capt. Whitey Palmer was the steadying hand on this quintet composed of two sophs, two juniors, and just one senior. He was also the most consistent scorer, even though he was only runner-up to Abe Steirn, sharp-shooting forward, who garnered 87 points, to lead the team in scoring. Ernie Young, at the other forward, improved steadily during the season, developing into an excellent floor man and shooter. The two sophomore regulars, Dick Duncan and George Shaw, were both members of last year's freshman team. Duncan's height made possible the zone defense, and Shaw's fine shooting and floorwork was also a great asset to the team. Other men who earned their varsity letter were Al Tomassetti, Lefty Warden, Don Parker, Barney Goldberg, Bus Gerow and Reed.

A great deal of the credit for this team's success, however, goes to Coach Johnny Sabo, a newcomer in the basketball ranks of Vermont, who proved himself an outstanding basketball man and coach. In a team, the majority of whose members were green, he introduced an entirely new type of basketball, and in his first season turned out a team that was up in their fighting in its class, with every aggregation with which it contended.

Well, the collegiate basketball season has been brought to its usual close with the picking of the all-state teams. Once more our own Whitey Palmer has come through to win a place for the third straight year. The slender whitehead certainly is bringing his career to a glorious climax and the bouquets hurled at him by the local sheets make our last week's efforts look puny in comparison. He deserves every bit of it, however.

We don't want to forget Dick Duncan and Abe Steirn either. The lanky center made a fine impression as he made such rapid strides through the season that he shared the first-team center berth with Clonan of Middlebury. Steirn was picked on several first teams but was beaten out by Hoehn and Ruggiero.

Due to an oversight on the part of one of our reporters, Capt. Rollie Delfausse, Bill Cass, Johnnie Woodruff and Archie Post were not included in the story in the trip to Montreal this week-end. Delfausse is expected to do well in the 100 and 220, with Cass entered in the 50-yard dash. Woodruff and Harwood, who have gained fine reputations in the distance, are scheduled for their specialties. They won't win the meet but with four such outstanding men they should capture several points for Vermont.

Some of you fans who think varsity basketball is tame should get an eyeful of some of these fraternity games if you want some excitement. They feature everything from the fine type which means smooth passing, clever shooting, good defense and sometimes spectacular individual play. On the other hand, sometimes all that is needed are football suits to have a regular gridiron game. Some of these boys have wicked eyes and those of you who marvelled at Hoehn's shooting last week take notice of the eighteen points Don Davis chalked up the other night for the Delts. Ten and twelve points are nothing for these boys who give them all for the frat.

The outdoor skiing enthusiasts are taking an awful beating on account of the mild weather we have been having. The light dress of some of the Joe Colleges around school is reminiscent of spring, but the outdoor fans still sigh for just one more big snow.

The size of Bill Segur's wrestling and boxing class makes it look as if we are going to be treated to a whale of a show this year. A few of the newer boys are a little experienced, but if you think these gents can't handle themselves just go over to the gym some afternoon and watch Giardi or Trottier or some of the other big boys throwing each other around. Watch for the date of the tourney.

Pitching Problem Puzzles Gardner With Lots of New Talent to be Developed

With the death knell sounding on the basketball season, Vermont sport enthusiasts turn to baseball.

Coaches Larry Gardner and Doc Newton have thirty-two hopefuls trying for varsity berths. However, only fourteen players will make the southern trip, on March 28.

After two weeks of drilling, Coach Larry Gardner's budding baseball squad is hard at work in preparation for the coming journey into the warmer climes of Virginia and thereabouts.

This trip, an annual one, includes games with the leading teams of the East, and starts at Princeton on March 30. With the game with the Tigers only three weeks off, Gardner will soon begin weeding out his squad and, as does Lucky Strikes, discard the poorer class, and keep only the best "leaves."

Although he does not expect much trouble in the infield, outfield or behind the plate, having a wealth of talent, Larry is still experiencing trouble in moulding his mound staff. With Kirley under warning, only Marchie Swartz is returning from last year's team, thereby necessitating four more pitchers to make the trip. At present, Jack Bedell, Flushing fast-ball artist, and Pop-eye Saxton, southpaw, seem pretty certain of taking the trek, while Pogar and Foote are also promising candidates.

Whitey Palmer, Capt. Bob Burns, Andy Werner and Specs Williams at present compose the infield, with Hallinan, Funk and Degree leading the outfield candidates. Ramon, Kenworthy and Jack Hart are handling assignments behind the plate.

The southern trip, aim of every ball player at Vermont, is a splendid advertisement for this Green Mountain institution in the Metropolitan area. Due to the expense, only a limited number of players take the trip.

The following men have reported to the cage: Pitchers, Swartz, Kirley, Wolfe, Schaff, Pogar, Patch, Buxton, Riley, Saxton, Negus, Hutchins, Bedell, Fitzgerald, Lanahan. Catchers: Kenworthy, Foote, Hart, Ramon, Shufelt. Infielders: Werner, Burns, Williams, Poulin, Mamos, Palmer, Young, Barron. Outfielders: Hallinan, Raymond, Funk, Ramon, Bent, Degree.

Last Friday night the Roister Doisters at Massachusetts State College presented "Death Takes a Holiday" as its annual winter play. "Suppressed Desires" and "Society Notes" were chosen for the interclass competition.

She was only a professor's daughter, but she had her class.

HIGH SCHOOLS COMPETE AUDITORIUM TOMORROW

Burlington, Bellows Falls, Bennington and Montpelier Meet for State Title

Get out your old school colors, folks, and get ready to yell, for the high school tournament to decide the state title is on tap at the Memorial Auditorium, Saturday afternoon and night.

In the afternoon, Burlington, featuring the renowned Charlie Wilbur and the Marchacos brothers, meets Montpelier High. These teams broke even in their two games this year and your scribe hesitates to select a winner.

In the other afternoon encounter, Bennington High, led by DeVito, star forward, meets Bellows Falls, reputed by the weakest team in the tournament. Bennington, popularly favored to win the championship, should take this game without too much trouble.

At night the final and the consolation game will be played. The four teams entered, won the championship in their respective divisions, Burlington and Bennington winning handily, while Bellows Falls and Montpelier experienced trouble.

All seats are reserved, an innovation introduced by Salon C. Abell, director of the tournament, and a capacity crowd is expected to attend.

RIFLE TEAM LOSES TO NORWICH LAST SATURDAY

The University of Vermont Rifle Team went into a slump Saturday afternoon to lose a regular schedule match to Norwich University, 1314-1303. Having shot consistently good targets in previous matches, and in practice sessions, the Catamount marksmen feel they can recoup in a meet this Saturday at Northfield.

Vermont shot her last Corps Area target recently with a score of 1987 out of a possible 2000, and finished the series one point better than last year, when the team emerged with the championship of the Area, 100 points ahead of the nearest competitor, New Hampshire. The team this year has been coached by Capt. M. E. Craig, regular staff member of the Military department faculty.

POST LOOKS FOR BIG SEASON FOR TRACK

Delfausse to Lead Team and Be One of Its Stars As Several Veterans Report

With spring but thirteen days off, Archie Post, Vermont track coach, will soon issue the call for track candidates in an effort to build another characteristically strong team. Last year, led by the brothers Delfausse, Vermont had a successful season, finishing second in the Green Mountain conference meet, but this year with Joe Delfausse gone, Post will find it hard to find a middle distance man to fit his shoes.

Capt. Rollie Delfausse, sprint star, and holder of several records, will again be on hand, however, and with added experience may even better his 1934 achievements.

In the sprints Post has Bill Cass and Milt Jones, besides Delfausse, returning from last year's team and should be aided considerably by the addition of Abe Foote, sophomore sensation. In the middle distances Delfausse may again be used, along with Johns and Levine. Woodruff, Harwood and Twitchell will all return for the distance events. Along with Lehrer and Jenks from last year's freshman team. Al Tomassetti, Connecticut mile sensation a few years ago, is ineligible and his loss will be felt considerably. Trudeau, Connor and Syme are the three best hurdlers, while Trudeau in the high jump and Jezukawicz and Webster in the broad jump are the most adequate men in their respective events.

Vermont has, in the past years, been greatly handicapped by lack of strength in the weights, but this year may prove an exception. Red Cook is again ready to handle the weights, while Barton, probably the best shot-putter in the school, should help in this division.

There, briefly, you have the situation at a glance. Post, a great developer of green talent, should be able to turn out a good team.

SEVERAL U. V. M. RUNNERS TO PARTICIPATE IN MONTREAL MEET TODAY

Announcement was made today by Archie Post, head track coach at the University of Vermont, that a number of men from the University would travel to Montreal on March 8 to participate in the Canadian Indoor Championship Meet. Two men will enter the dashes and two will compete in the two mile run, he stated. One of the last, a graduate last year, will represent the Burlington Y. M. C. A.

Men making the trip are R. J. Delfausse, Rockville Center, N. Y.; W. E. Cass, Burlington; John Woodruff, Barre; and Clifford Harwood '34, the Y. M. C. A. representative. They will be accompanied to Montreal by Coach Post. Another Vermont institution, Middlebury College, will be represented at the meet, it was learned today, probably by a relay team.

The University Indoor Meet will be held on March 22 and 23, said Post. Finals in the Interfraternity relays will probably be run on the same day as the finals in the wrestling and boxing tournament, March 27. To date twelve teams have designated intentions of running in the meet. If the Independents choose to run, all thirteen of the possible entries will be on hand.

The government of China has decreed that military training in all colleges in Canton, China, shall be compulsory.

Capt. Whitey Palmer was the leading hand on this quintet composed of two sophs, two juniors, and just one senior. He was also the most consistent scorer even though he was only runner-up to Abe Steirn, sharp-shooting forward, who garnered 87 points, to lead the team in scoring. Dan Young of the other veteran squad, improved steadily during the season, developing into an excellent floor man and shooter. The two sophomore regulars, Dick Duncan and George Shaw, were both members of last year's freshman team. Duncan's height made him valuable in the zone defense and Shaw's fine shooting and floorwork was also a great asset to the team. Other men who earned their varsity letter were Al Farnsworth, Lefty Warden, Don Parker, Barney Goldberg, Bus Gerow and Reed.

A great deal of the credit for this team's success, however, goes to Coach Johnny Sabo a newcomer in the basketball ranks of Vermont, who proved himself an outstanding basketball mind and coach. In a team the majority of whose members were green in intercollegiate basketball and in his first season turned out a team that was up in their fighting in its class with every aggregation with which it contended.

By Sports' Editor

With the collegiate basketball season has been brought to its usual close with the picking of the all-state teams. Capt. Whitey Palmer has come through to win a place on the third straight year. The slender whitehead certainly is bringing his career to a glorious climax and the honors, heaped upon him by the local sports writers last week, should make him very complacent. He deserved every bit of it, however.

We don't want to forget Dick Duncan and Abe Steirn either. The latter surely ought a fine improvement to be made next year, especially on the defensive end, to retain the Burlington center berth with Captain of Middlebury. Steirn was picked on several mid-season and on account of his Hoochie and Kooochie.

Don Parker deserves all the praise of our reporter. Capt. Ritz Del Grosso, Bill Cass, Johnny Woodruff and Archie Post were not included in the story on the trip to Montreal this week-end. DeGrosso is expected to do well in the 100 and 220 with Cass expected to run in the quarter-mile. Woodruff and Harwood, who have gained fame in the distance events, are picked to take possession. They won't win the meet but only cop second and anything over third should satisfy any loyal person at Vermont.

Since it is fun now with those various basketball games should get an extra of some of these fraternity games if you want some excitement. They feature everything from the fine type which means accurate passing, clever shooting, good defense and sometimes spectacular individual play. On the other hand sometimes all that preceded are touched off once in a regular basketball game. Some of these boys have worked over and those of you who marvelled at Hoehn's shooting last week take notice of the eighteen points Don Dave clanked up the other night for the Delts. Ten and twelve points are nothing for these boys who give them all for the frat.

The outdoor track enthusiasts are taking an active interest in the meet on the 27th. Coaches are busy getting their men in shape for the Big Three Colleges around school is reminiscent of spring, but the outdoor fans still sigh for just one more big snow.

The work of Bill Sagar is coming and having seen make it look as if we are going to be treated to a whale of a show this year. A few of the upper boys are a little experienced but I don't think there gonna can't handle themselves and go over to the gym some afternoon and watch Gauch or Trottier or some of the other big boys throwing each other around. Watch for the date of the tourney.

Pitching Problem Puzzles Gardner With Lots of New Talent to be Developed

With the basketball season of the basketball season Vermont sport enthusiasts turn to baseball.

Coaches Larry Gardner and Doc Newton have thirty-two hopefuls trying for varsity berths. However, only fourteen players will make the southern trip on March 28.

After two weeks of indoor workouts Larry Gardner handed baseball togs to his charges at work in preparation for the opening contest with the Kenyon eleven at Virginia and thereafter.

This trip an annual one includes games with the leading teams of the East and starts at Princeton on March 30. With the games with the Tigers only three weeks off Gardner will have to start working into shape the pitching staff and keep only the best. Veterans.

Although he does not expect much trouble in the school outfield he has the plate. Having a wealth of talent Larry is still experimenting on the possibility of moving his present staff. Art Lee, the senior warning, and Murray Lawrie is returning to the mound duties after having been converted to catch the 1934 season. At present Earl Tisdell, Hastings Lockhart, Bill Baxter and Pop-eye Sanders, sophomore pitching candidates are taking the track with Baxter and Lawrie are also promising candidates.

Whitey Palmer, Capt. Bob Burns, Andy Werner and Specs Williams at present compose the infield with Hallinan, Cook and Dupree seeking the outfield candidates. Ramon Kenworthy and Jack Hart are handling receiving behind the plate.

The southern trip ups at every half dozen of Vermont's ball players to compete for the Green Mountain institution in the Metropolitan area. Due to the expense, only a limited number of players take the trip.

Last Friday night the Rooster Dousters at Massachusetts State College presented "Death Takes a Holiday" as its annual winter play. "Suppressed Desires" and "Society Notes" were chosen for the inter-class competition.

'BRAIN TRUST MATERIAL" REFUSED BY ANGELL

Leon Fisher, Conn.—Yale University has refused to turn over its "brain trust material" to the federal government. So many Yale professors have been called into government service during the past two years that Pres. James Rowland Angell has said that, "Fairness to the professors requires that the government call a halt beside its apparent desire to secure the entire faculty."

Pointing out that the situation has already produced complications which have not been free of embarrassment, Pres. Angell said: "It seems unfair as a consequence of the conscientious performance of their official duties to the end that the ablest, most critical minds, nothing counted, behind the university gate, should not be open to what could not be quite presidential."

Interesting sports in Germany are still in their infancy, having been introduced only about 14 years ago by ex-soldiers who say they have considered dueling the only sport worthy of them.

Wayne University (Detroit, Mich.) has adopted new methods of rating students in the graduate school, whereby there are now Even credit, noncredit, or reports for their grades.

West Virginia University (Morgantown) physicists are now tuning in Australian short-wave stations on new receiving sets that have been installed by them.

"Look as idiotic as you possibly can" if you want to be healthy, says Dr. Jay B. Nash of New York University's physical education department.

More than one-third of those enrolled at Case School of Applied Science (Cleveland) are trying out for some varsity athletic team.

When two chapters of Phi Delta Kappa, one from Blufton, Ind., and one from Celina, O., played a basketball game in 1919, the score was 138 to 0, in favor of the former team.

DEAN HILLS TO SPEAK AT SCHOOL CONFERENCE

Plans have been completed for the annual spring conference of the University Council with the Conference and Community Music Teachers Association, March 15.

Dean Hills of the University of Vermont will speak as well as several others.

The conference was originally organized at the University for high school and academy schools only, but in the past few years the Champlain District Association has sponsored a program for elementary schools also.

University of California students are given a 5% rebate on their tuition when they receive all A's.

LAWTON IS PRESIDENT OF GOLD KEY SOCIETY

Officers for Second Semester and New Members are Elected at Last Meeting

At a meeting of the Gold Key Society held last week members were elected for the second semester and three new members were chosen to replace those who left during the year.

The members chosen were G. G. Gillespie, and H. A. MacMembers of Gold Key are basis of one man from each fraternity, two from the Independents and one at large. These three men have stood in their class in extra activities.

Lawton is the only freshman last year to win letters of numerals, gaining this in football, basketball, track and baseball. In addition this year he was elected to the football squad, a regular basketball team, and chairman of the Junior Hop. He is a member of Phi Mu.

MacMillan won numerals in football during his freshman year, captaining the freshman sport. This fall he was a member of the football squad and at present a candidate for the track team. He is a member of Kappa Sigma.

Niles holds down a position as assistant business manager on the Cynic staff and is scrubbing for the baseball managership. He was recently chosen over W. R. King. Gillespie is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

The business of the meeting included the selection of plans for the basketball party which the society will sponsor on March 16. The music of Sid Carsley was engaged for the occasion.

The meeting was held at the Phi Delta Theta house.

FRESHMEN SET CLASS SCHOLASTIC RECORD

Score Highest Record of Any Freshman Class on Record

The freshman class in the arts and science college of the University has made an unusually high scholastic record this year according to figures released from the office of Dean Elijah Swift. The number of freshmen attaining a B average, stated Dean Swift, was the largest on record, the class having placed 15.2 per cent of its enrollment in the B average column. The next best freshman record was made by the present senior class as freshmen, when 12 per cent of the class attained a B average. In the present class, the dean declared, there is an unusually large number of high grades. Two students received straight A's and fourteen an average of 90 or better which is about double the usual number.

The first-semester classes this year except the sophomore class attained more honors than the corresponding classes of the last two years. The seniors this year had 40.1 per cent of their members in the B average group, last year's seniors had 37.3, the seniors of two years ago 36.2. The junior rating is 38.1 for this year, 24.8 for last year, 25.6 for the year before last. The sophomores rank this year 17.1; 16.1; and the freshmen 15.2, 15.1 respectively, for the past three years.

Of the freshman class, two were dropped at Christmas and twenty-five at mid-year or 9.1 per cent of the class. This rate is larger than last year, when 7.5 per cent were dropped, and also than two years ago, when 8.6 per cent were dropped, but the average for the four years preceding 1932-33 is 9.5 per cent, or larger.

Of the sophomores, seven were dropped which compares with two last February, one year before, and six the year before that. One junior was dropped this year which is a figure comparable with the past two years.

CAP AND SKULL CONDUCTS NOVEL DANCE IN GYM

Latest Addition to Social Calendar Well Received by Students of Both Colleges

Last Friday night for the first time in many a long year, the Medics held an all-college dance in the gym. This dance was under the direction of Cap and Skull members: J. C. Cunningham, M. K. Dunsmore, R. C. Fuller, T. R. Marvin, C. Rutkowski, G. F. West, and R. E. Williams. The brand new lighting effect gave the gym a decidedly exotic glamour never before achieved and the Carsley band's new outfits went straight to every girl's heart, some of the husky lemen even admitting "they looked pretty smooth." The music, of course, was perfect—nothing more needs be said.

From eight-thirty until twelve the participants who were clever enough to realize the merits of the affair in spite of Saturday's six or eight hour tests shagged, dipped, hopped, slid, and bridged to their hearts' content. This dance was under the full sanction of the Deans, and has been added to the regular social calendar.

The Cap and Skull Society should be proud of their initial success in running a dance for both colleges. The college at large hopes they will sponsor another one as satisfying to the general public.

VERMONT FORENSCISTS PREPARE FOR ANNUAL MID-WESTERN TRIP

The varsity debate team will start its annual spring trip Sunday, March 24. The trip this year will take the team into the Middle West, meeting a total of fifteen colleges and universities in fourteen days, on a trip which will cover approximately 4,200 miles.

Three questions are to be used. The education question will be debated once, and that with Talladega College, Talladega, Ala., with Vermont upholding the negative side in an Oregon style contest. The question "Resolved, that all collective bargaining should be negotiated through non-company unions, protected by law" will be used five times with Vermont having the affirmative side two-man style, in each case.

The munitions question is the most popular with nine debates scheduled on that topic. Vermont will uphold the affirmative three times, and the negative six times. The question is stated, Resolved that the nations should agree to prevent the international shipments of arms and munitions."

March 24 Sunday, the team will have its first debate of the trip with Hobart at Geneva, N. Y. The next evening, March 25, the men will meet Western Reserve at Cleveland, Ohio. On the twenty-sixth there are two debates one with Mount Union College at Alliance, Ohio, and the other with Ashland College at Ashland, Ohio. On the next day, Wednesday, the team will split into two groups, each group participating in a debate. One will be with Ohio State at Columbus, and the other with the University of Dayton at Dayton, Ohio.

On the second night the team debates West Virginia State at Institute, W. Va. Leaving the same night Maryland College at Maryland, Ky., and the Tennessee at Knoxville at Knoxville, Tuesday, the fourth of the tours, with Lafayette College at Philadelphia, Pa. There will be a debate Friday, March 29.

March 30 the team will meet Muhlenberg College at Allentown, Pa. On the Southern Methodist University at Dallas, Texas, on April 1, and on the following night at Texas Christian University at Fort Worth, Texas. On the next night, April 3, the team will meet Oklahoma University at Norman, Okla., and on the following night at Kansas University at Lawrence, Kan. VERMONT OUTING CLUB

The Outing Club staged another of its trips Sunday, which was successful from every angle. It has been doing it frequently this year, and has many plans up its sleeve for the rest of the year.

A small group from Vermont met a group from Middlebury and together they climbed Mount Philo. Snow was good and they had a miniature snow meet between themselves. A delightful time was reported by those who went. And although they probably returned tired, they were really much more refreshed for the beginning of another week's work.

Previous to the last two weeks Vermont had no active outdoor club of any kind. We had our full quota of societies and organizations of every conceivable nature. But although set in the midst of mountainous country, with our own Look Campus the highest peak in the state, no group had attempted to get acquainted with our surroundings.

Last year a winter sports club interested things along this line with success. It sponsored the winter carnival on Kake Walk week-end, as well as other intercollegiate meets, some hikes and a sleigh ride.

Its organization this year resulted in an outing club, which has been active in several ways. It has sponsored several mountain hikes and a big sleigh ride to Shelburne. It hopes to continue its Sunday hikes the rest of the year, running one a week.

We feel that such a club has a definite place in such an out-in-the-open college as Vermont. It deserves all possible support in its attempts to provide outdoor life for people otherwise bent over a book, for its resultant fostering of fun and good fellowship, and good relations with ski enthusiasts from other colleges.

CAMPUS ACTION AGAINST WAR

According to an article in another part of this paper, a call has been issued for a national student strike as a protest against war. This action has been set for April 12, eighteenth anniversary of our entrance into the World War. Predictions based on the success of last year's strike estimate [illegible] students will participate.

Last year on April 13, 25,000 students left their classrooms, 15,000 at New York City alone. Meetings were held at which students and faculty alike denounced war; parades were formed, and burnings in effigy and mass meetings were held. These were mostly peaceful except where met by opposition from college authorities or some employers. Public authorities stood behind the demonstrations.

At first glance this looks like a useless action, mere propaganda. A gathering or parading of students listening to peace talks and blowing off a lot of lung power!

However the great majority of any civilian population abhors war and desires peace. They are alike in this respect but differ in their methods for ensuring peace. Some want preparedness, others want disarmament, some want international cooperation, others a strong nationalism; some are after all the money they can make, others will sacrifice for the common good. In the midst of all these opposing methods, the heart of the common goal is lost, the desire for peace. Because of these minor conflicts, a population cannot put up a solid and united front for peace. Therefore the government remains unconvinced that sentiment is strongly for peace.

As college students all over the country we wonder what we can do. Some of us can vote, but our voice is not loud. We decide that our opinion cannot amount to much. However, unite these opinions everywhere by some concerted action, and we have a strong surging sentiment in any legislature.

Would it be advisable for Vermont to do its share of uniting these opinions on peace? Perhaps some group or organization will feel it is. If not, the least any of us can do is to keep ourselves informed of political, social and economic conditions of the whole world. We can keep our own minds clear on current history even if we don't attempt to be heard doing it.

leaders of this movement toward the organization of the Independents have no ulterior motive in mind. The purpose of the [illegible] is to give the non-fraternity men opportunities to participate in [illegible] both social and athletic and promote fair play [illegible] Vermont First. The Independents plan to enter into friendly competition with [illegible] in the intra-mural contests and in this way to develop any talent which is discovered among the non-fraternity men. In this way, as well as through the many social activities in which the club will participate, a greater interest in U. V. M. and a better time for themselves will be the result of the organization of the Independents.

U.V.M. Co-eds Conduct Rock Point Social Welfare Project

Entertainment for activities at Rock Point [illegible] still ranging high among the girls at college who go out each week to conduct some projects. Since the Christmas party the time has been devoted to tap dancing, piano lessons, and knitting lessons. Haig is developing some enthusiastic little tap dancers whom some of our college girls could well emulate. Last week Howard Nute furnished the music for tap dancing—a no mean addition to the pleasure of stepping to rhythm.

Even all the girls who clamored to learn to play the piano, a group has been cornered down to a few more than half a dozen who really show talent as well as a very genuine desire to become adept upon the keys. These girls need teachers who can satisfy their enthusiasm. A splendid opportunity is offered for practice teaching in this field.

Knitting, always a popular pastime, was revived most enthusiastically under the leadership of Betsy Gallup. She has a list of eight people who desire eight different colors of yarn. If you wish to donate some of your surplus yarn won't you please speak to Betsy?

Plans are being made for something a little bit extra this week, Thursday, in honor of St. Patrick's Day. Nat Hilliker is planning to take out a car full of girls—and ideas which will be added to the regular program which is conducted each week.

HEALTH WEEK NOTES

Health Week was very successful. Many girls have found the mimeographed sheets on posture exercises, feet exercises and mental hygiene remarkably helpful. The low-cost reducing menus for one week, which the girls staying at Rand's contributed, should be popular with some of the plumper co-eds who are striving to regain their girlish figures.

The Health Council made $13.33 selling five cent tags last week. Anyone who did not buy a tag can purchase them at the gym office or from Barbara Taylor.

Miss Cummings said, "Health Week was quite a success altogether and had emphasized the fact that college women must not be content with 'half a loaf of health.'"

COLLEGE STUDENTS ACT AS LEADERS AT Y. M. C. A.

There are several activities at the local Y. M. C. A. in which University of Vermont students are participating. Twenty-four girls are in the swimming class which meets at 4.00 p.m. every Tuesday and Thursday. The college men swim is at 8:30 p.m. More students, especially women, must attend, or this feature will be discontinued.

Of twenty-six members of the Leader's Corp and Life Guard assistants, the majority are University women. Some of them are Elizabeth Beckvold '35, Pauline Bristol '37, Florence Brown '36, Betsy Chase '38, Sue France '35, Susanne Fuller '38, Elizabeth Haig '36, Caroline Hill '36, and Priscilla Newton '38.

In the social room helping with children's activities are Louise Brazier '38, Abbie Howe '37.

The arts and craft class meets on Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Zona Gale, famed authoress, will present a series at the University of Hawaii (Honolulu, T. H.) this semester.

ALEXANDER WOOLLCOTT

Alexander Woollcott, noted author, playwright, raconteur and—in the rôle of the "Town Crier"—conductor of one of the most popular and provocative periods on the air, usually baffles his interviewers. He doesn't like to be interviewed. For those listeners, however, who know that Woollcott is a celebrated wit, a boon companion of great personalities, a host at famous Sunday breakfasts, a champion croquet player, and a lot of other intimate details—but who do not know where he was born, went to school, worked and played, this history has been compiled.

Alexander Woollcott was born at Phalanx, N. J., U. S. A., on January 19, 1887, the son of Walter and Frances Grey Bucklin Woollcott. After he finished wading through his nursery library, reading everything from Nietzsche to Lewis Carroll—Woollcott trudged off to Philadelphia to attend Central High School.

From Philadelphia Woollcott proceeded to Clinton, N. Y., and spent the usual amount of time acquiring a Ph.D. degree from Hamilton College in 1909. After some years of general writing, studying and teaching, he became dramatic critic of the New York Times—a post he held from 1914 to 1922. In 1922 Woollcott became dictator of dramatic tastes for the readers of the New York Herald. Three years later his criticisms and personal enthusiasms popped up on the drama page of the New York World. By 1928 Woollcott's talent for injecting his own enthusiasms into the [illegible] of a vast number of readers brought his writings into the pages of the Saturday Evening Post, Collier's, newspaper syndicates, and books.

Late in 1930, Woollcott faced the microphone for the first time in the New York studios of the Columbia Broadcasting System, conducting a chatty literary column called "The Early Bookworm." In October 1934 he launched his current CBS series, heard every Sunday from 7.00 to 7.30 p.m., E. S. T.

REVIEW OF OPPORTUNITIES OFFERED BY OUTING CLUB

Hikes, Lectures, Sleigh-ride, and Skiing Instruction Among Features This Year

The U. V. M. Outing Club is a organization on the Vermont campus which has attracted many nature lovers and has planned all-around good sports into its ranks by offering a variety of well-planned trips to the college at large. Never, before this year, has the enthusiasm for the out-doors been so marked.

Although the university in general has been dormant, and rather sluggish in getting started for the delightful excursions dangled before its eyes at different times of the year, the Outing Club Council and the perennial rooters for all its activities are confident in its ultimate success.

The club is a member of I. O. C. A. Intercollegiate Outing Club Association, and two of its members were present at the summer during college week which was held at Great Gulf below Mt. Washington, N. H. The events were many and widely different in excitement content—comedy and good fellowship pervaded the atmosphere, against a background of mountain solitude. The I. O. C. A. is composed of twenty-five college Outing Clubs; a member is the Dartmouth Outing unsurpassed throughout the any organization of its kind. a galaxy of snow, ice, and ing activities. VARSITY MEN TO DEBATE MASSACHUSETTS STATE TOMORROW AFTERNOON

Contest to be in Oregon Style—More Interesting to Audience

The varsity debate team will meet the Massachusetts State College team of Amherst, Mass., here Saturday afternoon, March 16, in an Oregon style decision debate, on the education question. The debate will be held in Room 3 South College, at 3 p.m.

The Massachusetts State team is on a trip through Vermont and will debate St. Michael's Saturday evening on the munitions question. The men on the Massachusetts team are experienced forencists, and will undoubtedly present a very good case against Vermont, which will uphold the negative.

This debate is the first Oregon style contest to be held here in Burlington this year. Because of its similarity to court room procedure, and because of the direct clash of wit between the lawyer and witness, this style of debate proves most interesting to an audience. Ratio than unbroken speeches, Oregon style debating presents a chance for quick repartee, swift interchange of argument and a good deal of humor.

Ray Greemore '36 will act as constructive speaker and witness for Vermont; Fred Timmerman '37 as lawyer; and Carl Rogers '35 as rebuttal speaker. Timmerman and Rogers have debated the negative of this question, Oregon style, previously this year, once with Bates College of Lewiston, Me., with Frank Hale speaking in rebuttal, and once with the University of Maine of Orono, Me., in a two-man debate.

A different team will go to St. Michael's Monday evening, March 18, and will debate on the negative side of the munitions question. This debate will be three-man, American style, with Carl Rogers '36, Frank Hale '36, and Bill Myers '37 speaking for Vermont.

This debate will be the first in which Vermont has taken the negative of the munitions question. Rogers and Timmerman debated Boston University on the affirmative of the question, and Rogers, Timmerman, and Myers met the Puerto Rico team again on the affirmative, but profiting from experience and the excellent case presented by Ponsa, Morales, and Rivera of Puerto Rico, a good negative case is being worked up.

WOMEN FORENSICISTS TO MEET B. U. TEAM

The last Phelps debate preceding the spring trip this year will take place March 22 in the Fleming Museum where Thelma Gardner '37 and Mary Williams '36 will debate against two representatives of Boston University.

The question will be "Resolved that there should be prevention of interpersonal elements of arms and munitions." Vermont holds the negative of this question which was also the topic of the boys' debate with the Puerto Rican delegates.

As yet there is no decision announcement as to whether the contest will or will not be a decision debate.

The spring trip this year will include New York and Philadelphia.

SENIOR WEEK OFFICERS

In the election of officers of the class of 1935 held March 13 the following persons were elected:

Founder's Day speaker, William Myers.

Chairman of Senior Week, Fred Lanahan.

Financial manager of Senior Week, F. T. Churchill.

MEN WILL HOLD DANCES APPROACHING WEEK-END AND FOLLOWING FRIDAY

Four Informals, Two Semi-Formals, and Three Formals Complete List of Pre-Easter Dances

Seven of the men's fraternities will hold Easter dances next week-end either on Friday, March 22, or Saturday, March 23. Two others will have formals on the last day of school before the spring recess, Friday, March 29.

Those planning to give a dance one week from today are: Alpha Tau Omega, Sigma Nu, Phi Mu Delta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Lambda Iota, Delta Psi and Sigma Delta are to hold their dances on Saturday of next week. On March 29, Phi Delta Theta and Kappa Sigma will both hold formal dances.

There are to be three formal, two semi-formal and four informal dances. Six different orchestras have been hired.

The A T O's are having Larry Pierce's orchestra at an informal on March 22. H. J. Gerow '35 and F. P. Hart '36 are in charge. Prof. and Mrs. H. Lanahan have been secured as chaperones.

On the same evening a semi-formal will be held at the Sigma Nu Lodge with Eddie Starr and his orchestra furnishing the syncopation. J. J. Bedell '37 and W. G. Clark '38 are handling the affair. Prof. and Mrs. L. L. Briggs and Prof. and Mrs. H. Lautsch will be the chaperones.

Another semi-formal will take place at the Phi Mu Delt House, March 22. The committee in charge is composed of R. W. Hurley '35, C. J. Keelan '35 and A. S. McDonough '37.

The S A E's will hold a formal the same night with Prof. and Mrs. H. L. Rogers chaperoning. A. G. Buxton '36 and M. A. Patch '35 who are running the dance, have obtained the Hotel Van Ness orchestra.

The Owls will give an informal on Saturday, March 23, with Freddie Sloane's orchestra furnishing the music. The committee in charge is composed of A. G. Mayville '38, I. W. Robinson '38, and G. D. Rosanelli '38. Prof. and Mrs. R. J. Livingston and Prof. and Mrs. L. S. Rowell will be the chaperones.

H. R. Swift '37 and E. L. Vervoort '36 are in charge of the Delt dance which will be informal. Prof. and Mrs. H. G. Prentice will chaperone. Sid Carsley is to play for this event which will take place March 23.

The Sigma Delts have secured Roger Edgerton's orchestra for an informal on March 23. The freshmen of the fraternity with H. E. Ross '38, as chairman have charge of the affair. Prof. and Mrs. L. B. Puffer are to chaperone.

Sid Carsley's band will play at the Phi Delt formal Friday, March 29. In charge of the dance are: I. A. Bestol '35 and G. A. Smith '36. Prof. and Mrs. J. A. Bullard will act as chaperones.

The Kappa Sigs will also hold a formal on March 29 with the Hotel Van Ness orchestra furnishing the syncopation. G. H. Sheehe '35 is chairman of the social committee. Prof. and Mrs. P. H. Ewert will chaperone.

CYNIC COPY

For future issues of the Cynic, a deadline for all copy is set for 9.00 a.m. the day of make-up; that is, Monday morning for Tuesday's issue and Thursday for Friday's. Material brought in after that time will not be printed until the following issue. This applies to all organizations that write up their own publicity, as well as to Cynic reporters.

INDEPENDENTS

The second meeting of the Independents has been postponed until Monday, March 18, at 4.00 o'clock. It will be held in Room 27, Williams Science Hall. All non-fraternity men are urged to attend.

BENJAMIN GATES TALKS ON STATE GOVERNMENT AT CITY HALL MARCH 13

Tells Need of Change in Vermont State Official for Several Years

Benjamin Gates lectured on the "Organization of State Government" Wednesday evening, March 13, at the City Hall Auditorium. Mr. Gates has been a state official since 1917, and has held the position of state auditor for several years.

The main idea of his lecture was the need of change in the government of Vermont. He said that people were becoming more interested in government lately. He attributed the causes of the present chaos to the lack of statesmanship, by which many of the things which have happened in the last five years might have been avoided. "People are coming to the government more and more, they must have good government. Lack of interest slowness to realize and numerous political appointments have been some of the reasons for inefficient government."

Mr. Gates read a plan for the reorganization of state government. He attacked traditions which "become tenaciously wicked and prevent growth." He illustrated that fact by speaking of old institutions which, although worthless now, are not abolished. In his plan he proposed a state police force, changing of boundary lines and county seats, the removal of many useless officials, policy of having more officials appointed rather than elected; the reorganization of all state departments, reorganization of town units into from fifty to sixty townships which would lessen the number of representatives; the education of people to progressive viewpoints, complete reorganization of the judicial system which Mr. Gates considered typically "antique"; building of Vermont into "the ideal spot for people to live in," the establishment of a legislative council of five or six legislators whose duty it would be to provide a program and shape the work for the legislature; and the change of the state constitution to meet modern needs whenever necessary.

It is Mr. Gates' idea to "wipe out the old psychology." He said, "Vermont needs a lot of constructive criticism, and she needs it now." In speaking of law enforcement and prevention of deaths he summarized by, "The whole world is looking for things which are preventative."

WIEDEMANN SPEAKS AT FRENCH CLUB MEETING

The French Club met at eight o'clock Thursday evening, March 14, at the Alpha Chi Omega house.

Paul Wiedemann '38 of St. Rambert, France, gave an informal talk on "College Life in France." He said that the French college corresponds to the American high school in its curriculum. He also included some details of his home town.

Some of the members of the club presented a French play, and later, games were played.

FACULTY AND STUDENTS TO HEAR TALK ON RUSSIA

Dr. Harwood Eddy will [illegible] on the subject "Russia Today" on the radio hour of the Vermont program at [illegible] on the afternoon of Tuesday, March 19, in the Fleming Museum auditorium. His subject will be the most unique which any statesman of present world time has to offer. Russia has made [illegible] in their system.

Due to the fact that Doctor Eddy will give during his latest visit to the campus and has that reason both the boys' [illegible] and townspeople are well [illegible] there will be a small admission charge at [illegible] gates to assist the Y. M. C. A. the organization sponsoring the visit in defraying traveling expenses. The talk will begin promptly at four o'clock and finish promptly at 5:30 since Doctor Eddy must make a hurried trip to Middlebury at that time for an evening address there.

For the last three months of 1934 Harwood Eddy has been speaking all over China covering almost the entire country by air before audiences of from ten to sixty thousand. The Chinese, torn between the Communists, the Japanese and their own bandits are eager to hear a man of another country speak of their problems and suggest the Christian way of dealing with them.

Previous to the afternoon talk Doctor Eddy will be given a luncheon at the Community Y by the V. C. A., at which about fourteen guests will be present to discuss informally with him at that time his views and conclusions about present affairs.

Doctor Eddy is the second speaker of international Christian reputation to be brought to the campus this year by the Vermont Christian Association, the first being Dr. T. Z. Koo of China who stayed at the University January 4-6. The Association expected to be able to offer Doctor Eddy to the campus for a longer period but he asked to be freed from a more extended program because of the steam of his previous Chinese schedule and his present American one.

For forty years he has taken groups of American college and business men to Europe and especially Russia, bringing them into contacts with important forces and countries, contacts which he has built up in the course of his experience on the Continent. He is now sixty-three, but still spends most of his time on speaking tours here and abroad, during the summer conducting the trips just mentioned. He is the author of a large number of books, among them being "The Challenge of Europe," "The Challenge of the East," and "Russia Today." He is connected with the National Y. M. C. A. and has done much evangelistic work.

"Y" GROUP WORKS ON VOCATION GUIDANCE

Information About Various Careers and Jobs to be Given to Students

A Y. W. C. A. committee is now working on plans for Vocational Guidance Week to be held sometime in the near future. The purpose of this week is to bring before the women of the campus the information they desire and need concerning the various fields of endeavor which are open to women today.

This committee is very anxious to give the girls the information they want about the careers and jobs in which they are most interested. The committee would therefore appreciate any suggestions or questions from the women as to any of their prospective careers.

Then too, if anyone has secured any information about a career in which the committee is not likely to know about, this information would also be appreciated.

It is hoped that a large amount of interest can be aroused in this vocational conference, since one can never tell if one's vocation will not be found by the girls who actively take part in the conference groups which will be held during the week.

Several outside speakers authorities in their various lines of work are to be called upon to give what aid they can to those students whose careers are still ahead of them.

THE R. O. T. C. SITUATION

As evidenced in other parts of this issue, the R. O. T. C. question continues to be raised in colleges and universities throughout the country. Most of the situations are those of students who refuse to take military training at institutions where it is compulsory. Many of these cases have arisen as a protest to or result of the recent Supreme Court decision which made it clear that any college may make compulsory whatever subjects it wishes, and that there is no appeal on the part of the student. But as so often interpreted, the decision does not say that land-grant colleges are obliged to make the training compulsory.

We cannot but agree that the Supreme Court did the only thing it could in backing up the colleges, else how might any university make English or physical education or any other subject required of all graduates. But we do hesitate to agree that individual universities are justified in pursuing the same course of making military training compulsory for every single student. Of course, the universities justify this, and rightly, on the grounds that an optional course in military would not be able to enroll sufficient students to enable continuance of the course, with the consequent loss of federal money grants as a land-grant college.

Now among many students, a course in military science is popular, and they do well in it; to many more the course is a matter of indifference; or if they don't like it laziness is the only explanation. But a very small third group raises objections to it on personal conscientious grounds. It is of this small group that we speak in particular; for we have no objection to military training for those who like it, or for those who don't object to it. But when a person has strong social, religious or personal objections to the course, is there any justification for his being forced to take it? Must he do this in a country which has always prided itself on freedom of thought and conscience? Must he do it at an institution which he enters for the purpose of getting a higher education as equipment for a more useful life?

It seems to us that there should be appeal for such students, of which we have a few on our own campus. Of course, the immediate refutation of this stand is "let the objectors go elsewhere to college." Consider for a moment that 528 men out of 775 in the University this year are from the State of Vermont; that the great majority of them have scholarships which are their sole means of going to college anywhere, and we see why they either go to Vermont or stay at home.

We feel that our sister university, New Hampshire, has the most sensible arrangement. It has its R. O. T. C. battalion, and military is compulsory for two years. However, for a small group of about six who conscientiously object to the course, alternative courses in debating or political science are available. In this way, deep personal feelings are respected with no injury to the college or the R. O. T. C.

Is it too much to expect that Vermont might arrange some such a system? We feel that if any student can show real personal objections he is too wise should be forced to enroll in this student army.

W. A. A. Notes

In shooting matches with various colleges the University of Vermont women have made some fine scores. March 9 there was competition with six other schools: Penn State, University of Wichita, Northwestern University, Connecticut State College, Drexel and Columbia, Mo. Five women made the perfect score of 100 in each match: Genevieve Hutchins '36, Helen Miller '35, Wilma Nelson '36, Marian Parker '35 and Esther Sinclair '36.

Florence Stufflebeam '38 made 100 in all but the Penn State match. Evelyn Eaton '37 made a perfect score against University of Wichita, Drexel and Northwestern University; Marion Hill '38 against Columbia, Mo., Connecticut State College and the University of Wichita.

Those who scorn girls' basketball games should have seen the junior-freshman game last Tuesday at 4.00 o'clock. The freshmen won 25-20, though their teamwork was not as good as their training called for. If the guards had passed the ball more among themselves their plays could have been carried out, and the juniors wouldn't have gotten the ball as often. The freshmen have the material, but they must learn to click throughout the game instead of in instances as shown in Tuesday's game.

The junior guards fought valiantly and with spirit. As a unit they did the best bit of playing.

McPherson displayed plenty of speed and accuracy in shooting baskets, and was well supported by her teammates. She was the highest scorer for the game, making 15 points. Bates, freshman team, made 14 points.

TRACK HAS MANY CANDIDATES—FRESHMEN PRACTICE IN OLD CAGE

In Coach Archie Post's lists of candidates, the following are probable team men for the spring track events. The listings contain men who may be switched around (if only for one meet), depending upon the strength of the opposing team and others who are taking exams soon to come out from under warming.

100- and 220-yard dashes: Capt. Rollie Delfausse '35, outstanding man. A. I. Robbins '36, close runner-up and far ahead of the others. Bill Cass '35, expects to come out and work hard for his letter. J. Jezukawicz '36, good all-around man. Milt Jones '36, expects to compete. Don Duley '37, freshman's outstanding man last year. Abe Foote '37, sophomore sensation.

440-yard dash: Ray Cowans, only man from last year. Harry MacMillan '37, looks promising, having run consistently. Dusty White '35, creditable run in last year's state meet. Manny Levine '38, freshman medic, has stood out in the 880.

880-yard dash and milers: Dusty White, former captain of cross-country. Manny Levine, starred in this event. Izzy Lehrer '37, co-captain of cross-country. Bill Jenks '37, excelled in last year's freshman team. Mac McIntyre '37, good distance man. Johnny Woodruff '38, freshman medic, co-holder of the U. V. M. mile record.

2-milers: Woodruff '38 and Twitchell '36.

High jump: Trudeau '37, one of the best. Webster '37, also in broad jump. Jim Crane '36, injury to his foot in last year's meet persists in troubling him, keeping him in the background.

Pole vault: J. Jezukawicz '36, only experienced man. Whitehope and Trudeau '37, have to get better acquainted with the sport.

Hammer throw: Red Cook, outstanding man. Park '35, Ross '37, Ray Mainer '37, Barton '37 and Noyes '37, follow-uppers.

Javelin throw: Ray Collins '38, freshman medic. Rollie Delfausse '35, that man's here again. Ross '37, hammer thrower also. Mainer '37, Mainer some other place? Vilardo '37, Vilardopen up this year?

Broad jump: J. Jezukawicz '36, looks to be good. Johnny Webster '37, another promising sophomore. Harry MacMillan '37, quite a jump from Plainfield, eh?

Discus: Ross '37, Cook '35, Cannon '37. Park '35 and Vilardo '37, Greek-letter athletes.

Hurdles, high and low: Frank (Bill) Syme '35, Bill Connor '36 and Trudeau '37, the best in the school. Dave Hawley '37, winter sports enthusiast. E. Rice '37 and Les Rome '37, both picked hurdling up very quickly.

Among the freshmen there are many promising candidates, namely: Lamson, Keith and Carpenter in running events; Suitor in hurdles, high and broad jumps and pole vault; Pratt in the pole vault; Red Rudzyna in dashes, broad and high jumps, pole vault and javelin throw; Ken LaPlant in shot put, discus and javelin throws.

These multiple-event men in particular are of the highest value to any track team and a great deal is expected from them as future stars of U. V. M. Along with them are Gordon Howard, Paul Woodman, Roger Whitcomb and others with a little ability and the spark to work.

BASKETBALL HOP PROVES COLORFUL AND GAY SCENE

Awards Are Made to Men Who Played More Than Half the Games—Sid Furnishes Music Again

The gym was the setting for the annual Basketball Hop which took place on Saturday March 16 under the direction of Gold Key Sophomore men's honorary society.

This dance has been proclaimed as one of the most enjoyable of the season's gym dances—a gay and colorful period to this year's basketball sentence. The Seniors have been released regretfully by Johnny Sabo, chief warden, and the undergraduates are out on parole until next Winter with a strict admonition to report at the stage door next season to take the place of the ex-stars.

Sid Garvey and his Doctors of Music provided the musical menu and after the syncopated cocktails and tantalizing appetizers of smooth melody opened the evening's fun, the main course was offered in Sid's original and delightful harmony. Then the pause that refreshes" during which either you sat and watched the basketball letters being awarded or else you were awarded a letter, depending on whether or not you had struggled to reach for dear old Vermont.

The boys to receive letters were Captain Palmer '35, A M. Steirn '36, B. Goldberg '35, D. S. Parker '37, E. G. Young '36, S. R. Warden '37, G. B. Shaw '37, A. R. Tomassetti '37, H. J. Goron '37, R. L. Duncan '37, and W. J. Reed '37. Green and gold trophies were awarded Palmer and Goldberg, the only two seniors on the team. All the men mentioned played in more than half the games, in order to earn their letters.

"Whitey" Palmer, captain, has been hailed as a history-making athlete-scholar, and all-around fellow in the annals of the University. E. G. Young '36 has been elected next year's captain. Young is a forward skilled in floor work although this season was his first as a Vergennes star.

After these lucky boys had trooped up to receive their laurel crowns, each of his own nominable fashion the dessert hour was carried on in Sid's best applause fashion until after dinner coffee was served in regular, brewed by a new recipe guarded "Good Night Ladies."

And so the Basketball Hop came to a close with the bread and butter hopes to be met to the boys in Gold Key for a large evening.

Museum Map to Show Distribution of State Animals

A series of exhibits is being planned at the Fleming Museum of the University of Vermont to show by means of a large map the occurrence of different types of animals in the state. The exhibit shows graphically where the animal may be found, what it is like and the frequency of its occurrence.

The first exhibit of the series shows the distribution of one genus of snakes. The shells on the south are mounted on the map and make clear the different localities where the genus is found throughout the state.

DANCING FESTIVAL AT RUTLAND ON MARCH 16

Vermont Co-eds Unite in Conclave With Schools of State

Under the direction of the Vergennes Y. M. C. A. the first state dancing festival was held Saturday in Rutland. Approximately 800 picked girls from Vermont colleges and schools participated. The purpose of the exhibition was to promote a more general interest in the art of dancing.

The group from the University of Vermont accompanied by Miss Cunningham, Miss Baldwin and Miss Wetherell left the Gym at 11:30 by bus arriving in Rutland by 2 o'clock. The girls proceeded directly to the big school gymnasium where the festival was held.

The first half of the program was given over to the schools. The Long Center Academy was the first. They presented a group of folk dances. Montpelier High followed with more dancing. Then groups of different countries. Third on the list was Waterbury High. Second. The Swedish costumes added color to the folk dances of that country. Burlington High school was the last to participate. The English folk dances which they presented were well received.

The second half of the program was given over to the colleges. The Lasell girls of Vermont presented light tap dance. The girls were quite entertaining. The number was lively and well applauded. Then a group of girls from the conference and Freshman Classes danced a Dutch play. The most advanced pupils of Miss Baldwin's dancing classes presented a tap dance followed by an Irish jig. Marguerite Perkins was at the piano.

Those in the modern dance were pupils from of Fleming Museum of Madeline Wardman '38, Corinne Clark

Editorials

The Cynic has endeavored to make itself felt. The time has come, though, when we feel justified in answering some of the criticism so freely offered by the uninitiated.

Many persons recently have accused the Cynic of the crime of propaganda and lack of originality in publishing articles from the daily Free Press. We are sorry that we cannot declare our souls absolutely white as that would but truly we are much closer to white than some of our readers recognize.

There is the question of "releases." Released are news stories sent every day almost, publicity bureaus both to the Cynic and to the Free Press. The release may be sent out on a Wednesday—there is a Thursday Free Press but unfortunately for us, there is no Cynic until Friday and the article, perhaps to have been copied.

The inquiring mind must wonder why we on the hill could not have learned the news far enough ahead of the release to publish it in a Tuesday Cynic. We have wondered that, too—but every news editor remembers times when powers that be, those powers which are busy making the news and which alone know the plans which they have, have refused to give out stories except through formal office releases.

We should like to urge therefore that any organization or individual on campus which wants its news in the Cynic immediately, if not approached by a reporter, to telephone someone on the staff at the earliest possible moment—and we shall be glad to publish the story.

A Pacifist at Arms

[illegible] a group of pacifists [illegible] there is nothing, it seems, a group of pacifists can conduct quite boring more to himself and others than those in the armies and navies—unless they be golfers themselves.

Recently a speaker was entertained by one of the pacifist groups here [illegible] and pointed out that many persons as a demonstration against war [illegible] and how we wish our friends were a little more realistic.

We wish they could see the utter futility of thinking that walking out of a room in disgust, flapping on the mimeograph machine and [illegible] pamphlets and practical ways of combatting them could possibly assist the cause of peace.

We wish they could understand the realistic point of view the majority of college students take on [illegible] they themselves practice and [illegible] demonstrations would add ammunition to rumors by the anti-pacifists. For we know as many persons strongly opposed to war who are equally opposed to pacifists because of senseless similar to the proposed burst of enthusiasm. We know that it takes as many times real courage to admit being a pacifist merely because men and women [illegible] have an idea impression that pacifists are queer and rather priggish fanatics like W. C. T. U. workers. Oh for a course in common!

We wonder too, if these rabid pacifists realize what a wonderful job of publicity they are giving the war question. Every anti-war demonstration does show that war is imminent and everyone begins thinking about it perhaps who are violently opposed get more than halfway reconciled to even this way of life's contradictions. For just as soon as the threat of war should become a major national problem, public opinion would be less set against it. We imagine, just to hinge our minds on one way of living and thinking—we hate it worse than anything else. But the things will have started as people read over the headlines, words—and the great majority will not oppose warlike measures but sit contemptuously as if they had been shocked by their very unexpected news.

If a student wants to do some really effective work for peace, how about organizing one of the suggestions made in letters to the Cynic editor, and keep informed on current problems, [illegible] concerned. Indeed, so that he can protest the false propaganda and the [illegible] which are so grossly exaggerated in newsreels and newspapers.

LOYALTIES

It had been said by a well known educator and lecturer that it takes four years to get over a college education. But what is there to get over, and why does it take so long?

College is a grand and glorious experience in so far as it teaches us how to live and to be useful to the world. At the point where this learning stops, there ceases the value of college education.

A typical group on the Vermont campus is a self contained, isolated, complacent little band which, as it goes through its required lectures, goes to a few of its athletic contests, belongs to a fraternity and worries over its best dance date. It is set apart from the rest of the world, perhaps not by a deeper but by a world of its own. It sees no use in concerning itself with social, economic or political problems of the rest of the world, even to the extent of knowing what the problems are. Its largest interests seem to be self and fraternity group. Even the college itself doesn't come in for a share of this concern; this loyalty on the part of the student group. Else where is the so-called "school spirit"?

When a student lets his college life lead him in by obedience to regulations, loss of originality, loss of contact outside a narrow circle of friends and organizations, is it to be doubted that it may take ten years to recover? For after all, we are living in a world, not a single college campus.

If we let ourselves get interested in our subjects, how alive those lectures would be that we doze through. When an athletic or other inter-collegiate contest fosters fellowship and real sport, how much greater they are. When a fraternity, through its contacts and through inter-fraternity competition, fosters general good feeling on campus, how worthwhile it may be as an institution. But how exactly the opposite when a fraternity narrows friendships, dictates the use of time and money, and dabbles in campus politics.

Larger loyalties! That is the cry of the day, and the great need. An education to help us live creatively, for others instead of just ourselves. Loyalty to the whole college instead of to some small part of it. Loyalty to all of society and to the ideal of bettering it.

Tuesday afternoon we were privileged to hear Dr. Sherwood Eddy in a rousing lecture on "Danger Spots in the World Today." To a packed auditorium, he gave his ideas, based on personal observation after many years of travel, on conditions in Germany, Russia, China and Japan. We don't all agree with all he said, but we feel the lecture was greatly worth while as it induces students and townspeople to think on some of these present fast-moving situations.

We are glad to welcome an actual organization of Independents on this campus. Monday afternoon, officers were elected and plans made for future growth. Next Monday night is the first meeting of the new group. Its president deserves encouragement and help in the job before him, of finding some sort of social and athletic life for the non-fraternity men on the campus. Its slogan, "Vermont First," is worthy of any organization and if sincerely followed, will result in benefit to both itself and the college.

The state legislature of Indiana is considering a proposal to insure against injury or disablement all football and basketball players participating in regular scheduled games of Indiana schools, colleges and athletic associations.

Nomination for 1935's shortest introduction. Made by Pres. Lotus D. Coffman of the University of Minnesota (Minneapolis), it is: "The invisible newspaper by the town crier, Alexander Woollcott."

Being Collegiate

Coeds at the University of Missouri who have signed a pledge not to eat more than 15c worth while out on a date are finding themselves very popular.

Did you know that the entire population of the State of Nevada could be seated in the stadium of Stanford University?

At Rollins College in Florida all classes are conducted in the form of discussion groups, most of them being held out of doors.

A prized "parchment manuscript" in Santa Maria Cahit, was found to be an old piece of fly paper.

The Catholic University Tower says that every man has his price, and every co-ed her figure.

"Visit a Class" is the slogan of the Student Initiative Committee, an organization founded on the campus of Loyola University. The purpose is to arouse student interest in the project of visiting classes outside their regular curricula.

The new song "Night on Observatory Hill" is written about and dedicated to the University of Wisconsin's astronomical observatory.

The University of North Dakota converted half a dozen old railway cabooses into a dormitory unit and some 30 students are comfortably housed at a rental of four hours work each week on campus.

In an effort to discover whether the far-famed Harvard accent is natural or an appendage to the Harvard manner and degree, Professor Packard of that institution is having a record made of every freshman's voice. When the class reaches the senior grade, another recording will be made. Some interesting results should be produced.

McGill University has opened a new department of Chinese language and culture.

At Hiram College, Hiram, Ohio, each student takes four courses every year, but he studies each separately for one quarter of the year.

At the University of Michigan, co-eds were defeated in a debate with men students in attempting to prove themselves "human beings."

There are more inmates in insane asylums in the country than there are college students.

NOTICE

Class Pictures will be taken Tuesday morning, March 26. Classes will be shortened by permission of President Bailey.

Seniors will meet on the Library steps at 9.10; Juniors at 10.10; Sophomores at 11.10; and Freshmen at 12.10. In case of inclement weather the pictures will be taken Thursday at the same time.

LEWISOHN, HIS OPINIONS AND HOBBIES AS TOLD TO A CYNIC REPORTER

This was scarce from the college paper went one came in. With a cordial smile Ludwig Lewisohn shook hands, seated himself at his desk and awaited the questions.

For the next few minutes he interviewed us concerning the Vermont Cynic, exclaiming in the course of the conversation, "Good old Vermont. It doesn't go to extremes. I like it!"

When asked if he agreed with his friend James Untermeyer in that we are on the threshold of a great American cultural revival, he said, "Continental culture is dying on the street. It can't feed American culture, so being impoverished results in a forward impulse in American culture.

"The problem which faces the American student of today is the problem of economics. They see their parents more or less impoverished and are forced to wonder what they are to do under the contracting economic conditions. There's a temptation for them to fall for a solution which offers a way out—a utopia right around the corner, silly radicalisms."

However, he sees the modern student as an earnest seeker for truth rather than a mere seeker for a profession.

He declared himself a classical liberal, one who insists that certain concepts, such as liberty, justice, tolerance, necessity for free play of mind, are permanent not subject to fashion and political change and that the test of any society is the measure in which those things can flourish within that society. In other words, the liberal will not sell out on these issues under any circumstances."

As essentially a pacifist, Mr. Lewisohn, partaking of the sentiment of many, is not in favor of the R. O. T. C. He strongly approves the student ideal of not taking up arms, except in defense of country. He favors the taking over of the munitions industry by the government.

Radio City.

It's an ultra-short wave radio telephone antenna—before being raised above the dunes of Cape Cod.

For some years, Bell System engineers have been studying ultra-short waves. They have developed automatic transmitters and receivers which may be connected with regular telephone lines at points far from central offices. They hope such radio links will be useful in giving telephone service to points difficult to reach by usual methods.

The installation on Cape Cod—which is now undergoing service tests—is just one more example of Bell System pioneering in the public interest.

POST AND GARDNER OUTLINE SPRING ACTIVITIES OVER STATION WCAX

In a broadcast over WCAX last Friday evening, March 19, at 7:00 p.m., Coaches Gardner and Post spoke on Baseball and Track, both emphasizing the advantages of sports as a [illegible] and both stressing the [illegible] Professor Howard Prentice introduced the two speakers.

Coach Larry Gardner brought out the fact that the Southern trip "increased the educational viewpoint of the squad members and maintained the active interest of the Vermont ball players in the educational institution through a field of great common interest and appeal."

The Southern trip is an incentive to come out for baseball for it offers wide opportunities to Vermonters and others to see the capital and other cities of the South as well as to get an early start in practice. Baseball in itself holds many educational values, and it has a great scope for there are approximately 200 men at college participating in the sport. These men are typical of the calibre of the Vermont students and, impressed with high virtues, they lift the morale and spirit of the college to a lofty level.

Coach Archie Post took examples from the history which are the ancestors of the modern, standardized program of events.

The first Olympic was held in Greece about a thousand years before Christ with the foot race as the original event and the discus, javelin hurling, wrestling and others added on later. The purpose was "to bid men to unite the warring tribes with the Greek states and to physically and mentally develop the youth of the time." Other track events were held by the Vikings and in Ireland about the same time, all giving our modern sport an age-old pedigree. A Frenchman, Baron Pierre de Coerbetin instituted a drive which has now become the present day Olympic. This has influenced the standardized program for colleges which we have here at our University.

It was first in 1903, that track as an intercollegiate sport was emphasized at Vermont. We entered the New England Intercollegiates that year and soon the schedules were increased also participating in the E. I. A. A. Our success was not over abundant, our peak being reached in 1925 and when we conquered Norwich and Middlebury. Interest has increased with the years and the program has been stretched to include the intra-mural relays, and indoor meet, as well as the Hexathlon, which has uncovered much talent. The Dellhausse brothers, Harwood, and Tupper were brought to the front in this light.

Vermont has much to be proud of, her two world famous athletes, Al Gutterson, 1912, and Clarence De Mar, 1911, her sincere interest in the sport and her desire to teach good sportsmanship, self confidence and a high sense of loyalty.

REV. CHARLES S. HAGAR SPEAKS AT CHAPEL

The Chapel services were conducted by the Rev. Charles S. Hagar of Vergennes on March 20. Mr. Hagar was introduced by President Burlew who used an old quotation: "When I met him I was looking down, when I left him I was looking up."

The text was taken from Hebrews 11. Mr. Hagar stated that he wished his address to be a footnote to the sermon delivered by Doctor McLaughlin in Vespers last Sunday. A statement concerning Woodrow Wilson was used as the keynote of the address. "Faith is life's most substantial heroism." "Faith means putting oneself at the service not at the command of ideals," said Mr. Hagar.

He used as an example the life and heroic death of Captain Scott who died in 1912 at an attempt to reach the pole. Scott and his men were tempted to end their lives by taking some morphine which they had in their possession; there was no hope of rescue, no one to leave it on record to prevent them. There is something in nature which does not allow us to go behind them. These men had made no direct reference to God or had made no direct reference to religion, the essence of their religion was in the truth to an ideal. "Great souls do keep on living," Mr. Hagar said. "Our religion really depends upon how much we believe in an ideal; how much we believe in such things as 'a cooperative society' and 'a warless world.' 'Faith is life's most substantial heroism.'"

It is rumored about that Vermont is to take another fling at spring football practice. Harvard and Dartmouth Coaches the heads all records when 120 turned out for Dick Harlow's first Crimson mentor and about half that number reported to Pat Hardy at the Lemon Yellow. Let's hope that Johnny Sabourin with great success.

Football has taken a new lease of life under the most popular rules and spring practice should be of great benefit to the club. It would give the coaches a chance to test a couple of backfield and guards as well as a look back. This must be tested it may seem to be a ridiculous one.

The tennis season doesn't look too promising as Bart Cambell, the only grade A player returning, might. Hunt and Cota, however will help the team score many points, but a well-balanced combination.

KAPPA SIGS AND DELTS COME OUT VICTORS IN INTERFRATERNITY RELAYS

They Defeat Independents and T E P's Respectively on Wednesday

The Kappa Sig relay team nosed out the Independents by a few scant yards to capture the semi-final heat of the interfraternity relays on Wednesday afternoon at the Gymnasium between wrestling and boxing bouts.

Howe and Hubbell both set out fast at the gun and raced neck-and-neck. Hubbell relinquished to the last lap to hand the baton to Evans with a bit of an edge and lead. Evans ran a remarkable lap and Budzyna had made three and at the next exchange the two teams were almost abreast.

However Spence, [illegible] speedy Kappa Sig freshman set such a fast pace that Dodgeson, who was pressing his best pace with the Independents, could not hold it and dropped several yards as he passed the baton to Dickinson. Dickinson ran a very fine relay but it was not Mac McMillan, and after he finished a running duel all the way with the crack Delt star, Mac McMillan crossed the line a very scant yard ahead of the good runner of [illegible].

Close on the heels of the Kappa Sig victory was the Delta Phi relay team which nosed out the Phi Gamma Delta quartet by a scant margin of a yard at the finish. The Phi Delt quartet was composed of Hanley, Bigelow, Hall and Hall. Hanley started off with a rush and passed Hall over half a lap on Bigelow. Bigelow increased the lead and Hall, Jr. passed the baton to Hall, Sr. with a comfortable lead. Hall, Sr. ran a steady race and finished in the first place position.

Students at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., will be taught practical politics in 1938 if a plan announced by Dr. Dixon Ryan Fox, president of the college, is carried out. Among the college students for government service by endeavoring the study and keeping theory and practice together. Dr. Fox has arranged to have students serve as [illegible] and others in the [illegible] State government at Albany and to work at first hand the real mechanism of democratic rule. He also plans to have the most promising students work as interns by various state officials to work as special employees [illegible] their studies at the same time.

Monday, March 08 the final events of the intramural Hexathlon were held. Johnny Webster and Budzyna were neck and neck throughout the events and there was only two points difference in the final standing.

In the last event back in the Hexathlon it was Eddie Dellhausse captain of the Vermont track team that was on the lead with [illegible] Budzyna was a close second with [illegible] and Webster [illegible] third place. Dellhausse [illegible] Budzyna [illegible] to take third place Dellhausse and MacMillan were over the [illegible] put on the first half of the Hexathlon.

In the next event the high jump Hollis Trudeau cleared the bar at [illegible] feet to distance all the contending rivals and came out in first place. MacMillan placed second in this event with a 5 feet 6 inch [illegible].

Rollie Dellhausse placed first in the next two events, the broad jump and the shot put, which ended the series of events composing the first half of the competition.

It was in the next event, the rope climb that Rollie Dellhausse and Hollis Trudeau fared badly, while Budzyna accomplished up the rope in 6.4 seconds. This was the event [illegible] Budzyna took first place to [illegible] the advantage that he gained in the first half was great and his performances in the other events were well balanced.

Budzyna took first place in the fifth event, the 75-yard dash, and his time was 10.1 seconds. J. Webster and MacMillan were tied for second place with the time of 10.6 seconds.

The final event of the contest was the mile run. Johnny Woodruff an excellent distance runner easily won this event. His time of 5:01 considering the track was exceptional.

The Hexathlon is over and the only Vermont all-around athlete of U. V. M. is Budzyna's possession for a year. Competition was keen and four men exceeded the point [illegible].

A summary of the events:

[illegible] First, Trudeau; second, MacMillan; third, Budzyna.

Broad Jump: First, Dellhausse 19 feet [illegible] inches; second, between Webster and MacMillan; third, Trudeau.

[illegible] First, Dellhausse 33 feet [illegible]; second, Budzyna; third, Trudeau.

Rope Climb: First, Budzyna, 6.4 seconds; second, between Pratt and Webster; third, Foster.

Shot Put: First, Dellhausse, 34 feet [illegible] inches; second, between Webster and MacMillan; third, between Trudeau and Hollis.

The summary of the points scored by each individual follows:

[illegible] Budzyna '38	[illegible] 157.16
[illegible] Webster '37	[illegible] 155.89
[illegible] '37	[illegible] 152.42

PROFESSOR SAYS FEWER SHOULD GO TO COLLEGE

(By Intercollegiate Press)

Dr. Karl B. ... Only those most competent should be privileged to enjoy higher education," Dr. Marcus W. Jernegan of the University of Chicago, declared here at a speech given at the Northern Illinois State Teachers College. He asserted he was almost wholly in accordance with the idea as originally promulgated by Thomas Jefferson.

In his speech, Doctor Jernegan pointed out how many of the ideas and philosophies of Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Paine, Tom Wadman and Thomas Jefferson coincided with those of President ... speech today. As described by the speaker, Jefferson's idea of education allowed three years of elementary education for everyone.

Only twenty from any one state would be permitted to go to grammar school for two years more and at the end of that time, he would select but ten out of the entire State of Virginia to get higher education at William and Mary College at the expense of the state.

SPRING PLAY CAST NOT CHOSEN; MORE TRYOUTS

Men Urged to Attend Tryouts Tuesday in 23 North College at Four

The final selection of the entire cast for the spring play "Cock Robin" has not as yet been decided upon. Tryouts will be held this afternoon at four o'clock in Room 23, North College for both men and women. Men are especially urged to attend.

The play offers great opportunity for dramatic ability and characterization. The characters of the play are as outlined:

George McAuliffe, hard boiled stage director, plays the part of the inn keeper.

Julien Cleveland, dignified middle aged lawyer, impersonates Black Tom in the play within the play.

Richard Lane is the young man of thirty in love with Carlotta.

Hancock Robinson, (Cock Robin), self centered, conceited man of thirty-five, is the "heavy" type.

John Jessup is a good looking young pal of Lake's.

Henry Briggs, timid young man, very earnest, is the stage manager of the play within the play.

Doctor Edgar Grace, is a slender, elderly man, grey haired, kindly and very nervous.

Alice Montgomery, buxom, elderly lady, is the chairman of group of amateur players. She plays as the inn keeper's wife in amateur plot.

Maria Scott, of the efficient young spinster type, is the assistant stage director of the amateur play.

Carlotta Maxwell, attractive young woman of twenty, who has decidedly a mind of her own.

Helen Maxwell, middle aged widow is the mother of Carlotta.

This year's spring play is the best venture the University Players have ever made with a mystery as their vehicle. It was thought by members of the Executive committee that Junior Week demanded a play for amusement one which any audience would find enjoyable and consequently "Cock Robin" was selected from a long list of other plays because of the excellence of its mystery, the interest of its dialogue and the real comedy all through it," as one member expressed it.

It will be held in the Strong Theatre to accommodate the Junior Week audience and to permit more adequate production. Tickets, it is said will range from one dollar to a quarter with more than half of all seats at the latter price. All seats will be reserved as far as is now known, and vouchers will be on sale on campus soon after vacation as ever. The change of theatre from the Old Mill to the Strong more than doubles the cost of renting and for that reason it has been two years since the Players production has been given at the Strong. But this spring due to the difficulty of properly staging "Cock Robin" at the Old Mill and to accommodate as many as possible it was decided that the Strong would be more than the Old Mill could accommodate.

The play is mostly in costume and ... the ... were true to the ... eighteenth century. Lots of ... with bellowings of lusty catches, ... maids on the knee, and a duel at six paces. Ho there, me hearty.

A meeting of the two societies will be held tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon at 4.00 o'clock in Room 3, North College. It is highly important that all members be present. Banquet plans will be discussed, with plans for the production of the spring play.

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT

Easter vacation, it appears, [illegible]. We cannot help but realize that once again summer is just around the corner. To a few of us summer means a time of complete freedom; two months of relaxation with nothing particular to do and plenty of time in which to do it. To the others and the great majority of us look towards summer with the hope that we may find some way of earning a little money by which to make our next year possible or at least a bit easier for us and our parents. Girls are inquiring daily in the Dean's office for information about possibilities for summer employment.

A list of hotels, camps and various sources of employment is available for the benefit of those who seek information. However, this information is quite scanty and in most cases inadequate. The only way it can be improved is with the aid of those who have been employed in the various hotels during a previous summer and who have in their possession the details which the Dean's office needs and desires.

Any information about summer employment of any kind, especially hotel work will be greatly appreciated. Anyone who worked last summer or any preceding summer and knows anything which might be of value to the Dean in placing girls is asked to report and, either to the Dean's office or to a member of the Cynic board.

WOMEN'S ELECTIONS

With three big elections and Mortar Board sheets to be filled out today and tomorrow, this promises to be a busy and exciting week for the women on the campus. There will be voting in the "Y" room, for all women students, in the Student Union and Y. W. C. A. elections. Only those who have their nitty points of membership can vote for the W. A. A. officers.

The CYNIC wishes to urge that every woman be sure to cast her vote, especially in view of the fact that the present cabinets have presented an excellent slate of nominees, and that her vote is sure to count in an election so notoriously free from campus politics.

It is a matter of great pride among the women that their elections have been, in recent years, quite divorced from partisanship of fraternity combines. We feel they deserve our congratulations and may the best nominee win!

SPRING VACATION

Should advice be given to students on the eve of a spring vacation? If there be any, it surely ought to be: "Have yourself one good time and forget there is such a thing as college, or classes, or early military, or written reports, or any of the many activities which interest you throughout the school year. Don't crack a book, unless it be a novel by Wodehouse or "Stag Line" by the Lorimers. Get plenty of sleep, even if you don't start until 4:00 a.m., and eat all the cake and cookies you can get between meals."

The soundness of this advice may be doubted by some of the power that be, but we are willing to prove to the best of them, with illustrations from personal experience, that a week of an altogether different life will only intensify our zest for college when we return, that a week of dissipation will make us all the more anxious to return to 8:30 classes and Saturday dates and even to 10:00 o'clock nights on Sundays, and three regular meals a day. And, what is more, we shall have a renewed enthusiasm for work that may overcome the effects of spring.

1. That the number of points required in [illegible] shall remain the same. It only [illegible] to do the rounds for the next year's meet. Records should be made and published at the conclusion of the preceding year's meet. Reason: Would definitely eliminate the possibility of reviewing events of two different individual years.

2. That the rules of the meet remain the N. I. L. A. A. A. rules and that an official referee be appointed to interpret these rules and to make rulings in points not covered by the rules. Reason: At times it is necessary to make [illegible] decisions and also decisions on points not specifically covered by rules. Such decisions made by an official with fraternal connections would be likely to lead to charges of favoritism, no matter how fair and just the ruling.

3. That rules regarding number of practices required for eligibility be made more rigid and under no circumstances waivered. That no allowance be made for practices had in other sports. That a list of men rendered ineligible by making their letters in events be kept the year round. That any change in eligibility rules be announced the year before the competition. Reason: It would not be necessary to make arbitrary decisions regarding eligibility.

4. That an iron or rope ring be employed in the 35-pound weight throw. Reason: It would render measurements more accurate, since a chalk ring tends to become irregular.

5. That a steel tape be used for all measurements. Reason: It would eliminate considerable error due to elasticity of cloth tape. (A steel tape is official for measurements of all records submitted for approval of A. A. U.)

6. That aside from seeking first leaders all other contestants in heats be drawn. Reason: There is often insufficient data available for rating all men competing.

7. That the final in the dash be limited to four competitors. Reason: It would facilitate the difficult task of picking places.

Very Sincerely,
JOHN H. WOODRUFF, M. '38.

The Catty Co-ed

We hate to waste this space on apologies but recent poetical attempts, which show promise for that college literary magazine, Winnowings, make it necessary. We are sincerely sorry if we "hurt" anyone by our cruel words and are glad to see they are following a precedent in relieving their pent up emotions.

However, we warned everyone to keep their window shades down and their keyholes plugged, so anyone who didn't heed our advice has only themselves to blame.

Babe Starbird evidently mistook the Delta Psi dance Saturday night for a masquerade as she appeared in a dress. In spite of the mistake it looked pretty smart!

Lee and Karie are being seen at all the dances both gym and sorority. Must be this strenuous Kake Walk we hear for Dutch treat is bearing fruit.

Bill Cass is now being seen around campus trying to popularize that new song, "Out in the Cold Again."

The Thetas killed two birds with one stone last Saturday when they combined a tea dance with their spring house cleaning. The boys showed no ill effects after the workout.

The brew that made Milwaukee famous rather took its toll in the last Glee Club trip. We are glad to see "Tony" and "Boafer" are feeling better.

What B. M. O. C. had a tough time resisting the efforts of a high school damsel to make him Saturday night?

Every time anyone goes by "Stretch's" room late at night now the midnight oil is burning and one hears the jumble of German words. Seems as though he wants to make the southern jaunt badly.

Lew Barton's practice at "tossing it" all winter resulted in a nice showing last week in the cage.

"Lovey-Dovey" Magner, in spite of all reports, was not out walking with his gal last Wednesday when he missed zoology lab, but was in Montpelier with the political science class.

The Ariel photographer, who was here last week, was kept busy dodging those individuals who arrived hours before their appointment in order to be sure to get "mugged."

"General" Meligonis has been having a hectic time playing with his wooden-headed soldiers every Saturday morning.

Bart Costello has been doing some tall explaining during the past week for the item which appeared in the sports editor's column rating him as the only grade-A tennis player on the squad. An over-zealous scrub reporter, who wrote it, forgot to sign his name and made it seem as if Bart gave himself a big boost. A modest, self-effacing chap like Bart wouldn't do that!

PRIMED FOR EXPLOSION

The Flint

Berlin, March 16.—The most significant statement from Adolf Hitler's appeal to the people on German rearmament were:

When the German people grounded arms they believed they had rendered a service to humanity.

The German people had the right to expect the redemption by the other side of [illegible] obligations undertaken.

The increase of armaments on the part of a whole group of states became evident.

In the midst of these highly armed, war-like states Germany was, militarily speaking, in a vacuum.

Germany was ready to accept this plan (the MacDonald peace proposal). The other states declined to accept it.

Even after leaving Geneva, Germany still was ready to make practical proposals.

The German Government must note that for months the rest of the world has been rearming continuously and increasingly.

The German Government desires to command international respect as co-guarantor of general peace.

The German Government does not intend in rearming to create any instrument for warlike attack, but exclusively for defense and thereby for the maintenance of peace.

The Steel

The following table gives the estimated manpower of the peace-time armies of the principal powers in 1913 and at present:

	1913	1935
Russia	1,290,000	830,000
France	720,000	644,000
Germany	870,000	480,000*
Italy	250,000	610,000
British Empire	182,000	445,000
Japan	250,000	225,000
U. S. A.	92,000	135,000

* The estimated high figure.

The Powder Keg

The Press of the World—to which is entrusted responsibility for molding public opinion—has been confronted with a blaze which, unchecked, may well consume what we know as Civilization.

Study the American Press. Look closely for evidence of reason, sanity, balance. Judge whether American editors are meeting this crisis as they met the Hauptmann trial—joyfully, as a circulation stunt. Decide now whether the press must share responsibility with the munition-makers as "Merchants of Death and Destruction of all Decency."

False and Stupid

It is commonly said that Hitler has thrown a bomb in the face of Europe. If so, it is a bomb filled with false pretenses. The account which he gave of the motives leading Germany to repudiate solemn treaty obligations is a series of fictions.

Equally grotesque is Hitler's present affirmation that Germany, in tearing up her agreement not to have a conscript army and in providing quickly for a force [illegible] anywhere from 500,000 to 700,000 men, is putting forward merely measures of defense and may therefore in this matter also be called the most peace-loving nation in Europe. Who is going to attack her? Where is she in danger from the outside? Why is it that her resolve to return to the armed status which she had before 1914 sends a thrill of apprehension and alarm through all Europe?

These known and glaring facts are not the only ones which make the action of the Hitler régime seem not only high-handed but foolish. Germany was on the way to get by negotiations most of what she wanted. A joint offer by France and Great Britain and Italy had recently been made to her, and was to have been discussed at Berlin a week from now by a special mission headed by Sir John Simon. But all this and every other undertaking of peaceful negotiation has now been thrown into the sea by Germany with the brusque assertion of her stark power and intention to disregard treaties at will and to attain her ends by fully building up and organizing her military strength. This is at the present juncture a stupidity so great that only Germany could be capable of it.

CBS ANNOUNCES SPRING AND SUMMER SPORTS SCHEDULE

Major events in news, sports, features and entertainment and amateur sport received special attention at the hands of Columbia broadcasters when the annual spring and summer broadcasting schedule was announced by the Columbia Broadcasting System, during the spring and summer season. Just completed by the CBS Department of Public Events and Special Features, the elaborate schedule will get under way in impressive style with broadcasts relays of the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, England, on Friday, March 29 and the Oxford-Cambridge boat race on Saturday, April 6. Both of these events will be brought to American listeners by Columbia in cooperation with the British Broadcasting Corporation. On April 16, Columbia will broadcast one of the major opening baseball contests of the season and on April 23, the engagement between the New York Giants and the Boston Braves at the Polo Grounds, New York. The latter event will mark the first appearance of Babe Ruth in New York as a member of the Boston Braves. As the season progresses other important games will be scheduled, the climax coming in October with the annual broadcast of the World Series.

In Scotland, students are fined for class cutting. At Christmas time each year the money collected is used to buy a gift for the President. . . . Last year he received a stick of chewing gum.

FERA SUPPLIES FUNDS FOR EVOLUTION EXHIBIT

Using FERA funds, E. M. Poulin '37 of New Haven, a student at the University of Vermont has just completed a large tree-of-life exhibition for the University's Fleming museum. His work was supervised by Lorenz Rowell, acting director of the museum.

Constructed along the general lines of an similar exhibition at the American Museum of Natural History in New York the Vermont "tree" is unique in that most of the subjects on the branches are real rather than photographs of the specimens. With the exception of the amoeba at the root of the tree, and other lower forms of life not visible without a microscope, actual specimens adorn the "tree." Man is represented by the excellent casts.

The exhibition is encased in a large glass container and is now available to classes at the University and visiting high school groups from all parts of the state making educational tours of the museum.

Delta Psi Wins Annual Track and Field Meet

Forty-seven and One-half Points Put Winners Way Out in Front; A T O Trailing Second With Less Than Half as Many— Trudeau Individual High-point Man

[illegible] forty-seven and one-half [illegible] than twice the number of [illegible] competitor, A T O, Delta [illegible] through with an overwhelming [illegible] the annual interfraternity track [illegible] meet. The meet was held on [illegible] Saturday afternoons, under [illegible] son of the physical education [illegible] at the University. Hubie [illegible] A T O was individual high [illegible] of the meet with three first [illegible] one third place, to total seven [illegible].

[illegible]day afternoon, in the very first [illegible] the competition, the 440-yard [illegible] Delta Psi captured eight out of [illegible] points, to go into the lead, then [illegible]. They were never headed [illegible] or even threatened during the [illegible]rse of the meet, and with a [illegible]ed team in all events, they [illegible]iled up an invincible margin [illegible] home easily the victors. The [illegible] was for second place between [illegible] and Kappa Sig, and when the [illegible] subsided and the dust had [illegible]ay, the count showed the [illegible] had 22 points, Kappa Sigs 19½, [illegible]cadents 20, Sigma Nu 17, while [illegible]Delts and S A E's had 3½ and [illegible] respectively, to their credit.

[illegible]t was replete with thrills, and [illegible]than four meet records were [illegible] the course of the two after[illegible]. Outstanding performances of [illegible]. Abe Foote, Delta Psi speed [illegible] burned up the boards in the [illegible] dash to cross the line in :58 [illegible]flat, bettering the old meet rec[illegible]:58.4. However, he fell short by [illegible]two tenths of a second of ap[illegible]ing the track mark set by Joe [illegible] last year.

[illegible]nother Delta Psi track man, [illegible]35-pound weight 39 feet. 11½ [illegible]completely eclipse the old meet [illegible]39 feet, 1½ inches and to set a [illegible]ord. Rollie Delfausse's sensa[illegible]rmance in the broad jump also [illegible] than sufficient, and he also set [illegible]ord of 20 feet, 3 inches, leap[illegible] inches farther than has been [illegible]usly.

[illegible] the climax, Hubie Trudeau, [illegible]one man track team, cleared the [illegible] at 5 feet, 11 inches in the [illegible] to better the previous mark of [illegible] inches. The reading on the [illegible]ards was 6 feet, 2 inches, but [illegible] was measured the bar had a three-[illegible] at the middle. Even then, it [illegible]acular performance.

[illegible]440, MacMillan, Kappa Sig, [illegible]and Abe Foote by one second, [illegible]ins and Woodruff, both of [illegible] placed third and fourth, re[illegible]in this event. In the hammer [illegible]s of Sigma Nu placed second [illegible] with a 38 feet, 2 inches heave, [illegible] throw did not count because [illegible]his letter in that event, so Bar[illegible] third for Sigma Nu and [illegible]rth for Delta Psi.

[illegible]an again came through in the [illegible] for Kappa Sig, and was [illegible] Rollie Delfausse, leaping [illegible] inches for second place. An [illegible]s event was that Hubie Tru[illegible]O. and Johnny Webster, Delta [illegible]ished third and fourth, had [illegible] separating their respective [illegible] Trudeau was also just one [illegible] MacMillan.

[illegible] who was not even expected [illegible] because of a sprained ankle, [illegible]p and then went out on the [illegible]aptured the 30-yard dash for [illegible]n Saturday afternoon in 3:8 [illegible] MacMillan again placed sec[illegible] Meligonis, Independent, and [illegible]a Psi, were third and fourth [illegible] qualifying heats, the time was [illegible] same as the final, but Foote [illegible]r in the finals could not equal [illegible]us effort in the trials and [illegible]ime in fourth and fifth posi[illegible]

[illegible]-mile run, Martin Lamson, [illegible] who ran on the freshman [illegible] team this fall, breezed home [illegible]ahead of Lehrer, another In[illegible] to win the race in 5:05.8. It [illegible]rprise victory, but the winner [illegible] showed plenty of class [illegible] third place at the various marks a[illegible]suming the lead and never being troubled. Delta Psi and Sterling Kappa Sig were third and fourth respectively.

Again in the 880 yard run as in the 440, the Delts had great strength. Collins took first easily with a 2:13.2 clip, while Dan Davis ran right at his heels all the way to cross the line one fifth of a second after for second place. MacMillan, again placed, and Sanford, time of 2:22 gave him the fourth point for the Delts.

Barton, Sigma Nu weight man, [illegible] the 16 pound shot put with a throw of 38 feet 3½ inches. O'Neil, another Sigma Nu was second. Harrison, an independent was third, while Ken LaPlace made it almost a clean sweep for the Sigma Nu, garnering fourth place with a 32 feet 11 inches effort.

Freddy Landsman, who had to clear the bar at 9 feet 9 inches in the pole vault to capture this event for the A T O, Badzyna, Independent, and Jezierewicz, S A E, were tied for second with 9 feet, to make room while Pratt, a Phi Delt, was fourth with 9 feet 3 inches.

Woodruff, stellar Delta Psi distance man easily defeated Steele, Sigma Nu, to finish a lap in the two-mile run, breaking the tape in 11:08.8. Danny Stanford, Kappa Sig, was a lap behind Steele for third place while Evans, also of Kappa Sig, was three laps behind for fourth place. Cliff Harwood, who ran the two races for the University last year and who is one of the outstanding runners at that distance in this section of the country, circled the track thirty-two times in 10:41.4 seconds to better the old record of 10:48.0 and set a new standard. He was not eligible to compete since he has run four years, and consequently no points were given for his efforts.

Again as in the high hurdles, Trudeau finished first in the 30 yard low hurdles, nosing out Foote of Delta Psi by a hair to win in four seconds flat. Howe, Kappa Sig and Rice, Delta Psi, battled it out again for fourth place, but this time Howe was a shade faster and Rice had to be satisfied with a fourth place.

The meet was appropriately climaxed with the record-smashing jump by Trudeau, high point man, by 5 feet 11 inches. MacMillan, Kappa Sig, and Johnny Webster, Delta Psi, tied for second place at 5 feet, 7 inches and Badzyna and Pratt tied for fourth with leaps of 5 feet 5 inches.

The meet was well handled at all times and there were no injuries due to athletes being in poor condition, so Professor Prentice, Coach Post and the rest of the physical education department are to be congratulated on their fine work.

The officials were as follows:

Starter: A. T. Post.

Timers: Dr. F. S. Kent, H. B. Kiphuth, L. W. Gardner.

Judges on turns: A. T. Post, Dr. F. S. Kent, L. W. Gardner, M. H. Aldrich, H. B. Kiphuth.

INTRA-MURAL BANQUET AT Y. M. C. A. MARCH 27

Intra-Fraternity Awards to Be Made by Prentice

Now a certainty, the Physical Education department is planning an intra-mural banquet to be held at the community Y this Wednesday, March 27 at 6:30 p.m.

There will be a number of speakers who will present the various awards to the victorious men in all branches of Intra-Mural Athletics since the fall term. The committee expects at least sixty men from the fraternities to attend, and it wishes to urge any student interested in the project to attend. A nominal price of 65 cents per person is the charge. Those men who expect to go are requested to turn in their names to Mr. Post or Mr. Prentice at the Physical Education Department office.

ACTIVITIES IN FULL SWING AFTER EASTER VACATION

OPENING EVENT TO BE MORTAR BOARD DANCE

A bit of advice to all and sundry in this here emporium of knowledge: Sleep long and lustily during vacation so that you may partake with gusto of the attractions coming at you from the end of vacation on. Your college career will be incomplete, if you are not at least a witness, and preferably a worker, in these events.

For the dance hounds, a number of gala affairs are listed. Especially of note to the girls is the Mortar Board dance, April 13, to which the fair sex take the men, thereby swelling the funds of the organization, giving the girls a chance to humor their suppressed desires, and the boys to prove finally their much bally-hooed popularity. The Bomber boys are playing host on March 30. The Greek-letter girls are playing their aces, the spring formals, the twenty-sixth and thirtieth of April. On April 27 the gym will be the scene for one of those colossally renowned Razz Dazzes, which are making a bid for the most popular dances. May 4 the Key and Serpent, junior honorary society, are holding a dance. And again on May 11, a Razz-Dazz. The dances reach their peak with the Junior Prom May 17, and fraternity dances May 18.

Lilac Day, the most revered of Vermont women's traditions, originated by the first dean of women, Pearl Rand[illegible] Wasson this year falls on May 23, or on May 24 in case of rain, on the back campus at Redstone. The beloved plan of the first dean was that the planting of each lilac might be as truly beautiful and traditional to the Common event Ivy on the Billings Library. The first Lilac Day was directed by Dean Wasson, but Mortar Board has since taken it in charge. The festival has grown in beauty and in meaning, and year by year we come to realize how truly lovely it is.

This year Mrs. Dallas Pollard is in charge of the dramatics and Miss Anne Baldwin the dances. No definite cast has as yet been chosen for "The Dream of the Lilac," a pageant written by Lois Whitcomb, '35. The roles are chosen from members of Mortar Board and such dancing and dramatic personnels will be chosen after the talent meet. The general theme has been started, but no exact facts have been defined. Plans to date have been made in a meeting of Miss Patterson, Mrs. Pollard, Miss Baldwin and Mortar Board. Following are the chairmen of the committees: Lydia Mount, [illegible] Madeline Anderson [illegible] Grace [illegible] properties, and Eleanor Miller [illegible]

Preceding [illegible] ceremony of Ira Allen [illegible] May 1 [illegible] dances will be held. These [illegible] and ceremonies will be held. These [illegible] the [illegible] Hall. The [illegible] W. H. Mearns '35 of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

THE SOUTHERN TRIP

At last the big and outstanding feature of Vermont's athletic year is a reality. Our "gang" started for the south'ard last night by train. All the time that we are spending catching up sleep and seeing our relatives, they will spend meeting team after team of colleges all the way from here to Virginia.

Vermont is the only New England college to sponsor such a baseball trip. Its purpose is to meet up with stiff opposition which will give it thorough training in preparation for its later northern schedule.

We may watch the papers for the team's progress and victories. But if it doesn't pile up a heavy victory column, let us not hastily condemn. After all, the Catamounts, after practice confined solely to the cage, are going up against teams which have perhaps had several weeks' outdoor practice. Let us not watch the scores of this trip so much as the scores of the remainder of the season. These latter will be better evidence of how much good the journey south can do us.

Our thoughts and our hopes go with the team. May theirs be a pleasant trip, a fine training field and a fitting vacation. May they have plenty of steam, and although perhaps not piling up scores, return with the feeling of worthwhileness of time and energy spent.

WATER TOWERS

Water towers are useful and necessary things in the water system of any city. But we regret the particular location that has been selected for Burlington's tower. The Redstone campus was altogether too beautiful and picturesque to be overcast by a huge water reservoir at its very back door.

It is not our purpose to lament an action already carried out, especially one so permanent, although we feel Redstone campus is definitely cheapened. But we do urge a different color for the tank as soon as possible. Almost any other color is preferable to the orange eyesore that greets the visitor's or inhabitant's gaze. A green or a redstone will harmonize much more satisfactorily with the naturally beautiful surroundings.

W. A. A. Notes

A banquet was given Tuesday night at the Community Y for the members of the class basketball teams. The committee in charge was, Natalie Hilliker '36, Madeline Amsbaro '35 and Ruth [illegible]. Miss Wetherell acted as toastmistress and Betty Kuh '35, Carolyn Hill '36, Elizabeth Collins '37 and Jean Cunningham '38 responded for their respective teams.

Sidney Franklin, juvenile movie actress, will crown Dwight Lyon, to select the ten most beautiful girls at Louisiana Tech (Ruston).

JAMES ALOYSIUS FARLEY

By Robert R. French

When James Aloysius Farley was eight years old, he carried a torch in a political rally for William Jennings Bryan in Grassy Point, New York. Farley still reads the papers from Rockland County on Sundays when he is more or less free from party and cabinet duties. But between that first presidential campaign parade and Farley's political rise there is the evolution of a political career. Farley is no city-bred politician who has jumped to a national post in a victorious administration. He has his administrative key position, but intrinsically, he is Grassy Point's baseball team's ex-first baseman whose popularity won him the Town Clerk's job.

Unpretentious, with a store of good humor and geniality, Farley has "first-named, corresponded and "hail-fellow-well-met" his way into front-man for the Roosevelt party organization. Born in Grassy Point, Rockland County, N. Y., forty-six years ago, Farley at eleven went to work helping his mother run the corner grocery store after his father had been killed by a horse. His meagre high school education and night business school training was secured between working in a brickyard and shipyard. Many people have difficulty remembering names but not Farley, and this talent plus his ability to get along with people led him into politics. He cornered Rockland County for the Democrats and became Town Clerk of Stoney Point, 1912-19. In 1918 Governor Alfred E. Smith appointed him Port Warden of New York City. When Smith later asked Farley if he thought the position a necessity, Farley said, "No." The job was eliminated, and Farley became a member of the State Athletic Commission in 1924. One day Chairman George F. Browser was absent; there was a meeting of the three-man commission attended by Farley and William Muldoon; Farley became Chairman in a rotating agreement. He remained Chairman until four days before he was appointed Postmaster General.

In 1928 he became Secretary of the New York Democratic State Committee, and his faculty for remembering names and faces in his treks across country as salesman for the United States Gypsum Company began to show its value. He knew countless men at the Houston convention, but Smith was defeated in the 1928 presidential contest. In 1930 he was Chairman of the Democratic State Committee; the new star, Franklin D. Roosevelt, appeared; and Farley became a sales force of one.

Quietly, but with withering effectiveness, he began his circle of the country drumming up convention votes for his man. The Elks were in convention in Seattle and there went "Big Jim," a faithful Elk, with frequent stops on the way. In twenty days he covered nineteen states, talked, listened and joked with district leaders, governors, State chairmen and men with influence and bank accounts. Returning to New York, over 7,000 letters with the inevitable green ink signature were sent to men Farley had met and remembered and the fruits of industry were gathered in Chicago.

During the hectic days of that Democratic conclave, Farley worked like a Trojan, putting a word, or words, into the ear of one delegate, cajoling another onto the Roosevelt bandwagon, or keeping a rebel within the fold. Not once did he falter, and he should thank his six-feet-two, two hundred pound frame—without an ounce of fat—for his unfailing stamina. At first his tactics amused the oldsters in political legerdemain, then forced them to fight seriously; but their frantic "Stop Roosevelt" maneuvers failed—Farley had picked a winner.

Since the election of Roosevelt, Farley has been Postmaster General, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee and State Chairman in New York, watching, listening and remembering for the astute politician in the White House. After the Democratic landslide there came, in the natural course of politics, the payoff for the "Faithful," and Farley was nominated paymaster.

In The American Magazine Farley wrote (by proxy perhaps) his code of political dispensation: "First, Is the applicant qualified? Second, Is he loyal to the party and sympathetic to the program of Franklin D. Roosevelt?"

Appointments were delayed some time after the inauguration; for the President's New Deal program had to be put through Congress. Farley, who hates to refuse a friend, resignedly withheld jobs until Congress came around with the proper votes for the administration's plans, then began the distribution. Immediately there was heaped upon Farley's bald head a torrent of abuse. He was called everything in the jobless politicians' handbook from incompetent to Civil Service wrecker; but Farley read his newspapers, looked over Congressional roll calls to see how the boys voted, did his duty by the party, and new officeholders, by appointment, kept their jobs for the most part. At times ability has been singularly innocent apparently of any participation in selection.

How I Need Some Sleep

With the toot of a whistle or the honk of a horn and the shuffle of many bags, the University of Vermont starts on its ten-day vacation today or tomorrow. Indeed, by this time much of it is well on its way back to civilization (or is it uncivilization?) and heaven only knows what else.

Plans have been made, but plans, like bubbles, have irritating habits of disappearing into thin air. Similar in a way to that Virginia house party that went up like a balloon of gas.

It may be judged, and indeed sworn on a stack of Bibles, that the first thought in the mind of each and every "étudiant" is the goddess Sleep, sweet sleep. He day-dreams about her, has hallucinations and even nightmares about her, in fact, he would give his all for her.

The great white way and big noise ("city" to you) is next in line in terms of seductions. New York seems to be the ever-popular favorite, perhaps because it is larger, more wicked and possesses more lights. Anyway to New York they (the students) go. Some of these worthy beings even plan to make New York but a mere filling station on a non-stop flight to Washington. The subject of attraction is as yet undecided—is it cherry blossoms, the Washington [illegible] monument [illegible]? Of course there are [illegible] humble way attempt [illegible] of the mere city it [illegible] it may be still [illegible] Mr. and Miss Vermont.

Being Collegiate

Students who receive all A's at the University of California (Berkeley) are given a refund of $5 on their tuition fee.

The student bar association at Ohio State University (Columbus) offers free legal aid to any student involved in a scrape with the law.

Los Angeles firemen dread the first day of spring because it's a custom at the University of Southern California to ring the fire alarm on that day each year.

Richmond College (Va.) students can engage in Sunday sports this spring under a new ruling, but they can't wear "shorts."

Residents of the women's dormitories at Washington State Normal School (Ellensburg) are campussed for one week-end for necking in the dormitory.

A Duke University (Durham, N. C.) co-ed recently advertised in the student paper, The Duke Chronicle, for a man of "pleasing countenance and unquestionable experience."

State laws of Massachusetts, forbidding the sale of liquor to persons under twenty-one, have made it necessary to drop plans for a tap room at Williams College (Williamstown).

Plumbers who may have forgotten the tricks of their trade can now take a correspondence course through the North Carolina State College (Raleigh) extension division.

A girl at Stratford College (Danville, Va.) claims she has read 1,000 books, and she's only a freshman.

A professor at Roanoke College (Salem, Va.) claimed some of his pupils would soon be as famous as Napoleon at the rate they are going down in history.

Girls simply can't be beautiful but dumb, the dean of the University of Pennsylvania (Philadelphia) and the dean of Temple University (Philadelphia) claim, because they say the two things are incompatible.

Eighty percent of the girls at Skidmore College (Saratoga Springs, N. Y.) refuse to admit they have ever been kissed.

In the Ohio state penitentiary there are 131 college graduates.

A University of Kentucky (Lexington) student attended a class in German for two weeks before he discovered he was in the wrong place. He thought it was a class in geology.

Butler University (Indianapolis, Ind.) co-eds weren't allowed to belong to secret societies with young men back in 1897, because it was suspected that one of the initiation rites was a kiss.

PRIZE SPEAKING CONTEST

Prizes of $25, $15, and $10 are given each year to the three ranking speakers in a prize speaking contest open to the men of freshman and sophomore classes. Those who are interested are asked to get in touch with Mr. Powers at the earliest opportunity.

Borah—Consistent in Inconsistency

By Robert R. French

A publisher a priest an economist and two senators set out to defeat the World Court and included in this victorious company was William E. Borah, of Idaho. The vote (52-36) to keep the United States out of foreign entanglements permitted the Great Conciliator to utter a fervid, "Thank God," but within a few days he was requesting a senatorial investigation of religious persecution in Mexico.

This inconsistency has faced liberals prominent now for over twenty-five years as a national figure. When one considers that the leading authors are Palmer and Wertheimer that he becomes ... between the greatest political ... in all the history of the world and Alexander Hamilton, "one of the most powerful promoters in the history of government," Borah's star part is not surprising. To attempt to reconcile the political creeds of Jefferson and Hamilton into a philosophy of thought and action is, perhaps, inconsistent from the beginning.

Paterson won the bout [illegible] head-lock and body hold in 5 min[illegible]13 seconds.

[illegible] next match brought together [illegible] Jacobson '37 and G. D. Rosanelli [illegible] the 135-pound division. This [illegible] proved to be very interesting and [illegible] Rosanelli was the faster and more [illegible]ed wrestler, Jacobson a good [illegible] man. Rosanelli was able to [illegible] another bar and chancery that [illegible] could not break out of and [illegible] fall in 5 minutes and 6 seconds.

[illegible]ured next was a boxing exhibition [illegible] three two-minute rounds and one-[illegible] rest periods, between S. Alpert '37 and H. R. Johnson '38. The crowd saw some clever boxing and good hard [illegible]. Alpert did most of his work with [illegible] jabs, while Johnson used the [illegible] to his advantage.

The finalists of the 145-pound class were V. Baptist '38 and W. E. Farnham '38, with Baptist winning by a time advantage of 6 minutes and 58 seconds. The match started fast with the men [illegible] all the time. Baptist was the more experienced and faster of the two, [illegible] that Farnham lacked in experience [illegible] he made up in strength. The last four minutes was anybody's fight, until Baptist got a bar and chancery and held it for a precious time limit of one and three quarter minutes.

M. King '37 and N. H. Trottier '37, [illegible] wrestled in the 155-pound class. Both wrestlers were in good condition [illegible] both were fast, skillful and strong. Trottier, who outweighed King by ten [illegible], continually resorted to the head-[illegible] and netted King much punishment [illegible]. Toward the end of the con[illegible] King would not wrestle. In the [illegible] minutes Trottier held King in a [illegible] and decreased the datter's time [illegible] to 35 seconds, sending the [illegible] into an overtime. The overtime [illegible] for five minutes; King was the [illegible] and kept pushing Trottier all [illegible] mat. However King was unable [illegible] up the necessary two-minute [illegible] advantage and the bout was called [illegible].

[illegible] the 175-pound class L. M. [illegible] defeated W. N. Thomas '38 [illegible] minute and 10-second time advantage. The match was not too fast [illegible] too strong and too fast for [illegible]nced Thomas, and seemed to [illegible] all the time. Thomas used [illegible]k and almost pinned Paul [illegible].

[illegible]ing the afternoon's card was a [illegible]atch between defending champ[illegible] Giardi '36 and P. T. Mc[illegible]37 in the unlimited class. A [illegible] was put on by both men [illegible]st and furious throughout. [illegible] aggressor, soon built up a [illegible] McInerney was not as strong [illegible] but he was able to hold his [illegible] a good portion of the fight. [illegible] to be the cleverest wrestler, [illegible] unable to cope with Giardi's [illegible]. Giardi, with a three-quarter [illegible] head-lock gained the winning [illegible] minutes and 2 seconds.

Plans are under way at the University of Vermont for a varsity lettermen's reunion breakfast, to take place on June 22, it was announced today. Recent calculations reveal that there are some seven hundred and fifty past and present lettermen who have participated in the intercollegiate contests as representatives of the University, and 1,135 letters awarded since Vermont first took part in such athletics.

Sponsored by the Alumni Council, the plan is under the general supervision of Harry B. Oatley, Great Neck, L. I., president of the physical education department, and Sabin C. Abell, graduate manager. The committee consists of the athletic coaching staff and others.

The gathering will be featured by brief talks from present and past coaches, and University athletes who have gone on to greater fields of competition. Big league baseball stars and track luminaries, among them marathon runner Clarence DeMar, will appear as speakers.

DELTA PSI TRIUMPHS IN INTERFRATERNITY TRACK MEET WITH 47 POINTS

Delta Psi won the annual interfraternity track meet at the University of Vermont, compiling a total of 47½ points, the largest score ever amassed. Alpha Tau Omega took second with 32 points. The Independents finished third with 30 points, Kappa Sigma fourth with 19½, Sigma Nu fifth with 17, Phi Delta Theta sixth with 3½ and Sigma Alpha Epsilon seventh with 2½.

Four records were cracked during the meet and the entire standard of competition was higher than in previous meets. Foote broke the quarter mile record in 58 seconds; Park the hammer with a toss of 39 feet 11 inches; Deltausse the broad jump with 20 feet 3 inches; Trudeau the high jump at 5 feet 11 inches.

Trudeau of Middlebury was the meet's outstanding star, winning both hurdle events, setting a new standard in the high jump and placing third in the broad jump.

"The Anatomy and Histology of the Transition Region of Tragapogon Pterifolia" is the title of a Ph.D. thesis at Ohio State University (Columbus).

'37 and N. H. Trottier '37; 175-pound class, L. M. Paul '36; unlimited class, L. A. Giardi '36.

Each one of the above list will receive medals, with his name, class and "University of Vermont Wrestling Tournament" inscribed on it.

The referee was, as usual, Bumps Levine. The timers and judges were Kiphuth, Brousseau and L. W. Woodard. K. P. Lord '37 again continued to announce.

INFORMATION AVAILABLE ON CHARACTERISTICS OF EARLY AMERICAN FURNITURE

Early American furniture with its period characteristics is described in a leaflet recently issued by the Extension service of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. The brieflet was arranged by Mrs. Charlotte P. Brooks, Extension Specialist in Home Management and may be obtained without charge by addressing a post-card request to the Extension Service, 481 Main St., Burlington, Vt.

"There is no more puzzling problem than the selection of antiques," says Mrs. Brooks. "There are so many clever imitations that it is difficult to tell the genuine. One must have a knowledge of period styles and methods of construction practiced in each period, as well as ability to identify woods to aid him in appraising antique furniture."

The brieflet contains drawings of the different period designs and explains some of the identifying characteristics. The periods discussed are the Early Period, 1620-1740; the Middle Period, 1740-1840; the late Period, 1840-1865.

Bothered by students who continually requested a certain record to be played, Lloyd Burns, University of Arkansas (Fayetteville) announcer at station KUOA, Fayetteville, ended it all by smashing the record over the mike. The piece was "I Need Lovin'."

Einstein would have education "A free and living process, with no drilling of the memory, and no examinations, mainly a process of appeal to the senses in order to draw out delicate reactions."

INTRAMURAL BANQUET IS ATTENDED BY OVER SIXTY INTERESTED IN ATHLETICS

Speeches and Awards are Features of Evening

Awards to the winners in the recent athletic competition at the University of Vermont were made at the first annual intramural banquet at the new Y. M. C. A. last Wednesday night. Prof. H. A. Prentice, director of physical education for men, made the presentations.

The meal commenced at 6:30 o'clock in the banquet room of the Y. After the meal A. F. Post, track coach acting as master of ceremonies, introduced first W. L. Lyons Cardiac, baseball coach, who gave a brief talk remarking that the first year as an instructor in the athletic department has been interesting and successful on his part. He has liked it very much.

Mr. Post next called on Dr. F. S. Kent, medical director, who also stated the aims of associating and intermingling with the college men. Professor Prentice was then introduced. He in turn thanked all who had lent their services as officials during the interfraternity competition of late. Professor Prentice asked W. H. Connor '36 to give a report on the present standing of the fraternities in regard to the Traynor trophy, awarded annually to the Greek letter society with the highest number of points in fraternity competition. Delta Psi is now leading the field, standing one point ahead of Sigma Nu. Phi Delta Theta is third. The present standing of the fraternities will be found in another article in this issue of the Cynic.

Professor Prentice extended his thanks to W. W. Segur '35 and W. B. Morgan '35 for their cooperation in holding wrestling and badminton classes throughout the winter. The latter was awarded a medal for winning the badminton tournament. Then the champions in the various wrestling classes were given their medals. They are as follows: L. H. Rome '37, 115 pounds; R. G. Paterson '38, 125 pounds; L. D. Rosanelli '38, 135 pounds; V. Baptist '38, 145 pounds; M. N. King '37 and N. H. Trottier '37 (draw), 158 pounds; L. M. Paul '36, 175 pounds; L. A. Giardi '36, heavyweight.

Sigma Nu received the interfraternity basketball trophy, having won all its

It was a matter of pride with a host in Colonial days that his guests should smoke tobacco grown on his own plantation.

Today the Governor of North Carolina says to the Governor of South Carolina—

"Have a cigarette"

TODAY people all over the world use tobacco in one form or another.

They chew it, they smoke it in pipes, they smoke cigars and cigarettes, and here is what an eminent physician said about cigarettes:

"I have been something of a student of cigarettes, and it is my belief that they offer the mildest and purest form in which tobacco is used."

Yes, nowadays the cigarette is the most popular form in which tobacco is used. A good cigarette certainly gives men and women a lot of pleasure.

DEAN SPERRY OF HARVARD LECTURES TOMORROW IN FLEMING MUSEUM AT 8.00

Famous Speaker to Take Up "Outlook for Religious Liberalism" as Seventh in Lecture

FORMER RHODES SCHOLAR HAS DEGREE FROM OXFORD

Has Toured England on Many Foundations, and Received Many Honors in America

"The Outlook for Liberalism with Particular Reference to Religious Ideas" will be the subject of the seventh University Lecture at the University of Vermont to be given by Dr. Willard L. Sperry, Dean of Harvard Divinity School, tomorrow evening, Wednesday, April 17, at 8.00 o'clock, in the Museum. His lecture is open to the public.

Since returning from Oxford, where he went as Rhodes Scholar in 1907, Doctor Sperry has rapidly forged to the forefront of the theological world, his fine scholarship, his brilliant mind and his progressive thinking, having combined to win speedy recognition for his abilities and attainments. A graduate of Olivet College in Michigan, he received an appointment in 1907 to Oxford as Rhodes Scholar and there took a "First Class Honor in Theology." Since his return he has received the Master of Arts degree from both Yale and Oxford. Yale, Amherst and Brown have also all conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity.

Ordained to the Congregational ministry in 1908, he served the First Church at Fall River, Mass., and Central Church, Boston, as pastor. In 1917 he became lecturer and professor of Practical Theology at Andover Theological Seminary and in 1922 Dean of Harvard Divinity School. In England he has lectured upon famous and important foundations—at Manchester College, Oxford; Essex Hall, London; and the world renowned Hibbert Lectureship. The numerous books of which he is author include among other titles: "The Discipline of Liberty," "Reality in Worship," "The Paradox of Religion" (Hibbert Lectures); and "Signs of These Times."

RULES ANNOUNCED FOR ANNUAL COMPETITION FOR RESERVE OFFICERS' CUP

Five Drill Squads Have Thus Far Entered This Annual Interfraternity Competition

Rules for the annual Reserve Officers' Cup competition, held at the University of Vermont among men's Greek-letter fraternities during the Federal Inspection of the Vermont battalion of the R. O. T. C. were announced today. The inspection will take place in May.

Each fraternity may enter one drill squad to compete for the cup. One squad of fraternity men will probably be entered representing the Independents. All members must be enrolled in the freshman and sophomore military courses. Not more than 50 percent of the squad is to be from the second-year group.

Judging is on excellence of performance of movements, the military bearing, precision of the uniform and equipment of the squad members and the squad as a unit, and the manner of giving commands and the general conduct of his squad by the leader. Twenty-two maneuvers may be demanded from the squads, besides the silent "manual of arms."

So far five squads have designated their intention of entering the competition, which gives points toward the Traynor Cup, the highest award of the year in military activities at Vermont. Following are the fraternities and their drill leaders: Alpha Tau Omega, K. P. Lord, Fort Ethan Allen, and R. B. Hart, Burlington; Kappa Epsilon Phi, E. G. Sedlis, Camp Plain, Mass.; Phi Delta Theta, C. Churchill, Burlington; Sigma Nu, G. Clark, Hartford, Conn.; Delta Tau Delta, W. Squires, Charlotte.

All those interested in scrubbing properties for the Junior Week play are asked to get in touch with Winona Oatley at 3680 immediately.

SID CARSLEY TO PLAY FOR BOULDER DANCE

With the Mortar Board dance now in the past, the men return to run a dance again. Boulder, senior men's honorary society, will hold its spring dance this Saturday evening in the U. V. M. Gym.

Sid Carsley and his twelve-piece orchestra will be on hand again to furnish the music for the dancing from 8.30 to 12 p.m. M. A. Patch '35 is in charge of the affair, which is the second dance of the school year by this society. Last fall a dance was given by Boulder in connection with Boulder Week.

The chaperons will be Prof. and Mrs H. L. Briggs and Prof. and Mrs. W. H Belmey.

MEN DEBATERS MEET PENN STATE OVER WCAX

The Collective Broadcasting Issue Will Be the Subject Debated Monday Afternoon

The men's varsity debate team will meet a team from Penn State in a radio debate of WCAX, Monday afternoon, April 15, between five and six o'clock. The debate will be three-judge decision with Vermont taking the affirmative of the question, "Resolved, That the nations should agree to prevent the international shipment of arms and munitions."

The men representing Penn State are Mr. Donald S. Frey and Mr. Angelo N. Berbatis, both seniors in the School of Liberal Arts, Mr. Frey pursuing a pre-legal course, and Mr. Berbatis a major in public administration. To date Mr. Frey has participated in twenty contests, and Mr. Berbatis in forty-five. The team is on a tour, including the University of Pennsylvania, College of City of New York, Rutgers, University of Vermont, University of Ottawa, and the University of Buffalo.

W. H. Myers '35 and F. W. Timmerman '37 will speak for Vermont. Myers has participated in ten debates this year and Timmerman in twenty-two.

VERMONT OUTING CLUB DELEGATES TO ATTEND MEETING AT BREADLOAF

Four representatives of the University of Vermont's newly formed Outing Club, whose names are as yet unknown, will attend the fourth annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Outing Club Association, which takes place this year at Breadloaf, famed summer headquarters for writers' conferences, connected with Middlebury College, and in the heart of the Green Mountains.

Scheduled for May 11, 12 and 13, the meeting will be attended by representatives of twenty-five colleges from all parts of the country. The University of Vermont organization founded this year, has been prominent in all New England winter sport meets during the current college year and has undertaken with marked success a number of ski and snowshoe trips to nearby peaks in the Green Mountain range. H. H. Sabin, '36, is president of the local chapter of the organization, and L. D. Hawley, '37, the secretary. Membership includes both men and women.

W. A. A. INSTALLATION TONIGHT AT ROBINSON

W. A. A. installation will be held tonight, April 16, at Robinson. Supper begins at 5.30, after which each dormitory will give a stunt. Twink Mount '35 will give out awards.

Harriet Grey '36 is in charge of the stunts and those in charge at the dormitories are: Robinson, Abbie Howe '37; Redstone, Rebecca Kibby '38; Slade, Betsy Chase '38; Grassmount, Marguerite Millett '35; Campus House, Mildred Rockwood '38; Prospect Hall, Phyllis Mann '38.

All W. A. A. members are urged to attend this meeting, and are asked to sign on the bulletin board in the "Y" Room if they intend to go. A charge of 25 cents will be made for all girls who live outside college dormitories.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

Election of new officers and a short rehearsal of the Men's Glee Club will be held Wednesday noon at 1.15 at the Music Building. All members are requested to be present.

DEAN BROWN OF YALE SPEAKER AT VESPERS LAST SUNDAY AFTERNOON

"Overcome Evil With Good" is Text of Address on Changing Human Nature

SPEAKER DEAN EMERITUS OF YALE DIVINITY SCHOOL

Says War Will Soon Be Abolished Just as Cannibalism was in South Seas

Taking as his text the twenty-first verse of the twelfth chapter of St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, "Therefore be not overcome with evil, but overcome evil with good," Dean Charles R. Brown, dean emeritus of the Yale Divinity School, spoke at the vesper service at the Ira Allen Chapel, Sunday afternoon. Dean Brown, whose annual appearance here was greeted by an enthusiastic audiance, pointed out the three standardized methods of combating evil.

The first is by leaving it alone. Many people still believe in the policy of non-resistance where evil is concerned, though it has proved useless, especially in the case of social evils. We are now fighting ignorance, poverty and unemployment with all our strength.

The second, fight evil with evil, has always failed in the long run. Christ commanded us to love our enemies and we should obey Him. "We cannot overcome evil with evil."

Nations are now spending billions of dollars on armaments that should be used to relieve unemployment and pay off debts. Armaments are not an insurance against war because in 1914 the nations were more heavily armed than they had ever been before.

The last and best way of fighting evil is by overcoming it with good. "This might be called a higher resistance."

Christ, when He was being crucified, looked at His jeering tormentors and said, "Father, forgive them, they know not what they do."

Some foolish people say that human nature never changes. If this is, true, why have cannibalism, slavery, witch burning, and dueling been abolished?

War will soon be regarded not only as brutal but futile in determining the course of human events. Thus the change of human nature will eventually build a world order in which peace, good will and righteousness shall stand supreme.

"Therefore, be not overcome with evil, but overcome evil with good."

The choir sang "Tenebrae Factae Sunt" as the anthem.

WOMEN'S FORMALS COME APRIL 26 AND APRIL 30

Alpha Chi's Hold Their Dance April 26, Others Plan for April 30

The Greek-letter women will hold their spring formals April 26 and April 30.

The Theta's dance falls on Tuesday, April 30, the night before Founder's Day, and the dancers will cavort to the strains of Larry Pierce's ten-piece orchestra on the roof of the Hotel Vermont. Elizabeth Beckvold '35 is in charge; Coach and Mrs. Sabo and Prof. and Mrs. Howard Prentice will chaperon.

The Van Ness Orchestra will be handling syncopation for the Alpha Chi formal on Friday, April 26, at the chapter house. Anita Weir '35 is in charge; Professor and Mrs. Dykhuizen and Doctor and Mrs. Flagg (Helen Ericlionis) will chaperon.

The Tri Delt announce that their dance will be held at the Country Club with the Royale Grille Orchestra playing on April 30. Birdie Creagh '36 is chairman of the occasion. Other plans have not been formulated to date, but will appear in a later issue.

The Pi Phi dance is not all arranged, but present news indicates that Sid Careeley will play for the dance on April 30 at the chapter house. Committees and chaperons will be announced later.

The Alpha Xi's are entertaining at the rooms on College Street on April 30 with Sid Carsley syncopating. Louise Gallup '36 is in charge, and Professor and Mrs. Kidder are the chaperons.

The other sororities, Kappa Delta and Sigma Gamma will announce their plans in a forthcoming issue of the CYNIC.

Herberg and Haig to Head New "Winnowings" Board

RETIRING EDITOR

DOROTHY KENNEDY '35

Former Editor-in-Chief of Winnowings from the Mill, Vermont's Literary magazine.

The new board of Winnowings has been announced by the retiring editor, Dorothy Kennedy '35. Marion Herberg '36 has been selected to head the new list. Elizabeth Haig '36 is business manager, Sylvia Jarvis '36, circulation manager, and Gladys Smushkoff '36, advertising manager.

The list of other members is as follows: Copy editor, E. A. Cummings '36, short story editor, D. D. Baseball and Basketball to Be Part of Spring Program Under New Leaders

Rock Point activities under the direction of this year's Y. W. C. A. cabinet were brought to a close Thursday, March 28, when several girls from the University visited Rock Point and participated in the activities which took place there. Natalie Hilliker '36, as mistress of ceremonies, introduced the various events.

The girls from Rock Point demonstrated their progress in music by playing several simple duets and solos and in dancing, by giving an excellent exhibition of tap dancing under the direction of F. Elizabeth Haig '36. Phyllis Mann '38 played for the dancing.

In belated honor of St. Patrick's Day the Irish lilt was taught the Rock Point girls. Games and Eskimo pies, always an interesting addition, completed the program.

With the coming of spring new activities will be carried on at Rock Point. The girls are anxious to play basketball and baseball as well as all outdoor activities. Leaders will be needed for these various activities. An extensive program will be planned for the remainder of the year by the Rock Point chairman for the ensuing year when the rest of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet is chosen.

From the work which has been done at Rock Point during the last two years it is hoped that a center for social service will be developed. There are many opportunities at Vermont for practical training in social service, not the least of which is the worthwhile project at Rock Point.

SEVEN MEN RECEIVE MEDALS LAST FRIDAY

At the weekly battalion parade formation of the R. O. T. C. unit at the University of Vermont, Friday, seven of a group of thirty-one first- and second-year men who have passed examinations for either expert riflemen or sharpshooter honors, received medals from Col. F. W. Rowell, commandant of the unit.

Those receiving the honor are: Expert Rifleman, W. N. Thomas, Bristol; W. J. Simcox, Strafford, R. F. Waterman, Quechee; S. H. Robinson, Bridgewater; W. J. Sage, Wilmington. Honors for sharpshooting, small bore, went to H. F. Ross, Lyndonville, and R. W. Ricker, Burlington. Nineteen more men will receive the medals for expert riflemen at a later date, as will five students who have qualified as sharpshooters.

REV. ARTHUR HEWITT WILL SPEAK AT CHAPEL

Approximately 5,000 frogs are used annually for laboratory work at Ohio State University (Columbus). And they cost 15 cents each.

OPERA CAST PRACTICES FOR PRESENTATION TO BE GIVEN ON APRIL 25

Solos, Duets and Trios Add to Enjoyment of Forthcoming Production of "Ruddigore"

The cast of "Ruddigore" is diligently practicing to give a splendid presentation on April 25 at the City Hall.

The chief musical numbers are the men's chorus in the second act, where the portraits of Robin's (S. P. Belcher '37) ancestors descend from their frames and threaten him with death if he does not commit his daily crime; and where Sir Roderic (H. T. Bickford '37) sings while the wind howls.

Duets by Rose (Edith Petrie '37) and Robin; by Rose and Richard (A. B. Wilcox '35) are the most romantic pieces of music in the opera. The duet by Richard and Sir Despard (R. S. Wright '35) where they decide to unmask Robin, is the most tuneful music.

The character of Richard is a satire on the life of a British sailor. His solos in the first act are jolly nautical tunes. The character of Mad Margaret (Viola Long '37) is a satire on stage madness.

The chorus of the bridesmaids has a harmonious verse at the beginning of the opera which is used as the leading motive. It occurs nearly every time the bridesmaids enter. The most elaborate verses are the solos by Zorah (Marguerite Perkins '38) and Ruth (Augusta Caravatti '37) and the quartet by Zorah, Ruth, Richard, and Ald Adam (F. J. Nuissl '36).

Hannah (Madeline Ainsboro '35) sings the legend of the witch's curse.

The text of the opera is very logical and it comes to a logical solution. The style of Gilberts and Sullivan's "Ruddigore" is similar to Shubert's "Phantom Double."

Mrs. Wilnetta Sproul Taggart is the dramatic director; Mrs. Elizabeth Bradish, the vocal coach, and Prof. H. G. Bennett, the musical director. Mrs. Isabel Mills is in charge of scenery and properties.

NEW EXHIBITION OF LOOM HANDICRAFT AT MUSEUM

Recently available for study groups and the general public is an exhibition of loom and spinning wheel handicraft, much of it dating to pre-revolutionary days, at the University of Vermont's Fleming Museum. The showing is housed in the special exhibits room at the Museum.

Enclosed in a large glass case, the exhibit includes a quantity of spun flax, grown in Addison, Vt., in 1774, hand made handkerchiefs, socks, gloves and a number of rarely beautiful lace collars, popular for milady's wardrobe in the early period of the state's settlement. On top of the case is a flax wheel, brought to Vermont from Connecticut by early settlers, and used in Hinesburg.

A one-eyed bee, one of three or four ever known to entomologists, was discovered recently at Iowa State College (Ames).

SPEAKER DEAN EMERITUS OF YALE DIVINITY SCHOOL

Says War Will Soon Be Abolished Just as Cannibalism was in South Seas

Talking on the text the twenty-first verse of the twelfth chapter of the Book of Romans, "Overcome evil with good," Dean Charles R. Brown, dean emeritus of the Yale Divinity School, spoke at the vesper service at the Ira Allen Chapel Sunday afternoon. Dean Brown, whose annual pilgrimage here was greeted by a capacity audience, pointed out the three standardized methods of combating evil.

The first is by fighting it always. Many people still believe in war and prepare to defend themselves, and are prepared, though it has caused further suspicion, as in the case of naval craft. We are now fighting unemployment and unemployment with all our might.

The second, more and more still, has always failed in the long run. Christ commanded us to love our enemies and we should love Hitler. We cannot overcome evil with evil.

Nations are now spending billions of dollars on armaments that could be used for relief, unemployment and war debts. Armaments are not to maintain against war because in 1914 the nations were more heavily armed than they had ever been before.

The last and best way is fighting evil is by overcoming it with good. "This might be called a higher resistance."

Christ wept. He was hero worshiped, looked at His grieving countrymen and said, "Father forgive them, they know not what they do."

Some foolish people say that human nature never changes. If this is true, why have cannibalism, slavery, witch burning, and drinking been abolished?

We will soon be rewarded not only a brutal but futile as determining the course of human events. Then the change in human nature will eventually build a world order in which unity, good will and understanding shall reign supreme.

Conscience, the test statements, wars, and last overcome evil with good.

TEAMS ALL BACK

With the return of the ball team from its annual jaunt to the South, Vermont has finished calling back its traveling teams. Easter vacation saw them sallying forth over the whole eastern part of the country. The men debaters went into the South and West, women debaters went as far west as Pennsylvania, the baseball team invaded Virginia. The least they did was to spread the name and fame of the University of Vermont wherever they went.

Instead of looking at the scores and decisions for and against us in the various contests, we feel a much more worthy way of judging the value of these excursions is to look at who went and where they went. Vermont draws heavily on southern New England, New York and New Jersey for its students. It is a fertile field for prospects and perhaps our teams have done just a little bit in making Vermont seem attractive to these people. The members of these teams are certainly capable of doing this for us.

We have reason to be proud of our teams; we congratulate them on the showing they made.

MIDDLEBURY VS. WAR

Once again Vermont became a back number in the field of any concerted intercollegiate action. We notice that last Friday, thousands of students on campuses all over the country raised their voices in protest against war and against increasing tendencies toward extreme nationalism and militarism. Violence attended these demonstrations at some places, while many jeered in counter demonstrations in other places.

It is not for us to judge the value of this student "strike." But we do commend the way our sister, Middlebury, treated the day. Instead of a strike, Middlebury held a college convocation at its chapel, Friday afternoon. Two professors and three students spoke at the meeting. We feel this was a very constructive and wholesome way of going into the whole question of peace and war. Antagonism which was elsewhere raised by the demonstrations, with their parades and free-for-alls, was avoided by this quiet, sane treatment of a very vital topic.

NOTICE

Students considering the possibility of living in the Cooperative House next year are asked to secure application blanks in the office of the dean of women immediately. All applications must be filed not later than Monday, April 22, in the office of the dean of women.

A second Lenten discussion group under the auspices of the Freshman Cabinet will be held Friday afternoon at 4.00 o'clock in the pastor's study of the chapel. The meeting is open to all men.

CYNIC BOARD MEETING

A meeting of the entire Cynic editorial board is called for Wednesday at 4.00 p.m. in the Cynic office. Credit deducted for failure to attend or to arrange excuse beforehand.

SUNRISE SERVICE

An Easter sunrise service will be held at Country Club next Sunday morning at 6.30. The speaker will be G. R. Merriam of the State Y. M. C. A. Reservations for transportation may be made by calling Brenda McMullen.

Meeting of all the members of the rifle team at 1.30 Wednesday, April 17, in the gym. Those members who have not yet paid, please bring dues then. Officers for next year will be elected at that time.

Politics Parties and Platforms

This is the first in a series of articles on the programs of the major political parties and their relationship with the college student of today written especially for the Cynic and the Associated Collegiate Press. The second of the series to appear in the Cynic at a later date will be written by Roy M. Harrop, national chairman of the Farmer-Labor Party.—Editor's Note.

By Hon. James A. Farley
(Chairman, Democratic National Committee)

I know that it is customary to tell the young men and women that the nation is their inheritance and that it will devolve on them, before the passage of many years, to run this government of ours and to charge themselves with the destiny of the country.

I would like to amend this rather trite declaration. It seems to me that NOW, and not merely the future, represents the opportunity of youth. It is a time of change—not a change in our system of government or a change in our Constitution—but a departure from old processes, a recasting of method consequent to new situations and new problems.

You may notice, if you read the outcries of our Republican opponents, that no inconsiderable part of their criticism is directed toward the presence in the government of men and women comparatively young. And, perhaps, you young college students may note the parallel of these times with the strenuous period at the birth of the Republic. One would think, if he listened to Republican statesmen, old in years and ancient in ideas, that our great President had gone into the highways and byways to dig out mere infants to aid him and advise him in the conduct of the government through a period of great stress.

Fortunately, most of these contemporary figures, who are as out-of-date in their governmental theories as those represented in the oil paintings with their old-fashioned clothes and periwigs, have been retired by the people. Fess of Ohio; Smoot of Utah; Watson of Indiana; Arthur Robinson, of the same state; Moses of New Hampshire; and many others have been replaced by able, energetic Democrats who are in step with the spirit of the time.

The college youth of the nation played a great part in the retirement of these reactionaries who remained on the political stage so long beyond the period when their usefulness had ceased. It was the youth of the country, with fresh ideas, with impatience at the old, helpless, drifting order that had dominated this country for a dozen years, who had the courage to face the economic wreck into which the country had been permitted to sag, and who made possible the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt and last November gave his adminsitration the most complete endorsement ever received by a President of the United States since the early days of the Republic.

It was not by ambition alone that the towering figures in Democratic politics today reached their high goals. More important was the zeal to be of service to their country. Men do not gain the higher ranks of our government simply because of the desire for power or a place in history. Occasionally, of course, somebody gets there by accident, but in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred they achieve these high places because what they have shown in capacity and in public interest has been so impressive that the people have been willing to accept what the record shows as a title to promotion.

Party politics of the most practical kind is a necessity in a nation committed to the two-party system. Organization is the keystone to party success. But all the activities of the politician, all the expedients of election strategy amount to little unless the candidate for whom they are performed is worthy of the office in which the party strives to place him.

Even party success does not add much to the historical total of accomplishment unless success in election is followed by success in administration. That success can only be achieved by real devotion to the public welfare. The people are as quick to punish as to reward when it comes to public office.

Unsuccessful politicians like to dwell on what they call the fickelness of the voters. It is not the people who are fickle. They put men in office to do the work of government—to do what is best for the country and most in accord with the national desire.

True, we have now, and always have had, reformers and panaceists who have clamored for this or that radical measure. These have been very noisy at times and the loudness of their clamor has given a false impression as to their number. But [illegible] by the advocates of economic and political nostrums, advertised to cure our troubles overnight, there is a great and controlling body of citizens whose votes take care of the nation's destiny. It is a curious thing that while no business man would care to be told how to run his business by one without experience in such a business, in the case of government—the biggest business of all and concerning everybody—many a man with a loud voice and a

The team drove all night and the next day, through Kentucky Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama, in order to reach Talladega, Ala., where Greemore and Timmerman spoke on the negative of the education question against Talladega College.

Sunday, March 31, the team traveled to Memphis, Tenn., where they stayed over night. The next day they continued to Cape Gerardiau, Mo., where Timmerman and Myers met the S E Missouri State Teachers College team on a no-decision munitions debate, with Vermont on the negative.

Tuesday evening Greemore and Timmerman spoke against the Missouri State University team in a non-decision collective bargaining debate.

Wednesday afternoon, April 3, Rogers, Timmerman and Myers upheld the negative against St. Louis University at St. Louis in an Oregon style debate on the munitions question. The following evening Greemore and Timmerman spoke on the affirmative side of the collective bargaining question against Indiana State Teachers College of Terre Haute, Ind.

The last debate, Friday evening, was no decision with Myers and Timmerman having the negative of the munitions question against Heidelburg College at Tiffin, Ohio. The team returned to Burlington by way of Buffalo, N. Y.

The entire trip took the four men through fourteen states, meeting fifteen schools, on three topics, and covering a total of 4,324 miles en route.

The trip was interesting and instructive, and enjoyable for those who went, with the exception of the trouble caused by three blowouts and minor car trouble.

POLITICAL PARTIES AND THEIR PLATFORM

minister the nation's affairs than one whose life has been spent in the public service.

I think you will agree with me that our Republic is passing through a period of as great stress as it has ever experienced since the days when the young men stood to their guns barefooted, ragged and hungry with Washington, making the struggle for our national independence. You may be sure that in that time there were not lacking voices of advisers who counselled them to admit failure and go back to foreign allegiance, pointing out that independence was an idealistic dream of immature minds engaged in a reckless experiment.

The mental processes of Tories do not vary. They abhor any kind of change and never cease to cite each difficult attempt to make things better as an evidence of the breakdown of whatever is being undertaken. The Tories of the days of Valley Forge talked and thought along the same lines as the Tories of 1935.

Their doleful prophecies of disaster failed then, as they are failing now. But let us not forget that the Revolutionary War lasted much longer because of the shooting from the rear and the encouragement of the enemy by those who would not realize that destiny may be delayed but cannot be averted by such guerrilla tactics.

The favorite target of those who today would like to see the administration of President Roosevelt other than a success is the size of the fund required to combat unemployment and to keep people alive—people whose destitution comes through no fault of their own but by reason of a great economic desaster in which the whole world shares and from which, incidentally, the United States of America is emerging more intrenched than any other great nation.

These critics of the administration shudder at the thought of increased taxes in the future. I wonder how they would feel if, instead of a problematical prospect, they were paying today and had been paying for years such tax rates as Great Britain, for example, has had to impose upon the subjects of King George? Whatever the price of saving our millions of unemployed and their families from famine and cold, that price must be paid. Some military authorities estimated in 1919 that another year of war would have brought our national debt to fifty billion dollars. Does anybody suppose that our nation would have alternative had been the loss of the war and the unwilling acquiescence of a peace imposed upon us by conquerors with such demands as are contemplated? Especially the young men seem anything but extravagant. Now to the problem of reducing the resulting national debt giving to us a task beyond the capacity of the nation to perform.

You will recall that during the days of our prosperity the national debt was steadily diminished and that taxes by which this was accomplished were by no means unendurable. We are a richer country than we were then.

The credit of the United States is at a high point here and abroad. Our dollar is the strongest of the world currencies as evidenced by the inflow of gold to this country. The billions spent in relief do not have to be paid in a day or a year. And so, when our period of stress is over, you will find the national debt being paid gradually, almost painlessly, and by the time you young college men and women are running the businesses of this country, the fears of today will seem in retrospect no more substantial than those that existed a dozen times during the life of our nation. Those fears now live only in the pages of the history books and other volumes that are consigned to the school men who are concerned with the age long story of finance.

In any event we must go through with what we are doing. Nobody as yet has offered a serious alternative to President Roosevelt's recovery program. There is a lot of grumbling, naturally; some of it by those who can see no virtue in anything a Democratic administration does, some of it by those impatient ones who think that miracles are possible by which a disturbed world can be set aright overnight.

They have no intelligent substitute to offer for the course being followed by the President. But they have a delightful time [illegible] between a few minor government officials every error in the recovery processes to which attention is called when that error is corrected, as evidences of the failure of the program.

I suppose that such things are unavoidable in a politically-minded country particularly as there are no real issues on which the administration can be challenged. The verdict of last November's election shows how little impression this sort of thing has on the public mind.

This is about as good a time as any to tell you that what has happened and is happening is no surprise, either to the President or the rest of the administration you put in power two years ago. Franklin D. Roosevelt had no delusions as to the magnitude of the task that confronted him when he came to the White House. He knew then and has never lost sight of the difficulties that lay ahead. [illegible] is a man of infinite patience as well as capacity, courage and industry. He has met each situation as it arose without panic, without discouragement and without the slightest lessening of his faith in the ultimate outcome. Under such a leader, the war against adversity is bound to result in victory. You placed him where he is. You put the burden of recovery upon his shoulders. And as a closing word I summon you now to give him the same loyalty, the same confidence that you exhibited in 1932 and 1934. I know that the call will be heeded by you and that you will celebrate with him a final victory more important to our beloved country than any [illegible]. We love you.

COLLEGE PROFS ON SPOT AS NEWSPAPERS ATTACK

[illegible] college professors are the spot with students openly criticizing their instructors through the mediums of their school papers, a review of undergraduate publications by the staff of the Associated Collegiate Press and Collegiate Digest reveals.

At the University of Minnesota (Minneapolis) where the Minnesota Daily conducted a poll of students on their estimates of the ability, general fairness, faults and habits of the faculty, the following answer is typical of the students' views: "My professor can see things from only one direction—his own—is loony—is dead on his feet—is a blight on the tree of knowledge."

The Indiana Daily Student, Indiana University (Bloomington) newspaper, claims that "far too many professors take, in the classroom, one of the two easiest courses of action open to them. One, giving the same lectures year after year, bores his class and loses both the student's interest and his own. The other type injects so much personal philosophy into his teaching that the objective of the course is lost in a multitude of petty [illegible] meanderings whose only worth is to entertain the students."

There will be a meeting of all Junior Week committees on Thursday, April 18, at 1:00 p.m. in 3 South College.

WOMEN STUDENTS TO STAGE FASHION SHOW

Women students at the University of Vermont will have an opportunity, at their next mass meeting, to observe and vote the very latest dictates of Dame Fashion for the spring wardrobe. A large Burlington store will put on a fashion show.

All women in the University, including faculty members, have been asked to attend the event. The store is furnishing its own models. The fashion show is scheduled for the week of April 29 and is an annual event on the spring season at Vermont.

RED FLANNEL BATH IDEA FOR PORTRAIT DISGARDED

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Those red flannels which Prof. Grant Wood, of the University of Iowa art department, had so much difficulty in finding, aren't going to be used after all.

Denouncing that he has been accused of seeking publicity, Professor Wood has decided to shelve the idea of painting "The Bath, 1880," which was to have portrayed a man in red flannel underwear pouring hot water from a teakettle into a wooden tub in preparation for the old Saturday night ritual.

After a futile private search for a pair of red flannels, Professor Wood finally advertised in several newspapers. The papers made "copy" of his search and the hunt became nationwide, with the result that certain art magazines claimed the exponent of "regional" art was seeking more than his share of limelight.

HARVARD STUDENTS HATE POOR FOOD; THEY REBEL

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Harvard students don't like wormy haddock, old toast and sour cream for breakfast. Residents of Lowell House, university dormitory, recently protested to the manager of the university dining halls that they were dissatisfied with the meals, and listed specific objections.

Other things objected to by the students included "hardly edible pork chops," "warm milk," "bad eggs poached and boiled," "rancid butter in one of every ten pieces," "silverware polish not removed from silver," and "mostly gristle and old meat in stews."

Another point objected to was the fact that "too many queer names are applied to the menu. Students prefer a stew to be called a stew and not 'Saute' or 'au Jardinier'."

TENNIS TEAM STRESSES SERVICE AND BACKHAND

Team Leaves April 24 on Four-day Trip—Three Matches Scheduled

The tennis team has been practicing on the cage during the past two weeks under the coaching of Coach Carpenter. Previous teams have been underdogs in service and backhand so particular stress is being applied to these two phases of the game.

The men have improved greatly in this short period of time but outdoor practice is needed badly. In preparation for the forthcoming matches in two weeks, the team will use the outdoor courts at the Fort this week. This will not give the team sufficient training but it should help the team to adapt themselves to outdoor conditions before the first match.

The team is to leave April 24 on a four-day trip. Matches are to be held with the Trinity, Conn. state and Wesleyan teams. The tentative lineup is composed of the following players: Capt. Bart Costello, Bob Hart, Eddy and Hack Swift and Harris. The sixth member of the team making the trip will be picked from the remainder of the squad which consists of Duncan, Root, Reed and Powers.

Too much should not be expected of the team on their first contest. Comparatively speaking they have had little practice and that has all been indoors. It has been rather difficult to harden by training in the cage due to the very rough surface of the court.

Due to the congestion in the cage the freshman tennis team will have no practice until the outdoor courts are in condition.

EARS STILL IN SLINGS

The University double quartet embarked last week on a chortling tour of inspection which covered an area of some four miles; the songsters strutted their stuff at the Municipal Grand Center in Duxbury on Wednesday of last week. They were met at the livery by the mayor of the city and the two aldermen who presented the key of the People's Forum to the group. They were quartered in the hotel on the street of the great city, and that evening performed before a vast crowd of admiring sport fans.

The performance was well received except for the splotch of tomato juice and seeds on Fritz Warbler's shirt front, a trace of yellow that had all the ear marks of having been an egg which had seen better days on Georgie Sputtoosss' neckline, a couple of lettuce leaves that stuck out of Percy Wretcher's pockets. Excluding such minor accidents the reception was a complete success.

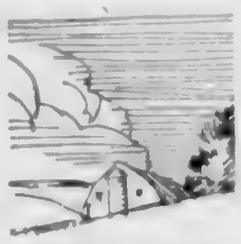
barked for East Putney (wherever that is) and there were met by the sheriff who escorted them right out again. Nonplussed the group came right back.

That same afternoon a sadly bedraggled group of crooners pulled their woebegone carcasses up the steep hill to their homes on the home campus—four days before they were due. When asked about the trip Fritz Warbler exclaimed, "Ships sail in, and ships sail out, but me—oh me!"

FRESHOMORES DEFEAT SOPHMEN IN ANNUAL FRALEY CUP DEBATE IT'S A SCORCHER

In one of the most enthusiastic debates ever held at Vermont, a spirited freshman team completely outclassed their rival sophomores in the annual Fraley cup debate on the question "Resolved, that all mud holes in Chittenden County should be holed up and that chicken thieves be drawn and quartered." The winning freshers held up the negative end of the argument.

The frosh presented a formidable array of arguments in favor of their suppositions. It was proven by them that mud holes in Chittenden County was actually beneficial rather than detrimental to the common good of the peepul. "Mud holes," said one, "is a god-send—were it not for them where would the repair shops turn to earn a living, and furthermore how would one be able to thrust out his chest and say, 'I stepped into a hole up at Lovers' lane last night and I'm still healthy'?" The affirmative could offer no solution to these mystifying queries spotted by Jerk Waters, ace man of the yearlings.



And as for chicken thieves," exclaimed Freshman Blabbermouth, "thieves is a most degrading name for such a noble profession. How many men (or women) can you show me that have such rare courage? That they be drawn and quartered—preposterous. Their image should be cast in molds of bronze and set up as a symbol of courage in every college and high school in the country. Were it not for these honorable gentlemen that you, my worthy opponents, so crassly debase as 'chicken thieves' we would indeed be in a sorry plight. We would be overrun with chickens within a million years. I can see the day when all recorded chicken thieves will be hailed as martyrs to the cause of delivering the world from such a catastrophe as being overrun by chickens."

Sir. Sir, I believe you are trying to kid me.

Fr. Well, now that you know, suppose we quit assaulting each other and commiserate a bit.—Pointer

U. V. M. Grad to Play Opposite Mae West in "Bill of the Nighties"

Mortimer Throckmorgan '06 Gets Daring Role in New Epic

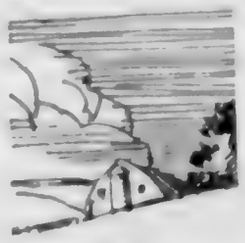
"He can be bad," was all that Mae West had to say about Mortimer Throckmorgan, sensational new find in cinema circles. Speaking affectionately of the ex-maple sugar magnate and calling him by his pet name, "Throcky," Mae, under pressure, admitted that Mortimer was a dear, a roué, and a leetle teched in the haid. Then with a merry twinkle in her eyes she simpered, "I can row a boat! Canoe?"

She was hot stuff all right, for by this time my shoes were burning briskly and my B. V. D.'s were in a decidedly smouldering state. But duty was duty, so I shot back, "What do you think of Hubie Trudeau? Would he make you a good leading man?"

"He's too peachy for words," she shrilled, as she poured a glass of water over my smoking collar. "By the way, have you heard the latest joke?" . . . Well, it seems that Mae West was walking down Church Street and who should she meet but Papa Dionne. "So I says to him . . . "

Waiting to hear no more, I etaoin shrdlu . . . . bcmx $ $ etc.

HALF A MAN



Bryn Mawr is a great college for statistics. Even when the truth hurts they stick to the cold figures. As testimony we quote the old but veracious story about the administrative head who was attempting to convince the gals in a chapel speech that Bryn Mawr wasn't such a blue-stocking institution as it was generally considered. "Eight and six-tenths of our alumnæ get married," she stated, "and nine and six-tenths have children."—Bryn Mawr Belcher

"If I had a son that was a fool," shouted the excited man who had just been rebuked by the Parson, "I'd make a Parson of him."

"You probably would," said the Parson. "But I see your father had different ideas."—Log.

Cub Reporter Snitches Copy of Final Exam in Chem 1047A

Again the CYNIC crashes through with all the hooey that's fit to print for you mugs. Here you are, boys, a real live, honest-to-goodness, swiped exam paper, simply ages in advance.

Answer 40 of the following 15 questions:

1. What is the formula of that stuff that you drank at the last Razz-Dazz?
2. Give the reaction between 10 grams of Lifebuoy and BO.
3. What is the percentage of nicotine in 14 bales of Shredded Wheat?
4. What did you have for breakfast (answer yes or no)?
5. Have you got pink tooth brush?
6. Straight or with ginger ale?
7. May I have the next dance?
8. Why wear a truss?
9. Don't you think that Bill Case is cute?
10. Neither do I.
11. Oh, you want to play, eh?

never seen before—equipment galore for all sorts of activities. twelve baskets on six different floors, three handball rooms, badminton volleyball, tumbling, croquet and twiddle-de-winks will all have their specific place. An enormous swimming pool of dimensions six by nine—er—feet will be installed for the benefit of the tremendous number of ed and co-ed splash enthusiasts. There will be no military unit.

7. The science hall comes next with fully equipped laboratories.

8. The new Old Mill follows with the usual run of deaf and dumb profs.

9. Morrill Hall constructed like an ice cream cone, will compose the last of the college buildings. Here all the co-eds, jigs and other fellows will be quartered.

10. To the left of Morrill Hall will be situated the college dormitories. Since the college will be co-educational so will the dormitories and since all rooms will be for at least two only twelve dormitories will be needed—each capable of housing 200 eds and two co-eds plus the house father and mother.

To polish it off, two lavatories will be situated on the back campus—one for each sex, of course.

DILAPIDATED BUILDINGS TO BE SUBSTITUTED BY BEAUTIFUL STRUCTURES

With the realization that the Vermont campus had become antiquated, that all the buildings were extremely out of date and the classrooms were antiquated and that everything in general was becoming extremely out of date, the board of trustees at a recent meeting held in the smoking room in Billings Library, decided to appropriate $495,641,941,287,014,284,484,971,196,941,817,486,431 for the erection of a new and ultra modern campus which would rank as the greatest, most stupendous, colossalest, grandest, gloriousest, greatest, finest wrecks in Burlington. The new campus will not be situated at the present location but will be permanently and forever and a day erected on Lake Champlain, at the place where the Winooski River majestically flows and empties into said lake. This spot can further be located through a number of signposts situated along the road from Montreal to Brattleboro reading. Beware. Furthermore, if approaching by water one may see a sign out front 200 feet to outlet colony—slow down.

The buildings to be erected will include:

1. An A class med building with cadavers of chorus girls (freshly killed) and two or three profs. This building as seen in the picture will have a beautiful exterior built in a style which is a cross between Georgian and semi-Gothical. Entrance will be confined to one door—and that on the top floor; there will be six exits on each side of the building and one in each corner—all on the bottom floor—so students won't get hurt. Laboratories will be provided with excellent equipment—axes, buzz saw, lathes and a complete tool chest in every one of the six drawers.

2. Next to this edifice will be another edifice—the administration building. This will be provided with easy chairs along the walls, divans where there are no chairs—magazines galore including Ballyhoo, Hoey, Slapstick, Persian Nights, and Woman's Home Companion. The cashier's office will be provided with a vacuum pump which will suck up all bills, notes, I O U's, U O us and so forth. The deans offices will also be located here and furthermore there will be a safe deposit box for each student and in it will be filed according to dates deans' excuses for every school day with every possible gullible or otherwise excuse posted. The student needs only to take his (or her) pick.

3. On the side of the administration building will be the athletic field so situated in order that the administration need neglect no work and still be present at all athletic contests. Nearest the administration building will be the grid iron with a tremendous concrete bowl around it capable of seating forty five students and six and one half dozen professors. The field will be equipped with a tremendous machine capable of emitting terrific blasts of air. This machine will be used to good advantage when Vermont will be held on the one yard line for three downs and her stalwart lads haven't a push of their own. Another innovation will be a great recording machine with all the college yells and songs to be played between halves and at the head cheerleader's discretion in order to show the team that there is plenty of spirit behind them.

4. Further on will be the site for a baseball field with circular double-decked bleachers and grandstand with a special reserved box which will wait patiently for a time when the president of the college will entertain the chief justice of Hoop-la at a baseball game.

5. Twelve tennis courts of hard clay and [illegible] next in the line of inspection—clay guaranteed to rebound the ball whenever and in case the ball should hit the clay within the base lines—otherwise the ball will get stuck. A movable canopy overhead will be used in case of rain, snow or slush.

6. Next will come a gym such as was "Sure, enjoy yourself," said Jim. "It's a ding good cigarette."

I was working way late at the office one night and ran out of cigarettes. When Jim the watchman came through I tackled him for a smoke.

"Sure," says Jim, and he handed over a pack of Chesterfields. "Go ahead, Mr. Kent, take three or four."

Jim said he'd smoked a lot of cigarettes in his time, but he'd put Chesterfield up in front of any of 'em when it came to taste.

. . . "and they ain't a bit strong either," is the way Jim put it.

That was the first Chesterfield I ever smoked. And I'm right there with him, too, when he says it's a ding good cigarette.

In one of the most enthusiastic de- ever held at Vermont, a spirited freshman team completely outclassed their sophomores in the annual Fraley debate on the question "Resolved, that all mud holes in Chittenden County should be holed up and that chicken thieves be drawn and quartered." The winning freshers held up the negative end of the argument.

The frosh presented a formidable array of arguments in favor of their supposition. It was proven by them that mud holes in Chittenden County was actually beneficial rather than detrimental to the common good of the peepul. "Mud holes," said one, "is a god-send—were it not for them where would the repair shops turn to earn a living, and furthermore how would one be able to thrust out his chest and say, 'I stepped into a hole up at Jones' lane last night and I'm still healthy'?" The affirmative could offer no solution to these mystifying queries voiced by Jerk Waters, ace man of the evenings.

And as for chicken thieves," ex- claimed Freshman Blabbermouth, "thieves the most degrading name for such a as profession. How many men (or can you show me that have such courage? There have been quite a goodly number of complaints coming to our ears against the book store's malicious cheating of customers. There have been, as is probably the common knowledge of all, frequent threats of arm revolt against this outrage. Stewards' committees have met and expounded for hours, stewards themselves have borrowed canoes, movies and cigarettes in order to hold rallies and sign petitions denouncing this outrage as the most outrageous outrage that ever existed on this campus. It has really come to such a head that some definite action must be taken before the threatened violence explodes. For a countless number of years ye Rancke Store has been retailing their highly favored shoestring, "El Embracadero" for the exorbitant price of six and three-fourths shillings. For capitalistic reasons the manager of the store decided to do away with old-fashioned traditions and sell these same shoestrings for six and three-fourths shillings and a penny.

Now it seems fitting to us, that the book store should be more moderate. We have in our midst four thousand students and plenty wear at least two shoestrings every day. That adds up to quite a considerable amount per year—the profit to the book store per gross on shoestring is the same as that for stores in towns which are not to be attacked. We offer this suggestion and we are positive that it will meet with the approval of all—the book store shall sell shoestrings at the original price of six and three-fourths shillings but in order to pacify their friends they may charge two cents per squirt of ink instead of one.

We are pleased to note that both Johnny Sabo and Paul Grecian have taken such an extensive interest in athletics—the former devoting much time and energy in the strenuous sport of log-rocking while the latter is rounding up a versatile career in studying the tutor, intricate mazes to twiddle-de-winks. Since the first day of their displays of such an urge toward corporal advancement, both have been noticed to have gained seven and eight pounds, respectively, both have gained a gratifying touch of color to their pale sunken cheeks and both seem to show life and spirit for the first time.

We wish to congratulate our heroic pioneers for their splendid endeavors and contributions towards greater and better things in life and we sincerely urge Professor Prentice, Professor Kiphuth, Professor Post, Professor Gardner, Professor Tudhope, Professor Levine, Colonel Rowell and Prof. Ed Donahue to devote more time to such activity-building recreation following the noble example set by Sabo and Grecian.

Our suggestion is that Professor Prentice, Professor Post, Professor Tudhope, and Colonel Rowell adopt hopscotch, since they already have had some inkling in the secrets of twiddle-de-winks while Professor Kiphuth, Professor Gardner, Professor Levine, and Professor Donahue would derive greater benefits from the latter sport.

We are pleased to note that both Johnny Sabo and Paul Creelman have taken such an extensive interest in athletics—the former devoting much time and energy in the strenuous sport of hop-scotch while the latter is rounding up a versatile career in studying the finer intricate tricks to twiddle-de-winks. Since the first day of their displayal of such an urge toward corporal advancement, both have been noticed to have gained seven and eight pounds, respectively, both have gained a gratifying touch of color to their pale sunken cheeks and both seem to show life and spirit for the first time.

We wish to congratulate our heroic pioneers for their splendid endeavors and contributions towards greater and better things in life and we sincerely urge Professor Prentice, Professor Kiphuth, Professor Post, Professor Gardner, Professor Tudhope, Professor Levine, Colonel Rowell and Prof. Ed. Donahue to devote more time to such body-building recreation following the noble example set by Sabo and Creehan.

Our suggestion is that Professor Prentice, Professor Post, Professor Tudhope, and Colonel Rowell adopt hop-scotch, since they already have had some inkling in the secrets of twiddle-de-winks while Professor Kiphuth, Professor Gardner, Professor Levine and Professor Donahue would derive greater benefits from the latter sport

Alta Rock '35, of East Barre, has been nominated for a fellowship for study at the University of Grenoble in France during the year 1935-36. The granting of the fellowship is contingent upon the appointment of a French student to the fellowship which has been offered by the University of Vermont.

Miss Rock, a Kappa Delta, has played on the Dean's list consistently. Among her activities are La Cercle Francais, Pan Hellenic Council, Health Council, Dramatic Club, John Dewey Club, Upsilon Tau Alpha, Winter Sports Club, W. A. A. and Y. W. C. A.

The University is situated in the heart of the city of Grenoble, the former capital of Dauphine and now the capital of the department of the Isere, in the southeast of France. It is a manufacturing city of growing proportions, its present population of approximately 80,000 being double that of 1875.

COLLEGE OPERA NIGHT

[illegible] evening the Burlington girls' club is to present the opera "Ruddigore" in the City Hall. This annual production is a major effort of the college year, and the cast is [illegible] Being a semi-professional production it is to be supposed that [illegible] will be [illegible] But the interest from the town of Burlington, in whose interest the performance is [illegible] is not for the interest and attendance of these operettas would [illegible] stop for a more beautiful.

We advocate making this an annual college opera night. Except for [illegible] we should like to see something comparable to the opera productions in large cities.

Ghosts may be caught by our glee club at the Proctor-Keith. A more serious thing is the advance sale of libretti of the opera. Gilbert and Sullivan light opera is delightful music and drama. We suggest that students think of attending the Metropolitan, and land at the City Hall on Thursday evening. In that way we may have a truly college opera, of which students support talent to [illegible] themselves.

Everyone, we suppose, is going around humming the [illegible] tune, but let us take a guess. This reading was probably borrowed in large part from that week-end when [illegible] decided to know just what the matter was. Of course, a large percentage are not well acquainted with the situation, especially those who aren't very much interested. These are the first to [illegible] financial and many other ills be heaped. The interest from one [illegible] individual to another gives the impression. In this case [illegible] the [illegible] of another part of [illegible] the southern [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

LILAC DAY FESTIVAL TO BE MORE MUSICAL

Music will play a much larger part than usual in the annual Lilac Day festival observed by women students at the University of Vermont this year on May 24 according to announcements made April 1st a conference was held with heads of the music department and the result is the combining of the University orchestra's services for the pageant, which will take place on the back campus of Redstone dormitory.

Limitations have been found necessary for this event since last year over one thousand people attended. In memory of the late Pearl N. Wasson, dean of women, the festivities are sponsored by Mortar Board, women's honorary society. This year the pageant was written by Lee Whitcomb '36 of Burlington.

SEARS INSPECTED R. O. T. C. EQUIPMENT LAST WEEK

On Friday and Saturday of last week all arms equipment used by the R. O. T. C. unit at the University of Vermont was inspected by Lt. Col. Robert Sears of 1st corps area headquarters in Boston. Colonel Sears is a member of Gen. L. Lee Connor's staff.

Rifles machine guns, 37 pounders and trench mortars are among the equipment used at the University for instruction in military science and tactics. The inspection of the unit itself will take place in May. The University's battalion has been rated in the highest bracket for many years by the Federal Inspectors. The police attended the annual review of the student soldiers, which took place during the inspection.

Faculty members of Baldwin-Wallace College (Berea, Ohio) are in the money again. Bi-ters were recently given bonuses amounting to approximately ten per cent of their yearly salaries.

There is no need for a lot of whangdoodle talk about cigarettes
—just plain common-sense

When you stop to think about your cigarette—what it means to you—here's about the way you look at it—

Smoking a cigarette gives a lot of pleasure—it always has.

People have been smoking and enjoying tobacco in some form or another for over 400 years.

Of course you want a cigarette to be made right. And naturally you want it to be mild. Yet you want it to have the right taste—and plenty of it.

In other words—you want it to Satisfy.

Scientific methods and ripe mild tobaccos make Chesterfield a milder and better-tasting cigarette. We believe you will enjoy them.

ANNUAL OPERA PRODUCED BY UNIVERSITY PLAYERS BEFORE LARGE AUDIENCE

"Ruddigore" Produced at City Hall Last Night

[illegible] and Women's Glee Clubs at [illegible] presented the Gilbert and [illegible], "Ruddigore," at the City Hall auditorium last evening, April 25, before a large audience.

[illegible] is burlesque melodrama [illegible] taken identity opera. It is the story of the baronets of Ruddigore. A curse [illegible] cast a curse upon all the succeeding baronets which compelled them to commit one crime every day or perish miserably.

The story centers around Robin Oakapple, who, after inheriting the title, is compelled by circumstances to inherit the baronetcy with all its responsibilities.

The leading rôle was played by S. P. [illegible] '37 of Maplewood, N. J., a tenor of unusual ability. The duet by Rose, Edith [illegible] of Danvers, Mass., an alto of unusual ability, and Robin was one of the most romantic pieces in the opera.

The men's chorus in act two, where the ghosts of Robin's ancestors descend from their frames and threaten him with death if he does not commit his daily crime, was perhaps one of the most outstanding musical numbers, the title of which is "Painted Emblems of a Race."

"While the Night Wind Howls" was sung by H. T. Bickford '37 of Ridgewood, N. J., as Sir Roderick Murgatroyd. Mr. Bickford is, incidentally, the business manager of the Men's Glee Club.

Another romantic duet was sung by Rose and Richard, played by A. R. Wilcox of Derby. Mr. Wilcox is a senior at the University. He and R. S. Wright, a senior from Burlington, a bass singer, sang a duet in the scene where they attempted to unmask Robin.

The character of Mad Margaret, played by Sheila Long '37 of Winooski, was a scream on stage madness. Miss Long has a clear soprano voice.

The character of Richard, played by A. R. Wilcox, was a satire on the life of a British sailor. His solos in act one, typically nautical tunes and his "Sailor's Hornpipe" was well received.

The chorus of bridesmaids had a harmonious verse at the beginning of the play which was used as the leading motif. The most elaborate verses were those sung by Zorah, played by Mary Perkins '38 of Lyndonville, and Rose played by Augusta Caravatti '37 of Ringgate.

Anne Amsboro, a senior, sang "The Legend of the Witch's Curse" and several other solos. Her ability has also been displayed in previous presentations by the glee choir and glee clubs.

Act one took place in the fishing village of Rederring, Cornwall; act two, in the picture gallery in Ruddigore Castle.

The cast which presented the opera was directed by Mrs. Wilnetta Sproul Tagmanatic director; Mrs. Elizabeth [illegible] vocal coach; and Prof. N. G. [illegible] musical director. Mrs. Isabel [illegible] was in charge of scenery and costumes. The group dances were under the direction of Miss Annis Baldwin.

STATE HIGH SCHOOL PRIZE SPEAKING CONTEST MAY 3

The State High School prize speaking contest will be held under the auspices of the University of Vermont on May 3, 1935, in the Fleming Museum at 8 p.m. The awards are first prize a scholarship to the University, second prize, a $100 scholarship, and third prize a $75 scholarship. Mr. Leon [illegible] is chairman, and the judges are selected from the University faculty.

The contestants and their selections are: Ovid Yandow, Cathedral High, "A God in Israel" by Norman [illegible]; Helen Calcagni, Bellows Free Academy, "The Persian Exile" by Marion Hall; Elaine Waterbury, Burlington High School, "The Fly" by Ella Wheeler Wilcox; Allan Tarte, Proctor High School, "Farmer Hoskins Greene and His Flying Machine" by John Trowbridge; Caroline Garland, High School, "The Pool in Alice in Wonderland," by Lewis Carroll; and Isaac Gardner, Rutland High School, "The Sad Story of a Sausage," anonymous.

All men entering in the swimming meet May 3 must have their required practices in before this date.

AFTER COLLEGE, WHAT?

Recently many representatives have met representatives to interview the seniors and discuss with them the prospects of jobs with their particular companies for next year. With plenty of business people, he knows a change that hasn't materialized here and the time is at hand when a decision regarding various must be reached.

Then comes, what? This is especially true for the seniors, but the juniors-Sophomores too, should begin to think about their future and try to get some idea, however vague, of the kind of work they plan to do.

Many people find themselves at an absolute loss as to how to go at finding a job or even choosing the field in which they would like to work. All the possibilities seem so attractive to them that they are unable to make their choice.

For the benefit of those individuals and also to give those who desire further information about the field they have chosen a chance for questions, a day of vocational guidance has been planned with the cooperation of all the campus organizations. This day will be devoted to short talks and forums on the opportunities in the various fields and there will be ample opportunity for questions and discussions on any problems suggested.

This is your chance to get a great deal of invaluable information and a great deal of assistance in carrying out your plans for the future. Don't pass it!

TO CHRISTOPHER MORLEY

A number of students journeyed last Wednesday night to Middlebury to hear Christopher Morley speak in the crowded chapel.

Entertaining, enlightening, philosophical, inspiring—all could be applied to Christopher Morley's talk. It combined the very practical psychological advice to learn to concentrate with a surprising and poetical description of art. Mr. Morley applied the truths of engineering and science to imagination and creative art. He described a new trend in art—a trend toward "streamlining" and illustrated it in his own lecture.

Mr. Morley, by his very vividity and power, his command over words and ideas, and his inspiration to his entire audience. And his geniality and humor won them to his bigger and broader views of life—the point of view of a "humanist."

It is contact with great minds and with great ideas which makes us grow. Not always can the great minds and the great ideas come to us. Not always can the important speakers come to the University of Vermont.

Sometimes we have to go to them. And those of the students who heard Christopher Morley at Middlebury last Wednesday feel that it was well worth while to leave our campus in search of new contacts.

We are sure that we feel that cooperation between the organizations, especially between the colleges in the state, and visiting amongst them, is a very worthwhile custom to adopt.

[illegible] April 24 Harriet Grass [illegible] of the W. A. A. New enthusiasm is growing in the Council and will be radiated dur[illegible] as the members of W. A. A. will [illegible] representatives.

The meeting was opened with reports [illegible] the various members as to their [illegible] and their plans for performing these [illegible]. Several ideas were suggested [illegible] hiking trips. In the future one [illegible] read on the Y room such posters as [illegible] Hike, bring your blanket [illegible] can't resists sleeping under the stars." Scavenger Flower Hunt—see a daisy, pick it up all the day you'll have good [illegible] or Hot Dog Roast—doggies as [illegible] 'em where you like 'em, out in [illegible] open spaces." It was decided that the Council at large should take [illegible] in getting people out for such events. It won't be hard with such a tempting program. The motion was made that the W. A. A. should send notices to the larger papers letting the world know the grand times that are had in the field of sports here. In this way, Vermont girls' sports becomes a living issue throughout New England to capture the sportswomen's eye.

The point system was thoroughly discussed with the result that the Council agreed to advance the number of credits one point an hour, making three points for outdoor work and two points for indoor exercise. It was also decided that supervised hikes should be allotted more points, the number to be ascertained and posted by the Council before the hike. The class representatives keep track of the points for their respective classes and lists will be posted from time to time so that those who are working for awards may know where they stand.

The Council voted to have a set color for all class numerals, that color to be gold. Managers for baseball and archery were elected with Virginia Riley '38 as archery manager and Francis Bayley '38 baseball manager. Mimeographed copies of the duties of managers and Council members are to be obtained shortly so that there will be no conflict or misunderstanding of duties.

A committee of two, consisting of Marion Hill '38 and Thelma Gardner '37, were appointed to meet with the president for the purpose of revising the constitution.

The suggestion was made and accepted that a scrapbook of women's sports at Vermont should be kept, containing action pictures, newspaper articles, etc. With this meeting the new committee has taken its first step in new duties and their success depends a great deal on the support given them, so lend a hand.

CAT'S MEOW

By Sports' Editor

Despite the fact that Vermont's baseball team has nothing to show for its two months of campaigning but a string of seven discouraging setbacks, experience gained should serve them in good stead in the more important games to come.

In meeting Norwich next Thursday the Cats start their defense of the coveted Green Mountain Conference championship. Victories over Green Mountain rivals should be the ointment to soothe the sores of previous defeats.

The campus statistician has delved into the records and emerged with the information that Eddie Lunk, Vermont "Sultan of Swat," is tied with the renowned Babe Ruth in home runs each having pounded two to date. Who is this guy Ruth?

The frosh nine opens with Montpelier Seminary at Centennial Field saturday. They have been punishing the ball severely in practice and should develop into a fairly good team.

The local net talent is now in the middle of its Connecticut trip. Capt. boys met Connecticut State yesterday Trinity today and will play Wesleyan tomorrow. Lack of outdoor practice has handicapped the team greatly particularly because of its greenness, and too much cannot be expected of them.

The track team also carries the Green and Gold into dual contests Saturday when they meet Colby at Waterville. Mc Coach Eddie DeGarmo looks a strong aggregation on the map strengthened considerably by the addition of sophomore [illegible] Harwood and others [illegible] by the loss of Le [illegible] Capt. Harwood and others.

Expressing again some short comings which the athletic committee of the Student Government should remedy, the Cat suggests that the annual football banquet be held in the spring rather than in the fall. The argument in favor of the spring banquet is that games of the season are fresh in the minds of the players and fans and that the banquet would be held at a time when the football team is not practicing and playing games. Another point which the Cat brings out

Willie Bryant To Furnish Music For Prom, May 17

Willie Bryant and his orchestra, who will appear at Vermont's Junior Prom, have been termed "one of the most up and coming colored bands in the country," by George Simon in his article, "Dance Band Reviews" found in a recent issue of Metronome a musical magazine. Mr Simon rates the leading bands of the country as class A, B or C. The only band to receive an A rating is Hal Kemp, while in class B are found such as Orrin Nelson and Willie Bryant.

Bryant and his orchestra have been playing in the Savoy Ballroom in New York and broadcasting over the NBC network. In its nine months at the Savoy the band has made quite a name for itself. One of the reasons for Bryant's recent improvement is found in the person of Benny Carter, who is famed for his unusual and catchy arrangements. To quote Mr. Simon again, "He has always been one of Bryant's closest friends, and he finally consented to rehearse, arrange for, and play with the band. If Carter makes a half as many arrangements as he has been making and instills his musical ability into Bryant's band, then it just can't help going places.

"The band as it stands now has one of the best rhythm sections in the business. Outstanding is Teddy Wilson, one of the most sought after key-punchers in white and colored circles. William Cole plays enough drums to keep the famed Chick Webb, playing on the opposite stand, swinging all the time. Thompson slaps plenty while Adams whacks out chords in no bashful manner. It's a section that never stops swinging, but it's got the ability to swing both high and low.

"The saxes are a smooth-functioning unit not especially outstanding an ensemble but quite sufficient. Russell plays an individualistic-styled hot tenor with grand rhythm.

"Battle is the outstanding hot man in the brass unit, although much is expected from Houghton, a new addition. Plenty of rehearsing under Carter ought to whip this section into shape.

"On the whole the band functions nicely together, especially so when Bryant is on the stand and lets go on his swinging and kidding."

COLLEGE GIRLS TAKE PART IN BENNETT SHOW

Women's Auxiliary of Mary Fletcher Hospital Puts on "Band Box Review"

College students are to appear in the beach scene of the "Band Box Review" Monday evening at the auditorium. These are: Geraldine Kipp '37, Ellen Hall '37, Martha McGillicuddy '37, Gwynneth Jones '37, Sally Carr '37, Mildred Bartlett '36, Evelyn Churchill '38, Elizabeth Gallup '37, Pauline Bristol '37, Dorothy Oldfield '37, Helen Taylor '37, Josephine Smith '38.

The women's auxiliary of the Mary Fletcher Hospital is planning this event. A fashion show with fifty people in the cast will be the big feature. There will also be five big vaudeville acts featuring college students. This entertainment will last from eight until ten, and from ten until twelve there will be dancing to Sid Caraley's orchestra. The admission will be fifty cents.

Dean Patterson has consented to allow the dormitory girls to take advantage of the dancing, provided they will be in their respective houses by 11 p.m.

In a popularity contest at St. Thomas College (St. Paul, Minn.) the election resulted in a tie for two men, so now there are two "Mr. Tommy's" instead of one.

INDEPENDENTS FORM STRONG ORGANIZATION OF NON-FRATERNITY MEN

Hold Business and Social Meetings Weekly; Plan to Compete for Traynor Trophy

The non-fraternity men on the hill, who recently organized, are now firmly organized into a society under the title of "Vermont Independents." They hold meetings regularly Monday evening in the auditorium of the Fleming Museum. A short business meeting is followed by a rather informal social hour, at which guest speakers speak to the club. At the meeting scheduled for next Monday evening, April 29, a special business meeting will be held, followed by a social hour in charge of D. D. Sternbergh '37.

At the last meeting Professor Dean of the English department gave a talk on humor, illustrating his points very well. At a meeting before that, Professor Evans of the history department discussed the present crisis in Europe.

The club has been active in preparing for the Traynor trophy competition, as well as along social lines.

R. J. LaBelle '37 has formed an Independent baseball team. A drill squad practices daily to enter into competition at the R. O. T. C. Federal Inspection in May. The chairman of the committee in charge of this is R. W. Burghart '37.

A. C. Svigoon '37 is in charge of a float for Junior Week.

A dance, given by the Independents, is being planned. I. A. Lehrer is in charge and plans are forming rapidly.

The Independents is the organization composed of all non-fraternity men on the hill. A drive for members is under way. All non-fraternity men are urged to attend the next meeting, Monday, at seven-thirty.

JUNIOR WEEK PROGRAM PLANNED BY COMMITTEE

With the annual Junior Week festivities a scant three weeks away the committees in charge of the various activities are hard at work on their respective duties.

Chairman of Junior Week [illegible] has announced that Willie Bryant and his orchestra have been engaged for the Prom. Bryant's orchestra is one of the better colored orchestras in the East and is expected to lend plenty color to the occasion.

As usual the Junior Week festivities will open on Thursday with the Junior Week Peerade featuring fraternity and sorority competition in floats. The floats will have as their general theme either the title or a line from the junior play. Thursday evening, in the Strong Theatre, the Junior Week play, "Cock Robin" will be presented.

On Friday evening will occur the feature of the week, the Junior Prom, held in the gymnasium. Hours will be from nine until two. An elaborate decoration scheme is being developed to convert the barren emptiness of the building into a land of gaiety. Refreshments will be served.

Seating will follow the precedent established last year of allowing fraternities to reserve adjacent tables for their members if they desire. The chaperons, as announced by the committee, will be Dean and Mrs. C. E. Braun and Prof. and Mrs. L. S. Rowell.

Saturday evening the fraternities will hold informal dances at their chapter houses as a climax to the week. Further details as to these dances will be announced later.

Also in conjunction with the Junior Week program the home game with Middlebury has been scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

ANNUAL VERMONT MUSIC FESTIVAL TAKES PLACE OVER THIS WEEK-END

Musicians From Throughout Vermont Arrive in Burlington Today to Participate in Event

PROGRAM INCLUDES THREE CONCERTS AND PARADE

Today and tomorrow over two thousand young musicians will come to Burlington to participate in the eighth annual Vermont Music Festival to be given in the Memorial Auditorium under the auspices of the Headmaster's Club and Music Supervisor's Association. High schools from all over the state are sending their glee clubs, orchestras and bands to represent them in this grand music get together.

As usual there will be an all-state orchestra and an all-state chorus composed of the cream of the state's crop picked by the high school supervisors. Each high school director is allowed to send a stated number of singers and players to the all-state groups. The orchestra will consist of 260 pieces and also white-haired Mr. Whittemore of Somerville, Mass., lifts his director's baton all 260 will play their way into the hearts of the audience. Mr. Whittemore's is a welcome presence to all high school musicians. With a laugh, a nod and a few instructions he gains perfect control of 260 strangers. His humor and geniality make him unforgettable.

Mr. Francis Findley from the New England Conservatory of Music will be the glee club conductor. He also has gained friends and admiration while making 700 strange voices respond to his baton.

Tonight there will be a contest for the individual glee clubs with twenty-nine contesting. Saturday morning following a practice for the all-state orchestra there will be a parade with all bands and orchestras participating. Saturday afternoon at one o'clock the individual bands and orchestras will play. Saturday night the all-state orchestra and chorus will perform. Tickets including all three concerts are one dollar. Single admissions are fifty cents or twenty-five cents.

"THE DREAM OF LILACS" CHOSEN FOR LILAC DAY PAGEANT MAY 23 OR 24

Custom of Observing Lilac Day Started With Pearl Wasson First Dean of Women

Lilac Day, the most beautiful tradition of the women of Vermont, had its origin in the cherished plan of the first dean of women, Pearl Randall Wasson. She wished that the beauty of Redstone campus be increased for future generations by a magnificent hedge of lilacs, and that the planting of each lilac might be made a day of festival and of beauty, "giving to the hedge the same softening haze of tradition which surrounds the Commencement ivy on the library."

Each succeeding year since 1915 Lilac Day has grown in perfection and in meaning. At first it was sponsored by an honorary society for senior women called Akraia. Students were elected to this group for outstanding personality, scholarship, loyalty and general service to the college. In 1924 Akraia was installed as a chapter of Mortar Board, the national honorary society for college women. Mortar Board is the highest honor that any girl may achieve, a symbol of past success, a spur to future greatness.

This year the musical element will be especially emphasized. The dances will be accompanied by an orchestra with Professor Bennett in charge.

General practice for Lilac Day has been held for several days. Last week Miss Baldwin divided the participants into several groups with student coaches in charge. They are: Elizabeth Haig '36, Viola Long '37, Edith Maddock '36, and Priscilla Newton '33. Viola Long '37 and Priscilla Newton '33 are the soloists and there will be a duet by Elizabeth Haig '36 and Edith Maddock '36.

Miss Dallas Pollard supervises the dramatic section and the costumes. Chairmen of the committees are: Twink Moore '35, costumes; Madeline Ainsboro '35, music; Sue France '35, pub-

CAST OF "COCK ROBIN" REHEARSE DAILY FOR PRESENTATION MAY 16

"Cock Robin," by Eleanor Rice and Philip Barry, the Junior Week play, is in rehearsal under the direction of Mrs. C. Ives Taggart. This drama will be presented on May 16 at the Strong Theatre.

The story is a play within a play, and the plot centers around a murder which is committed by some member of the Cape Valley Players, which is putting on the production within the play. This type is new to the University players. It opens with a rehearsal in session and continues into the performance. The arrangement of the furniture is novel and decidedly rare; as a consequence the characters are playing to the center, resulting in a very striking effect.

The cast of the play includes: George McAuliffe, the rather sarcastic stage director, is played by R. S. Wright '35; Julian Cleveland, a staid lawyer, M. B. Newman '38; Richard Lane, a handsome young man in love with Carlotta, C. D. Howe '36; Hancock Robinson, a conceited middle-aged man, T. G. Fitzgerald '36; John Jessup, Richard Lane's friend, S. P. Belcher '37; Alice Montgomery, the portly chairman of the amateur players, Eleanor Douglas '37; Carlotta Maxwell, a young, determined woman, Rosemary Cahill '36; Clark Torrance, a good-natured young man, A. R. Wilcox '35; Henry Briggs, the timid stage manager, H. H. Hunt '37; Dr. Edgar Grace, Carlotta's uncle and guardian, R. N. Saxby '37; Maria Scott, efficient young woman, Mildred Rockwood '38; and Mrs. Maxwell, a middle-aged widow, Carlotta's mother, Marion Herberg '36.

The general opinion seems to be that the play is "different—mixes comedy and tragedy most cleverly. There's never a dull moment—and very well handled," to quote a member of the cast.

The costumes are of the eighteenth century, making a decided effect in the picture presented on the stage. The action all takes place during six hours of a single day, on a stage representing an English grog shop.

VERMONT-MIDD DEBATE SCHEDULED TO BE AT MIDDLEBURY MAY 13

The final debate of the season will take place when the men's varsity team goes to Middlebury for the annual Middlebury-Vermont prize debate. The forensic contest is scheduled to take place Monday evening, May 13, having been twice postponed. Vermont will uphold the negative side of the question, "Resolved, that all local public utilities should be municipally owned." This question has not been used by either team in the past. Three prizes will be awarded to the three men showing the greatest proficiency in debate during the contest. The first prize is twenty-five dollars, the second fifteen, and the third ten dollars.

The men who will represent Vermont are Fred Timmerman '37, Ray Greemore '36, and Bill Myers '35, speaking in that order. All three men are experienced forencists, and members of the team that went on the spring trip through the Middle West. The judges for the debate, and those to determine the winners of the prizes have not yet been announced by the Middlebury manager.

At Commencement the winners of the Vermont debating prizes will be announced. A prize of twenty-five dollars is given annually to the man showing the greatest proficiency in debate throughout the year. There is also a fifteen-dollar second prize, and a ten-dollar third prize.

W. G. GRIEVE '38 WINS FIRST PLACE IN KINGSLEY PRIZE SPEAKING CONTEST

H. F. Martell '38 and R. F. Waterman '38 Gain Second and Third Place

W. G. Grieve '38 won first prize of $25 in the Kingsley Prize Speaking Contest held at Fleming Museum, May 1. The second prize of $15 went to H. F. Martell '38, and the third prize of $10 to R. F. Waterman '38.

W. G. Grieve spoke on "Let's Advertise this Hell," by Bruce Barton. The selection was concerning the necessity to advertise against war, an extremely interesting and timely choice.

H. F. Martell's choice was "Message to Garcia," by Elbert Hubbard. The piece showed how hard it is for a business man to find an assistant whom he can trust.

R. F. Waterman gave "Garfield's Reply to Long," by James A. Garfield. It was the latter's extemporaneous speech denouncing Long's suggestion to abandon the Union and form independent state governments.

The chairman was Leon W. Dean, assistant professor of English. The judges were B. Holmes Wallace, associate professor of education; Lloyd A. Woodward, assistant professor of physics and Melvin H. Laatsch, instructor in political science.

Other contestants were: O. J. LaRiviere '37 who spoke on "The Land Where Hatred Expires," by Albert Leon Guerard; W. E. Farnham '38 whose selection was "The Young Lawyer," by F. Charles Hume; F. W. Timmerman '37 who offered "The Perfect Tribute," by Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews, and C. Grombeck, Jr., '38, speaking on "The Masque of the Red Death," by Edgar Allen Poe.

Professor Dean congratulated those taking part upon their apparent preparedness. There was no noticeable hesitancy in any of the selections, which points to many long hours of practice.

INDEPENDENTS TO GIVE DANCE ON MAY 25 IN UNIVERSITY GYMNASIUM

Motion pictures and a discussion on the possibilities of a dance took up a major portion of the meeting of the Vermont Independents' meeting in the Fleming Museum auditorium Monday evening. It was definitely decided that there shall be a dance sponsored by the organization and that it shall be held on the night of the twenty-fifth in the gymnasium; this decision was reached after favorable recommendations by I. A. Lehrer, who is in charge of the affair. Further discussion touched on drill squad progress, possibilities of a peerade float for Junior Week, missed entirely the fact that Independents managed to come out the victors by a score of 3-1 in their first baseball game. The pictures shown were from the film library of the museum and were taken by members of an expedition which crossed Alaskan wilds unarmed, except for cameras and bows and arrows. The program committee promised more movies in the future, including some fine industrial productions, showing step-by-step views of manufacturing processes in a number of American factories. Prominent speakers will also feature future meetings.

All non-fraternity men are invited to attend the next meeting Monday night at 7.30 in the Fleming Museum.

RAND HOUSE NEXT YEAR TO BE FOR FELLOWS

The Rand House which this year has been a cooperative house for a group of women students will be vacant next year. It is the wish that a group of fellows might take over the house under a similar set up. There must be a cooperative program of arrangement regarding the cooking, cleaning, etc., so that all will do an equal share in the most convenient way. It is reported that the women living there this year enjoyed the idea and found the board issue of college expenses greatly reduced.

If any are interested they may get in touch with L. A. Dickinson, 2243-J. If enough respond definite steps will be taken.

Don Byers, Iowa State College (Ames) student, made the college honor roll recently for the ninth consecutive quarter, with a straight "A" average.

DEPUTATION TEAM GOES TO RICHMOND SUNDAY

On Sunday, May 5, a Vermont Christian Association deputation team will journey to Richmond to give a program there. Phyllis Peacock '35, Agnes Jennings '36, F. G. Kinsley '35, and R. H. Bingham P.-G. will make the trip. The subject to be discussed is "Today's Use and Tomorrow's World."

Two other deputations are planned this spring. Deputation teams will visit East Berkshire and Vergennes on the week-end of May 11-12, and another team will go to Milton May 25.

The trip to Milton will probably be the last one this season.

WOMEN'S MASS MEETING TO BE HELD THURSDAY MAY 7 IN GYMNASIUM

Fashion Show Sponsored by Abernethy-Clarkson-Wright Corp. Will Be Feature of Evening

The women's mass meeting will be held May 9 at 7.30 in the gymnasium. The big feature of the evening will be a fashion show sponsored by Abernethy, Clarkson, Wright Corp., with Mr. Crouter in charge. Models, furnished by the store, will model all types of dresses from sports to evening wear. The gym will be appropriately decorated and arranged to accommodate the program. During the dress revue Mary Whitney '36 and her violin will furnish music. Programs, describing each dress modeled and its prices, will be available. This is the second fashion show given at mass meeting.

Wives of the members of the faculty and women of the faculty are to be guests of the women. Attendance of all college women is required. A fine of 25 cents will be charged those who fail to attend. Excuses, however, may be obtained from Madeline Ainsboro '35, president of Student Union.

Refreshments and dancing to Sid Carsley's music will complete the program.

The last mass meeting will be held May 14 in the museum at 7.30 o'clock. This meeting is for the purpose of installation of new officers and new Student Union Council. The dormitory winning the Mortar Board inspection will also be announced.

Another important feature will be health skits, illustrating the principles of good posture. Any two girls may work up a skit illustrating good posture in whatever manner they choose and be eligible for the prize of five dollars which the winning girls will receive.

REV. JAMES GILKEY OF SPRINGFIELD TO CONDUCT BACCALAUREATE SERVICE

The Rev. James Gordon Gilkey of Springfield, Mass., will be the preacher at the baccalaureate service of the University of Vermont Sunday, June 23. Doctor Gilkey is a graduate of Harvard and of Union Theological Seminary, has studied at the Universities of Berlin and Marburg, and in 1925 received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Colgate. Since 1917 he has been pastor of South Church in Springfield.

During his pastorate at Springfield he has directed an elaborate program of institutional church work, has been professor of Biblical literature at Amherst College, and frequently served as college preacher at eastern colleges. He is a trustee of the International Y. M. C. A. College at Springfield, and since 1924 has been president of the Springfield Symphony Orchestra. He is the author of books and other writings in the religious field.

SID CARSLEY'S LAST COLLEGE APPEARANCE

With only Junior Week activities left, the season's social schedule winds up tomorrow night with the last informal college dance of 1934-35. It is the annual Key and Serpent spring dance run as the last official activity of the outgoing Key and Serpent Society, and it will be held in the gym tomorrow evening, May 4.

The music at this dance will be furnished by that ever-risingly popular Sid Carsley and his eleven-piece orchestra. Carsley, who organized his orchestra last year, has become a great favorite among the students this year, as is seen from the large attendance which his orchestra attracts. He has furnished syncopation at most of the big college dances and he promises fairly to become one of the best dance orchestras in New England. He is, at present, considered the finest in Vermont. Throughout the winter months Carsley's services were sought for by such affairs as the Dartmouth spring carnival, where in a music competition he was selected by popular vote as the best, and by the Middlebury spring carnival.

This is Carsley's last appearance at the college this year and he promises a number of feature numbers "for those who are hearing me for the last time to remember me by."

The outgoing Key and Serpent members, who are acting in their last official affair, are W. H. Connor, B. J. Costello, D. D. Davis, E. D. Kane, J. S. Swift, and R. G. Warren.

Since this dance will be the last big college informal of the season, it is expected by those in charge that quite a large crowd will attend. Admission will be $1.10 per couple—dancing to continue from 9 to 12.

The chaperons of the affair are to be Prof. and Mrs. J. A. Bullard and Prof. and Mrs. G. Dykhuizen. W. H. Connor '36 is in charge and with Miss Mary K. Tupper will stand in the receiving line.

COLONEL ROWELL TO LEAVE VERMONT AFTER ONE YEAR OF SERVICE

Military Department Head is Appointed Brigadier General by President Roosevelt

Announcement has been made in Washington that the President has nominated Col. Frank W. Rowell, professor of military science and tactics at the University of Vermont, for promotion to the grade of brigadier-general, to fill the vacancy which will be created on August 31 by the retirement of another officer.

Colonel Rowell will thus leave the University after only a single year as head of his department. His successor here has not yet been selected. He came to Vermont with a long record of participation in activities connected with college military training. Shortly after his return from overseas he was P. M. S. and T. at Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, Ala. This duty was followed by five years as plans and training officer in the office of the chief of infantry where he prepared the R. O. T. C. programs for the entire country. Then he went to Atlanta, Ga., to be in charge of R. O. T. C. affairs in all southern colleges in the Fourth Corps Area. After commanding the 7th Infantry at Vancouver Barracks for two years, he went to Boston where he occupied the post of chief of staff of the First Corps Area just prior to his assignment to Vermont last July.

It is stated that Colonel Rowell will undoubtedly be assigned to other duty upon his actual promotion, although no orders or indications to when or where he will go have been received.

The oldest car on the campus at Ohio State University (Columbus) is a 1913 Ford roadster, with illumination provided by kerosene lamps.

"Cock Robin" by Eleanor Rice and Philip Barry, the Junior Week play, is in rehearsal under the direction of Mr. C. Ives Laggart. The drama will be presented on May 16 at the Strong Theatre.

The story is a play within a play, and the plot centers around a murder which is committed by some member of the Cape Valley Players, which is putting on the production within the play. The type is new to the University players. It opens with a rehearsal in session and continues into the performance. The arrangement of the furniture is novel and decidedly rare; as a consequence the characters are playing to the center, resulting in a very striking effect.

The cast of the play includes: George McAuliffe, the rather sarcastic stage director, is played by R. S. Wright '35. Julian Cleveland, a staid lawyer, M. E. Newman '38; Richard Lane, a handsome young man in love with Carlotta C. D. Howe '36; Hancock Robinson, a conceited middle-aged man, T. G. Fitzgerald '36; John Jessup, Richard Lane's friend, S. P. Belcher '37. Alice Montgomery, the portly chairman of the amateur players, Eleanor Douglas '37; Carlotta Maxwell, a young, determined woman, Rosemary Cahill '36. Clark Torrance, a good-natured young man, A. R. Wilcox '35; Henry Briggs, the timid stage manager, H. H. Hunt '37. Dr. Edgar Grace, Carlotta's uncle and guardian, R. N. Saxby '37; Maria Scott, efficient young woman, Mildred Rockwood '38, and Mrs. Maxwell, a middle aged widow, Carlotta's mother, Marion Herberg '36.

The general opinion seems to be that the play is "different—mixes comedy and tragedy most cleverly. There's never a dull moment—and very well handled," to quote a member of the cast.

The costumes are of the eighteenth century, making a decided effect in the picture presented on the stage. The action all takes place during six hours of a single day, on a stage representing an English grog shop.

VERMONT-MIDD DEBATE SCHEDULED TO BE AT MIDDLEBURY MAY 13

The final debate of the season will take place when the men's varsity team goes to Middlebury for the annual Middlebury-Vermont prize debate. The forensic contest is scheduled to take place Monday evening, May 13, having been twice postponed. Vermont will uphold the negative side of the question "Resolved that all local public utilities should be municipally owned." This question has not been used by either team in the past. Three prizes will be awarded to the three men showing the greatest proficiency in debate during the contest. The first prize is twenty-five dollars, the second fifteen, and the third ten dollars.

The men who will represent Vermont are Fred Tannenman '37, Ray Greenmore '36, and Bill Mayers '35, speaking in this order. All three men are experienced forensists, and members of the team that went on the spring trip through the Middle West. The judges for the debate, and those to determine the winners, as the orators have not yet been announced by the Middlebury manager.

At Commencement the winners of the Vermont debating prizes will be announced. A prize of twenty-five dollars is awarded annually to the man showing the greatest proficiency in debate throughout the year. There is also a fifteen dollar second prize, and a ten-dollar third prize.

W. G. GRIEVE '38 WINS FIRST PLACE IN KINGSLEY PRIZE SPEAKING CONTEST

H. F. Martell '38 and R. F. Waterman '38 Gain Second and Third Place

W. G. Grieve '38 won first place in the Kingsley prize speaking contest held in the Old Mill last night. H. F. Martell '38 and R. F. Waterman '38 gained second and third places respectively.

H. F. Martell's speech was on Mussolini. Grieve's subject was Hitler. R. F. Waterman spoke on Lenin. All three speakers were members of the Liberal Union.

Professor Dean commended those taking part upon their appointed promptness. There was no noticeable hesitancy on any of the selections which points to many long hours of practice.

Editorials

Founder's Day at Vermont is a thing of the past. Only one thing marred the smoothness of the day's events, and that was the weather. And that might have been worse.

Ira Allen Chapel was packed with students and faculty. No matter whether some regretted the interruption of a perfectly good holiday; whether some bemoaned their having to sit through a long session of speeches, whether some would have much preferred to rest up from their adventures of the night before—in spite of all this—we feel the total effect was much more than enough to make up for these personal inconveniences. There is something stirring to the sight and realization of the fact that the entire college is gathered together to a man in singleness of spirit. We heartily commend complete attendance at Founder's Day, as the only full gathering of the school year.

But since the students are required to attend, we advocate giving them something they can reasonably enjoy and appreciate. We believe in short, pointed addresses, and more variety of subject. After three or four years of attending and listening to the praise and deeds of Ira Allen, the subject begins to get exceedingly boring.

We commend the student speakers on their efforts in this direction, and on the evident preparations their talks revealed.

We praise Mr. Bailey's very able and thorough analysis of Ira Allen as the living tradition. We appreciate the noble language and the keen analysis of Allen himself.

However, we hasten to differ with one of the speaker's points. To quote from his address, he said that if Allen were to return to Vermont, "he would find the youth of the land subjected to all sorts of propaganda in the interest of peace, that, if carried into effect, will but weaken our country militarily and morally." Further, he was very insistent that this country never disarm or try to get away from the blessings of strong national defense until other countries have done so. We fail to see how this concerns an eulogy of Ira Allen; we disagree thoroughly with it, possibly in the rôle of the "youth of the land subjected to all sorts of propaganda."

This country is secure, well-nigh impregnable. It could and rightly should be the leader of the nations of the world to a path of reason. Rather than that, the United States disdainfully remains aloof from the League and World Court; appropriations are increased and all preparations go merrily forward for wars.

The speaker further said we must not think for ourselves: "The individual must NOT set his judgment up as superior to the judgment of the nation." In other words, we are to do as we are told by politicians and munition makers; blindly to go into any war that profit makers may dig up. We feel these very young people who are supposed to be "subjected to all sorts of propaganda" are for once realizing that they are the ones who fight; that no war is at all satisfactory in settling disputes; that young people are beginning to think for themselves. Long may they continue to do so!

The CYNIC office in the Old Mill is the center of the editorial work of this paper. It is primarily for the use of the CYNIC staff in its job of getting out an issue. Its equipment: Telephone, typewriters, paper, files, are first of all for use on the paper. The use of them is not denied to other students. However, if those people who use the office are not willing to leave to the CYNIC the things which are the CYNIC's, it is time to put things under lock and key. A typewriter ribbon has been borrowed or confiscated from the office. All we can do is to appeal for its return, asking the borrower if he would particularly desire the same act done to him.

The CYNIC office was renovated and painted during Easter vacation. An effort is being made to preserve a respectable looking room. If any students wish to deposit coats, hats or books somewhere on campus, please find some other place than the CYNIC office—the quarters are too confined as it is.

Politics Parties and Platforms

This is the third in a series of exclusive articles on the programs of the major political parties written by their national chairmen for the CYNIC and the Associated Collegiate Press. The fourth of the series, to appear later, will be written by Norman Thomas, 1932 presidential nominee of the Socialist Party.—Editor's Note.

By HON. HENRY P. FLETCHER

(Chairman, Republican National Committee.)

The young men and women of college age are weighing the two great parties in the balance. The Republican party welcomes the comparison. The historic Democratic party has left its moorings and under the flag of the "New Deal" is sailing out into the sea of socialistic experimentation.

During the past two years it has tried many nostrums and short cuts to cure the depression. As each one fails it tries another, even more reckless. Its motto seems to be "L'audace at encore l'audace." Every student of history knows that policy led France through the depths to the dictatorship of Napoleon.

The planned economy of the Wallaces, Warrens and Tugwells (and the President is responsible for their acts and must approve their public utterances or he would dismiss them) is merely a "New Deal" version of the Marxian philosophy.

No one questions the good intentions and high ideals of the Administration. Catchy phrases, such as the "more abundant life," appeal to the youth of the country who are eager to follow Emerson's advice and "hitch their wagons to the stars." But the workaday world is of the earth, earthy. The multiplication table cannot be repealed or disregarded. One cannot cure economic maladjustments and the dislocations of technology by squandering the nation's patrimony. The economics of scarcity, impractical and absurd in the best of times, is tragic in the face of continuing unemployment and the staggering load of public relief.

All admit that our economic system, which was not seriously challenged until the country was rocked by the world economic crisis in 1929, was abused and offered to corporate wealth and corporate management, to stock-exchange gamblers and parasites in our body politic, vast opportunities for chicanery, criminal greed and corruption. But it should also be recorded that the great bulk of our business men under this system are honest, high-minded citizens who, while making their living or their fortune also made this country great and prosperous. The American economic system should not be condemned because it was betrayed. The American Revolution also had its traitors and profiteers.

The Republican party believes that there is no substitute for work and thrift. It believes the laborer is worthy of his hire and has the right to keep and enjoy the fruits of his labor. It is concerned with the preservation of an economic system which encourages the individual to practice thrift and industry, to create wealth and to use it legitimately for the promotion of the welfare of all the people and the development of the country.

The Republican party recognizes, at the same time, that conditions are constantly changing and that practices and methods must be changed to meet these new conditions. But it believes that the reforms and changes which are needed can and should be made within the framework of our federal Constitution. They should be based upon mature study, taking into account the complexity of our national life as well as the experience of other nations. We believe that true progress can be made only in this way.

The "New Deal" calls itself progressive. It is not progressive. It is radical. There is a difference. Progressivism means progress in that you hold advances made, but radicalism is always followed by a backward swing of the pendulum, so that in the end it is reactionary. However, it must be admitted that radicalism has the attraction of adventure, but it is the adventure which follows a will o' the wisp. The hasty measures of the "New Deal" are leading us farther into the swamp.

The only basis upon which progress and reform can be effected is that of sound political and economic policies. Judged by that standard, the Republican party is progressive. Contradictory though it may sound, it is progressive because it has been conservative, in that it has always sought to conserve what has been proved sound and good out of the experiences of our national existence.

The Republican party is not conserva-

MASS MEETING AND SHOW OF FASHIONS WITH DANCING TO BE HELD THURSDAY

Abernethy Store Shows All Types of Dresses

Something unusual is to be offered at the mass meeting on Thursday, May 9 at the gymnasium. Abernethy, Wright Corp., under Mr. ... direction, will sponsor a fashion ... displaying the latest fashions for ... of persons. The models, furnished by the store, will introduce many ... interesting numbers for all occasions. Programs, describing each dress and its price, will be given to all those present.

The gymnasium will be attractively decorated. During the evening refreshments will be served. Sid Carsley will be present to afford plenty of dance music for those who desire rhythm.

Attendance of all college women is required at this meeting. A fine of twenty-five cents will be charged those who fail to attend. For those who find it necessary to be absent, excuses may be obtained from Madeline Ainsboro '35, president of Student Union.

Wives of the members of the faculty and women of the faculty are to be the guests of the college women for the evening.

On May 14 the last mass meeting will be held. This meeting will take place in the museum rather than in the gymnasium. Seven-thirty o'clock is the time appointed. The purpose of this meeting is the installation of new officers and a new Student Union Council. The dormitory winning the Mortar Board competition contest will also be announced.

Health skits will be given regarding posture, both sitting and standing. A peculiar prize will be awarded to the best skit. All girls are urged to use their originality in presenting amusing and helpful skits.

PROF. CARPENTER HEADS SECTION AT N. E. MEETING

Prof. F. D. Carpenter, head of the German department at the University of Vermont, has been named chairman of the German section of the New England Modern Language Association which meets at Storrs Conn. on May 10 and 11. He will preside at the meetings of the German section.

Holding its thirty-second annual meeting, the New England group will be guest at Connecticut State College. On Friday evening, May 10, the association's yearly banquet will be held, which Professor Carpenter will attend.

LARGEST MUSIC FESTIVAL OF VERMONT IS HELD AT AUDITORIUM MAY 3 AND 4

Lion Club Entertains Over 1,500 High School Musicians in Meeting of Orchestra and Choruses

Record crowds swelled the Memorial Auditorium Friday and Saturday at the largest state music festival ever held. Burlington's accommodations were filled to capacity in housing the 2,000 guests of the Lions Club.

The program opened Friday evening, May 3, with glee club concerts by the individual boys' and girls' glee clubs from the high schools and ten choruses of mixed voices.

Saturday morning Burlington witnessed one of the longest parades ever seen on its streets as the high school bands marched and played down Pearl Street and back to the auditorium in a circuitous route.

The parade was followed by an all state band program on the Edmunds High School lawn at noon.

The afternoon again saw the bands in a program of individual bands and orchestras. Ten bands and sixteen orchestras played selections that made this one of the most pleasing of the festival.

The grand finale came Saturday evening when over a thousand of Vermont musicians united forces under the direction of Francis Findley and Mr. W. Whittemore. Mr. Whittemore led the all-state orchestra of 300 pieces in a program of variety and entertainment. The all-state chorus was composed of 775 voices and gave a well received program under Mr. Findley's direction.

R. O. T. C. BATTALION BEGINS PREPARATION FEDERAL INSPECTION

On Monday, May 6, over 360 students at the University of Vermont began intensive preparation for the annual federal inspection of the University R. O. T. C. battalion. The inspection is scheduled for May 24 and 25, and will be under the direction of Col. Joseph Gohn from the First Corps Area headquarters in Boston. Colonel Gohn was the inspecting officer at last year's investigation.

Drill is to be held every day, beginning Monday and continuing daily until the inspection period. The battalion this year is made up of 178 freshmen, 156 sophomores, 19 seniors and 13 juniors, representatives of the last two classes being enrolled in the advanced course in military science and tactics, and on the government payroll.

MUSEUM PLANS EXCHANGE EXHIBITS WITH EUROPE

Ancient Roman relics and other valuables are to come to the Fleming Museum of the University of Vermont on an exclusive plan with European institutions, Dr. Henry F. Perkins, curator of the Vermont museum, who has just returned from an eight months' sabbatical trip to Europe established contacts with natural history and ethnological museums in England and France and secured the European museum men cordial to the idea of exchange, which is new to them.

Relics of old Roman rule in Britain and France are the chief exhibits which will be exchanged by the Fleming Museum. In exchange it will send to these European and other museums in the American continent other interesting relics, and especially to museums of local interest. All of the exchanges will be permanent.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS SPEND WEEK-END AT TROY CONFERENCE

Twenty Students Attend Branch Convention of American Institute of Electrical Engineers

Twenty students, accompanied by Professor [illegible] of the electrical engineering department, attended the Student Branch Convention of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. The convention was conducted by students of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute where the conventions was held.

The Vermont representatives registered Thursday afternoon shortly after their arrival and were assigned to dormitory rooms there at the Institute. Much of the time Friday was spent visiting and inspecting the General Electric Company's plant at Schenectady, N. Y. Of especial interest were the immense electrical generators now under construction, which are to be installed at Boulder Dam. At noon the Vermont delegation was guest of the Vermont alumni who are employed at the General Electric Company, at a rather informal luncheon held at the Y. M. C. A. building. In the evening Mr. Darling of the General Electric Company gave a very interesting lecture entitled "House of Magic." This was followed by the showing of moving pictures of technical interest.

The Saturday session was opened by a technical session at Sage Hall of R. P. I. At this meeting several papers on engineering research and study were presented by students of the various colleges. Later in the morning an inspection trip of the various engineering laboratories at R. P. I. was conducted with the students of Rensselaer acting as guides. At 12:30 the members of the convention were guests of R. P. I. at a luncheon held at the Russell Sage Dining Hall at which time Prof. W. H. Timbie, vice president of the first district of the A. I. E. E. addressed the Convention. In the afternoon another technical session was held and this was followed by a banquet at the Russell Sage Dining Hall. After the banquet the members were entertained by Mr. Stanley Pierce of Harvard University and electrical expert for the Byrd Antarctic Expedition who gave a very interesting lecture.

The Vermont delegates returned to the campus Sunday afternoon after perhaps a strenuous but most certainly an invaluable and enjoyable week-end.

GIRLS' SPRING TENNIS TOURNAMENT STARTS

Entries Must Be in Tonight, Says Haig; for Intermediate Tourney, Thursday

Entries for the spring cup tennis tournament close tonight, and the tournament will start the end of this week. The preliminaries are to be played off before May 17, the semi-finals during the following week, and the finals at the Spring Field Day on Monday, May 17.

The women have determined, moreover, to hold an intermediate tennis tournament also. Last year there was a great deal of enthusiasm over such a tournament which Frances Rowe '36 won. The closing date for this intermediate tournament is Thursday night.

The weather bureau tennis courts will, when in condition, be available for playing at all times. The Grasscourt and Campus House courts may be used on Monday, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday afternoons, on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 12:30 to 3:00, and from 5:00 to 6:00.

A silver cup rewards the winner of each tournament. Girls may sign up on the "Y" room bulletin board, in the gym office or may give their names to Elizabeth Hoag at the Kappa Alpha Theta House (phone 3081).

There will be a meeting of Bluestockings, Wednesday, May 8, at 7.15 at the Pi Phi house. All members are required to attend.

Everyone likes mystery stories as a change from intellectual novels, likewise mystery plays are a relief from domestic or musical plays. Come out and let us prove our point May 16 at the Strong.

TAFFS OF PROCTOR HIGH WINS STATE CONTEST IN PRIZE SPEAKING

Yandow of Cathedral and Calcagni of St. Albans Also Place

Olav Taffs of Proctor High School, Proctor, Vt. won first place in the finals of the state interscholastic prize speaking contest held in the Fleming Museum Auditorium Friday evening, May 3, under the auspices of the University of Vermont and the Headmasters Club of Vermont. Gerald Yandow of Cathedral High School won second place and Miss Helen Calcagni of Bellows Free Academy, St. Albans, Vt., the judges placed third.

Prof. Leon W. Dean of the University who presided announced that a $150 scholarship would be awarded the winner of first place, $100 scholarship to second place and a $75 scholarship to third place. Each winner however had previously been awarded other scholarships by virtue of divisional contests.

A poem "Darius Green and His Flying Machine" written by John Trowbridge was given by the state winner. It is the story of a boy who wanted to fly like a bird. His hopes and aims brought only pain to him but laughter to his spectators. Olav Taffs' recitation of the poem's swinging lines and his mimicry of the flying man brought much applause from the audience.

"A God in Israel," a story by Norman Duncan in which a man finds mental peace on a trip to the Holy Land, was given by Yandow, second prize winner. Miss Calcagni's selection was "The Pet Lion Twits at the Kindergarten" by Marion Hill. This same selection was given last year by the state champion Miss Ethel Starbird, a freshman at the University.

Other contestants and their selections were: Miss Elaine Wallace, Waterbury High School, "The Honor of the Woods," by W. H. H. Murray; Miss Caroline Carder, Rutland High School, "The Pool of Tears" (from Alice in Wonderland), by Lewis Carroll; and Miss Joyce Gardner, Cabot High School, "The Sin of Steve Audaine," by an anonymous author.

The judges were Profs. Frederick J. Tupper, John T. Metcalf and Julian I. Lindsay of the University. The University orchestra and double quartet entertained during intermission and the time taken for deciding the winners.

PEERADE OF FLOATS OPEN JUNIOR WEEK ACTIVITIES

Junior Week activities start next week with the big Peerade of floats advertising the Spring Play "Cock Robin." The directors of Peerade Theodosia Hoag and H. L. Martin, urged all entries to be in by the end of this week so that directions for position may be given. Monday and Tuesday will take place the Masque and Sandal and Wig and Buskin scrub games. Wednesday is Kappa Alpha Theta and Phi Delta Theta day. Thursday Phi Kappa Alpha and Phi Delta Theta [illegible]. Friday Phi Kappa Sigma and Delta Sigma Phi [illegible]. Saturday Delta Sigma Phi and Delta Phi [illegible].

There will be a meeting of all the Junior Week committees Monday, May 6, at 1.00 o'clock in 3 South College.

RECORD LOW PRICES FOR "COCK ROBIN" SHOWING STRONG THEATER MAY 16

464 Seats at a Quarter—Entire Balcony Included

Peerade for "Cock Robin" starts this week [illegible] a new record for Players' performances and for all performances on the Strong Theatre. In the first place [illegible] the large number of seats—464—put on at the ridiculous rental figure of twenty-five cents—one quarter of a dollar—will be the second place every one of the seats is reserved, from the highest to the lowest.

Here is the schedule of prices and seats: 120 seats at 75 cents, 280 seats at 40 cents, 464 seats at 25 cents.

The entire balcony has been set at twenty-five cents, together with the last five rows on the main floor.

This unprecedented proportion of low-priced seats has been set for several reasons according to the Players. It was felt that never before had a really satisfactory price range been offered patrons because the lowest price was too much for the average college pocket and the highest exceeded the City Hall did not offer enough seats. There was a large [illegible] audience with expenses that becoming complete was better than a good audience with some gaps.

And so the Players have risked serious financial consequences by going to the expense of having the Strong and at the same time setting over half of the seats at a quarter with the top at seventy-five cents and none unreserved. They hope by this and by the selection of an enjoyable mystery to make the Junior Week play the integral part of Junior Week which it used to be. Audiences of 1,000 were not unusual for plays at past Junior Weeks; it was the natural thing which everybody did to go to the play on the evening after the parade. Ladies' day afternoon. It was not unusual to spend well over a thousand dollars on such a production and make money.

Davis hopes that a three-quarter full house will not quite meet expenses. [illegible]

DOUBLE QUARTET SINGS AT STATE PRIZE-SPEAKING CONTEST MAY 3

The double quartet under the direction of Mr. Bennett sang "Hark Hark the Lark" and "Month of May" at the state high school prize speaking contest on Friday, May 3, at 8 p.m. in the Fleming Museum. The members of the company are: Marguerite Perkins '37, Katherine Habbitt '37, Marjorie Jenks '35, Mildred Nutting '38, Margaret Corliss '38, Jean Fuller '37, and Margaret Kane '38.

The double quartet's last appearance was at the glee club concert where they were very well received. Since then all the members have been active in college choral work. The singing of Marguerite Perkins soprano as "Zerlina" in the recent Boddington by Gilbert and Sullivan deserves especial comment. Miss Perkins is a freshman from Londonderry and seems to have already established her name as a songstress. The other girls are members of the glee club and choir which performed at the Founder's Day exercises on May 1.

WARNING!

But for us it is not known as the [illegible] for the interim all is quiet between the excitement of Lemuel's Day and the excitement of Junior Week. This week is we realize with a pang the last real chance we shall have to do any concentrated studying before final examinations, which though they are nearly a month away

[illegible] Junior Week starting the last of next week, with jeerade, [illegible] and Lilac Day to follow on its heels. The term rushes to a precipitous end and so does the last issue of the Cynic. Dramatic Club holds its last meeting today and Thursday tomorrow. Editors are working busily on fresh news and features and copy is rapidly being completed for freshman edition.

Now does that spring is in the air. Athletics are popular; Vermont is winning. Not only are [illegible] track, and tennis [illegible] by large crowds of enthusiastic fans, but enthusiasts are found at all the lesser sports, golf, baseball, canoeing through woods and even [illegible] and even daring to dip into the icy waters of Lake Champlain.

A warning in this editorial is unnecessary to all students [illegible] and play caught up with, all studies during this busy time of will be [illegible]. That is why we are writing an editorial ahead of time. For it will be too late if we start now and can celebrate Junior Week and the completion of the school year with a feeling of assurance and not of worriedness.

JUNIOR READING REPORTS

It is a fact as the professors [illegible] delay until the last moment before handing in Junior Reading Reports. However much we as individuals do not mind those delightful sessions of feverish writing on the last day before reports are due, should we not consider a little these professors who have prepared so much in order to complete our reports and who will have to pass the periods of reading and correcting hundreds of papers during the rush of the last weeks of college when they are [illegible] as well with examination papers which they confess to enjoy [illegible] we and with plans for Commencement.

So here's for a bit of that feverish writing a few weeks ahead of exam time's feverish studying!

Politics Parties and Platforms

By Norman Thomas and Harold P. Laski

Two great alternatives confront the American student today: an economy planned by and in the interests of the financial and industrial rulers of the United States or an economy planned by and in the interests of the great masses of workers. The first represents the extremities of fascism; the second that of socialism.

Under the first the existing property and profit system is retained and strengthened. Huge sections of the population are relegated to a bare subsistence wage with the State hence-forth shedding a few social services. Under the second, the existing system of private property is shattered. Ownership reverts to the great masses of people; and standards of living rise as quickly as our economic machine can be geared to its highest productive capacity.

One thing is certain, however, that the modern machine economy and modern finance with their maze of interrelationships and interdependences cannot be left to the hazards of such outgrown laws as "supply and demand" and the "incentive of profits" in order to supply our material wants efficiently and continuously. Everyone conservative or radical recognizes the need for regulation and plan; the dominant question today is by whom and in the interests of whose class.

The NRA is an attempt to introduce plan and regulation into the American economic system. Because of the insistence of the Roosevelt Administration that the system of profits and private ownership is not to be impaired, the NRA has actually brought us close to a fascist form of economy. It has done this primarily through the various codes and code authorities. Theoretically the authorities are supposed to be the focus of three pressures—owners, consumers, workers.

They are supposed to regulate production, quotas, prices, wages and working conditions. Through the interplay of these three pressures it was assumed that the community would receive a square deal. Unfortunately, the Consumers Board has been no more than a shadowy ghost right from its very beginning. Still the rulers of industry and finance have effectively sabotaged all attempts to make labor a strong bargaining force through Section 7A.

So that whatever its intentions may have been, the Roosevelt administration has merely concentrated economic power in the hands of the few instead of dissipating it. Production and prices are being regulated, but primarily from the point of view of the greatest profits. NRA minimum wages are tending to become maximum. Profit and interest rates are tending toward stabilization at extremely high levels.

With the destruction of trade union independence either by the victory of company unionism or by a government-fostered compromise in the form of government-sponsored works councils, we will have all the important characteristics of a fascist economy. It was so recognized by a visiting Italian journalist who called on us recently. It may not seem like what is ordinarily known as fascism, because the Roosevelt Administration is filled with liberals who believe in civil liberties, but in the struggle of labor against regimentation, these civil rights may be withdrawn. That is already the tendency in the state legislatures as well as in the Congress as represented by the Dickstein Committee. The Administration is now seriously considering the deportation of John Strachey. Indeed, as we write, so rapid is the growth of restriction that we are almost back to the tyranny of 1917-21.

So fast as no attack is made upon private ownership and accumulated wealth, all attempts by well-meaning liberals in Washington to get a break for labor and the consumer will be thwarted by the power of money. An attack upon unemployment and poverty has got to be an attack upon the private ownership of industry and credit. Such an attack will not be made by a party which wants to preserve the profit system. Such an attack will not be made by any party which does not know what and whom it represents. It will only be made by a party representing objects and demands of the overwhelming majority of our population, in other words, the numerous minority of the American people. Such a party will say we want a society planned by the workers and in the interest of the workers.

Between the regimentation of poverty and the regimentation of abundance the student must make his choice. The share-cropper, the unemployed worker, the industrial and farm laborer has no difficulty in perceiving where his intereests lie. For the college student the choice he should make is not so obvious.

There are three major considerations which should govern the student's decision with whom he should line up: his prospects for employment under capitalism, his fate and lot as a creative worker under capitalism; the certainty of war under any capitalistic government. Let us take these up in turn.

(1) Employment: The Hoover Committee on the Costs of Medical Care stated two things bluntly—that the general public was not receiving adequate medical care because it could not afford it; that the majority of doctors were not making a livelihood. It further indicated that there is not a glut of physicians by any manner of means, but an underconsumption of medical services because of lack of purchasing power. This same analysis holds good for every professional worker and artist. The extent of illiteracy demonstrates the great need for teachers, yet there are unemployed teachers. The building of schools, houses, libraries, bridges, dams, roads is needed all over the country, yet there are scores of unemployed architects, engineers and technicians of every character. Unemployment is the fate that awaits many students under capitalism.

(2) But suppose he does get a job. Then he discovers that, if he is a journalist or a teacher, he cannot speak or write the truth, but must express the viewpoint of the dominant class. If he is an architect or engineer, he will discover that not technical consideration or those of health and comfort must govern his drafts and construction, but the dictates of profit. Every profession and art under capitalism is blighted by the green stain of profits.

And finally the student must realize that if he chooses capitalist society, he is choosing war. For capitalist nations beget surpluses which must be sold abroad. The United States now is engaged in a bitter economic struggle with Japan for the potentially huge Chinese market. So bitter is this struggle and so likely is it to end in war, that capitalist America is ready to ally even with Soviet Russia in the coming war against Japan.

How else shall we interpret the Roosevelt military budgets, the provocative maneuvers in the Pacific, the establishment of air bases in the Pacific, but as preparations for that war with Japan? Only the adaptation of production to consumption within our country will obviate the need for such an imperialist war. But such an adaptation is possible only under socialism.

Unemployment, war, perverted professional careers are the lot of students if the two capitalist parties continue in power. Abundance and the good life are the lot of students in a society democratically run by workers, consumers and technicians.

Today the issue is clearer than it has ever been. The student cannot stall. He must align himself immediately, on his own campus with the Student League for Industrial Democracy which is dedicated to a new social order in which economy will be for use and not for profit. In politics the student must throw in his lot not with the parties of a disintegrating capitalism, not with the demagogues who, perhaps unconsciously, are the earlier Mussolini and Hitler in their appeal not so much to workers as to racketeering owners, but with those who are building the Cooperative Commonwealth based on planned production for use, not profit.

That is the Socialist Appeal.

WAR AND RUMORS OF WAR AS CALLED UP BY ANGELL'S BOOK ON PEACE AND MEN

By Lewis Chamberlain

With Hitler taking the bit between his teeth, and with France, England and Russia all showing visible signs of perturbation (although Ernst Henri told them a year ago what was coming, and others, including Gen. Tasker Bliss, uttered a premonitory "I told you so" the day after Versailles), it may not be the precise moment to be flippant about war and the rumors of war. Yet Sir Norman Angell's "Peace and the Plain Man" (Harper, $2.50) invites flippant treatment. Rhetorically speaking, the book is positively brilliant.

But, as I read, I was haunted continually by Lawrence Dennis' epigram: "While the free traders were winning all the arguments, the protectionists were winning all the elections." Sir Norman wins all the arguments, but his opponents simply won't come around of evenings to the Oxford Union. Which leaves Sir Norman in the plaintive position of one crying: "If only the world were intelligent, it would listen to me." Which is true.

If you want to refute the militarist who sits next to you at the dinner table, Sir Norman can help you. With Sir Norman's aid, I can imagine a conversation running along in this fashion.

General Smirkontheface: "But, my dear man, war is inevitable."

NATION'S COLLEGES ARE TURNING OUT "SOFTIES"

Kansas City, Mo.—Too many of the nation's colleges are turning out "softies" and a "soft world," John Erskine, professor of English at Columbia University, New York City, asserted here recently in an interview.

"I never want my students to be accepted by any college that panders to the boys," he declared. "A young fellow gets a lot mixed up of his own importance, is put on and 'Aww, hurrying the dear' comes to bat him out and everything. That's typical. Every time a student tells there is someone to look him up and stand him off."

On the question of communism in colleges, Dr. Erskine declared city colleges are crowding bad ones [illegible] the tendency to "soft soled" [illegible] in a humorous way.

Vermont Teams Win 5 Lose 1 Over Week-end

Ball Team Beats Norwich 12-4 And Williams 2-0

Schwartz Downs Horsemen With Eight Scattered Hits, While Kirley Allows But Four Hits Against Williams

[illegible] Vermont checked back its jinx to defeat a Williams nine Saturday, May 4 at Centennial Field by a score of 2-0. Because of the cold and a strong wind there was not much of a crowd on specta[illegible] to witness a wonderful pitchers' duel between Kirley on the mound for Vermont, allowed four scattered hits, struck out seven men and walked only one. Sheehan of Williams allowed six hits, struck out one man and walked but one. There was good fielding through the whole game with a total of three errors made. One of the high lights of the game was a beautiful one-hand catch [illegible] Bobby Burns drew for.

In the second stanza it seemed that Williams would score when Hapgood sent one into right field for a three-base hit. He was caught by Hart as he tried to steal for a home run. Not once after this inning was Williams in a position to score.

[illegible] was very much under control by Sheehan who decided it would be better to walk him than run the risk of four trips to the plate. Eddie did however connect with one for a single.

The best chance the game was made by Hapgood who gained first on an error and was sent to second when Funk [illegible] it was sent home on a fielder's choice by Ape Williams. The second run of the game was scored by Negus who advanced for Hart at the eighth. Hart was sent to first on a free ticket he was advanced to second when Werner was also walked. Ramon and Palmer who were up in that order sacrificed out driving in Hallman.

Another meeting after the social will be held around May 20.

TENNIS TEAM LOSES TO CLARKSON AND WINS FROM ST. LAWRENCE

The Catamount tennis team on their recent last week-end to the northern part of New York first met their first match to Clarkson at Potsdam and then journeyed to Canton to take over the highly touted St. Lawrence netsters. In the match against the Engineers the conditions for tennis were the worst encountered this year. The day was dark and so cold that the boys played in heavy jackets and sweaters besides wearing gloves. Added to this was the fact that the matches were played on hard surfaces which were unfamiliar to the boys. Max Harris was the only man to win his match as he defeated Butterworth, 7-5, 1-6, 6-3.

SUMMARY

Martin (C.) defeated Costello (V.), 6-0, 6-3.

Harris (V.) defeated Butterworth (C.), 7-5, 1-6, 6-3.

Donohee (C.) defeated J. Swift (V.), 6-2, 6-4.

Kettles (C.) defeated H. Swift (V.), 6-3, 0-6, 6-2.

Martin and Cain (C.) defeated Costello and Harris (V.), 6-2, 6-3.

Donohee and Kettles (C.) defeated Swift and Swift (V.), 6-2, 6-0.

In the St. Lawrence match the boys got a better break on the weather as it was fairly warm in spite of a high wind, so were able to come through with a 5-1 win. Ellis Swift was the only loser and he extended Evans to three sets.

SUMMARY

Costello (V.) defeated Donaghy (St. L.), 6-3, 6-3.

Harris (V.) defeated Smith (St. L.), 6-3, 6-4.

Evans (St. L.) defeated J. Swift (V.), 6-3, 2-6, 7-5.

H. Swift (V.) defeated Barns (St. L.), 6-2, 2-6, 6-2.

Costello and Harris (V.) defeated Hazzard and Donaghy (St. L.), 6-3, 6-0.

Swift and Swift (V.) defeated Smith and Evans (St. L.), 6-4, 6-2.

CAT'S MEOW

By Sports' Editor

The old dope bucket certainly got a lot of upsetting over the last week-end as the Catamount teams all enjoyed that surprising phenomena of all winning on the same day. Perhaps the most spectacular and outstanding was the baseball team's win over Williams. The visitors, having previously defeated Middlebury 2-1, were expected to take over Vermont but the boys wearing the Green and Gold certainly played beautiful ball behind the effortless pitching of Stretch Kirley and had it all over the Purple.

Archie Post's heart was gladdened to see his boys come through so handily even though the wind was so bad that it made any times or distance of better than average, impossible. Rollie Delcusse went on his quiet way winning points all over the place and kept the St. Lawrence fans in constant wonder as he moved from one event to another to win or place in each.

Herb Trudeau had a little tough luck in the high jump as the event was held soon after the hurdles, which took so much from his legs that he couldn't get much over 5 feet, 3 inches, which is bush league stuff for Herb.

The tennis team did very well in taking over St. Lawrence and probably would have fared better against Clarkson had it been warmer. The boys have won two and lost three now and with seven contests left to play, expect to at least break even.

Russ Sunderland seems to be taking that whole trash baseball team on his shoulders if Saturday's game is any evidence. He pitched and hit the frosh to another win over Montpelier Seminary in easy fashion. Should be a little varsity material there.

FRESHMAN BALL TEAM WIN TWO GAMES MAKING IT THREE STRAIGHT

Beat Green Mountain Jr. College 12-5 and Montpelier Seminary 8-1—Budzyna and Sunderland Display Great Pitching Form

The Vermont Freshman baseball nine amassed an insurmountable total of nine runs in the very first inning of their game with Green Mountain Junior College and breezed home to an easy 12-5 victory, behind the pitching of Bud Budzyna. The game, which was played on Thursday, May 2, at Centennial Field, was the second victory in as many starts for the Frosh.

Red Smith started the day's proceedings when he received a free pass. Next, Goodrich and Budzyna both walked, Sunderland reached first on an error, then Bisson struck out. Robinson singled to renew the attack. Juskiewicz and Grazier walked, then Van Dyck singled again. Smith fled to the outfield for the second out, but Goodrich singled sharply to right as Budzyna stepped up to hoist a tremendous drive into left, being thrown out at the plate, as he tried to stretch the triple into a home run.

At this juncture, Green Mountain called on Dick Ordway, center fielder, to take up the pitching burden, and he was successful in holding down the Frosh to three more markers during the rest of the game.

Budzyna was touched for eleven safeties, for five runs, during the seven innings, but had the situation well in hand at all times, working easily behind his first inning advantage.

The game was called at the end of the seventh inning because of darkness and cold.

TRACK TEAM WINS OVERWHELMING VICTORY FRO ST. LAWRENCE 84 TO 4

The University of Vermont [illegible] team won an overwhelming [illegible] St. Lawrence by a score of [illegible] meet was held in Canton, N. Y. [illegible] day, May 4. The condition of [illegible] was very poor and there was [illegible] blowing, which accounts [illegible] times in many of the events.

Vermont took firsts in all [illegible] events and took all three places in the 440, 220 and broad jump.

Herbie Trudeau and Captain [illegible] each contributing 13 points. Trudeau, the high hurdles, took a second in the 220 and a first in the high hurdles. Defausse won the 100 with comparative ease, took a third in the 220, second in the javelin and second in the broad jump.

Lehrer seems to have found himself again, as he ran a beautiful race. The time, 4.49⅘, is considered very fast for such a slow track. Bill Funk was but few yards behind Lehrer and did very well in this event.

MacMillan tied with White and Cass for first in the 440, and then won first in the broad jump to add 4 points to the team's total.

Cass raced to a victory in the 220, placed directly behind Delcusse to take second in the 100, while Symes [illegible] tured his specialty, the 220 low hurdles and placed second in the high hurdles.

Woodruff won the two mile [illegible] over a half a lap, and Jenks placed to give Vermont 6 points in the event. Jenks ran very well considering he had run a fast mile earlier in the day. Collins threw the javelin 147 feet, 7 inches to capture first place and with the first places Vermont made [illegible] events.

SPECIAL DEGREE IS GIVEN EXCEPTIONAL STUDENTS

Pennington, Pa.—Students at the University of Pennsylvania will receive exceptional recognition as a particular honor, not by getting a special kind of a degree as a result of a vote taken by the university trustees following a recommendation by the college faculty.

According to Dr. Paul H. Musser, dean of the college, the faculty recommended and also to the belief that it would prove a promotional value to those who plan to pursue graduate study to a certain field, as an ultimate object of engaging in some type of research work.

While working for the new degree, students will be able to specialize to a limited extent during their undergraduate years and at the same time there will be no change in the general broad program of liberal education to which the college is committed.

Everything that Science really knows about making cigarettes is used in making CHESTERFIELDS

LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

The cigarette industry could never have been what it is except for these modern cigarette machines . . .

They make good cigarettes and smokers know each individual cigarette receives the most careful inspection.

You'd hardly believe such attention to detail possible unless you could see it with your own eyes.

When the Chesterfield tobacco comes to the cigarette making machines it has been blended and cross-blended.

Then it is cut into long even shreds just the right size to smoke right and burn right.

Every Chesterfield Cigarette has to be perfectly made to get by our inspectors.

Until you open the package yourself the cigarettes are scarcely touched by human hands.

Mild ripe tobaccos, skilled workers and the most modern up-to-date machinery all help to make Chesterfield the cigarette that's milder, the cigarette that tastes better.

Junior Promenade Gives Cynic Short Autobiographical Sketch

By B A S '38

University of Vermont:

Acknowledging your kind invitation for Friday, May 17, in order that you may make your entertainment with understanding, I have prepared the following autobiographical sketch concerning myself. I trust it is complete in every particular and will afford you the opportunity of becoming more intimately informed of my activities.

My life in full, is Junior Promenade, but my closest friends call me "The Preem," much as Mr. Carnera's heroic public is to Preem." My family is a family of wide-flung habitat; at the present time my father, Senior Promenade, is enjoying immense popularity, while he sometimes operates incognito as Senior Ball. My education has not been neglected; I have attended practically every college in existence, and am therefore, a cosmopolitan and rather sophisticated appearance, although I must admit that it is a bit difficult to coax me into my best mood. I am inclined to have loose ends, so to speak, and it requires a strong and unyielding hand to govern me. To counterbalance this, however, I have a very subtle charm. My smile, a delightful air of mystery, is enhanced by a peculiar leaning of mine toward disguises of varied descriptions. These false faces and strange costumes aid me to attract and this year I think I have discovered the most suitable outfit for my personality.

I shall be attired in a new spring suit of a smart cream color, with accessories of gay and startling colors giving an effect splashy appearance. The motif is Lindbean; the designs from the Boston Museum of Art are most authentic. My color, Miss Pat White, has analyzed my best structural points, and sought to accent them. Miss White states that although it has been a most arduous task to bring out all the most authoritative points and accomplish them as a whole, it is gratifying to realize that never before has the idea been used to her knowledge.

I've been having trouble with my eyes lately, too many bright lights. As a consequence I have to wear smoked glasses of varying degrees of density. Sometimes I am forced to wear colored glasses and strange lenses which with each one change the entire aspect of things. This feature produces strange shadow effects which are very new to me. At times my eyes give out entirely, and I have to rest quietly untroubled, except perhaps by some soft soothing music.

My taste in music is of the ideal college student this year my choice is Willie Bryant a gentleman of considerable renown as an orchestra leader. Right at present Mr. Bryant is performing at the Paramount Theatre in New York for about two weeks. From there he will proceed to other theatres in New York and then I have the extreme pleasure of announcing that he has promised to accompany me on my journey to Vermont. After that he has engagements in Boston and New York. My manager, J. M. Bellows '36 will no doubt be present to arrange the proceedings. I think it is a nice idea that I present the guests with the customary little booklets showing in outline form my program, along with these I am giving favors to the ladies as a special token of my esteem. To humor the more practical souls, I shall provide refreshments that they may carry on with renewed vigor.

I will be with you on the seventeenth arriving around 9 p.m. and although I am sorry to make such a brief sojourn in Burlington, I am afraid I will have to leave around 2 a.m. on the eighteenth. I am greatly indebted to Mr. James F. Crane '36 for his magnanimity in asking me to be present, and also to the rest of the hosts and hostesses: Miss Natalie Ferrin '37, Prof. and Mrs. Lyman Rowell and Dr. and Mrs. Charles Brown.

Until then.

Yours very sincerely,

JUNIOR PROMENADE.

MASS MEETING FOR WOMEN FEATURES BIG FASHION SHOW

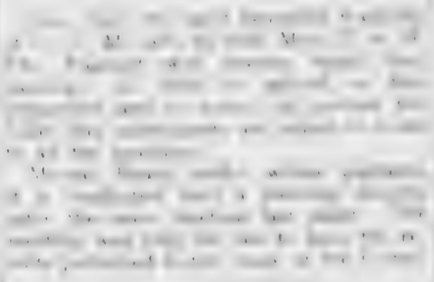
Women Members of the Faculty and Wives of Faculty Members Guests at Abernethy's Entertainment

[illegible] women members and guests of the faculty were entertained by the University women at Women's Mass Meeting, held in the Commons on Thursday evening, May 9. The special attraction was a fashion show sponsored by Abernethy-Clarkson Wright Inc. under the direction of Mr. A. L. Crandall.

The Gym was appropriately decorated and arranged to accommodate the fashion show with a stage and a runway extending from the front. The audience sat grouped around the stage and aisle.

Six models introduced by Abernethy-Clarkson Wright Inc. modelled eight different types of wearing apparel. The six modelled in groups, one type of costume each model showing a different style. The types modelled were lingerie and under garments, sports sweater and jacket combinations, knitted dresses, afternoon dresses, tea gowns and evening dresses. While the models displayed the dresses, Miss Wright of Abernethy-Clarkson Wright Inc. described each dress modelled and gave its purchase price.

Mary Whitney '36 furnished violin music accompanied by Shirley Barrow '37 at the piano during the modelling. During the five minute intervals between the modellings the girls sang college songs. Harriet Gates '36 presented the new W. A. A. awards. Everyone who received their numerals were Dorothy Adams, Edith Anderson, Evelyn Bates, Frances Bayley, Jean Cunningham, Phyllis Craig, Marion Hill, Barbara Rossin, and Ruth Perkins. Elizabeth Dawson '36 and Dorothy Oldfield '36 received their U. V. M.



The members of student Council and the women at the University are very grateful to Abernethy-Clarkson Wright Inc. for their interest in the college and appreciate the showing of the fashion shows. The charming model that was with the college girl should wear.

Refreshments were served during the evening and Sid Carsley furnished music for dancing.

The last Women's Mass Meeting will be held May 14 at 7:30 o'clock in the Fleming Museum. The purpose of this meeting is installation of next year's and the new Student Union Council. The chief justice, Elizabeth Rich '35 will preside. The retiring president, Madeleine Appleton '35 and the new president will be speakers at the meeting.

The decorations among the Women's Board inspections contest will be announced and healthy, [illegible] posture will be given. A five dollar prize will be awarded the best skit. All girls are urged to use their originality in presenting stunting and helped skits.

TO MRS. TAGGART

The Junior Week play, "Cock Robin," a big mystery thriller; [illegible] was "Rudder." Most of us went to one or the other of these past productions and are looking forward to "Cock Robin" with great anticipation. We are quite sure that we will welcome these productions the great amount of work that they entail. The success of these productions is due to the untiring efforts of our coach, Mrs. Waldetta Sproul Taggart.

For the past few years she has given an enormous amount of her valuable time and talent to the dramatic productions of the University Players. It is a big effort, we may say, to produce these plays and we are sure that these plays may [illegible].

In Cynic readers, we suggest that we thank Mrs. Taggart for her splendid work and wish her every success with her future productions.

We sincerely hope that the student body will turn out in full force Thursday night when "Cock Robin" is presented to show Mrs. Taggart that the students appreciate what she has done and is doing for the college.

HUEY REFUSES TO PAY FOR STUDENT'S CALL

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

[illegible] Senator Huey Long must [illegible] threatening the world, but a group [illegible] engineering men at the University of [illegible] recently discovered his plan [illegible] include sharing the cost of telephone [illegible] concerning the Kingfish's plan for saving America's economic [illegible].

The test ended in a hall session in their fraternity house, when the Alabama students refused to call Senator Long on the telephone to straighten out an argument about the success and demerits of his ideas. [illegible] was just enough but one of the Alabama students refused to call the senator on the phone when asked if the Louisiana boss would pay for the call.

Questioned by the lieutenant as to the reason for asking Long to pay the bill the Alabama student retorted: "Why we thought most of Huey believed in sharing the wealth, he wouldn't mind. Sharing our cost."

After you've seen the Pocrade you'll want to see the play, so get your tickets early.

THE AMERICAN PRESS—NEEDED BUT ANEMIC

The American Society of Newspaper Editors

[illegible] the name of the author [illegible] I propose to say duty is to [illegible] although not your duty to listen, I would divide the situation with which we are confronted into three fundamentals [illegible]. These are the political, the economic, the social.

In the political field we still have the two party system. I believe that two strong parties should be maintained that we should not break down into a confusing mess of blocs. It is well to have one party in and one out—the one out to watch the one in, and in time, for the better health of the nation, to change places with it. I believe it is well for newspapers to foster and preserve this system. It makes for substantiality in political action. Before venturing into prophecy—always dangerous—let me venture more safely into history.

The Democratic party grew out of a letter written by Thomas Jefferson in the second term of George Washington. In it he set forth his philosophy of government and human rights.

The Republican party was born out of the moral issue of slavery. When they were both well under way, they were differentiated by three distinct issues. The Democratic party stood for states' rights and a weak federal government.

It stood for the retention of slavery as an economic necessity and it stood for free trade. The Republican party adhered to the theory of few states' rights and a strong central government. It stood for the limitation and finally the abolition of slavery and it believed in a high protective tariff.

What has happened? The states' rights issue in the old sense has practically disappeared. The slavery issue has disappeared. Both parties are high tariff parties.

And now daring to tread into prophecy, I believe that the time has come for realignment. The coming generation will not stand for meaningless minor parties. The day will come when they will mean something. Even the names may be changed—to the Liberal and the Conservative. The Liberal party will attract those who believe in an increasing measure of government participation in business and human affairs. To it will come those who believe in paternalism, in the experiments of state socialism. To the Conservative party will come those who believe in the traditional form of American political and economic action. They will think well of the constitution. They will respect tradition. They will look before they leap. They will believe in the preservation of the rights of individual initiative in business.

With this new alignment, newspapers are going to be called upon for a high quality of leadership, for the most intelligent interpretation of men and measures.

Moving now into the field of economics, taking a very long look, I am not too greatly disturbed by the economic state of the nation. With a mere fraction of the world's population, we produce 40 per cent of its minerals. We produce 49 per cent of the shoes on the feet of the world; cut 52 per cent of its timber; make 34 per cent of its iron; 64 per cent of its steel; produce 60 per cent of its petroleum; 70 per cent of its agricultural products and 90 per cent of its automobiles.

We could set all Germany down in the State of Texas with enough room left over for the State of Ohio. And with a little irrigation, the 65,000,000 of Germany could live better than they do now. Italy is the size of California. And today the 42,000,000 of the Italians could live as Californians on a higher scale than they do in Italy where once Mussolini the trains run on time. We have room for long range optimism, even for short range pessimism. We do well to remember our resources.

We have never suffered from overproduction, but from unfair distribution. I have said that the amazing machine age is devised the most amazing machine the production the world ever knew will surely devise a plan for more equitable distribution.

Never before has it been so urgent the duty of newspapers with the every ordinary machinery for reporting into the lives and hearts and minds of people to read their way through to constructive suggestions to men in public office. Personally I do not believe that dead wood should be carried at the high prices and longer. I do not believe that any nation in the history of the world ever kept its budget deliberately unbalanced, ever spent vastly more than it took in, and kept eventually

DATE BUREAUS PRAISED BY RELIGIOUS DIRECTOR

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Cedar Falls, Iowa.—"Dating—a social experience and one of the most important opportunities of college life." That's the definition given to the popular collegiate activity by Dr. Harold Bosley, director of religious activities at Iowa State Teachers College.

Outlining the reasons for dating, Doctor Bosley declared students date because it is a social habit, and because of a desire for companionship.

"Dating bureaus are psychologically sound, although we may laugh at them," Doctor Bosley said. "Dating bureaus give students an opportunity for social experiences which they might not get otherwise."

We had to move to the Strong fro mthe City Hall to take care of the crowds.

In making these tests, 6336 meaningless syllables are spoken—while observers record what they hear. Comparison of sounds actually spoken with those heard shows how well the new apparatus reproduces the many sounds of which speech is composed.

Such thoroughness is typical of Bell System methods. Years of inventing, improving and testing have led to the apparatus which transmits your words so clearly.

SPEAKERS CHOSEN FOR VOCATIONAL DAY TO BE AT MUSEUM TOMORROW

Miss Maddock to Lead Panel Discussion to Be Held at Grassmount in Evening

QUESTION PERIOD AFTER FOUR O'CLOCK SPEECHES

speakers have been chosen and completed for the Vocational Day, to be held on the afternoon and evening of Wednesday, May 15. talks will be given by the following women, who are experienced and successful in their chosen fields, on Wednesday at 4 p.m. in the Fleming Museum room:

Education and Vocations, Miss Maddock
Social Service, Miss Clifford
Libraries, Miss Williams
Recreational Field, Miss Wetherell
Qualifications necessary for work in the home, Mrs. Cummings

These women will review briefly their respective fields, after which an opportunity will be given to all present to find out more details about the vocations in the discussion groups.

The evening meeting will consist of a panel discussion, to be held at 7.30 at Grassmount. The purpose of this discussion is to bring out informally the opportunities that are open for women in the various vocational fields and to suggest methods by which training may be gained and positions secured. It is hoped that the discussion will be so interesting that the audience will wish to offer their ideas. The "panel" will be composed of the afternoon speakers, together with a few other women who will contribute additional points of view.

The Vocational Guidance Day has been especially planned around the most popular vocational interests of our college women. All the women students and faculty are most cordially invited to attend the afternoon and evening meetings and to participate in the discussions.

Junior Week is here. "Cock Robin" will be at the Strong, Thursday night. Come and see him murdered and see if you can solve the great mystery.

MISS TAYLOR ANNOUNCES "DREAM OF LILACS" CAST

Lilac Day Preparations Well Under Way; Dancing Features Pageant

Preparations for Lilac Day are well under way. The cast of characters in "The Dream of the Lilacs" was announced Friday, May 10, by Barbara Taylor '35. It is as follows:

The White Lilac	Helen Mosher
Goddess of Truth	Elizabeth Kent
Queen of Winter	Helen Mount
Queen of Spring	Susan Pearce
Rain Queen	Ruth Lawton
Sun Queen	Barbara Taylor
Hope	Madeleine Ambert
Purple Lilac	Caroline Hall

The prologue will be delivered by Mary Casey '35.

A brief synopsis of the pageant follows:

The White Lilac, symbol of purity, falls asleep, and in her dream she sees her sister, the Purple Lilac, who symbolizes beauty. Upon awaking the dream fades and she is unable to hold her sister, but she resolves to go in search of her. She falls asleep again, and then the Goddess of Truth appears before her and assures her that only through service can she hope to realize her desire.

The frail White Lilac feels she has little to offer the world, but she goes to the Queen of Winter, and, to further her task of spreading beauty in the world, she lends her purity and whiteness to cover the bareness of the earth.

Then the White Lilac goes to the Queen of Spring, and to her she lends the green of her leaves to dress the earth anew. The Rain Queen brings her maidens to aid Spring, and, at the close of their work, the Sun Queen appears, bringing the Rainbow of Hope which the White Lilac gives to the Rain. Hope herself appears. The spring flowers appear with the leaves and dance, and finally Purple Lilac comes to join her sister who thus receives her reward for serving the world.

The dance groups are under the direction of Miss Annis Baldwin, and the lists of girls participating will be published in a later issue.

KAPPA DELTA SORORITY TO OCCUPY NEW HOME

"Who killed Cock Robin?" If you don't know, come to the Strong and find out Thursday

Excerpts from Famous Diary Reveal 1935 Junior Week Revels

By B. A. S. '38

May 14, 2002: Portions of a diary written in 1935 were found by the world famous explorer, Angus McFangus, on the site where Slade Hall, at the University of Vermont, was once said to stand. The name of the author was completely obliterated by the friction of the elements, but we are printing the following from a standpoint of historical interest:

May 16, 1935: "Today I embarked on the most exciting three days of my career as a collegian — Junior Week! Not every one cut his classes to get the spirit of things—that sort of thing's idea was everywhere. Besides, I had to get my hair waved, and what's an hour of Browning compared to an hour of rest before a strenuous week-end. Well, promptly at 4.15 the Peerade took off from the gym and someone yelled, 'Hold on to your hats, here we go!'—sort of the same as breaking a bottle of champagne over the bow of something to get it started. In this case it was Junior Week and, as there wasn't any champagne. To me however—the whole thing was awfully effective, even without Lindy Nevins' specatcular solo flight of course. Jerry Haig and Harry Marquist must have done an awful lot of work on the Peerade, because every one said it was splendid. It wound about the city via Main, Church, St. Paul and College Streets, and the judges, Prof. Metcalf, Prof. L. W. Dean, and Prof. J. H. Sabo, rendered a popular decision from their vantage point on College Street. At the play the cups were presented: Wig and Buskin to the Wood Masque and Sandal to the Strong. The Traynor trophy credits were not announced. After all the different angles of 'Cock Robin' presented by the floats, I wondered just what it would be like if we were still wondering after the second act. It was a mystery play—splendidly interpreted; the splendid technique of composition fairly shone through the lines. It was funny too—seemed to have everything. Eleanor Douglas, Rosemary Cahill, Marion Herberg, and Mildred Rockwood had the women's parts; Stew Wright, Pete Wilcox, Steve Belcher, Cliff Howe, Mel Newman, Bab Saxby, Tommy Fitzgerald and Mike Hunt held up the honor of the men folk. Mrs. Taggart did a marvelous coaching job. I heard Don Davis, the business manager, say that we sure had a swell crowd out. I didn't want to go home, but rules are rules and tomorrow, the Prom!"

May 17, 1935: "I awoke with rhythm in my soul even at seven-thirty and the feeling increased all day till I felt like I was on a never-ending roller coaster. Tonight the dorm was in an uproar with people running around borrowing exotic lipsticks and moaning over broken fingernails. Finally we rattled off to the gym in the car (?) and drew up with a fine clangor. Just everyone was there — people and flowers and the full moon and the cute favors and the swell band and the smooth decorations are all a delicious muddle! ——— ———, the sweet thing, looked so manly in his tux — I never realized what broad shoulders he had before. . . . When we stepped inside we thought we had been transported back to the early seventeenth century, so truly Jacobean was the atmosphere. Pat White outdid herself. The lighting was marvelous and the band——! We'll Jim Crane certainly showed good taste in bringing Willie Bryant up for the music. We cavorted briskly till 2 a.m., said good night to Prof. and Mrs Lyman Rowell, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, Nat Ferrin, and Jim Crane, and started homeward. It was all too divine—we all hull sessioned in Squidge's room until about four—but the thought of eight-thirty classes finally forced us to separate."

May 18, 1935: "Classes were very blah, but bunch at the Sig house woke us up—such a clever bunch of boys and what swell recordings they have for their new victrola. The baseball game was,

MECHANICAL ENGINEERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

F. W. Hale '36, Windsor, Reads Paper on "Mercury Leak Detectors"

A group of mechanical engineering students at the University of Vermont were recently guests of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, while the American Society of Mechanical Engineers held its anual meeting there. The group was accompanied by Prof. E. L. Sussdorff of the engineering college.

During one of the sessions F. W. Hale of Windsor, a student at the University, delivered a paper on "Mercury Leak Detectors." Two plants were visited during the trip, the Ford assembly plant at Somerville and the Schrafft's candy factory. The students drove down and back.

Juniors, strut our stuff! This is your week on the college calendar — your chance to show off your powers to an expectant campus. You are opening with Peerade and Play on Thursday, continuing with Prom next day, and concluding with Middlebury game and fraternity dances on Saturday.

Thursday we are being offered "Cock Robin," by a cast of the best actors college can supply. "Cock Robin" is a mystery drama with musical settings. From the way the cast has been working we feel sure it has a superior production for our enjoyment.

Why not start Junior Week off right by going to "Cock Robin?" It won't break any one, not with the popular twenty-five cent seats. The Strong Theater should be filled by the college alone; why expect the townspeople to pull us through every one of our productions? We have a potential audience on campus: it is the the natural crowd we should expect at a college play.

Way the rafters ring at the Strong.

NAVAL MANEUVERS

...any reason why the navy of the United States should hold maneuvers in the Pacific this spring? They are now in ... will last from May 3 to June 10.

...e maneuvers are scheduled for the Aleutian Islands, off the coast of Alaska. These islands stretch like a great arm down toward Japan. And here is where our great country has chosen to show off its great navy strength.

Almost any waters in the world would have been preferable to these at this particular time. For isn't the effect upon Japan self-evident? With our Japanese relations none too good, with suspicions aroused on both sides of the Pacific, with Japan's breaking off of naval ratios as set by naval conferences, it seems the need for some reason and care are tremendously necessary.

Japan cannot but take these maneuvers as a threat aimed at her. They cannot but make relations more strained and suspicious.

Despite thousands of letters protesting this action, the administration declined to change the place of the navy plays. Evidently our country is persistent in holding out a warning finger to Japan. Is it the safest and best way?

FROSH BEAT CATHEDRAL IN TENNIS MATCH 6-0

The University of Vermont freshman team easily won its second victory of the season by blanking Cathedral High School last May 9 on the college courts. Segerberg, the state's ranking junior, continued his streak by subduing Coutu and Coombs defeated Dinky Lynch 6-4, 8-6, after a closely contested battle.

The summary:

Startsuck (V) defeated Coutu (C) 6-1, 6-2.

Coombs (V) defeated Lynch (C) 6-4, 8-6.

Wiedeman (V) defeated Clark (C) 6-1, 6-0.

Johnson (V) defeated Pratt (C) 6-2, 6-3.

Doubles.

Startsuck and Coombs (V) defeated Coutu and Lynch (C) 6-1, 6-3.

Wiedeman and Johnson (V) defeated Clark and Pratt (C) 6-3, 6-3.

Hancock Robinson, social leader, murdered! How? When? and Where? will be divulged Thursday night at the Strong.

Who? University Players.
What? "Cock Robin."
Why? Junior Week.
When? Thursday night.
Where? Strong Theater.

MOONLIGHT HIKE

Moonlight hike! Magic words that spell excitement, hilarity and a general good time for all who dare to join on May 17. The hikers will start from the gym at 8 p.m. and head for Oakledge Manor where a fire, marshmallows, hot dogs, stunts, songs, and a host of other things will await them. Here's new diversion: Don't sit home brooding because your not dancing at the Prom, use up that saved up energy in this hike and earn some W. A. A. points. Doctor Miles says there's a full moon Saturday so Friday's moon should be a close runner up. Come out and see. Last Saturday a crew of tired but successful scavenger hunters appeared at the gym at 4.30 after two grand hours of sniffing and smelling of all kinds of interesting posies. Almost everything from a dandelion to a pansy was brought back and lined up for inspection in the gym office. The desk of the assistant director looked like Mother Nature's own flower bed where a cowslip reposed gracefully beside a blood root and a forget-me-not leaned on a buttercup. The winning group who brought in the best assortment was composed of the following people: Janet Lanou '38, Pauline Hunt '38, Maglyn Osgood '38, Priscilla Locke '38, Harriet March '38, and Florence Cook '38. The winners received a prize. It was but it isn't—the secret? It was edible.

CHIPS

Croquet sets have been placed in Campus House and Robinson Hall and the girls are fast learning to keep their eyes on the ball. Up to date Shirley Baraw '37 seems to be "the winnah" on this campus but it's a close chase and good exercise, believe it or not.

The old gray mare she ain't what she used to be. Why? No shoes? Horseshoes are to be installed at both of the places mentioned above. The co-eds may learn to throw the good-luck charm skillfully too while the neighborhood horses go barefoot. Or will they?

Libby Downer '37 has many exciting plans under way for spring field day, which is to come the twenty-seventh of May. She has chosen her committee and work has already begun to insure the success of the sports day.

Fore! And the ball whizzes through the air as Mr. Wilson coaches the golf lessons. A great deal of enthusiasm has been aroused in golf classes this year; the Monday-Wednesday classes are overflowing and the Tuesday-Thursday periods are fast filling up. Mr. Wilson, by popular comment, is an excellent instructor.

Y. M. C. A. TO HOLD RACE AND DIVE CONTEST

The best swimming team ever to represent the University of Vermont, and normal this year, is scheduled to meet an organization from the Burlington Community Y. M. C. A., in a race and dive contest, to be held in the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool.

Under the management of J. M. Libby of Richmond Hill, N. Y., the team has been holding regular practice sessions. The team is being sponsored by the Physical Education Department, and plans are under way for a more extensive program and more meets next season. Until this year there was no opportunity for swim practice during the winter months.

ARCHERY

Zip! Prrh! Plop! And the arrows travel fast on Redstone Campus as the archers practice for the international telegraphic tournament to be held this week. Ten girls have been picked to try out for the contest. Eight people will be chosen to represent Vermont. Those who have been practicing are as follows: Dorothy Davis '37, Dorothy Burroughs '37, Dorothy Oldfield '37, Nancy Gillingham '38, Barbara Briggs '38, Patricia Stanley '37, Virginia Riley '37, Dorothy Chittenden '38, Elizabeth Johnson '36, and Mildred Rockwood '38.

TENNIS

Throughout this week there will be an advanced tennis tournament held for all girls who have signed up in the Y room. There will be a cup awarded to the winner. The following people are entered in the contest: Jerry Haig '36, Edith Anderson '38, Edith Carlisle '38, Marion Gile '38, Karie King '38, Corinne Clark '38, Josephine Smith '38, Virginia Riley '38, Sylvia Jarvis '37, Marie Thwing '38, Helen White '38, and Ethel Starbird '38.

There will also be an intermediate tournament sponsored for all those who have not entered the cup contest or have not been on class teams. Harriet Gile '36 is in charge of this contest and all who wish to try may sign with her.

FRESHMEN WIN TRACK MEET—SCORE 60 TO 56

Beat Montpelier Seminary in Close Meet—Budzyna Scores 17 Points for Vermont

In their first contest of the year the freshman track team defeated a strong Montpelier Seminary team last Saturday, May 11, by the score of 60½ to 56½.

The Kittens, under the guidance of Coaches Prentice and Post, seemed to have a fairly well balanced team. However, in the broad jump the Frosh were completely blanked.

Because of cold weather and a strong wind the best results could not be obtained. Very good times were turned in, in the 100-yard dash, the 220, and the low hurdle. The time, 9.9 seconds, for the 100-yard dash was remarkably low for a freshman team, and was turned in by Malik of the Seminary. Malik's time in the 220 was also very good, being 22.4 seconds. In the low hurdles Suitor, for the Frosh, turned in the time of 28.2 seconds.

Some of the highlights of the meet were the mile race which was very close, and won by Lamson of Vermont. In the 220 Shanahan of Montpelier Seminary, fell about five yards before the tape, thereby winning his chance for a second. The Kittens lost the 880-yard run by about a yard. Three Vermont men, Lamson, Keith and Herbert had the first three places sewed up, and decided to take it easy, they were, however, caught napping by Blair, who sprinted in for a first.

The high scorer of the meet was Malik of Montpelier Seminary. Malik took firsts in the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash, the shot put and broad jump, and took a third in the discus to score a total of 21 points. He was followed by Budzyna, who piled up a total of 17 points, taking two firsts, two seconds and a third. The firsts were in the high jump and pole vault, second in the javelin throw and 220-yard dash, the third was in the 100-yard dash. Suitor scored 15 points, to take the honors for third high scorer. He took first in the high and low hurdles and the discus throw.

The résumé of the meet:

TRACK EVENTS

Mile run—Lamson (V.), first, time 4 minutes 57 seconds; Blair (M. S.), second; Rosinelli (V.), third.

440-yard dash—Cross (V.), first, time 57.2 seconds; Herbert (V.), second; Keith (V.), third.

100-yard dash—Malik (M. S.), first, time 9.9 seconds; Pickard (M. S.), second; Budzyna (V.), third.

220-yard high hurdles—Suitor (V.), first, time 17.4 seconds; Hill (M. S.), second; Cate (V.), third.

VERMONT TO SEND MEN TO EASTERN INTERCOLLEGIATES

Meet to be Held at Worcester on May 18

On Saturday, May 18, representatives of the Vermont track team journey to the Worcester Tech Field in Worcester, Mass., to compete with the cream of New England's track and field athletes. If the climatic conditions are good and the track fast, there should be a good many new records hung up, for the caliber of the competition is high.

The men will leave Friday morning early and lunch at Keene, N. H., at noon. Arriving at Worcester about 5 p.m. they will put up at a hotel and return Saturday night after the meet.

The list of those who are to go is as yet somewhat indefinite and will be released as soon as it is given out. Last year we were represented by Joe Delfausse, Rollie Delfausse, Cliff Harwood, Julie Jezukawicz, Mannie Levine, Al Robbins, Frank Syme and John Woodruff, and won distinction in many events. Joe Delfausse took second in the quarter; Rollie won the 220 and received a fourth in the 100-yard dash; Mannie Levine took fourth place in the half mile and Robbins placed fourth in the 220. In the grueling two-mile run, Harwood ran second. Veysey of Colby, one of the best long-distance men in the East, won the mile and two mile last year in something like 4.28 and is consistently under 4.30. In our meet with Colby this year, "Cliff" Veysey won the two mile and half mile handily and could have taken the mile, too, but let his brother, a freshman win, himself taking second, and our own Lehrer, taking third.

Veysey will no doubt show up again at the Intercollegiates this year, which sews up his events with a possibility for us to place with Lehrer. Dolan of Rhode Island and Hoxie of Middlebury, who took first and second, respectively, in the 100-yard dash, will worry any competition in that event. However, it is reported that Worcester Tech has a newcomer who took Dolan last week, so the 100 ought to be one of the highlights of the meet. Last year Vetzlogg won the quarter and will probably repeat this year unless there is an upset. Mathewson of of Middlebury should win both hurdles, though Syme of Vermont will give him a good run if he is in shape. The high mile is a toss up with McLaddon of Middlebury outstanding. MacMillan, Dusty White or Collins will probably represent us in that event and the quarter, too, and may upset the smart dope. Last year Bevin of Colby won the half in 1.59.4 which is good time.

In the weights Park and Ross are up against some heavy competition McGuire of Norwich, Whitney of Middlebury and all the Rhode Island weight men are above average. McGuire won the discus last year with a throw of 124 feet 11½ inches with Lombardi of Middlebury taking fourth. Hunt of Rhode Island took first in the javelin with 176 feet 8 inches and the next three places were all within one foot of each other, showing the general excellence of the competition in that event. Rollie Delfausse and Ray Collins will probably hurl the "spear" for Vermont and we may garner a few points there. Captain Delfausse is picked to repeat in the 220 again and may bang up a new record that event will be watched closely. The high jump last year went to Grimald of Connecticut State at 5 feet 9 inches. "Hube" Lyndon of Vermont if at top form should do better take that event.

We placed fifth last year in the Intercollegiate set schools being represented. We accumulated 14 points the leader, Rhode Island having 45. According to Arctic Post sportsmanship master, we should maintain the same relative position this year. Rhode Island should repeat and Middlebury (Connecticut) last second instead of the fourth they received last year. It has even been predicted that Middlebury might win the meet with any upsets. Middlebury is strongest on the track this year and Connecticut and Rhode Island's points may change step right to the first place.

Note—We wish to take this opportunity to sincerely thank those who assisted for the Freshman-Montpelier Seminary track meet.

CAT'S MEOW

By Sports' Editor

Well it looks to us after last Friday's supposedly baseball encounter that Marchie Swartz missed his calling. He conducted his class in acrobatics through nine innings as he stood the Panthers on their heads all through the ball game. Backing up Ed was that smooth-working double quartet who afforded him excellent support all afternoon so that the highly touted snarling Panthers were like newly born kittens.

As everyone knows the team behind the pitcher can either make or break him. Up till the home season started the infield was erratic, but since then have settled down to errorless ball and without taking any credit from Messrs. Swartz and Kirley are making those boys look like the Dean brothers.

It looks as though Rog Kenworthy is going to have quite a time getting that backstopping job away from Jack Hart. Jack has been turning in sensational performances in his first year and to top it off drove out a homer Friday off Rube Barker with men on bases.

The baseball team will entertain the Panthers on Friday and with our boys riding high and the Panthers thirsting for revenge it should be a sweet ball game.

The frosh tracksters aren't going to let the varsity get ahead of them as they showed by clearly demonstrating their superiority over Montpelier Seminary last Saturday. Budzyna, Pratt and Suitor captured their events and with the rest of the boys coming along fast the prospects for the rest of the season look bright.

Frosh baseball took a nose dive for Clark School to the tune of 6-0 on Saturday and it looks as if the boys were in a bit of a slump. The boys were a little erratic and with a little work should give the boys from Green Mountain a real battle this week.

PLAQUE PRESENTED BY KEY AND SERPENT TO BE AWARDED IN BASEBALL

The interfraternity baseball tournament, now half finished at the University of Vermont, was given added impetus when announcement was made from the Physical Education Department sponsors of the event, that a new plaque had been presented to the University by Key and Serpent, junior honorary society, to be presented each year to the winner of the tournament.

Bronze plates will bear the names of fraternities competing [illegible] for years. The plaque replaces [illegible] cups presented for many past [illegible], but replaced because it was felt that every fraternity house at the University was so loaded down with cups that one more added to the display would not be so [illegible] as the new trophy.

Cats Meet Panthers Here Saturday In Second Game

Middlebury Comes Here to Avenge 9-0 Defeat of Last Friday Which Gave Vermont Lead in Green Mountain Series

CONFERENCE STANDING

	W	L	Pct.	R	OR
Vermont	2	0	1.000	21	4
St. Michael's	1	0	1.000	6	3
Middlebury	0	1	.000	0	9
Norwich	0	2	.000	7	18

Last Friday Coach Larry Gardiner's Catamounts defeated a weak Middlebury baseball team by the score of 9-0. This game sends Vermont up another rung toward winning the Green Mountain Conference series.

Although the Vermont nine was able to hit Pitcher Rube Barker easily, bad fielding hastened the Midd men's downfall.

Vermont was able to get 11 runs off Barker. The only home run of the game was made by Jack Hart, catcher for Vermont. This four-base hit came in the first stanza of the contest. Ed Swartz held the Panthers to only four hits, struck out four men and allowed, by his wonderful pitching and good support, only one man to get by the initial bag.

Johnny Williams led the Cats with three hits, driving in two runs and scoring three times. Eddie Funk, Vermont's strongest batter, was unable to hit but once, and was fanned out three times by Barker, who seemed to have put a jinx on the ball every time Funk walked to the plate.

Middlebury in the latter part of the game cut off three Vermont hits by some spectacular fielding by Bud Phinney and Roger Bakey, who took a high dive to grab off a liner driven out by Ramon. Swartz did not let his fielders have much of a workout. He kept the Panthers at bay by making them hit pop flies. Swartz made the most outstanding play of the day when he knocked Meacham's hot shot to the ground and catching him out at first.

The Green and Gold started off by getting three runs in the first, three more in the sixth, two in the seventh and one in the ninth. It seemed that any time in the last four innings that [illegible] might go on a scoring spree, [illegible] began to weaken. However, [illegible] tightened up and kept Vermont down to six runs.

The scoring in the first stanza was made by Burns, Williams, and Hart. Burns hunted safely, followed by a sacrifice, then Williams drove one out for a single. Hart then cleared the bases when he clouted out a homer that rolled out deeply in center field.

In the sixth Funk walked, Williams hunted safely, a grounder by Ramon and a single made by Whitey Palmer gave the Green and Gold three more runs all unearned.

Two more runs in the seventh came about by a walk by Burns, a safe hunt land down by Hallinan, followed by a wild pitch, then a squeeze hunt by Williams and Werner's sacrifice to center field.

In the ninth Williams, Werner, and Ramon each chalked up singles for the last and final run.

PROGRAM OF MILITARY INSPECTION CHANGED

Drill Competitions to be Held in Cage Friday Night

The dates for the annual military inspection at the University of Vermont have been set for Friday, May 24 and Saturday, May 25. A change in the program this year will take place of the events Friday night instead of Saturday morning.

The change in the usual program has been introduced through cooperation between the athletic and military departments at the University because no major athletic contests are scheduled for Saturday afternoon. Varsity and freshman baseball, track and tennis teams will all be in action. By shifting some of the military events to Friday night it is felt that undue hardship on the players will be avoided. Also it will give more opportunity for spectators to witness the events.

Detailed inspection will be conducted on Friday from 7:30 to 12 o'clock in the morning and from 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon. In the evening the interfraternity drill competition and the freshman and sophomore drill competitions will be held in the baseball cage with appropriate ceremony and awarding of prizes. Saturday morning from 8:30 to 9:30 will be devoted to the ceremony of battalion parade or other appropriate military ceremony.

U. V. M. STUDENTS APPLY FOR ADVANCED MILITARY

Forty students at the University of Vermont, now enrolled in the basic military course required from the two lower classes, have made application for permission to take the advanced course in military science and tactics, it was announced today by Col. F. W. Rowell, commandant of the University R. O. T. C. battalion.

It is usual to choose about twenty students for the advanced course, he said. Choice is made on past records in the battalion and physical and mental qualifications. Those picked for the courses act as officers of the unit during the college year, and are instructed in the duties of an officer.

German Students at Western Meeting Vie in Easter Customs

Snow and ice spoke against the fact that it was the fourteenth of April when we drove westward through New York State. At home flowers have long been out. "I got a bouquet of pressed snowdrops early in March." "I went swimming at this time of the season last year, and right in the open Baltic!" With these springy memories we tried to forget that it was terribly cold in the car. One girl came from Washington and marvelled over the blossom of the Japanese cherry trees. Poor thing! she had only summer clothes with her.

But St. Peter showed mercy on us. As soon as we came into the immense traffic near Niagara Falls (it is hardly possible that only honeymooners sat in all those brand new cars, or else—depression must have come to an end!) The brightest sunshine welcomed us. The falls! In white whirling clouds the water dashed over the rocks, some of them were still covered with ice. Rainbow colors were sparkling wherever you looked. We gazed overwhelmed at the beautiful spectacle of nature. In this wide country, elements have a chance to develop a much greater power; we had to realize that once more when we drove over the plains through Ohio and Indiana and when an icy storm forced the car off the road. Through Buffalo, Cleveland, westward towards sunset-land. When it became dark, Lake Erie lay immensely wide and quiet to our right, only from time to time lightened by flashes from the few lighthouses along the shore. Suddenly, one of us quoted a poem we learned in good old school days—"John Maynard fuehrt nehern Friesee!" Which of us ever realized that we should come here and see it with our own eyes? America is terribly far for European school children.

White farmhouses with green shutters, red barns, cornfields, and long straight roads filled a terribly cold day. But at night we were rewarded by the beautiful view of a grand city lighted with thousands of lamps. I like to enter a city at night time, when all the red, blue, and green advertising, snake-lines, circles and turning wheels give the whole place a gay colorful life. Chicago made a grand impression! We drove over the boulevard along Lake Michigan, where millions of lights danced in the dark water. Huge skyscrapers looked down upon us with their many-eyed faces.

The vast dark quarter of the world's fair created a strange contrast; yesterday—still attraction for millions of people; today—deserted and half broken down. Life goes fast, and everything has to keep up with it.

In the building of the Chicago Tribune the latest news comes in, goes through the machines, and the next moment numerous newspaper boys sell them as the headlines of the new issue on all street corners. The visitor can follow the whole process. Eight hundred pigs, 720 sheep, and 180 oxen are killed daily in a stockyard. "Hogbutcher of the world!" I remember when I walked between walls of fresh meat in the cool rooms.

Chicago University has a wonderful library. Marshall Fields has exorbitant prices; our desire of buying something in the biggest department stores of the world can be satisfied only in the basement.

When the life of the big city gives us leisure for short hours, we sit together and talk of college life, future plans, fatherland! Everyone has something to tell. We listen breathlessly to the descriptions of the sand storms by our Middle Western group, we long for the sunshine our Georgia student raves over and we enjoy the reports of the gay monthly meetings which the Boston and the other Massachusetts people have created. But the biggest number is the declaration of Liesolette: She will sail back to Germany by going around the world—Hawaii, Japan, China, and India.

All of us drive together to Detroit. The Ford plant takes us all the morning. We see each detail of work, and at the end of every twenty seconds a new car leaves the traveling belt. A little outside of Detroit, Ford's Dearborn village takes us back into the past when coaches with horses carried the passengers out to the old colonial inn. There is still the old country schoolhouse in which the auto king received his first instruction, and the laboratory where Edison made his first experiments.

There we leave each other, each car takes its own direction. We separate with a vague hope of meeting again in this country, but we shall surely keep together when we are back home. The same experiences, the same enjoyments, the same adventures in a beautiful vast continent form an invisible bond.

Easter Sunday rises with all the beauty an early spring morning is able to spend. We four passengers of the '29 Ford, with the New York license, are from four different parts of Germany. Since each part has its own Easter customs, we compete with each other in order to make it a real German Easter. The Easter apple has to be eaten early in the morning before the first word is spoken. We are sorry that there is no spring to get the Holy Easter Water that preserves youth. But we seek for Easter eggs in the hedge—in short, we are very happy.

I suppose, what one would call a 'contest of wits supremely fought,' but to me baseball is a very funny game. In the [illegible] much rather look around for startling new hair-do's s import. In the second re just a few things that at the game: the way the for each other, talking a nothing; the side view busily sweeping off the with a diminutive whisk broom; and the imperious attitude of the pitcher from his center of importance. Other people may like baseball, and I'm entertained by it, so everyone was happy.

Tonight we tooted around to all the fraternity houses, enjoying the bands and seeing who-all was still alive and vivacious. Of course, these dances were much more informal than the Prom but really stacks of fun.

Junior Week is at an end—a sad thought. It seems all too short, but next year will, no doubt, arrive sometime. I'm so tired——"

U. V. M. STUDENTS APPLY FOR ADVANCED MILITARY

Forty students at the University of Vermont, now enrolled in the basic military course required from the two lower classes, have made application for permission to take the advanced course in military science and tactics, it was announced today by Col. F. W. Rowell, commandant of the University R. O. T. C. battalion.

It is usual to choose about twenty students for the advanced course, he said. Choice is made on past records in the battalion, and physical and mental qualifications. Those picked for the courses act as officers of the unit during the college year, and are instructed in the duties of an officer.

"WHO KILLED COCK ROBIN" GIVEN BY U. V. M. PLAYERS LAST NIGHT AT STRONG

Mystery Play Shows Eight People With Motive for Murder

The University Players presented their annual Junior Week play, Cock Robin, last evening at the Strong Theater as part of the program for this week end.

The production was a mystery play written by Elmer Rice and Philip Barry. This was the first attempt by the college thespians to give a mystery play to the public.

A murder took place in the first act and it took two acts to discover the murderer. All but four of a cast of twelve were under suspicion. The motives of the eight follow.

Carlotta, played by Rosemary Cahill '36, found a letter from Mary Clinton to Robinson (Cock Robin), played by I. G. Fitzgerald '36. Mrs. Maxwell (Marion Herberg '36), Carlotta's mother, and Doctor Grace (R. M. Saxby '37), her uncle, thought Carlotta intended to elope with Hancock Robinson. McAuliffe (R. S. Wright '35) resented Robinson's treatment of Mary Clinton. Robinson took Dick Lane's girl away from him. Lane was played by C. D. Howe '36. Torrence (A. B. Wilcox '35) bore him a grudge because of unfair business dealings that Hancock had with his father. Mrs. Montgomery (Eleanor Douglass '37) raised her arm before Robinson fell. Cleveland (M. B. Editorials

We are celebrating some of the college year's outstanding festivities this week. They are toward the last of the college year's festivities as well.

In the midst of them, shall we pause and question if we are letting them exhaust us physically and financially. If we are not in this situation, let us continue celebrating with hearts rejoicing. If we are, shall we not tread easy? After all, a hard and busy part of the year is still before us, and crowded into a very short time. Shall we be sensible just once and save our energies a little bit, while still having a good time?

Dr. Patman and other bonus bills continue to hold the headlines and the argument between President and Congress remains unsettled.

Why Congress insists on pushing through such legislation as this, in direct opposition to the wishes of the President, is hard to see and, of course, the easiest explanation of it is a pulling for votes "back home."

President Roosevelt consistently threatens to veto any bonus measure. He has supplied Congress with much more pressing material for bills and measures. Yet they are all thrust aside in preference to this one issue.

A Congress which has spent out the five billions this one has might be expected to count the additional millions. Yet here are many millions more passed out on a loan which isn't even due for another ten years. The common sense way of looking at it would condemn the measure.

This morning we heard hearty peals of laughter issuing from a classroom of the Old Mill. From a classroom! Strange. Strange also that it came during the middle of a class, during a professor's lecture, during discussion.

We were almost alarmed for the pupils in that class. We have been brought up in the noble tradition that class lectures are things to sleep through, or to suffer as best we may. Perhaps we belong to the old school of students who thought it unseemly and frivolous to laugh or smile in class.

If we belong to such an old school, there are also some professors who are enrolled therein. They are typified as trying to feed the most possible information in an hour to an indifferent little flock of sleepy heads. Somehow, our picture of the laughing classroom doesn't show us any people disinterested enough to be sleeping. Yet it is hard to imagine just how pleasant such a class might be.

IMPORTANT

There will be a nominating meeting of the class of 1937 at 27 Williams Science Hall, Wednesday, May 22. Nominations for next year's junior class officers will be made.

Donald S. Parker '37,
President.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

Dear Sir: I should like to call attention [illegible] the Cynic [illegible] the unfair treatment accorded the track team of the University.

Track is recognized everywhere as a major sport but as compared to other sports those who participate are given relatively little consideration as to schedules, equipment or accommodations.

To cite a few examples, may I mention these facts:

The track uniforms especially the mothball suits, certainly do no credit to the University when our men appear on the field. For the forty-odd men who have turned out for track, I understand that three new pairs of spiked shoes were bought. It is also reported that Coach Post was forced to paint the hurdles himself as well as dig out the jumping pit after assistance had been denied him for these tasks. I am sure that every loyal Vermont student would like to see our track team provided with personal and field equipment of as good quality and appearance as the teams they oppose.

Another item relating to schedules and accommodations is the lack of sufficient time for rest given the men on the St. Lawrence trip. The squad was crowded into an insufficient number of cars at 7 a.m. of the day of the meet and arrived at Canton just fifteen minutes before the time at which the meet was scheduled to start. That the team rang up such a decisive victory is a tribute to the ability and personality of Coach Post and the "never say die" spirit of the team. The number of men taken did not greatly exceed that taken on an average baseball or football trip and the track men deserve as much consideration in this respect as those engaged in the other sports.

As to schedules, there are only two home meets, both of which are slated to take place before baseball games, as if they were preliminaries to the main event of the day. Even the State Conference Track and Field Championships, which is to be held at Centennial Field this year, is relegated to a starting time of 11 A.M., as a preliminary to the baseball game with Dartmouth. In other words, an opportunity to help finance needed improvements for the team is ignored, as spectators at the baseball game by the simple expedient of coming early may also see the state championship track and field events at no additional cost. Then, too, it is very difficult for the track team to do their best when the baseball players are warming up on the same field. This is an injustice and an affront, not only to the Vermont team but also to the visiting representatives of the other conference members as a major conference athletic contest takes place as a preliminary to a game in which the star attraction is a non-conference member.

Coach Post and his team deserve much credit for their fine record, accomplished under such handicaps. This is written not only as a suggestion that they be given more and better consideration by the Athletic Council, but also by the student body at large who owe them—a better than average Vermont team—loyalty and encouragement.

INDEPENDENTS TO HOLD DANCE AT GYM MAY 25

Last Social Event of Season Features Sid Carsley's Band

The last social event of the year will feature Sid Carsley and his band with the Independents holding a dance in the gym Saturday, May 25.

This is the first time in the history of the University that the Independents are holding a dance. The committee in charge, L. H. Lehrer '37, chairman, B. R. Levin '37 and L. Bingham '37, promise many novelties. As this is Carsley's last college appearance this year, he will offer the old favorites and also many new arrangements.

It is hoped that the fraternities will cooperate and help make this dance a success. This will be the last opportunity to attend a college dance before the final exam period.

Admission is $1.10. Chaperones will be announced later.

Coeds at Michigan (Ann Arbor) students recently voted to continue the NRA for two more years.

Women In Sports

ARCHERY

Eight people have been chosen to represent Vermont in the national telegraphic meet to be held this week. They are as follows: Nancy Gillingham '38, Dorothy Burroughs '37, Dorothy Chittenden '38, Virginia Riley '37, Barbara Briggs '38, Elizabeth Johnson '36, Dorothy Oldfield '37 and Mildred Rockwood '38. The scores will be announced later.

W. A. A. COUNCIL

The last meeting of the Council was held Wednesday in the gym office. Plans were discussed for the moonlight hike. A tentative schedule for baseball games was announced. It was decided that badminton should continue one night a week as there are so many people who have asked for it. Glenna Wright '37 was put in charge of Spring Field Day due to the illness of Libby Downer '36, who had recently been elected as chairman.

All who wish to receive awards on Spring Field Day should have their points in by Monday the 20th.

The indoor meet was postponed from April 17 to April 24 of next year.

BASEBALL

Baseball teams have been chosen and plans are under way for the first games of the season. The previous schedule had to be cancelled because of rain. Those who make up the teams are:

JUNIOR PEERADE HELD THURSDAY AFTERNOON

L. W. Dean and Coach J. P. Sabo, were on Church Street.

The Tri Delts' float represented a large bird's nest in which lay a dead robin—in a truly deathlike position—a detective watched over the proceedings, filling his official capacity. Three mourners completed the picture.

The Delta Psi advertised "Cock Robin" by a stream-lined car with the shape of a robin's head in front. The float represented stream-lined effect and and also a stream-lined production for the evening.

The Kappa Alpha Theta float pictured a raised platform on which lay a dead robin. A mother goose was situated in front and girls dressed in little girls' dresses completed the scene. They had a real Mother Goose Nursery float.

The Tau Epsilon Phi float was a pun on the title of the Junior Week Play, "Cock Robin." It portrayed a typical farm scene, showing a scrawny negro running from an irate farmer with one of the latter's prize chickens, a cock, under his arm. An unusual feature of this float was a blurb over the agrarian's head, saying, "Stop! You chicken thief!"

The committee in charge of the float was composed of E. G. Sedlis '38 and M. B. Newman '38, who claim that the elaborate float was constructed but twelve hours before the Peerade.

The Alpha Xi's float portrayed the Burial of Cock Robin with girls representing the various personages and characters in the poem, the fly, the sparrow, the beetle, etc. Mourners also were right on the spot.

The Kappa Delts used the sign, "Who will pluck this leech off me?" But instead of a leech it was a very real Leach, Edna Leach, in fact, who was to be plucked off. The truck was decorated in black and white.

Alpha Chi Omega pictured the Death of Cock Robin with a draped hearse, followed by a crowd of mourners in deep mourning. The detective and coroner were there, also.

The Pi Phis had the sign, "Who killed Cock Robin", and portrayed the scene of slaughter. The robin was there, very dead, with his heels in the air. The guilty sparrow, with a bow on his wing was on the scene, completed by a pool of blood.

The other floats, as well as these mentioned, were works of art and showed much work and effort, as well as ability of those in charge.

Elizabeth Haig '36 and H. L. Martin '36 were co-chairmen of the Peerade as a whole.

PI BETA PHI

Mrs. James Wood, the former Jackie Hoyt '34, was in town last week-end. Margaret McCracken '35 passed chocolate Monday evening.

VERMONT SENDS REPRESENTATIVES TO EASTERN TRACK MEET

Ten Men Left This Morning for Worcester Where Meet Will Take Place Saturday May 18

[illegible] representatives of the Vermont track [illegible] left this morning for Worcester [illegible] to meet the pick of the Eastern [illegible] ers in the Eastern Intercollegiates [illegible] competition at this meet will be very [illegible] arranally, and any honors that we [illegible] ot with should be highly received [illegible] men will stop at Keene for lunch and [illegible] at the Bancroft Hotel, returning [illegible] day night after the meet.

The list of those that went is as follows: Capt. Rollie Delfausse to represent in the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash. Rollie won the 220 last year and placed third in the 100. He may [illegible] up a new record if conditions are [illegible]

In the hurdles, Frank Syme goes after new laurels; in the high jump [illegible] Herb Trudeau to worry them. [illegible] middle distances, White and Mc[illegible] will be fighting for recognition; [illegible] distance runs should bring points for [illegible] ont, as we have Lehrer in the mile [illegible] Woodruff in the two mile. Both are [illegible] ed to place high in their events. [illegible] Parks and Ross will throw the [illegible] ights around for Vermont and will be [illegible] plenty of competition. Finally in [illegible] avelin throw we are represented by [illegible] Collins, and Rollie Delfausse may [illegible] a hand. The team will have strong [illegible] petition, but it is expected that they [illegible] place among the first five teams.

LAMBDA IOTA BEAT TAU EP IN INTERFRAT BALL

Poulin Allows Only Two Hits to Win 5-0

Lambda Iota beat Tau Epsilon Phi [illegible] in a five-inning game last Monday [illegible] the back campus in the fifth inter[illegible]ernity baseball game. For the [illegible]s, Abbott and Poulin pitched, with [illegible] catching; for the Tau Eps, [illegible] and King hurled, Jacobson re[illegible]ving. Outstanding for Lambda Iota [illegible] Poulin with two hits and allowing [illegible] two hits after relieving Abbott in [illegible] pitcher's box. Sedlis, with splen[illegible] holding of a hard hit ball to retire [illegible] Owls at a critical moment and [illegible]king one of the three hits that the [illegible] Eps garnered from the excellent [illegible]ing of Abbott and Poulin, was [illegible]standing for the losers.

In the third inning, the Owls pushed [illegible] two unearned runs, both scored [illegible] errors. Other runs scored for the [illegible]s were by Bailey, Ruhmshottel [illegible] Coburn. The Owls made but two [illegible] as compared with six by the [illegible] Eps.

[illegible] as a result of the record made by the Juniors of the University of Vermont enrolled in the last year advanced course in military science and tactics, have qualified as sharpshooters. It was announced yesterday from the military office. Seven of their classmates qualified as expert riflemen. High honors as experts went to D. F. Colburn '36 and R. C. Warren '36 who tied at 336 out of a possible 350.

Other expert riflemen are C. D. Prescott '36, E. G. Young '36, E. G. Allen '36, J. H. Ainsworth '36 and F. M. Kearney '36. The two sharpshooters are P. Craig '36 and M. D. McCarthy '36. Average for the whole group was 331.5 out of a possible 350 or 1.5 points higher than the score required for honors.

FRESHMAN BALL TEAM DEFEATED BY CLARK SCHOOL 6-0

Hazelton Downs Kittens Allowing Only Four Hits

The Vermont freshman baseball team struck a snag and went down to a 6-0 defeat at the hands of Clark School on Saturday afternoon, at Centennial Field in a game characterized by the excellent hurling of Hazelton, Clark School ace and costly errors and misplays on the part of the Kittens.

Two innings the third and the fifth spelled defeat for the freshmen, when five hits, coupled with unsteadiness and errors, gave Clark School their six runs. The excellent hurling of Russ Sunderland, Kitten star moundsman, pulled his team out of trouble time and again during the course of the game. He struck out twelve and gave only one base on balls.

Meanwhile Hazelton was setting down Vermont as automatons, and they were helpless, getting only four hits, no man getting as far as third base during the entire nine innings. He struck out fourteen men to record fifty two strikeouts in his last three appearances on the mound.

BLUES DEFEAT WHITES IN SPRING FOOTBALL

Gerow Runs 20 Yards for Only Score of Game

Coach Sabo's spring football men played their first full hour game last Friday with the Blues victorious over the Whites by a 6-0 score. Gerow made the only touchdown with an off-tackle play and ran 20 yards for the goal. The kick failed.

Dick Guerdi the varsity football team captain, is looking in great shape for next season, ready to carry the team on to fall glory. Many of the other men are in fine shape with Walt Clark in particular, coming along beautifully in his kicking, having a good 45 yard average.

Y. W. C. A. VOCATION DAY HELD IN MUSEUM AND IN GRASSMOUNT WEDNESDAY

Miss Maddock Chairman of Panel Discussion Wednesday Evening

[illegible] Vocational Guidance Day was observed Wednesday, May 13, as [illegible] women students interested in learning more about the occupations which are becoming increasingly attractive to young women of today. The program was most interesting and successful due to the efforts of committees representing Y. W. C. A., Student Union and W. A. A.

Wednesday afternoon at 4 p. m. in the Living Museum, short talks were given by women experienced and successful in their chosen fields. They included Women and Vocations, Miss Maddock; Social Service, Miss Clifford; Libraries, Miss Williams; The Recreational Field, Miss Wentworth; Qualities Necessary for Women in Stores, Miss Cummings.

These women reviewed their own respective fields of work giving the prospects of future service, details as to the nature of their work and the types and personalities composing the requisite training. The brief talks a discussion period was held in which questions were asked these women concerning their chosen fields and also other vocations.

The afternoon session was in fact only an extended introduction to the evening program which was held at Grassmount at 7:30 p. m. The evening program consisted of a panel discussion, a unique feature new to Vermont campus and one more interesting in style and variety as well as in content. A panel discussion is run under competent direction the general outline of which is planned in advance so that the leader knows the point which each of the participants will take in the discussion and will be able to control the discussion so that it will not wander far from the goal and at the same time will be able to bring out the most interesting and diverse points of view. The participants were those who spoke in the afternoon with a few others who brought additional interests and points of view.

The purpose of the evening discussion was to bring out informally the opportunities that are open for women in the various vocational fields and to suggest methods by which training may be gained and positions secured. To judge from all reports, the purpose was realized.

Miss Maddock, State secretary of Y. W. C. A. led the panel discussion at Grassmount.

The four fields of service discussed, social service, recreation, personnel direction and library work, the speakers showed to be filled with opportunities that are new and distinct yet necessary for the growing needs and desires of the people. Each has become especially significant during the last few years. Recreation in particular, now changed from an avocational to a vocational level is in need of trained workers to teach people how to spend their added leisure hours. Personnel direction, too, has plenty of scope in helping people adjust themselves to new situations and environments.

Vocational Guidance Day in itself, served a rapidly growing need for help along this line among college women. Appreciation should be expressed to Y. W. C. A., Student Union and W. A. A. for making Vocational Guidance Day a success.

MIDDLEBURY OUTING CLUB ENTERTAINS DELEGATES FROM TWENTY COLLEGES

Movies and Discussions Feature Annual Conference of I. O. C. A. Held at Breadloaf Inn

The Middlebury Outing Club entertained representatives from twenty different colleges and universities at Breadloaf Inn in Breadloaf over the week-end of May 11 to May 13. The delegates from the University of Vermont were Gladys Sussdorff '36, Betsy Chase '38, I. D. Hawley '37, and H. H. Sabin '37. Other schools represented were: Rutgers, Yale, Connecticut College, Maine, Wellesley, Smith, Pembroke, Bates, Skidmore, Middlebury, Williams, Dartmouth, Massachusetts State, Mount Holyoke, New Hampshire, Barnard, Union, Cornell, Swarthmore, Vassar, Jackson, Wesleyan and Vermont. Alumni were present from Dartmouth, Vassar, Skidmore, Cornell, New Hampshire, and Yale.

This conference of the I. O. C. A. was held to acquaint members of this far-flung organization, to discuss problems of Outing Clubs in general, and to enjoy the scenic beauties of Breadloaf and the surrounding mountains. The Inn is situated on a secluded plateau in the Green Mountains, twelve miles from Middlebury. Its history is picturesque in the extreme; it was founded in 1865 with an eye to comfort and charm as well. It is owned by Middlebury College.

The Intercollegiate Outing Club Association as an organization is growing in importance as an almost necessary college corporation. It offers helpful suggestions and leviates weighty problems through the medium of timely discussion. Together on such a conference the members of many Outing Clubs can enjoy each others' company and partake of the beauties of the mountains and hills. The A. Y. H. News, published by The American Youth Hostel Association, East Northfield, Massachusetts, takes up the problem of establishing such a system of hostels for the benefit of American youth as is found all over Europe, notably in Germany.

The I. O. C. A. was conceived at Dartmouth in 1927 when several of the most prominent members of the D. O. C. got their heads together and visioned an organization which would include all of the mountaineers and outing club enthusiasts of a number of colleges. Although they feared that the responsibility for this might devolve itself entirely upon

Last Social Event of Season Features Sid Carsley

Plans have recently been completed for the Vermont Independents' Dance on Saturday, May 25, under a committee consisting of I. A. Lehrer '37, B. R. Levin '37 and R. Bingham '37. The affair will bring to a grand finale the social season of the year and will afford a last opportunity for students to dance away their cares before exams. The event is notable in that it is the first attempt of the Independents to stage a dance and it is hoped that the affair will become an annual institution. The dance will feature the last college appearance of Sid Carsley, whose music is becoming ever more popular, his tuneful arrangements wresting him a niche in the musical "Hall of Fame" of every appreciative music lover. He has assured us a program that will offer everything from sizzling fox-trots of the latest varieties to old favorites of past seasons. Sid has a new, scintillating arrangement of that never-grow-old "Stardust," written almost six years ago by Hoagy Carmichael who also wrote "Rocking Chair," "Lazy Bones," and "Moon Country," the piece was first intended as a classical hit. Its value as a ballad was quickly seen however, it was rearranged, and immediately swept the country as the most popular song hit ever written. Besides a novel arrangement of this piece the band has promised many others, along with several novelties, and assures a gala evening for all who attend.

It is hoped that the fraternities will cooperate in making this dance a success. Remember this is your last opportunity to attend a function of this kind this year.

EVEREST TO DIRECT V. C. A. FRESHMAN CAMP

A. S. Everest '36 announced that plans are under way for the annual University of Vermont Freshman Orientation Camp sessions, to be held the week before the University opens for the fall term.

Everest, in charge of the men's camp last September, will run the 1936 camp. Held at Camp Abnaki, on North Hero Island, on Lake Champlain, the object of the annual sub-freshman get-together is to provide prospective entrants into the University with a chance to talk with campus leaders and faculty members, and feel more acquainted with the University life, before arriving on the campus.

V. C. A. has sponsored the Men's Freshman Camp for the past few years.

STRONG THEATER SCENE OF JUNIOR WEEK PLAY

First Mystery Presented by University Players

"Cock Robin," the Junior Week play, was presented by the University Players Thursday evening at the Strong Theater.

The production was a play within a play. It was mystery in which Robinson (I. G. Fitzgerald '36), one of the Cope Valley Players, was murdered. Eight of the actors were suspected of having committed the crime because of their enmity for Robinson. Those under suspicion were Carlotta (Rosemary Cahill '36), his fiancee, because of a letter sent to Robinson by a former fiancée; Doctor Grace (R. M. Saxby '37) her uncle, and Mrs. Maxwell (Marion Herberg '36) her mother, intended to avoid her elopement with Robinson; Dick Lane (C. D. Howe '36) whose girl had been stolen by Robinson; Torrence (A. R. Wilcox '35) who bore the dead actor a grudge because of business dealings; and McAuliffe (R. S. Wright '35) who might have revenged Robinson's treatment of Mary Clinton, a former associate of McAuliffe. Mrs. Montgomery (Eleanor Douglas '37) and Mr. Cleveland (M. B. Newman '38) were also suspected.

The murder was solved by Dick Lane, and the guilty one proved to be Mr. McAuliffe who seemed to be the least guilty of the actors. Mr. Lane's point was based on the fact that McAuliffe had once been a skilled knife thrower in a circus.

The characters not suspected of the crime were Maria Scott (Mildred Rockwood '38), a young woman who aided in directing the Cope Valley Players; John Jessup (S. P. Belcher '37), a friend of Dick Lane; and Henry Briggs (H. H. Hunt '37), the stage manager.

Mrs. C. I. Taggart coached the play, the first mystery ever put on by the University players.

SUMMER SCHOOL GAINS TWENTY NEW TEACHERS

Sixty-five Faculty Members to Teach 165 Courses This Year

Several new instructors and new courses have been added to the summer session offerings at the University of Vermont this year. Among the new courses are courses in home economics, agricultural and mechanical arts, and rural school practice.

The faculty of sixty-five members is the largest ever assembled at the University for summer session courses. All but twenty of them are members of the regular teaching staff of the University. Among the new members, who are teaching for the first time or for the first time in several years at summer school are Arthur D. Butterfield, professor of mathematics and geodesy at the University; Alice Haley, from the Garland School of Homemaking, Boston, Mass., who will have the home economics courses; Sara M. Holbrook, assistant professor of education at the University; Edward F. Kibby, instructor in farm mechanics, Vermont State School of Agriculture, Randolph Center; Barbara Knight, instructor in art, Goddard School, Barre; Hazel B. Milcham, State Normal School, Willimantic, Conn., who will have rural school practice, demonstration and conferences; Elizabeth W. Morrill, director Peter Pan Nursery School, Burlington; Zehoe E. Scott, president, state Teachers College, Bridgewater, Mass.; Ethel M. Skinner, art instructor, College of William and Mary; Stanley J. Steward state supervisor of trades and industries, St. Johnsbury; Edmund L. Sussdorff, assistant professor of mechanical engineering at the University; Augustus D. Zanzig, director music service, National Recreation Association, New York City, who will be at the University for the first week.

Approximately 165 courses are being offered this year. They include courses in art, biology, botany, chemistry, economics, education, commercial education, home economics, English, speech, French, geography, German, history, Italian, Latin, mathematics, mechanical drawing, music, public school music, piano, philosophy, physical education, physics, psychology, science, social science, Spanish and typewriting.

CAROLYN HILL MAKES FRESHMAN CAMP PLANS

Carolyn Hill '36 states that women's freshman camp will be held as usual this September at Camp Hochelaga in South Hero. The purpose of this camp is to acquaint prospective freshmen with each other, campus leaders, and faculty members.

Last year there were eighty women who attended freshman camp and more than that are expected this fall.

The Y. W. C. A. sponsors this gathering and will meet before the opening of camp to make plans for the ensuing year. Carolyn Hill '36 is the director and Christine Brown '37 assistant director of this camp on Lake Champlain.

FRATERNITY PICNICS END JUNIOR WEEK FESTIVITIES

Peerade, Play, Prom, Games, Open Houses and Picnics

The festivities of Junior Week for 1935 are over. The past week-end was crowded with activities. They are all in the past now. Happy thoughts and memories will linger in the minds of the University of Vermont students for quite some time.

The Junior Week Peerade was the first event on the program. Thursday afternoon the fraternities and sororities on the hill made the Peerade possible, after forming along college row late in the afternoon, the floats proceeded down Main Street. The line of march from Main Street was north on Church Street to Pearl Street, west on Pearl Street to St. Paul Street, south on St. Paul Street to College Street, and east on College Street back to the campus. The R. O. T. C. Band marched ahead of the procession. Delta Psi won the Wig and Buskin cup for the men's floats and Alpha Chi Omega won the Masque and Sandal cup for the women's floats. The judges were Prof. L. W. Dean, Prof. J. T. Metcalf, and Coach J. H. Sabo.

"Who Killed Cock Robin," the Junior Week play this year, was presented by the University Players Thursday night at the Strong Theater. Twelve U. V. M. students made up the cast, which was coached by Mrs. C. I. Taggart.

Danny Murphy and his musical skippers of Boston were secured at the very last minute to play at the Junior Prom Friday in place of Willie Bryant, who was unable to come to Burlington due to illness of members of the orchestra. Dancing lasted from 9 a.m. to 2 a.m. College students, clad in white coats, acted as waiters serving food at the tables around the sides of the gym during intermission. In the receiving line were J. E. Crane '36, chairman of Junior Week, and Natalie Ferrin '37, hostess, Prof. and Mrs. L. S. Rowell and Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Braun.

The Middlebury-Vermont baseball contest scheduled for Saturday afternoon at Centennial was postponed due to inclement weather. However, the track meet between the U. V. M. freshmen and the combine forces of St. Johnsbury Academy and Lyndon Institute was held in the drizzling rain. The varsity tennis match with Union scheduled for Saturday on the back campus courts was called off also.

The men's Greek letter fraternities held open house Saturday night at their respective houses. Music for the dancing was furnished by orchestras from all parts of Vermont. Sunday afternoon several of the fraternities had picnics, ending the Junior Week social events for another year.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS TO HAVE FINAL MEETING

The final meeting of Le Cercle Français will be held sometime this week at the Alpha Chi Omega house. Anita Weir '35 has charge of the program.

After the business meeting games will be played and refreshments served.

At the last meeting G. P. Wiederman '38 of St. Raphael, France told about the school system over there. The talk was of great interest and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The University of Buffalo (New York) has been given a library of rare books, manuscripts and autographs valued at more than $500,000.

"THE DREAM OF THE LILAC" PRESENTED THURSDAY AT 4.30

Mortar Board Prepares Annual Pageant, Featuring Dancing, Poetry, and Color

Rehearsals are being held every day this week, as Mortar Board, Mrs. Dallas Pollard, Miss Annis Baldwin, and their corps of assistants prepare for the Lilac Day pageant, given this Thursday at 4.30 p.m. behind Redstone, in memory of the former Dean Pearl L. Wasson.

Featured in the pageant will be the poetry of Lois Whitcomb '35, the dancing coached by Elizabeth Haig '36, Viola Long '37, Edith Maddock '36, Priscilla Newton '38, and Miss Baldwin herself, solo dances by the four assistant coaches, colorful costumes and grouping of the principals.

In the cast for the pageant, the "Dream of the Lilac" are:

Herald	Mary Casey '35
White Lilac	Helen Miller '35
Goddess of Truth	Elizabeth Rich '35
Queen of Winter	Helen Mount '35
Queen of Spring	Susan France '35
Rain Queen	Ruth Barron '36
Sun Queen	Barbara Taylor '35

MIDDLEBURY OUTING CLUB ENTERTAINS DELEGATES FROM TWENTY COLLEGES

Movies and Discussions Feature Annual Conference of I. O. C. A. Held at Breadloaf Inn

Middlebury Outing Club entertained representatives from twenty different colleges and universities at Breadloaf Inn in Breadloaf over the week end of May 11 to May 13. The delegates from the University of Vermont were Sussdorff '36, Betsy Chase '38, Hawley '37, and H. H. Sabin '37. The schools represented were: Rutgers, Connecticut College, Maine, Wellesley, Smith, Pembroke, Bates, Skidmore, Middlebury, Williams, Dartmouth, Massachusetts State, Mount Holyoke, New Hampshire, Barnard, Union, Cornell, Swarthmore, Vassar, Jackson, Wesleyan and Vermont. Alumni were present from Dartmouth, Vassar, Skidmore, Cornell, New Hampshire, and Yale.

This conference of the I. O. C. A. was held to acquaint members of this far-flung organization, to discuss problems of Outing Clubs in general, and to enjoy the scenic beauties of Breadloaf and the surrounding mountains. The Inn is located on a secluded plateau in the Green Mountains, twelve miles from Middlebury. Its history is picturesque to the extreme; it was founded in 1865 with an eye to comfort and charm as well. It is owned by Middlebury College.

The Intercollegiate Outing Club Association, as an organization is growing in importance as an almost necessary collateral corporation. It offers helpful suggestions and leviates weighty problems through the medium of timely discussion. Whether on such a conference the members of many Outing Clubs can enjoy each others' company and partake of the beauties of the mountains and hills. The Youth Hostel News, published by The American Youth Hostel Association, East Northfield, Massachusetts, takes up the question of establishing such a system of hostels for the benefit of American youth to be found all over Europe, notably in Germany.

The I. O. C. A. was conceived at Dartmouth in 1927 when several of the more prominent members of the D. O. C. put their heads together and visioned an organization which would include all of the mountaineers and outing club enthusiasts of a number of colleges. Although it was feared that the responsibility for the project might devolve itself entirely upon

Last Social Event of Season Features Sid Carsley

Plans have recently been completed for the Vermont Independents' Dance on Saturday, May 25, under a committee consisting of I. A. Lehrer '37, E. R. Hall '37 and R. Bingham '37. The affair will bring to a grand finale the social season of the year and will afford a last opportunity for students to dance away their cares before exams. The event is unique in that it is the first attempt of the Independents to stage a dance and it is hoped that the affair will become an annual institution. The dance will feature the last college appearance of Sid Carsley whose music is becoming ever more popular, his tuneful arrangements giving him a niche in the musical "Hall of Fame" of every appreciative dancer. He has assured us a program that will offer everything from peppy fox trots of the latest varieties to the favorites of past seasons. Sid has a scintillating arrangement of that well-loved old "Stardust," written about six years ago by Hoagy Carmichael who also wrote "Rocking Chair," "Lazy Bones," and "Moon Country," the latter was first intended as a classical hot number but as a ballad was quickly seized upon when it was rearranged, and immediately swept the country as the most popular song hit ever written. Besides the special arrangement of this piece the orchestra has promised many others along with several novelties, and assures a gala time for all who attend.

It is hoped that the fraternities will cooperate in making this dance a success, for this is your last opportunity to attend a function of this kind this

To Jim Crane and his assistant in charge of decorations, Pat White, go the week's congratulations! For a mighty successful Junior Week! In the face of a deficit in the class treasury, a conservative New England student body who were not entirely certain that they liked the idea of a Jacobean motif, and a last-minute telegram from Willie Bryant's orchestra cancelling their engagement for the evening, Jim Crane put across a prom declared by all to be one of the best ever given. The substitute orchestra, Dan Murphy's, which flew here from Boston, was a popular substitute for the scheduled Willie Bryant's; especially commendable was its willingness to play, giving the shortest of pauses between dances that Vermont has known for a long time. The Jacobean fruits and animals and odd splashes of color were most astonishing and far more unusual and thought-provocative than ever before; the characteristic comment was "They're funny, but I like them!" And the lighting, too, was truly unique. Most commendable of all is the fact that all the decorations, all the lighting arrangements, were planned by students and were executed by students.

While all comment we personally have heard about the Prom and Junior Week as a whole has been enthusiastically favorable, it has come to our ears that some have criticized the directors of Junior Week, have held Jim Crane responsible for Willie Bryant's failure to appear.

In the hopes that it will serve to put a few minds at rest, we state a few general facts: That the Junior Week director did not know until he returned home at about 6.00 o'clock from putting the finishing touches on the gymnasium that Willie Bryant had telegraphed to cancel the engagement; that Willie Bryant himself had become ill, and that his orchestra refused to come without him; that the junior class is now planning to sue the colored orchestra leader for failing to live up to the terms of his contract.

Anyhow, it was a grand week-end, and we are all awfully sleepy.

The Catty Co-ed

"I wonder how my Konky is Tonight" —Slade Hall.

We understand that Fid has been made honorary colonel and will take over the Military Department next year.

What does "Execellant" mean, Professor Cook?

Twelve horses can certainly exert a lot of "horse-power"; how about it Howie?

How did Don Parker get out of that little room? or did he?

What does Dolly think of Miss (?) McNaught, Tup?

"Jump" will handle things again this week-end, ably assisted by Cousin Joe, who arrived on a fast freight yesterday afternoon.

Isn't it nice that the Owls and Phi Delts are to be so secluded after 10.30 p.m. Saturday.

Jim Crane and Konk Brown, formerly friends, are now at swords-points. Neither one would leave the other alone [illegible] on the beach. "How ya doing Konk."

Our most sincere felicitations to Pat White on the day she is managing her end of the Prom.

Also bouquets to Crane for an efficient administration.

Poor Susie! Hadn't you heard about Larry being the "Champ?"

How about the promised diet, Jerry?

The Catty Co-ed recommends that there be no classes Saturday. Why should there be? nobody goes.

When will we have a picture of Ducky?

"If the Catty Co-ed would only dig up her own dirt, the column might be something," quotes an indignant youth.

Deacon, aren't you glad that Alfy is going to have to manage all cyclones.

Review of Junior Week Play

Tuesday evening the 23rd, the University Players presented before a large and appreciative audience at the Strong Theatre their Junior Week offering. Friends of the Players were glad to see their return to the Strong, which was to all appearances justified by a house apparently much larger than those to which they have played in the last few years.

The play recalls a recent college production, The Torch Bearers. Cock Robin resembles the former in providing a certain amount of the good-humored fun which ribald outsiders love to poke at the productions of serious amateur groups. The novelty of the piece under review consists on the combination of mystery play with pleasant satire.

The Cope Valley Players are shown valiantly struggling with the dress-rehearsal of an eighteenth century comedy under the direction of their coach, a hard-boiled vaudeville actor, who has the function of underlining the satire. The second act has a certain surface similarity to Torch Bearers in showing us the stage reversed. Both show us the performance from front and back stage. Here the resemblance ceases. The second act is hardly under way when, in a duel scene, one of the principals is killed by being mysteriously stabbed in the back, unperceived by anyone on stage. The rest of the piece consists in throwing suspicion on almost every one, and then repeating the action of the play within the play in order to reveal the murderer. The startling denouement is the revelation of the director McAuliffe, a former vaudeville knife thrower as the murderer.

Outsanding in the performance was the acting of R. S. Wright, playing the part of McAuliffe, the professional coach. Excellent quality of voice, the cocksureness of the professional among amateurs, a imagery sort of humor, lifted his interpretation well above the average. The verve of his acting and good timing of speech and business prevented the sagging from which so long a part is apt to suffer.

More than adequate support was contributed by the women. Miss Cahill as Carlotta imparted much color and distinction to her part, and was especially effective, as also Miss Herberg, playing Mrs. Maxwell, her [illegible] tional scenes. Miss [illegible] comer, in the part of [illegible] eagle-eyed assistant [illegible] showed much promise [illegible] tions. Her rôle, [illegible] part, was treated with [illegible] of humor. Miss [illegible] gomery, the guiding [illegible] teur group, recalled her [illegible] in Torch Bearers, though she had less to do [illegible] best scene, that of the [illegible] before the curtain was [illegible] accustomed gusto, and [illegible]

Tramp! Tramp! Tramp!

Tramp! Tramp! Tramp! The girls were marching. And to the tune of old familiar melodies. About forty members of W. A. A. with Miss Constance Wetherell, Mrs. Bosworth, and Mrs. Hand as chaperones set out after a few games of tag at Robinson for Oakledge Manor. Down Cliff Street and out toward South Burlington they trudged their feet beating time to the rhythm of "Long, Long Trail," "Tipperary" and other old favorites.

After a delightful hike to the Manor there were new surprises in store for the hikers. A treasure hunt was announced and the trampers trailed over rocks and brush for another hour, keeping a weather eye open for small pieces of white paper which were to direct the way, "Go to Rock Plaza"—"Due South to Dwarf tree"—and near the shores of Lake Champlain forty pairs of feet covered the ground in a hurry. The hunt ended with Peggy Lockwood '37, Helen Brown '38, and Miss "Connie" Wetherell victorious but, generous souls, they divided the treasure and there was plenty for all.

After cooling off from the chase the merry crowd again approached the lake shore where two roaring fires had been started, their smoke curling heavenward. After hot dogs and marshmallows there was story-telling on the point. The huge yellow ball of fire in the sky lit up the whole point as, just before departing, the hikers blended their voices for "Lake Champlain."

The tramp home was no less cheery and everyone, so the report goes, retired with a tired but happy feeling resembling that of Mrs. Coolidge when she said: "I like to get tired, it feels so good to rest."

At the University of Arkansas (Fayetteville) the average students spend about four hours a week reading newspapers, magazines and books.

CAT'S MEOW

By Sports' Editor

Rain certainly took its toll of the activities of the Vermont teams during the [illegible] Monday and Tuesday [illegible] Middlebury and Union.

Perhaps it was just as well the baseball team didn't play Middlebury, since they had to engage the strong Dartmouth nine on the following day. The rest and preparedness which we were in the midst of Junior Week activities. The Prom does things to the legs and if we remember correctly several of the baseball men were there with pains. They didn't look like playing baseball either the afternoon Wolf met Middlebury later.

Union, which fell before Middlebury tennis team on Friday 5-4 was anxious to break even on this weekend trip so wanted a shot at the Green and Gold raqueteers, but old J. Pierce prevented it. The teams should have been evenly matched and had it not rained would have put on a good match.

The Dartmouth freshman who showed on our courts last Thursday looked very smooth and had little difficulty in taking every match from our boys. Many of these boys showed results of fine tournament play and the plans of prospectives for future development.

Congratulations to our wonder-ous trackmen especially to Herb Trudeau. He mastered to capture a first in the high jump at the Eastern Intercollegiate meet at Worcester last weekend. Even Del Lavoie was unable to clear 6 ft. 2 in. he did but won the event.

This will be a big week for the athletes with the baseball team engaging Dartmouth Norwich and Union, tennis team playing Clarkson at Maine and Middlebury, the track team going up against Montreal A. A. the crack Loyola team at Clark School and Dartmouth freshmen trash team against Green Mt. Jr. College here. Let's all get out to cheer them on!

R. O. T. C. BAND TO PLAY IN MONTREAL TUESDAY

Capt. M. E. Craig and Malcolm, Mascot, Will Accompany Band

The University of Vermont R. O. T. C. Band numbering 50 members and uniformed is Montreal on Tuesday, May 28 to play before the Kiwanis Club of that city, according to announcements made at the meeting when Last spring the band made a similar trip.

Rated one of the finest military bands in northern New England, the organization was heard last fall over radio station WCAX when the Vermont football team journeyed to Dimon College. Under the direction of Joseph E. Lombard, conductor of the Burlington Symphonic Orchestra, and ex-army band man, the Vermont aggregation has won an enviable reputation for itself in musical circles.

Accompanying the band to Montreal will be Capt. M. E. Craig, staff member of the R. O. T. C. faculty at the University, and his small son Malcolm, mascot and drum major extraordinary. The trip will probably be made to and from Montreal in one day and the concert will take place about noon in the Windsor Hotel.

OUTING CLUB DELEGATES MEET AT BREADLOAF INN

the I. O. C. A. colleges assembled to the cause which has since, in only five years, increased its number to twenty-three. Annual conferences are held during a week-end in early May, a "College Week" of mountain climbing and hiking is sponsored before college opens in September, and out of town ski week ends are run during the winter. The good fellowship and friendship which arises from the meetings is most enjoyable.

On Saturday afternoon, May 11, the delegates gathered to register at Breadloaf Inn. Until supper bell rang time was spent in reviving old friendships and making new ones. After supper moving pictures of outing club activities at Bates and Middlebury were shown to the great amusement of the delegates assembled. Dancing and song sessions were under the unofficial leadership of Roger Olcott of Yale, Sue Bruel of Vassar and Sey Dunn, an alumnus of Dartmouth.

On Sunday morning enthusiasm was aroused in hour length discussions on such subjects as I. O. C. A. policies, membership and finance, cabins and equipment, winter sports and carnivals, and publicity. For lunch they went to Lake Plesad where some of them "spasmodically jumped in and out of the lake." A lunch of large proportions was furnished by Middlebury Mountain Club Pointers on organization and trips followed for a short while, when informal walks along the Long Trail and minor rock climbing expeditions ensued until supper time.

Mr. William Simpson, a guest speaker, spoke upon his philosophy around the fireside, after which an open discussion progressed until a late hour.

The conference officially closed Monday morning when most of the delegates left for their respective colleges.

WOMEN TO HOLD FIELD DAY MONDAY, MAY 27

Varied Program Planned for Close of Successful Season

On Monday, May 27, if Jupiter doesn't decide he likes "The Rhythm of the Rain," the Spring Field Day climaxing a successful season in the physical education department, will take place on the athletic field near the Weather Bureau. The events are to begin at 3.30 p.m. with the finals in the tennis matches. These sets will be followed by the baseball and archery finals at four.

The baseball game will be between the Juniors and Seniors; the archery tournament will be shot off by a few from each class.

Along with all these enticing events Glenna Wright '37, who heads the committee, has planned a round robin of tennis for intermediates and of croquet for all who sign in the Y room.

Games of ping pong and clock golf can also be arranged if enough people show their interest by penning their name on the slip mentioned above.

There will ever be pink lemonade served at 5.15. Everyone who comes is promised a circus of a time. Awards for W. A. A. points will be given out; the all-sports cup and the tennis individual cup will be awarded. Five points just to come and watch. Be a sport. Come out and play!

Election of officers of the class of 1937 will take place Wednesday, May 29, in Dean Swift's office from 9.00 to 12.00 a.m. and from 2.00 to 4.00 p.m.

D. S. Parker '37, Pres.

Notice has been posted by the English department that all reports in English 28, the new required course in junior reading, are due not later than June 1. Juniors are reminded that English 28 is a credit course and that all deficiencies will be treated as in all regular courses.

CLASS OF 1937 TO ELECT OFFICERS WEDNESDAY

Election to Take Place in Dean Swift's Office From 9-12 and 2-4 O'clock

Officers for the class of 1937 will be elected next Wednesday in Dean Swift's office. The polls will be open from 9 to 12 a.m. and from 2 to 4 p.m.

The nominating committee met Wednesday afternoon in the Science Hall, and nominated the following list of people as candidates for the offices:

President—R. P. Lawton, S. Alpert.

Vice-President—Marion Bartlett, Helen Taylor.

Secretary—Martha McGillicuddy, Margaret Lockwood.

Treasurer—R. A. Kenworthy, B. J. Levin.

Faculty-Student Council (one to be elected from each college)—Arts, S. P. Belcher, J. T. Webster, I. A. Lehrer; Agriculture, W. L. Jenks, H. A. McMillan; Engineering, A. H. Ross, F. H. Truax.

Women at Large (two to be elected)—Ruth Quinn, Sally Carr, Glenna Wright.

Ariel—Editor in-Chief, J. J. Barsalow, H. H. Hunt; Business Manager, F. M. Shaine, P. F. Pond.

OUTING CLUB SPONSORS MANSFIELD HIKE SUNDAY

All Interested Invited to Go—To Leave Gym at 9 O'clock Sunday Morning

The final trip of the year occurs Sunday when the Outing Club will conduct a hike up Mount Mansfield. The participants will leave the gym at nine in the morning and return around six at night. An invitation is extended to all those who are interested in mountain climbing, especially to any members of the faculty who would like to go.

A spring mountain trip is an innovation and should appeal to the nature lovers of the college. Last fall, the official Mountain Day turned out to be rather dull and drizzily, in part obscuring the real beauty of the trip. The decision to hold the hike was made partly for this reason, and partly because such a trip is always timely and of inspiration. All freshmen who failed to climb the mountain in October should be particularly anxious to view Vermont from the ridgepole of its roof.

The hikers will proceed by car to the trail and from there on, on foot. Coffee will be provided at the Mabel Taylor Butler Lodge for lunch, and other edibles may be brought by individuals. Short trips and explorations up to and about the summit will comprise the afternoon's entertainment. On the way home, Miss Patterson has kindly asked the hikers to stop in at her camp and partake of a coffee-pie-and-cheese feast. Then home after a day of vigorous joy in the famed mountains of Vermont.

DICKINSON HEADS V. C. A. CABINET FOR NEXT YEAR

Gilmore to Edit Handbook, Everest to Direct Freshman Camp

The newly elected chairman of the V. C. A. is L. A. Dickinson '36. He will succeed R. S. Wright '35, present officer. Elections held recently resulted in the naming of a nucleus cabinet. Reorganization of offices will take place before the rest of the cabinet is elected.

The secretary-treasurer is R. D. Dopp '37. The chairman of deputations is C. K. Houghton '38. The new director of publicity is C. A. Maggs '38. Project chairman will be A. S. Everest '36. Everest will also direct freshman camp and R. D. Dopp will be assistant director. H. R. Gilmore '37 will be editor of men's freshman handbook and W. M. Burrows '37 is the business manager.

Dickinson, the new chairman, played freshman football and basketball, has been active this year in boys' club work at the Community Y, is a member of the college swimming team, has been chairman of student service on the V. C. A. this year.

Dopp was this year director of publicity on the cabinet. He is a member of Sigma Nu. He has been in the choir and glee club, serving as assistant manager in the latter. He gained his numerals in track.

Houghton, deputations director, has been active all year in the work. He has sung in the glee club and is a new assistant manager. He has been active in freshman cabinet work and is now out for track.

Maggs, who will handle publicity, has been active in freshman cabinet work and served as secretary. He played football this year. He is a member of S. A. E. fraternity.

Everest last year directed freshman camp. This year he was vice-chairman of the cabinet. He is editor of the Cynic, ex-manager of men's glee club, member of choir. Also a member of John Dewey Club and Pi Gamma Mu. He is a member of Delta Psi.

Gilmore is at present a news editor on the Cynic. He has consistently ranked high on the dean's list, being the only freshman last year to make all-A average.

Burrows is a member of Sigma Phi fraternity. He has been active in the Vermont Outing Club. He has been director of intramural meets this year.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR G. N. MILLETT '37

Funeral services of George N. Millett '37 were held last evening at the Gray funeral home in Westfield, N. J., at 8 p.m. Millett, a sophomore at the University and a member of Sigma Phi fraternity, was fatally injured late Tuesday afternoon when a skittish horse bolted, stumbled, threw him and then fell on him. Death occurred shortly afterward at the Mary Fletcher Hospital, resulting from a fractured skull.

His parents, who were notified of the accident at once, immediately left their home for Burlington, and were en route when death occurred. The body was taken to their home in Cranford Wednesday noon.

Millett was a rider of considerable experience and on the day of the accident had gone out riding with R. G. Clausen '38. The accident occurred at the intersection of Spear Street and Williston Road.

The victim leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Millett of Cranford; a brother, J. J. Millett, a junior at Vermont; and a married sister, also of Cranford.

The senior class boatride will definitely be held this year, but will not be sponsored by the class itself.

PI GAMMA MU HOLDS ITS ANNUAL BANQUET

Everest and Puckridge Elected as New Officers of Society—New Members Initiated

Pi Gamma Mu, national honorary social science society, held its annual initiation banquet Wednesday evening at Oakledge Manor. A. S. Everest '36 was elected president for the coming year, and Roberta Puckridge '36 secretary.

The banquet was attended by faculty and students. The following initiates were present: Ruth Barron, Carolyn Hill, Kathleen Kieslich, Rebekah Joslin, Roberta Puckridge, and A. S. Everest, all of the class of 1936. The banquet was arranged by Margaret Levarn '35.

R. J. Delfausse '35, retiring president, presided. A short history and review of the aims of the society was given by Miss Gennette Davis. Prof. G. G. Groat, economics department head, was the main speaker of the evening. He stressed the need for social science in the social order of the American life at the present dangerous time.

Pi Gamma Mu has 148 chapters, with 18,000 members throughout the country in the span of its ten years' existence. Its purposes are scholarship, a scientific attitude of study, a social outlook and social idealism. Its chief function on this campus is its yearly banquet.

THIEF VISITS STUDENTS' ROOM WEDNESDAY AND STEALS MANY CLOTHES

Some time Wednesday morning between 9.30 and 11.30 a burglar ransacked the room of D. V. Stiles '38 and A. A. Brosseau, P.-G., on the second floor of the poultry building, while they were attending classes, stealing several articles of clothing. The thief entered the room by jimmying the door open, and then broke the padlock off the clothes press.

Dean Hills reported the affair to the police, and investigation revealed that nearby residents saw a young man leave the poultry yard at about ten o'clock, and go toward Colchester Avenue, where two other men were waiting for him.

The thief stole Stiles' suitcase, after taking off the Vermont seal. Among the other things which were stolen was a new brown suit, a hat, several ties, a pair of shoes, all belonging to Stiles, and several suits of clothes, neckties and underclothes belonging to Brosseau.

FIRST VENTURE OF ITS KIND FOR INDEPENDENTS

The Vermont Independents, that newly formed organization on the hill composed of all non-fraternity men, will sponsor the last dance of the season in the gymnasium this Saturday evening. Sid Carsley and his popular band will furnish syncopation for the gala occasion. It was through the special efforts of the committee in charge, composed of I. A. Lehrer '37, B. R. Levin '37 and R. J. Bingham '37 that this ever-popular orchestra was secured. This will be the last college dance at which Carsley will play, due to the fact that next year will mark the beginning of a period of internship for the band's organizer and leader.

Prof. and Mrs. H. L. Briggs of the history department and Prof. and Mrs. W. H. Behney of the zoology department will be chaperones for the occasion.

Those in charge of the affair promise a special treat for all those who make use of this last opportunity to attend a college dance this semester. Special effort is being directed toward lighting effects. And, although decorating will not be attempted on the scale of that at the Junior Prom, a scheme for lessening the severity of the big hall has been laid.

Sid Carsley, whose music is becoming ever more popular, will submit to the approval of those who attend a number of new and pleasingly different arrangements of familiar melodies. In addition, some of the newest hit discoveries will be offered. He will render many novel arrangements of popular tunes which help make his band hold such wide, popular approval. He is certain to give the dancers his best at this last dance.

This is the first venture of its kind in which the Vermont Independents have undertaken, and those in charge hope that everyone will turn out to help make it a success. The committee in charge stresses the fact that this is the last college dance of the season, and the last opportunity to hear Sid Carsley's orchestra. Admission will be one dollar and ten cents per couple, including tax.

R. O. T. C. BATTALION GIVES EXHIBITION TONIGHT

All Those Enrolled in Military Science Required to Attend

The competitive drills and award of honors in the department of military science and tactics of the University of Vermont will take place this evening at eight o'clock in the cage of the gymnasium.

A selection by the R. O. T. C. band, with J. F. Lechnyr as leader, will open the program. Then the reception of the colors with the national anthem will take place. Col. F. W. Rowell, professor of military science, will give an address of welcome.

The freshman and sophomore drill-down competition, conducted by Scabbard and Blade Society, will follow. Then a demonstration drill by representatives of the freshman class will be presented under the supervision of Capt. F. Colby, professor of military science. Next the squad drill competition by fraternity challengers for the Reserve Officers' cup will be held. The judges will be: Capt. A. S. Knight, United States Infantry; Capt. E. T. Kimball, 172nd Infantry, Vermont National Guard; and First Lieut. S. P. Collins, United States Field Artillery.

Four squads, representing Delta Psi, Phi Delta Theta, Phi Mu Delta and Independents, will enter the competition. Due to the untimely death of one of the members of its squad, George N. Millett, Sigma Phi fraternity withdrew from the competition.

The U. V. M. band will play another number, "Something About a Soldier," followed by the announcement of awards by Capt. M. R. Craig, professor of military science, assisted by Staff Sgt. R. T. Cannon.

FIRST VENTURE OF ITS KIND FOR INDEPENDENTS

[illegible] Independent Association [illegible] on the ball [illegible] gymnasium this Saturday evening. Sid Carsley and his popular band will furnish the music for the [illegible] Independents. The committee in charge, composed of L. A. Lemay '36, R. R. Levin '37 and R. J. Houghton '38, [illegible] that this ever popular orchestra was secured. This will be the last college dance at which Carsley will play, due to the fact that next year will mark the beginning of a period of [illegible] for the band's engagement [illegible].

Prof. and Mrs. H. L. Briggs of the history department and Prof. and Mrs. W. H. Rehney of the zoology department will be chaperones for the occasion.

Those in charge of the affair promise a special treat for all those who make use of this last opportunity to attend a college dance this semester. Special effort is being directed toward lighting effects. And, although decorating will not be attempted on the scale of that at the Junior Prom, a scheme for lessening the severity of the big hall [illegible].

Sid Carsley, whose music is becoming ever more popular, will submit to the approval of those who attend a number of new and pleasingly different arrangements of familiar melodies. In addition, some of the newest hit discoveries will be offered. He will render many novel arrangements of popular tunes which help make his band hold such wide, popular approval. He is certain to give the dancers his best at this last dance.

This is the first venture of its kind in which the Vermont Independents have undertaken, and those in charge hope that everyone will turn out to help make it a success. The committee in charge stresses the fact that this is the last college dance of the season, and the last opportunity to hear Sid Carsley's orchestra. Admission will be one dollar and ten cents per couple, including tax.

SINGING CONTEST TO BE HELD IN MUSEUM TOMORROW EVENING

Interscholastic Competition of Winners of District Contests for Scholarships

The final competition in the Vermont interscholastic singing contest, sponsored by the Headmasters' Club of Vermont, will be held in the Fleming Museum auditorium Saturday evening at eight o'clock. The competitors include six boys and six girls, all winners in district contests held by the state last week.

Scholarships will be awarded by the University of Vermont to first, second and third place winners. The winners have already won scholarships to the University of Vermont by virtue of their victories in the district competition.

The competitors from the Burlington district are: Robert LaMorder, Montpelier High School; Loren Bishop, Burlington High School; Elsie Thorp, St. Albans High School; Helen Whiting, Burlington High School.

From the St. Johnsbury district they are: Allan Kendall, Newport High School; George Goss, Barton Academy; Elizabeth Richmond, St. Johnsbury Academy; Inda Louise Hovey, Barton Academy.

From the Springfield district they are: Edward Templeton, Springfield High School; Richard Gerken, Bennington High School; Margaret Toth, Fair Haven High School; Claudia Renehan, Hartford High School.

The public is invited to attend the final contest in the Fleming Museum auditorium Saturday night, May 25, at eight o'clock.

KAPPA DELTA TO HOLD HOUSE PARTY MAY 25

The Kappa Delta sorority is having a house party at Thompson's Point in the Gove summer camp during the coming week-end. They plan to have a victrola dance Saturday night and Sunday night a picnic supper and treasure hunt. All the members are going and it will be a joyous week-end darkened only by the thoughts of coming separation during the summer months and the farewell to girls graduating this year.

What I Have Learned In The United States

By EDITH ANDERSON '38

Liesel Langwardt's eyes twinkled as she answered her interviewer's question concerning Hitler. "Since I have been in the United States I have learned that German women like Hitler because he wears mustache and makes German women get married. Another American tells me that the women are degraded under his régime, because he prefers them married rather than in professions.

I have even heard that American girls don't want to go to Germany, because Nazi men arrest them in the streets if they wear lipstick. They also hesitate to come because German girls wear only cotton stockings and dance folk dances."

Americans are great teasers. I have learned how to take it—kidding.

Interviewer: Do you find our everyday language different from that which you learned in your university?

L. B.: I can now use slang and understand swearing. One German exchange student surprised her professor one morning with, "Hello, Babe!" She thought it was a form of greeting suitable for everyone.

Although I know what a hamburger and a frankfurter are, a friend of mine didn't until a short time ago. He didn't understand why everyone laughed when in answering the question of what he was, he said, "I am a Hamburger."

I.: Did many of our social customs strike you as being rather peculiar?

L. B.: Speaking to boys first seemed very queer to me. Nobody realized how hard it was at first, because if we did at home they would think that we wanted to catch them.

I was also surprised to note that students addressed each other by their first names.

Here, so I have discovered, women give public speeches and have their own fraternities.

I.: What do you think of American men?

L. B.: I don't know them; but I have noticed that they don't wear garters.

It seems to me that Dutch treat should be introduced as it makes women more independent, promotes a better feeling of comradeship, and it's fairer since men don't necessarily have the most money.

Every time a boy gets a peculiar hair cut they call it a German hair cut. It is the same with measles—they really aren't German.

Monday afternoon's switch clash and last out in the sophomore-freshman baseball game from which the sophomores emerged victorious 12 to 10. Lou Hammond '37, pitching for the sophomore team, proved also to be a fair ... batter. The upperclass nine happened to be but six for three members were unavoidably absent. But six against nine meant nothing to the members present the game must go on—and did.

It was but a three inning game and the first inning the sophomore six piled up nine runs to the freshmen's two. The second inning left the totals 10-3 in the six's favor. The third found the freshmen made a last courageous spurt, piling up seven runs to the sophomores two, leaving the final score 12-10.

Abbie Howe '37 will soon acquire the nickname "Babe" if she keeps hitting home runs. She succeeded in driving out two homers and a hit which kept the fielders busy. Following is the line-up:

PAST HIKE

Chalk it up you moonlight hikers. It was decided that fifteen points should be given toward W. A. A. awards. This should be an incentive to all those who were "Ho-Hum," just too tired to get themselves out last Friday night. Fifteen points and a lot of fun to boot. The next time the call comes everybody should step out.

FIELD DAY

Just remember next Monday is the date for Field Day and a grand time is to be had by all. There'll be—hmm! Get out your specks and find another article in this paper which will tell you all about it. Don't miss it! Fun for everyone. Sign up for events in the Y room.

MANY AWARDS TO BE GIVEN OUT TONIGHT

Competition of Varied Types Takes Place Tonight in Gym

Ten awards will be presented tonight at the assembly of the battalion in the cage.

Mildred L. Bartlett '35, honorary co-ed colonel of the R. O. T. C. Battalion, will present the Scabbard and Blade cups, awarded annually to the freshman and sophomore member of the R. O. T. C. who is judged the winner of a competitive drill in the execution of the manual of arms.

Rifle team letters will be given out by S. C. Abell, graduate manager of athletics.

Col. F. W. Rowell will present the Corps Area medals and the Hearst trophy and medals.

Capt. E. Colby will award the Appleton-Century prize, a copy of "The Profession in Arms," autographed by the author, to the member of the sophomore class who makes the highest grade in the theoretical studies in the subject of tactics.

Four medals presented by the Vermont Society Sons of American Revolution, will be awarded by Prof. A. D. Butterfield, one to the member of each class who has been outstanding in character, conduct, leadership, and in the practical and theoretical work of the year's course with the proviso that winners of former medals in previous years are ineligible to win a second medal.

The Hon. H. M. McFarland, a trustee of the University of Vermont, will present the Loyal Legion saber, a regulation commissioned officer's saber, to that member of the senior class who attains the highest standing in the R. O. T. C.

The American Legion trophy, a silver shield, will be awarded to that company of the R. O. T. C. Battalion which shows itself most proficient in attendance, neatness, and drill. Company D won the award last year. Vice-Com. O. Beckert of Burlington Post, No. 2, of the American Legion will make the presentation.

The Reserve Officers' cup will be awarded by Col. R. W. McCuen to that fraternity which wins the annual competition for the best-drilled squad composed of freshman and sophomore members of the R. O. T. C. Delta Psi won the prize in 1934.

Members of Sigma Chi fraternity at the University of Minnesota (Minneapolis) were forced to postpone their spring formal when a brother came down with scarlet fever, necessitating every member being subjected to tests.

The meet under the auspices of the ...Y officials will probably pave the way ...for a series of contests between these ...two institutions.

The 40 yard and 80 yard dash were ...both won by Parker in behalf of the ...remarkable time of 21.2. Dr. Walter ...M. Saunders was runner up for high ...scoring by taking a first in the 40 yard ...breast stroke and a first in the diving.

Summary of the meet:

Forty-yard free style: First, Parker (V); second, Thomas (V); third, Mount (Y). Time 21.2 sec.

Forty-yard breast stroke: First, Saunders (Y); second, Suitor (V); third, Stetson (V). Time 27.4 sec.

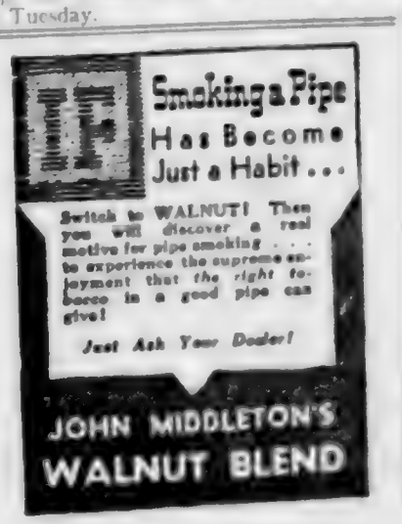
Forty-yard back stroke: First, Hanna (Y); second, Dickinson (V); third, O'Neale (Y). Time 27.2 sec.

Eighty-yard free style: First, Parker (V); second, Hanna (Y); third, Libby (V). Time 50 sec.

Medley relay: First, Vermont (Dickinson, Suitor, Libby).

Diving: First, Saunders (Y); second, Mount (Y); third, Stetson (V). Score 72 points.

TENNIS TEAM TO PLAY MIDDLEBURY TOMORROW



The U. V. M. netmen will sally forth on their own courts against Middlebury this Saturday for their last encounter of the year. Coach Carpenter is putting the boys through strenuous workouts daily to get them into condition for one of the hardest matches of the year, not only because Middlebury has a well-rounded club but the ubiquitous rivalry between the Catamounts and the Panthers leaves room for either club to nose out the other, regardless of the former records.

Bart Costello, playing the No. 1 position will have to put all he has into his matches to overcome the initial player, who, incidentally, turned back the best that Union could offer last week, and is considered one of the ranking players of the East. The remainder of the club will have to do their best to turn back the Panther Middlebury, who defeated Vermont rather easily earlier in the season, expects to repeat, but Coach Carpenter promises that his gladiators will be a tougher morsel to chew this time.

R. O. T. C. BAND TO TAKE TRIP TO MONTREAL

The R. O. T. C. band will make a trip to Montreal, P. Q., next Tuesday. Forty students will take the journey to Canada. At Montreal the band, directed by J. F. Lechner, will play at a Rotary Club meeting in the Windsor Hotel.

Capt. M. E. Craig and his son, Malcolm, Jr., as mascot, will accompany the University of Vermont musicians on the trip. The concert will be held at noon on Tuesday.

Cat Runners Should Repeat Last Year's Victory

Tomorrow the track team vies with the Montreal A. A. team on our own campus. Judging the two teams the fight should be pretty even on both ends.

Coach Post will, of course, use the regular men who have been working hard all season. Trudeau, Syme, DeStefano and Collins will be among those expected to come through with laurels for U. V. M.

Montreal's outstanding men are Worral and Horn for the hurdles and high jumps. Simpson their best dash man, Wade who will run the long distances and Hughes, for the half-mile. The last three named are very strong and will be the most difficult competitors of the Montreal team for our men to run against.

Ross, Parks and Barton in the weights, MacMillan and Davis in the middle distances and Lehrer in the distances are also expected to garner some points for the Green and Gold. The meet starts at 1:30 p.m.

Coach Archie Post will have charge of the Cat cinder team on Saturday to work out against the Montreal A. A. A. With the big relay meeting coming off the following week, the intercollegiate, the team is ready to go places and with DeStefano, Trudeau, Parks, MacMillan and Worrall taking to go should take over the Aggie team from the North.

CATS TO MEET TUFTS TOMORROW IN RETURN GAME AT BURLINGTON

FROSH TRACK TEAM MEETS G. M. J. C.

At Poultney Saturday our freshman track team is to meet Green Mountain Junior College in the last of their encounters this season.

The Green Mountain Junior College team last week to Montpelier Seminary with a 72 1/3 score. The G. M. J. C. men took two firsts and a few seconds and thirds. Even in the broad jump and Zabriskie in the high jump being their best. On the whole, their team is not very powerful and with some of our outstanding men such as Dodgson, Lamson, Conley, Pratt and LaPlant we should be able to handle them without much trouble.

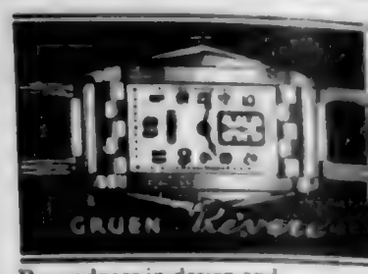
VERMONT INDEPENDENTS ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Officers for next year were elected at a recent meeting of the Vermont Independents. H. R. Gilmore '37 was elected president, F. H. Truax '37 was elected secretary and B. J. Levin '37 was elected treasurer.

The Vermont Independents is a newly formed organization, composed of all non-fraternity men on the hill. Although it is still young the group has participated in or plans to participate in, many events. The Independent interfraternity baseball team has not yet lost a game this spring. As a climax to the year's activities the Independents are sponsoring a college dance this Saturday night, offering Sid Carsley's music.

FRENCH CLUB TO MEET WEDNESDAY, MAY 29



Anita Weir '35 announces that there will be a meeting of the French Club Wednesday, May 29. It is yet to be decided whether the picnic will be held at this time or perhaps at a later date.

One of the active clubs on the Vermont campus, Le Cercle was entertained at its last meeting by G. P. Wiedeman '38, a native of St. Raphael, France.

During his talk before the club Wiedeman described the differences in the American and French school systems.

Vol. LX Mon. 28 1934 No. 68

[illegible] the Memorial Day week the war head of our country [illegible] "It is [illegible] enough that we should die [illegible]" But to carry on the University's [illegible] we must be [illegible] and decorating graves, we cannot [illegible] parades of our [illegible], but do we want to do only this?

Early [illegible] we [illegible] to [illegible] to carrying on the work that the [illegible] of [illegible] has [illegible] started. We need to maintain our personal liberty of thought and action in the midst of [illegible] instead of the [illegible] of power; we need to assure the peace of [illegible] and of the world for all time to come.

[illegible] all agree on ways of maintaining liberty and peace. Some believe that we [illegible] communism or socialism a way of [illegible] distribution of goods and more actual personal opportunity.

Some believe that the way to prevent war is to refuse to support any kind of war. Others still haven't learned a lesson from the past, and advocate slogans like "America for Americans". "Keep out of the League and entangling alliances."

It is not for the living on this Memorial Day, to think about the future, but the past. Let us take unto ourselves the personal duty of doing our best as we see it toward the advance of justice and peace for all time.

Some people will do things in a crowd they would never think of doing alone or with one or two people. Whatever it is that makes them [illegible], it is a force to guard against.

The way people act at ball games is a glaring example of crowd action. Some fans at recent games [illegible] credit to the University, and more to the individuals concerned.

We have sometimes had the disagreeing with the umpire when he calls one [illegible] our favor, but to continue heckling and booing throughout a game is a different thing. A referee may be wrong once or twice, but even by the laws of chance he isn't going to be wrong every time. In addition to the issue of chance operating, an umpire is supposed to have been selected because of sufficient ability at refereeing.

When a man in a coaching team is called from the Vermont stand, a "Boo" and when the entire stand hisses and jeers in encouragement, the results of [illegible] will benefit. Whoever called the name did it unthinkingly and would never have done it if he had been alone. Human [illegible] is a [illegible] mass, and so many regrettable acts, the only way to prevent [illegible] personalities is to think twice before speaking or acting.

DIONNE QUINTUPLETS TO BROADCAST TUESDAY

The Dionne quintuplets, most famous [illegible] in the world, at last are ready to [illegible] the microphone on Tuesday, May [illegible] from [illegible] at [illegible] P.D.S.T., the [illegible] promised for the Columbia broadcasting system, and [illegible] the most modern in show [illegible] devised to be made [illegible] their first birthday party. Young [illegible], Graham McNamee and Mac[illegible] two of those who will [illegible] a part in [illegible] radio program, which will be heard throughout Canada as well as the United States and [illegible] was arranged by the Canadian Radio Commission. Dr. Allan R. Dafoe, the family physician, [illegible] will be [illegible] the Dionne quintuplets into the world, who has cared for them since [illegible] whose services were in New York City [illegible] will speak during the broadcast. Others [illegible] for the program include Judge [illegible] A. Valin, one of the officials guardians; Fred Bramley, Fred Grimm, [illegible] and Narcisse De Kerdrel and LeMaire.

LILAC DAY HELD MONDAY ON REDSTONE CAMPUS AT 4.30 BY MORTAR BOARD

Lois Whitcomb '35 Writes Pageant "Dream of the Lilacs" for Performance

ANNUAL U. V. M. TRADITION

Held in Memory of Dean Pearl Randall Wasson First Dean of Women at Vermont

"Dream of the Lilacs," a pageant by Lois Whitcomb '35 was presented in honor of former Dean Randall Wasson, in the beautiful setting of the east lawn of Redstone on Monday, May 27. It was presented by Mortar Board in accordance with annual custom and tradition to recognize the coming of spring with a colorful and symbolic pageant.

The first Lilac Day was held under the direction of the first Dean of Women at the University of Vermont, Pearl Randall Wasson. She wished that the grounds at Redstone be increased for future generations by a magnificent hedge of lilacs and that the planting of each year be made a day of festivity and cheer.

Dancing as well as speaking parts were taken by members of Mortar Board and by dancers under the direction of Mary Baldwin.

The cast consisted of: Herald, Mary Lee '35. The White Lilac, Helen Lee '35. The Goddess of Truth, Eliza Rich '35; The Queen of Winter, Viola Mount '35; Queen of Spring, Frances France '35; Rain Queen, Ruth Hope, Sun Queen, Barbara Taylor Hope, Madeline Ainsboro '35. Purple Lilac, Carolyn Hill '35. Spirit of White Lilac, Edith Maddock '36, Spirit of Purple Lilac, Elizabeth Haig '36, Spirit of Winter, Viola Long '37, Spirit of Spring, Priscilla Newton '38.

The Maidens of Truth were: E. Newton, R. Quinn, B. Wells, M. Howe, E. Isworth, I. Ainsboro, C. Bishop, Beck and A. Stiles. Snowflakes were: M. Hall, R. Wood, G. Jones, M. McGillicuddy. Raindrops: K. Donahue, F. Howe, H. Gray, H. Taylor, F. Roche, Grace, M. Millett. Jonquils: J. Colton, S. Carr, J. Smith, E. Churchill, M. Flood, L. Fairbanks, R. Bronson, Goldfield, E. Eaton, H. Wright, Smith, M. Brown, P. Hunt, P. Howe, E. Matthews, M. Draper, P. Howe, O. Griffith, B. Redding, D. Corey. Hare Tulips: S. Clark, M. Woodcock, T. Fayette, T. Mumeau, G. Smith, N. Falby, V. Long. Leaves: E. Wood, E. Douglass, E. Hall, G. Howe, K. King, J. Ripper, S. Jarvis, J. Bristol, G. Jones, M. McGillicuddy, Roger, M. Whitney. The little Raindrops were: Joan Percival, Gloria Jarvis, Haigh, Nellie Laird, Lola Sundquist, Marguerite Soderstrom and Joan [illegible].

Miss Dallas Pollard, who for the last two years has coached Lilac Day, directed the play this year.

The music furnished by the University Band, under the direction of Professor Barnett, added much to the effect of the dances.

Just before the grand finale a gift was presented to Miss Whitcomb by Barbara Howe '35, former president of Mortar Board, in appreciation of her work. A large and appreciative audience attended the pageant which culminated the entertainments and symbolized the beginning of another year.

STUDENT UNION HOLDS JOINT COUNCIL MEETING

The first meeting of Student Union council and underclassmen of this year and last was held on Thursday May 30 at 7:30 at Oakledge Manor.

PROSPECTS FOR JOBS BRIGHTEST IN YEARS

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Columbus, Ohio—Cheer up, seniors. Ohio State University's professors are sure in their belief that prospects for jobs are much brighter than for many years.

Deans of five colleges stated that prospects were opening. Many more jobs are available this year than last and not, in the teaching field was there any doubt apparent. One dean declared, "Several inquiries have come in lately that I have not been able to fill."

And even in the field of veterinary medicine, according to Dean Oscar V. Brumley, College of Veterinary Medicine, there is a larger demand for graduates than he can supply.

W. A. A. COUNCIL

The council scheduled two meetings in one day on Wednesday, May 29. The first was a long business meeting held in the Gym office, Wednesday noon. The old constitution was revised and corrections made. New sport heads for archery and hockey were elected. Nancy Gillingham '38 will hold the place of campus archery manager for next year and the new hockey manager is to be Bonita Matthews '38.

Five o'clock found the new and old councils at a reunion picnic at the lake-shore camp of Harriet Gray '36, where hamburgers sizzled on the fire and coffee boiled hot. After a grand picnic lunch successfully planned by Helen White '38, there was a short business meeting on the shore, where plans were discussed for the coming year.

R. P. LAWTON ELECTED PRESIDENT OF '37 CLASS

Further Voting Today for Office of Vice-President

The outcome of the sophomore class election, held Wednesday, May 29, in the Deans Office is as follows:

President, R. P. Lawton; vice-president, a tie between Marion Bartlett and Helen Lasker; secretary, Martha McGillivray; treasurer, R. P. Kenworthy. Women Student Council—College of Arts, J. H. Webster; College of Agriculture, W. B. Jones; College of Engineering, V. H. Ross; women members, Ruth Quinn and Glenna Wright. Editor of 1937 Ariel, H. H. Hunt; business manager, P. L. Pond.

Further voting will be held today for the office of vice-president.

DEAN OF BARNARD SAYS JOBS CLOSED TO WOMEN

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York City—"Women are being forced back to the kitchen," not only because of the depression, but also because public sentiment is opposed to the idea of women working in men's jobs, Dean Virginia G. Gildersleeve of Barnard College declared recently in an address before members of the New York branch of the American Association of University Women.

"Opportunities are being closed to women and they are discriminated against when seeking jobs," Dean Gildersleeve asserted. "An example of this is the unwillingness of employers to appoint a capable woman to a position. Jobs are now regarded as a sort of dole. You are reluctant to give them to persons who need them the most rather than to those who are best qualified for the work.

"The 'belonging situation' in education is also pointed to by Dean Gildersleeve. In some communities, she said, school teachers were paid less than persons receiving 'the dole.'

Going Home?

And there is just one thing to do now . . . besides saying fond campus farewells—get yonder trunks, baggage, impedimenta, etc., on its way.

Good 'ole Railway Express is here to your rescue. Just phone us and we'll pick up the shipment, anywhere, anytime, right to the door of your destination, and collect the charges at either end if you prefer.

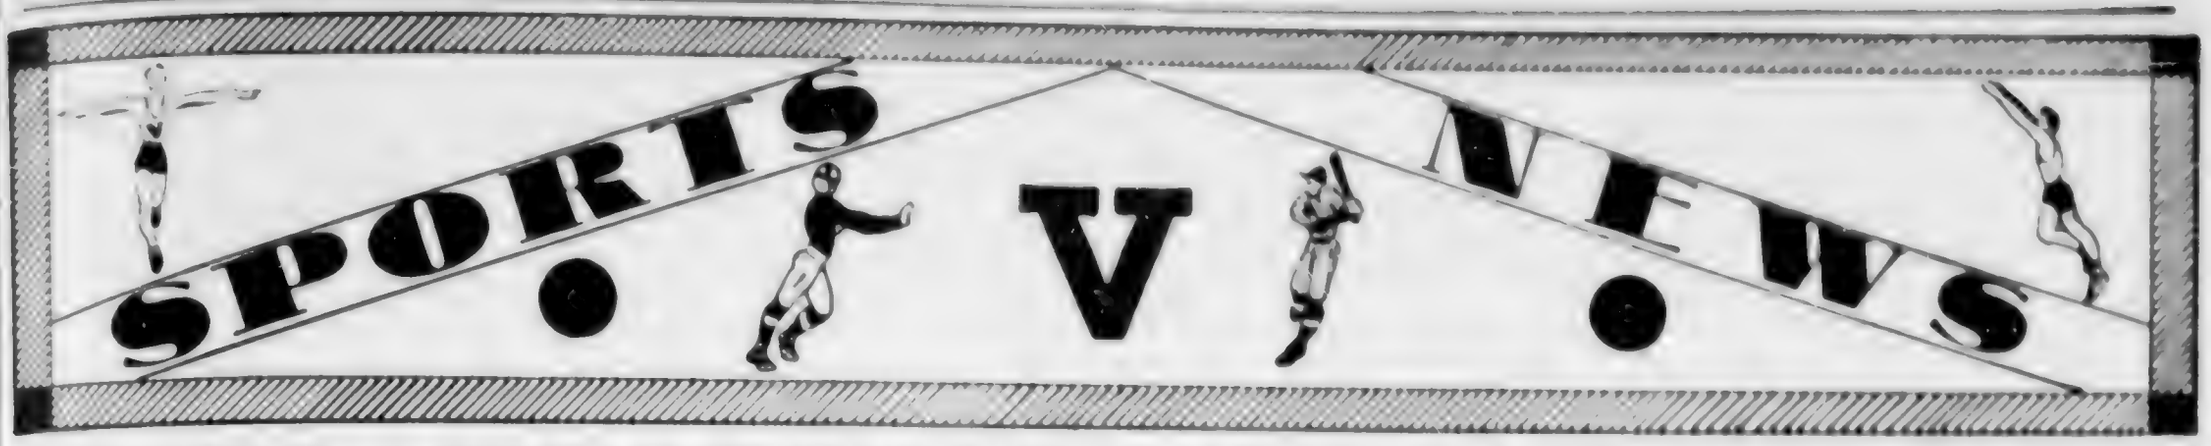
The cost is low, and it's a pleasure. Board your trunk and forget all about it—without a bother or worry.

Here is what most folks want to know about our service:

1. It includes Call and Delivery service in principal cities and towns in all districts where vehicular service is maintained.

2. One reliable company handles the entire service—door to door—in all cases.

3. The charges for Railway Express compared with other forms of transportation are low.



4. Charges may be paid by shipper or consignee, whichever arrangement may be most convenient, when delivered.

5. Railway Express Agency carries insurance of $50.00 without extra charge on packages weighing 100 pounds or less. On packages weighing more than 100 pounds, insurance at the rate of 50c per pound will be provided. Additional insurance in any amount may be obtained at the time of shipment at reasonable rates therefor.

6. To use this fast, dependable service, simply telephone the Railway Express Agent.

UNITED STATES DECLARED CHEMICALLY FREE

(By Intercollegiate Press)

Boston, Mass.—"The United States is now economically independent of the rest of the world. Another World War would not so much as touch our supply of anything," Prof. James F. Norris, professor of chemistry at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, believes.

The chemical industry in this country has developed to such a fine degree of perfection, it can synthetically manufacture for its laboratories all materials now which it once had to depend upon foreign countries," Professor Norris pointed out.

More than 30,000 trained chemists could step into important positions within a day, he asserted, and could make remedies, including quinines, anaesthetics, and antiseptics, camphor to be used in the manufacture of explosives, rubber, and glycols and various alcohols to be used in the tanning of special leathers that will withstand varying weather conditions.

Sometime when the federal government would have been granted since 1925 ever aided the industry in research which has resulted in discovering substitutes of importance. Chemical products formerly had to be imported, Professor Norris explained.

FERA STUDENT PART-TIME WORK

No definite instructions have been received by the University regarding part-time work for students under FERA for the college year 1935-36. Plans, however, are being made looking forward to its continuance.

Students who desire to be considered for work, provided it is continued, are asked to leave their names at the FERA office and fill out the required forms before leaving college in June. This will enable the committee to plan out the work, and have assignments ready at the opening of the University in September.

All students who worked during May or June are requested to sign the payroll before leaving Burlington for the summer.

The payroll will be made out promptly if the time slips are in on time as requested. Time slips for May should be in the FERA office by Saturday noon, June 1.

The payroll for June will be ready for signature at any time after June 8.

JOINT CONFERENCE OF STUDENTS AND FACULTY WOMEN HOLD MEETING

Discussion of Mutual Problems Held at Dean Patterson's Home

A meeting of the joint conference was held Tuesday, May 28, at Dean Patterson's home in the evening. This committee is a group of faculty women and students who meet at intervals to discuss mutual problems.

The old and new members were present. Miss Patterson served refreshments and various subjects were discussed during the evening. The faculty members are Miss Nulty of the secretarial department, Miss Harris, assistant dean of women, Mrs. Adams of the education department, and Miss Blondell of the home economics department. The student members for the coming year are Marguerite Bean '37, Patricia Stanley '37, Rosemary Cahill '36, Carolyn Hill '36, Madeleine Davidson '36, and the president and chief justice of Student Union.

Last year's members were Margaret Kane '35, Elizabeth Haig '36, Gladys Sussdorff '36, Elizabeth Rich '35, and Madeline Ainsbero '35.

FRESHMAN CLASS ELECTS OFFICERS FOR 1935-36

The announcement has been made of the election of members of the present freshman class to the Student Senate next year. J. P. O'Neil and H. L. Peart are the new members. The election was held Monday, May 27, in the Dana Lounge.

The other officers chosen are as follows: President, W. C. Van Dyck; vice-president, Barbara Saunders; secretary, Marguerite Perkins; treasurer, K. A. Laplant; members of Faculty Student Council, F. G. Cassels and R. J. Waterman.

Van Dyck is a member of Delta Psi, sports reporter on the Cynic, a member of the freshman baseball team and Gold Key. Miss Saunders is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta, a Cynic reporter and publicity manager of Outing Club.

Miss Perkins is a member of Alpha Chi Omega and had a prominent part in the operetta "Bridgette."

Laplant is a member of Gold Key Council, was president of the freshman class this year, and is on the freshman tennis team. He is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity and Gold Key. Waterman is a member of Delta Psi, is on the freshman board of the Cynic.

Peart also is a member of Phi Delta Theta, was on the freshman baseball team, and was elected to Gold Key. J. P. O'Neil also a Gold Key man, belongs to Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Boulder Oration

Class Day, 1935

When we entered this University each of us had his own individual characteristics his own ideas and ideals. During four years of undergraduate life these traits have been developed and modified and moulded by contact with our environment and by the broadening of our experiences. We leave the University more or less perfectly shaped and fitted to fill our places in society.

Our story is much like the story of our U V M Boulder that pot-hole stone which rests on its granite base in front of the Old Mill. The original rough rock was dropped by some chance happening of nature into a depression in the riverbed of a Vermont mountain stream. There it was shaped by the current of the river into the nearly perfect sphere which symbolizes for us the ruggedness and stolidness and the soundness that is Vermont.

The Boulder after having been subjected to the varying conditions of its early existence has been brought to occupy a vital position in the tradition and the symbolism of the college.

It will not be our place to seek prominence in the world. We can only hope that our experiences have moulded us to occupy well the positions of merit to which we may be called.

Pipe Oration

Every speaker at Class Day exercises attempts to leave one paramount thought with his audience. I will do this, but in fewer words than is the custom.

The pipe is a symbol of peace. We dwell in a world of symbolism. Some of our best institutions have been based on symbolism. Is recent Lawrence peace? On what is it based? On true and lasting friendship. All of us early in life adopt a philosophy, an attitude toward our fellow beings. It is subject to many changes. What should this attitude be? I would call to your attention a quotation of that crafty old diagnostician of the human heart, Lafcadio Hearnd, who said, "the reason that we are so content of others is that we are so much taught of our own."

We should have an attitude of understanding tolerance toward the faults of others, ever keeping in mind the maxim I have just read. What is the application of all of this to a class day exercise? Just this! We are soon to leave this University. Let us leave it with the true and lasting friendship of every classmate. Let each of us do his or her part in this endeavor. We are now all equal. We face the world. We already have a great asset, the friendship of our classmates. But let it not end here. Let our sympathies, across life as prove the years, what we must put in the world of affairs and as alumni let us put forth our best and greatest efforts this University.

THE CLASS OF 1935

AFTER GRADUATION, WHAT?

College a Training School for Life's Battles

Four years ago you were the typical, much-publicized green freshman at Vermont. You came here not knowing how long you could stay or what you would do when you got through. Now you are through. Gradually during this time the conviction of your life work has seeped into your mind and you have made your courses here train you for it. For those who came to college for a good time solely, we are sorry. They are no more ready to be thrown on their own than they were when they came.

Graduation Really a Commencement of Life Work

You have had a good time, you have spent considerable money, you have trained for the future. Now you are ready for it. Graduation was the formal symbol of break with the past and step to this future.

Jobs, if not Found, Must Be Created

For many the outlook is not bright. Teaching jobs are few in number, business doesn't need the extra influx of the college graduations. Many of you have your positions for another year. But to those others who haven't, let it be stressed that jobs must be created if not found. Use your ingenuity, your imagination. Look for a thing that needs doing, and then do it. Society will support it if it is a needed thing. There should be no such a thing as an unemployed person. If you can't at the moment find your place in the working sun, seize the opportunity to cultivate your tastes and to educate yourself. Don't sit down and be idle.

Life, to Have Real Meaning, Must Be Serviceable

Whatever you may do this summer, this fall, five years from now, stop and ask "Is this a vital service to others, or is it only a way of making money?" If you can't answer the first part affirmatively, something is wrong with your job. You will get only as much from life as you put into it. Only so much as you serve will you be served. Only so far as you do a serviceable piece of work will you find any real meaning to your activities.

Life, to Have Real Meaning, Must Be Lived Creatively

Create something! Do something the world really needs! Do it thoroughly and joyfully. Don't let a moment go uncultivated. Live nobly, always treat others as you yourself would be treated, develop love for all men, and so shall you reap your richest and highest reward.

The World Needs Men and Women Like You

Continue your education if you can, seek employment, and make what name for yourself you can by a serviceable, creative life. The world desperately needs enlightened minds if it is to meet the present crises successfully. It needs your thought and your action. In it all your Alma Mater will be proud of you and will list you in its Hall of Fame. More power to you!

NINE MEN RECEIVE LETTERS IN TENNIS

The varsity tennis team closed a rather inauspicious season by dropping the final match and chance to tie for the State Conference title to Middlebury. Managing to win from Connecticut State College, St. Lawrence and St. Michael's the team, then lost to Trinity, Wesleyan, Hamilton twice, St. Lawrence, and also dropped two matches to the Panthers of Middlebury. The team led by Capt. Bart Costello of Rutland was composed mainly of sophomores and inexperienced men who with the experience gained make a good team for next year. Following Costello, who played number one all season was Max Harris, a sophomore who paired with him to form a successful doubles combination. Number three was taken care of by Bob Hart followed by Henry Swift, Henry Swift and Will Reed. Bart Costello played regularly at number three on last year's team while Reed and Swift alternated at number four. Both had no varsity experience.

The season was begun with a three day trip to Connecticut when the squad lost both matches on the Hartford Country Club courts. Handicapped by high winds and lack of practice and the nervousness of varsity competition, the team was defeated, losing by the score of 6 to 3. Going on to Connecticut State they found their tennis legs and meeting even competition won the match on the loss of a set. John Sayer was the only man to run into difficulty as he dropped his first set of singles at 6-4 then came back to win the second and the match. The size of the score evidently had the boys stale for as they dropped the next match to Bart Costello extended Barker to three sets before going down and in the doubles Costello and Sayer in a long drawn sets before bowing to Swift won the only match as Sayer Donaghy after a long three last week end the team journeyed down into some zero weather to meet the cold and forced to wear fur and heavy jackets the team lost to Clarkson by the score of 5 to 1. Sayer winning the only match of the day. St. Lawrence gathered at Canton the Green and Gold by the score of 6 to 1. The winners scored in both the singles and doubles matches. Sayer accustomed to the cold after the matches were over. Swift was the only man to win a match as he fell before Ferguson of the Clarkson team.

L. A. DICKINSON ATTENDS NORTHFIELD CONFERENCE

Next Year's Chairman of V. C. A. Attends Student Christian Meeting in Massachusetts

L. A. Dickinson '36, next year's chairman of the V. C. A. attended the Northfield Student Conference held at Camp Becket, Becket, Mass., June 10-18. The program this year was ably handled by a notable list of leaders including Dr. Ernest Fremont Tittle, Dr. Henry P. Van Dusen, Dr. G. Sherwood Eddy, Dr. George Stewart, and Dr. Newton C. Fetter. The conference is made up of students from the Christian Associations on the different college campuses of New England. It proved to be one of the most inspiring and worthwhile of the Northfield conferences. Two of the conference speakers were present on the Vermont campus during the year as part of the V. C. A. program—Dr. G. Sherwood Eddy and Dr. Newton C. Fetter.

The Vermont Christian Association has during the past year carried on an active program of work from the beginning of Freshman Camp to the annual Northfield Conference. The program opened with the annual Freshman Camp held at Camp Abnaki. This was followed by freshman visitations, questionnaires and retreats. There were several retreats and it was possible to have Rev. Dewitt C. Baldwin of the Methodist Mission Board as the guest at several of these. Mr. Baldwin also conducted discussion groups, interviews, lectures, talks, sermons and spoke in many places during his eight-day visit on the Vermont campus in the fall. A program of over twelve deputations has been carried on during the year. The teams have ranged from one to eight members and have gone for single services as well as entire week-ends. Delegates were sent to the Student Christian Movement Assembly held at Northfield in October and also to the annual Mid-winter Northfield Conference held in February. A program of freshman work has been successfully carried on during the year which included the formation of a freshman cabinet, discussion groups and aid to the main V. C. A. cabinet. Some work was done in regards to assisting in clubs at the "Community Y. M. C. A." A Frosh Mixer was held at the beginning of the year and Mountain Day was scheduled but called off on account of inclement weather.

In January the V. C. A. sponsored a week-end program with Dr. T. Z. Koo, internationally famous Chinese as the guest. The program included a conference with McGill, banquets, University lectures, talks before several classes, special sessions, discussions and meetings with both cabinets. Doctor Koo was on the campus from Thursday through Sunday. In March the V. C. A. had the privilege of bringing Sherwood Eddy to the campus for a brief lecture and luncheon. At the same time Dr. Newton Fetter of Boston and Caroline Ziegler of New Hampshire were here to take part in conferences.

Several joint meetings between the men's and women's cabinets have been held with the result that much better co-operation has existed this year between the two groups. In addition to all these projects the General Secretary has maintained an Employment Agency and carried on other work of the Association. This makes the program of the Vermont Christian Association a very active one on the campus. Another year points to more achievements and continuation of the active program already inaugurated.

ALUMNI OF AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE HOLD REUNION

About one hundred University of Vermont Agricultural College alumni and friends attended the third annual reunion and supper at Morrill Hall, Saturday evening.

Clarence DeMar '10, former marathon runner, was toastmaster. Clyde N. Smith '13, president of the Agricultural College Alumni Association, presided.

Reminiscences were related by members of the alumni with feature remarks by Miss Bertha M. Terrill, who has been head of the home economics department for twenty-five years since its beginning, and by Dean J. L. Hills, who has been associated with the college for forty-eight years. Dean Hills gave an interesting report of college activities and future plans. The other speakers were Winifred Perry '35, Carl Rogers '35, Prof. Paul R. Miller, Mrs. Helen D. Robinson '13 of Burlington, Mrs. Fannie Wood '24 of Brandon, J. E. Carrigan '14, Floyd Arkley '22 of Burlington, and E. E. Miller '34 of Guildhall.

Frank Stiles '23 of Highgate and Mabel Goodwin Hunstman '24 of Montpelier were elected directors by the alumni to replace Clyde N. Smith and Charlotte P. Brooks '16 whose terms expired.

Harris W. Soule '22, U. V. M. extension service county agent leader, was elected president of the alumni association at an organization meeting after the banquet. Marion J. Parrott '19 was elected secretary, and Prof. Kenneth J. Sheldon '15, treasurer, as officers of the alumni association for the coming year.

HON. JAS. M. BECK GIVES COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

Unless the individual can overcome the influence of a world whose chief obsession is speed, the decay of civilization is inevitable. "If education fails to implant in you a true sense of values, then in my judgment, it has largely failed."

Mr. Beck closed with the following quotation: "Remember always that not failure but low aim is crime."

The Lost Sense of Values

I am greatly honored in being the interpreter of the good will which all here present feel for the members of the graduating class, who now, to use a military phrase of the World War, are about to "go over the top."

The Spartans had a custom of hardening their youth by inflicting upon them physical hardships. Possibly this is the explanation of our custom of inflicting upon the graduates of a college at a great moment in their lives, the hardship of a Commencement address.

My idea of a Commencement address is that the speaker should endeavor to impress upon the minds of the graduates some one truth that may be valuable to them in future life.

The fateful question for each graduate, when he assumes his manly toga, is not how long he is going to live, but how well he will spend the time allotted to him by an all-seeing Father. The great question, therefore, for each graduate to consider today is whether his life, whether long or short as measured by the calendar, is to be spent nobly or cheaply, and his decision must ultimately depend upon a just appreciation of the true values of life.

It staggers the imagination to conceive what our civilization could be, with all the facilities of modern invention, if the people devoted the potency of enthusiasm to worthy objects of a lasting value. No age has ever presented a more inviting opportunity to the young man in the choice of values than the present. And yet, while life in the Twentieth Century is infinitely varied and complex and, measured by dynamic power, is more colorful than in any preceding age, unfortunately the development of dynamic power is not the great end of existence.

We overvalue the material and the temporal and undervalue the spiritual and the eternal. If, by reason of this lost sense of values, the average man, as a citizen, a worker, a home-builder, a thinker, is steadily deteriorating in the fibre of his character, then all the splendor of his outward achievements, much of which he inherited from past generations, cannot compensate for the deterioration of character. If, on the contrary, the individual is each day rising to greater heights of spiritual development, then even though all the outward material splendor of our civilization were to dissolve and, "like an insubstantial pageant faded leave not a wrack behind," nevertheless, there would be real progress because, in the last analysis, the fate of the individual is the fate of society.

Is a lost sense of values a mere question of individual caprice, or has it some fateful lesson for men of our own generation? Are we less guilty of that craving for news, and has it made the present generation indifferent to the noble heritage of the past and blind to the lessons which it teaches?

If too many men today have a "moving picture" brain and, with thousands of worthless objects passing daily across the screen of their minds, are no longer capable of continuous thought on serious subjects, then this may be partly due to the terrific impact of a mechanical civilization upon human character. Only in recent years have thoughtful men begun to appreciate the tremendous effect, both for good and evil, that the machine has had upon human character. No one can gainsay that it has lifted man to a higher level of material comfort and has given him facilities which have indeed made him a potential superman. It now seems equally clear that the machine has also had a prejudicial effect upon the spiritual side of man's nature. It has debased his sense of values in giving undue importance to mere acceleration and facilitation, or, in other words, the power to do things quickly and more easily. Certainly it has destroyed the just equilibrium between work and leisure and there is no greater menace to human society than the present objective of a mechanical civilization to work less and play more. If there were any assurance that, with lengthened hours of leisure, man would employ them wisely, we could welcome the machine as a gift to man of infinite beneficence, but who can truly say that these ever-lengthening hours of leisure are wisely spent?

All this would be very pessimistic and possibly unfitted to a joyous Commencement occasion did I not hasten to suggest that it is always within the power of man to combat this debasement of the true values of human life. He is still, subject to the Divine will, "master of his fate and captain of his soul" and the great object of education is to develop in each individual a truer sense of values. If education fails to do that, it has largely failed. If it succeeds, it has made a contribution of inestimable service to humanity.

When you consider the values of life, you should consider the spirit of romance, as an essential one. I do not mean romance in the narrower sense of the word, but I would define it as the spirit of high adventure, the belief in and striving for the beautiful, even though it be not practical and at times unattainable.

It is the sublime function of the Church and the College to summon each generation to the eternal battle for a higher standard of values and therefore those who have the great privilege of an university education are under an especial duty to God and man to be valorous warriors in the great battle of human values.

Members of the graduating class, your Alma Mater summons you today to this eternal battle for the higher values of life, I say to you, as Hotspur said to his companions in arms on the eve of Shrewsbury:

"O gentlemen, the time of life is short!
To spend that shortness basely were too long,
If life did ride upon a dial's point,
Still ending at the arrival of an hour."

VAN DYCK PRESIDENT OF SOPHOMORE CLASS

The freshman class elected the following persons for sophomore class officers:

President, W. C. Van Dyck of Rockville Center, N. Y., a member of Delta Psi.

Vice-president, Barbara Sussdorff of Burlington, a Kappa Alpha Theta.

Secretary, Marguerite Perkins of Lyndonville, an Alpha Chi Omega.

Treasurer, K. A. Laplant of West Burke, an Alpha Tau Omega.

Faculty-Student Council: F. G. Coombs of Brattleboro, Kappa Sigma, and R. F. Waterman of Quechee.

"If the 9,000,000 persons of college age in the nation who are now working were removed from their jobs in industry and sent to college, it would solve much of the unemployment problem."—Amos W. W. Woodcock, president, St. John's College (Annapolis, Md).

REV. GILKIE SPEAKS ON SELF CONFIDENCE IN BACCALAUREATE SERMON

this type we are frankly not responsible, and one of the lessons all of us must learn is to ignore such antagonisms completely. Only as we teach ourselves to distinguish between the personal conflicts for which we are to blame, and those for which we are not to blame; and only as we learn to hold ourselves emotionally undisturbed when we encounter conflicts of the second type, can we prevent the weakening of our self-confidence and retain an adequate amount of faith in ourselves. Some two hundred and fifty years ago an energetic and extremely able Englishman named John Fell was made Dean of one of the Colleges at Oxford. Immediately he introduced a series of long-delayed and much-needed reforms. He forced the students to attend their classes, he stiffened the examinations, and he threatened with expulsion those who were showing themselves habitual trouble-makers. Naturally Dean Fell was not over-popular with the undergraduates, and one day one of them rattled off a jingle which the world has been laughing at ever since:

I do not love thee, Dr. Fell,
The reason why I cannot tell;
But this alone I know full well—
I do not love thee, Dr. Fell!

Was the Dean to blame for this hostility? Did he need to let it undermine his self-confidence? Certainly not! This was an underserved antagonism, and the Dean's duty was to ignore it completely.

A second thing which tends to undermine self-confidence is the realization that we possess only ordinary abilities. Here again practically all of us make, sooner or later, this unpleasant discovery. Sometimes we wake up to our limitations while we are still in the teens; sometimes the sorry truth does not dawn on us till years later. But when we do see ourselves in our true proportions, how our self-confidence shrinks! We had thought we were highly-gifted individuals, and that our phenomenal abilities would carry us to the very top of the business or professional ladder. Now we realize we are only ordinary people, and that we shall be lucky if we reach some mid-way rung. Our schools and colleges today are full of young people who, recognizing clearly the limitations of their native ability, are staring at the future with apprehension and dismay. In our highly competitive world what chance is there for second-raters like ourselves. One of our modern poets has described this experience and mood in a quatrain which employs an unusual figure of speech.

A fox looked at his shadow at sunrise and said,
"I will have a camel for lunch today!!"
But at noon he saw his shadow again, and he said,
"I guess a mouse will do."

When we thus begin to see ourselves and our prospects as they really are, how can we retain the self-confidence and hope we so obviously need?

Some of us have found great help in recalling the fact there are two different ways of winning success: The first is the way employed by the genius. He takes the phenomenal abilities given him by an accident of inheritance, and then puts those phenomenal abilities to more or less skilful use. Thanks to his extraordinary native gifts rather than to his technique of accomplishment he finally wins eminence. But there is of course a second, and an essentially different, way by which men achieve success. It is the method followed by the individuals who have only ordinary native gifts but who learn to use those limited abilities with extraordinary skill. You want a concrete example? Consider the case of Theodore Roosevelt. Shortly before he died one of his many admirers sent him an exuberant letter congratulating him on his extraordinary accomplishments and attributing them to an extraordinary native ability. Colonel Roosevelt made this discerning reply: "No, you are quite wrong about me. I am just an ordinary man, without special ability in any field. This is obviously true of my physical equipment. I can't run, I'm not a good swimmer, and I'm certainly a poor shot. My eyesight is so bad that I have to be near my game to get any aim at all. I can probably ride a horse better than I can do anything else, but I am certainly not a remarkable horseman. As far as intellectual gifts are concerned, I am equally ordinary. I have written a good deal, but the fact is I have to work and slave over everything I write." How, with that commonplace native equipment, did Theodore Roosevelt win such success in so many lines? Because he had taught himself to use ordinary abilities in extraordinarily effective fashion. You are afraid of yourself because you know your native gifts are few? But you can take, as thousands of average individuals have taken, the second of the two roads to success.

Still another thing which undermines self-confidence is the realization that we fill, and probably will always fill, only a small place in life. Recently one of our historians made this curious statement: "Since the beginning of recorded history about 30,000,000,000 human beings have been born. Of the 30,000,000,000 only about 5,000 have amounted to much, and of the 5,000 less than 200 have been women." If those figures are correct, a boy today has one chance in about 6,040,000 of becoming an important historical figure. A girl today has one chance in about 150,000,000. Not a very encouraging prospect, particularly for the girl! But fantastic though such figures seem, they are probably substantially accurate. Only an infinitesimal proportion of the people in the world ever achieve eminence. Most of us must content ourselves with filling a small place, doing a small piece of work, exerting a small influence, and being known to only a small number of our contemporaries and a still smaller number of our successors. How, facing the certainty of insignificance, can we keep faith in ourselves and the possibilities of our little life?

It is well for us all to realize that the major sources of happiness lie wide open to everyone, and not merely to the few individuals who by ability or luck attain places of prominence in the world's affairs. The 5,000 great figures of history have had access to the major sources of happiness, and the 30,000,000,000 commonplace individuals have also had access to them. For what are the major sources of happiness? One of them is a clear conscience. To live honorably, to meet all one's obligations, to measure up to the confidence of one's children and one's friends, and to leave no ugly secrets which prying enemies can eventually unearth—to do these things is to find one of the greatest and most durable joys known to the human spirit. Another one of the major sources of happiness lies in the sense of achievement. Curiously enough, the sense of achievement comes to us whether we do large things or small ones. An artist finds satisfaction in painting little pictures as well as in painting big ones, and a man with a friendly heart can discover as much joy in helping fifty people in a small town as he could in helping five thousand in a metropolis. Or think of the joy that comes to us as we think fine and interesting thoughts. Professor William Lyon Phelps insists that the happiest people in the world are those who have the most interesting thoughts. He is probably right. The joys that come through the gateway of the mind are probably the most satisfying and the most durable that we know. Does one have to live in a palace to think interesting thoughts? Does one have to be one of great figures of his generation to gain the sense of accomplishment? Does one have to be a member of that select company of 5,000 super-men to enjoy a clear conscience? You and I can face the fact of our insignificance undisturbed. We can keep our faith in ourselves even if our place in the world is pitifully small. Before us, even in our little corner of life, the major sources of happiness lie wide open.

Yes, I must bear a common name,
And live upon a little street,
And stairs within a dingy home
Must know the climbing of my feet. . . .
But who can take my thoughts from me,
Or keep my life from being sweet?

I have saved for the end the most serious menace to self-confidence. It is a stinging and an unmistakable defeat. All of us, young as well as old, know what such defeats are. Someone else in the school captured the prize or won the election. Someone else in the community amassed a big fortune. Someone else in our profession gained the position of preeminence on which we had set our heart, and for which we had worked for fifty years. A stinging and unmistakable defeat. How, when Fate thus knocks us down and trampled us in the dust, can we pick ourselves up and face life again with courage and assurance?

In our moments of defeat there are, I think, two significant facts we should force ourselves to recall. The first is that Chance, sheer Chance, plays an enormous rôle in human affairs. We may have lost the price at school, not because we were either stupid or lazy, but because a competitor with phenomenal ability happened to enter the competition the same year we did. We may have missed the professional recognition for which we had worked for fifty years, not because we were unworthy of it, but because the position we sought did not happen to be open at the precise time we were ready for it. You say these are exaggerated and unconvincing illustrations? History gives illustrations which are even more fantastic. "On a certain election day in November, 1811, a pig which belonged to a certain farmer in Rhode Island became caught in a fence. Releasing the pig without breaking the pig's legs proved to be such a long job that the farmer was prevented from reaching the polling-place in time to cast his vote. See now the incredible chain of consequences! When the votes in that district were counted, it was found that the Federalist Party had lost control of the district by one vote. That meant a man from the opposing party, a man who favored a second war with England, was sent to the Rhode Island Legislature. Shortly afterward the Rhode Island Legislature elected a Senator to go to Washington, and by a majority of a single vote chose a pro-war Senator. Shortly afterward the question of declaring the War of 1812 came before Congress, and by a majority of one vote a resolution for war was passed and the War of 1812 began." Think now of the individuals who had been working for months to prevent that outbreak of hostilities. What was it that defeated them? One vote in Congress, behind that one vote in Congress, one vote in the Rhode Island Legislature, behind that one vote in the Rhode Island Legislature, one vote in an obscure Rhode Island district, and behind that one vote a pig entangled in a fence. Your defeats and mine may be traceable to our own blunders and our own shortcomings: in that case we are emphatically to blame for them. But our defeats may be traceable, on the contrary, to conditions over which we had not the slightest control. In that case we can, even if we were defeated, continue believing in ourselves. The next time circumstance may work for us rather than against us.

The other fact we must recall in moments of defeat is this. Life constantly brings fresh opportunities, opportunities that continue down to the very end of our years. You say a man has only one great opportunity and that if he misses it, he faces lifelong mediocrity. Read biography and see how false that notion is! Napoleon Bonaparte went to a military school in Paris, did poor work, and in a class of forty-two graduated number forty-one. An opportunity wasted; but was it the only opportunity life brought that young soldier? Phillips Brooks graduated from Harvard, and wanted to return there as a teacher. For some reason his application was refused, and young Brooks left the President's office heartbroken. Was it was that his only chance in life? Abraham Lincoln tried several careers, and failed dismally in them all. For fifty years he met defeat after another—in the army, in business, in surveying, in law, and in politics. But all the chances come and gone when Lincoln was fifty years old? Even in the sixties, seventies and eighties significant opportunities come to the men who are strong enough and resolute enough to grasp them. Listen to the record of seven men, all of whom seemed too old to accomplish anything. "At the age of 74 Immanuel Kant wrote three highly technical treatises. At the same age Tintoretto painted one of his masterpices, a vast canvas 74 feet by 30. At the age of 79 Oliver Wendell Holmes was still active as an author. At the age of 80 Goethe completed his work on 'Faust.' At the age of 83 Tennyson penned his most famous short poem, 'Crossing the Bar.' At the age of 85 Verdi produced his 'Ave Maria,' his 'Stabat Mater,' and his famous 'Te Deum.' And Titian was 98 when he painted his historic 'The Battle of Lepanto.'"

All of this helps explain the attitude some of us modern Christians take as we face life. We believe that at the heart of things stands a living, loving, God. We believe He put us in this strange and hazardous world in order to develop the finer powers hidden within our nature. Day after day, as experience shows, chance disasters may overtake us. But day after day, as experience also shows, new and unexpected opportunities unfold before us. We can never think God wants us to surrender to disaster, or lose faith in our own power to meet and ultimately master circumstance. We believe that God is forever seeking to quicken our self-confidence, rouse us to make the most of the opportunities disclosed to us, and impel us to try again—harder than ever—when coincidence unluckily creates difficulties for us. In that spirit and with that faith we face life; sure that we were meant to believe in ourselves and master Fate; and confident that as we try to do so God gives us strength for our battles and helps us grow in the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ."

God make me brave for life!
Far braver than this!
Let me straighten after pain
As a tree straightens after rain,
Shining and lovely again.

God make me brave for life!
Far braver than this!
As the blown grass lifts, let me rise
From sorrow with strong eyes,
Knowing life's way is wise.

God make brave for life!
Amid these blinding things
Help me to keep my sight,
Help me to see aright,
In the dark find light!

Dr. James G. Gilkey was born in Watertown, Mass., on September 1, 1889. He received his A.B. degree from Harvard University in 1913. A year later he received his master of arts degree from the same college. He then went abroad to study at the University of Berlin and Marbury, where he became bachelor of divinity. After his return to the United States he attended the Union Theological Seminary, from which he received the degree of doctor of divinity.

Doctor Gilkey was ordained to the Presbyterian ministry in 1916. Later he became assistant minister at the Brick Mawr church. He has been pastor of the South Church in Springfield, Mass., since 1917. He was also professor of Bible literature at Amherst from 1926 to 1930.

An elaborate program of institutional church work is now being directed by Doctor Gilkey. As a definite part of the educational program, he has introduced motion pictures. He is a member of Delta Upsilon and Phi Beta Kappa. Some of his works are: "A Faith for the New Generation," "The Certainty of God," and "Solving Life's Everyday Problems."

Doctor Gilkey is now living in Springfield, Mass. He is married and has three children.

WOMEN'S RIFLE TEAM RECEIVES AWARDS

Cross rifles have been awarded members of the University of Vermont women's rifle team who competed in more than 75 percent of the twenty-eight matches shot this year. Heading the list is Esther Sinclair of Essex Junction, who shot all twenty-eight matches, with an average of 100.

Others to receive the insignia are Wilma Nelson, Ryegate; Genevieve Hutchins, Tupper Lake, N. Y.; Evelyn Eaton, Waitsfield; Katherine LeBaron, Morrisville; Dorothy Oldfield, Burlington.

Dorothy Chittenden, South Burlington, won the archery cup for improvement. The tennis championship cup goes to Sally Clark, Burlington. The all-sports cup, which is given each year to the class totalling the greatest number of points in interclass competition, in hockey, tennis, basketball, bowling, archery and baseball, goes to the freshmen, with the sophomores a close second.

Frances Rowe, Fort Myer, Va., and Nellie Townsend, Saxtons River, have been awarded the U. V. M. monogram; and Evelyn Eaton, Waitsfield; Florence Stufflebeam, Bakersfield; Phyllis Thompson, Richford; Helen White, Northfield; Mildred Rockwood, Bennington, have been awarded their class numerals.

BOULDER SOCIETY HOLDS REUNION BREAKFAST AT HOTEL VERMONT

About twenty members, active and alumni, of Boulder, men's senior honorary society, attended the annual reunion breakfast held on the roof garden of the Hotel Vermont, Sunday morning. The class represented ranged all the way from that of 1904 to the present undergraduate class of 1936.

Bartley J. Costello, president of the active group, acted as toastmaster. Each Boulder man present introduced himself and made a few remarks, concerning Boulder Society, past and present. A number of suggestions regarding ways in which the society might be of greater service to the University, were offered.

Men are the most important single item in the minds of the Barnard College (New York City) seniors, according to an annual poll. Their second choice was fun, followed by literature, social problems and material success.

Campus Is Scene Of Class Day Exercises

Address to Undergraduates

By Horace M. McMullen

I see by the program that my part in it consists in an address to the undergraduates. During the previous talks I have been anxiously searching for these youths who have not yet received their sheepskins. I am glad to find one or two in evidence—enough I shall hope to bestow upon me a rightful place in this Class Day of 1935.

The temptation of one bequeathed this honor of speaking to the undergraduates is to disseminate paternalistic and pious platitudes to his less advanced associates of higher learning. We sitting on this platform might like to tell you how the college should be run next year. We might like to puff ourselves up about our accomplishments on the campus during four years. We should lecture to you about carrying aloft the torch—knowing not the significance of that torch. Then with great bombast we should fling at you the challenge to carry on the noble tradition of our class of 1935.

Horace M. McMullen

But leaving such paternalisms aside, let us rather talk from the point of view of our failings than our accomplishments.

College offers many things: among them years of comparative irresponsibility, unrivalled opportunities for friendship, an intellectual atmosphere, and finally a comparative freedom. If the co-eds disagree with me about the last point, well I shall just have to let them qualify the statement accordingly. But withal we find the combination of these four things only in college. Without previous inquiry I may boldly say that we have far from availed ourselves to the full of our opportunity. Although we have insisted upon our money's worth at Rand's we have accepted only the smallest dividends from our college education investment. We have failed to cultivate valuable and lasting friendships. We have perpetuated rather than destroyed the barriers in our professor-student relationships. We have not utilized the material facilities at hand. Or again, we have lacked interest in those typically college activities—athletics, journalism, social events. It is not these things which we hand you, but the lesson which they teach.

College offers years of comparative irresponsibility, unrivalled opportunities for friendship, an intellectual atmosphere, and a comparative freedom. Only in college are we privileged to experience these four things. As Christmas comes but once a year, so college comes but once a lifetime. So I say to you who will continue at our beloved Alma Mater for another year, two or three years: Don't make the mistakes we did. Take advantage of these four great opportunities to the fullest possible extent. Live abundantly.

It's a great day to be alive. Wordsworth wrote some hundred years ago: "Bliss was it then to be alive, and to be young was very heaven." We may rightly change the tense to the present. It is bliss to be alive now, and to be young is very heaven. We live in a rapidly moving and changing world. The pace of civilization is terrific. In these days we are privileged to be witnesses of great social, political, and economic revolutions not only in our own country, but in every area of the world. The world is a kind of great stage with the most thrilling drama of history being enacted upon it at the present time.

You, my fellow undergraduates, are privileged to stand aside for another year or two or three from this powerful current which is writing history not by pages, but by books. You are privileged to be spectators of what, I prophesy, will be considered years hence events of the greatest historical importance.

And so I counsel you in your remaining years here to live abundantly. Take advantage of these years of comparative irresponsibility, these unrivalled opportunities for friendship, the intellectual atmosphere, and your comparative freedom. Live. Wordsworth wrote: "Bliss was it then to be alive, and to be young was very heaven." You, my fellow undergraduates, may write: "Bliss is it now to be alive, and to be young is very heaven."

Ivy Oration

By Mary Casey

Class of 1935

Members of the Faculty, Classmates, Friends:

Today, we of the class of 1935 help to perpetuate the splendid custom inaugurated forty-six years ago on the campus of the University of Vermont—the planting of the Ivy.

Many thoughts have, through the years, associated themselves with this tradition. The consideration of the purposes and the inspirations with which Nature has endowed this humble member of its family may well suggest to us the message we would take from the Ivy; the affection which surrounds our participation, and the hope which both we and you may receive from its unerring fidelity to its purpose and its confidence that it will attain that purpose.

What then shall be the message which we would receive from this tiny vine as we leave it here to join those many others in adornment of these walls? Does it not speak to us of an abiding faith in our ability to fit ourselves to the great plan of life; to realize that while we are all dependent creatures, there is, however, for each of us a power for progress which we must exert in order to achieve the goal of our destiny? Like the Ivy, we must strive for the summit, to be sure. But, also like the Ivy, we must lend beauty to life in our advance, and bring kindliness and help to our associates even while we learn to take to ourselves the finest and most ennobling inspirations from others with whom we shall be striving for success. In the same way, the Ivy, though it may cling to the walls for support, still of its own nature brings to these walls a beauty which enhances their value. It has the power to rise, but must develop that power through the nourishment which it will receive from the soil, the sun and the air. It will reach the height toward which it is aiming, through its acceptance of the support of the wall. So with us, thoughts and ambitions are achievement in embryo which we must develop through our acceptance of the wall of high standards, and through our application of the training which we have received for our chosen fields. Humble indeed may our little beginnings seem, even as our Ivy now appears humble as we start it today. Yet in that humility lies strength which makes for greatness, if we also have faith and a sense of the real values in life. Upward and upward like our Ivy may we go, spreading our influence for good wider and wider. Our hopes and ambitions shall spring from the seeds of worthy purpose and shall be warmed to fruition by the sunshine of kindliness.

So, dear classmates of nineteen thirty-five, let us face life in our new world with confidence. Let us desire to give to the world something of ourselves that shall make life truer and richer for all. Then shall it be truer and richer for each of us. Thus we plant our little Ivy, with the hope that it may keep enfolded our affection for Vermont, while it teaches us to weave beauty and love with faith and energy, as we face the world.

LAWTON AND BARTLETT JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

The class of 1937 announces the following new officers:

President, R. P. Lawton of Port Washington, L. I., N. Y., Phi Delta Theta; vice-president, Marion Bartlett, of Bradford, Mass., Kappa Alpha Theta; secretary, Martha McGillicuddy of Turners Falls, Mass., Pi Beta Phi; and treasurer, R. P. Kenworthy of Middlebury, Alpha Tau Omega.

The delegates to the Faculty-Student Council are: College of Arts, J. H. Webster of Burlington, Delta Psi; College of Agriculture, W. B. Jenks of Burlington, Delta Psi; College of Engineering, A. H. Ross of Middlebury, Sigma Nu; women members: Ruth Quinn of Burlington, Delta Delta Delta, and Glenna Wright of Burlington, Alpha Chi Omega.

Class Essay

By Elizabeth Rich

On the occasion of graduation I have discovered that the Class of 1935 can be divided into exactly three types of persons, distinguishable by their different attitudes. Each one of you will be able to decide for yourself to which group you belong. At this point I might add as an aside that the Class of 1935 is by no means exceptional in this respect. This kind of classification might be applied to the members of any graduating class.

In the first case there are some of us who call this thing the finish—the end of a definite period in our lives, perhaps the conclusion of what may be remembered as a very worthwhile expenditure, or perhaps on the other hand the close of a succession of relatively juvenile activities—"a putting away of childish things." The possessor of the second attitude terms the phenomenon in question, commencement, or the beginning. Life begins at twenty, twenty-one, or forty—at whatever age you may happen to be taking part in these commencement exercises. At any rate, things are just beginning for those who think in this way, and their main idea is to get a head start, to begin with a clean slate and make something really constructive of their lives. I could name several classmates of ours who are excellent examples of this group. The last group is characterized by the person on whom graduation has little if any effect. This person is either efficient and sensible in his thinking, and allows his feelings no leeway, or else he has no feelings or no thoughts. He is doubtless the most comfortable one of the three of us at this point, but sad to say he is the least interesting, and will probably never be the cause of any observations on the part of a class essayist.

All this, I must explain, is by way of introducing a few short remarks which I shall offer for you to take or to leave, for what they are worth. You see, I am bound by the customs of class essay writing to say something which may possibly interest or concern you, no matter to which of the three groups you may happen to belong, and I think it is well for me to have in mind to whom I am talking.

So here is my contribution: cultivate your love of change and variety, your nomadic instinct, your desire for adventure, your intellectual curiosity, and I will be willing to guarantee that life will never become boring for you—neither the beginning of your life, the end of your life, or the middle of your life. This business of exploration and discovery is a great thing. If any one of us has the chance to travel to some distant part of the globe, by all means may he do it, and come back to tell the rest of us about it. But understand that we need not stir from this very spot, even though we want to be travelers of the highest order. Mental motion must always accompany, and can always compensate for, actual physical motion. How else did we ever achieve our present advance, scientific, philosophic, esthetic, religious, economic or political? And there is another thing to be considered, too. It has been said by some philosopher that the only stable thing in the universe is continuity of change. To travel along abreast of this continuous change is a delight which as yet too many people neglect to investigate. If they had not neglected it we would not still be held back in our progress by ideas which were long ago proved useless.

I do not mean to say that there is value in a mere restless flitting from one thing to another—in a wandering for the sake of escaping from oneself. The perpetual motion which I mean must be forever governed and directed along lines which really take us somewhere. Tradition, it seems to me is often overrated; but a valuable way of acting, by becoming traditional, can do no end of good, and our constant travel may often take us into the realm of past experiences and ideas.

I do not believe that we should neglect any point at which there happens to be friction. We may be very greatly benefited by having looked into something which we at first thought trivial, annoying, or too puzzling to waste effort on. The viewing of a thing from every possible point of view may take a good deal of time, but it certainly gives much more satisfactory results.

Please forgive me if I have seemed to be preaching, or if my suggestions have smacked of the classroom. They are nothing if not time-worn, I know, but I think they are worth the repetition, and, as the college graduates that we are, or soon will be, we are lucky enough to be most adequately equipped and suited to lives of adventure in exploration and discovery.

Susan Francis

By Susan Francis

What does the word "history" mean to you? Out of the many definitions laid before us we might choose one which seems adequate. History is the branch of knowledge which records and explains past events as steps in human progress. Perhaps what we have done does not affect a whole nation, but what we have done helps to make those steps which lead forever up and make the world better as time goes on.

We, the class of 1935, entered the University of Vermont four years ago, as green a group of freshmen as any. Here we are today ready to leave our beloved Alma Mater—169 seniors cut to less than half our original number—ready to face the life spread out before us, prepared by our individual experiences and trained by the education we have worked for or received.

First of all are the things that we have received. Not just the knowledge from books, not just the guidance we have been given, but we have been shown more than that. I remember as a freshman we learned from a professor, dear to all who knew him, Professor Thomas, that the principles of mathematics apply to life and our ideals. We found that to be true and all of our professors have taught us to live the abundant life, have shown us the way that lies before us, and have created attitudes which will mould our lives throughout time. We cannot pass all this by without leaving a feeling of gratitude rise within us.

Then for our steps in human progress, which we feel have been as great as those of any class before us. Athletics have seen us well represented, debaters we have among our group, and many of our number have been prominent in student activities of all kinds. In short, we feel that our class has done much to make our college take its place. Our scholarship standard has been high and our love for work cannot be challenged.

We have striven to leave with those behind us a desire for reaching the heights of knowledge and of action, and our greatest hope is that we will leave a path grown so deeply that we will not be easily and quickly forgotten—a path which has formed some of the steps in human progress. We hope we have left with those who remain here the deepest kind of respect and love, and that, as we depart from the place that is and always shall be dear to us, we hope that we may achieve and reach heights, which will make our college proud and in turn bring us satisfaction.

UNIVERSITY CAMPUS HAS THREE NEW SIDEWALKS

Three new cement sidewalks are to be laid on the University of Vermont campus by PWA crews. One of the walks will go diagonally across the front campus from the head of College Street to the intersection of Main Street, and University Place at Morrill Hall, where for several years a gravel walk has done service. Another walk will extend in front of Morrill Hall along University Place, and the third willl be along the Main Street end of Morrill Hall. These two walks will take the place of the old concrete walks that now exist in the respective locations.

"There must be no walking about the halls in the nude"—edict issued at the University of Toledo (Ohio). At the same time, the students were told to see that their curtains were drawn while undressing.

Campus Oration

By Madeline Augsbury

This morning, during our class walk, the realization came to many of us of the class of 1935 that we are about to take our final glimpse of the campus on which we have lived and worked. And with that realization comes the realization of its beauties which until now we have recognized as but natural and commonplace.

Four years ago, at Freshman Camp, we learned the words of "Lovely Lake Champlain" and felt an inspiration from those words before we had yet seen the lake or "the sunset's golden glow given back from Mansfield's brow." To him only, who has watched the everchanging beauties of Mt. Mansfield, our back campus, and of Lake Champlain, Vermont's front campus, can come the true appreciation of the real beauties which surround us.

As for the more immediate campus on which we are now standing, Ira Allen and Lafayette keep watch, at the west and north sides of the campus, almost like sentinels on guard, admitting only those to this institution of learning, who are worthy and who will be loyal citizens, and in the future will bring honor to our University's name.

The old campus buildings are very dear to each of us; they are surrounded with tradition and have imparted to us some of their tradition which we will ever hold sacred. Each of our four years has seen new additions made to college property and plans made for new buildings. As a class we would urge that our campus be kept unchanged, that it be left natural, that our trees be left standing, that in the years to come we may sing, even as we do today, of our campus and the old pine tree. We would thus pay tribute to our campus.

And to the administration and faculty we offer our appreciation and thanks for their inspiration and guidance through our four years. They, the more vibrant and changing part of our campus, have given us not only knowledge from books, but they have taught us how to live:

"Not the written word nor the spoken plea
Can teach young hearts what men shall be,
Nor all the books on all the shelves
But what the teachers are, themselves."

We have had teachers who, by their own living, have taught us how to live.

Our four years here at our beloved Vermont are now completed; but with every completion comes a challenge to new and greater heights. May future days bear for us a harvest of noble aspirations and of tasks well done—and in our journey upward we can do no better, in graduate as in undergraduate life, to keep ever before us our Vermont creed as a constant source of inspiration:

"Because we believe in Vermont, we bind ourselves to cherish as a precious heritage democracy and friendliness upon our campus, to meet in perfect honor each daily problem, to guide our every deed by loyalty, that her good name may live forever, with our lake, and circling hills."

Thus may we strive, and find the finer, higher things of life.

SIX VT. SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED IN CHEMISTRY

Six scholarships of $150 each to the University of Vermont have been awarded to State high school seniors in the annual chemistry essay contest conducted by the Headmasters Club of the state for which George H. Harvey, Burlington High School, is contest chairman.

Burlington took the lion's share of the scholarships, capturing three out of six. People's Academy, Morrisville, Brigham Academy, Bakersfield, and St. Mary's High School, St. Albans, took the other three awards.

The winners of scholarships follow: Myer Bayarsky of Burlington High School; Howard Minckler of People's Academy; Robert Likovsky of Burlington High School; Kay Connor of Brigham Academy; Richard Seymour of St. Mary's High School; and David Clark of Burlington High School.

Lafayette Oration

By R. S. Wright

We are here this morning to do Lafayette honor, and I know you will agree that it is not the time for a moralizing panagyric, but rather for a brief outline of who the man was and why he stands here as one of the finest statues in America.

Lafayette's only connection with the University was the laying of the corner stone of the south wing of the Old College Building, as the Old Mill was then called, which was accomplished during his last visit to this country on June 29, 110 years ago. It was no more than any visiting dignitary would have done who happened to be in the neighborhood at the time. The building had just been burned for the first time, and the people of Burlington had subscribed $8,300 for a new one. The General stayed here for a few hours one day, changing his clothes in the house of Governor Van Ness, which is now distinguished as Grassmount.

It would be but mean to think that he stands here simply because he laid a corner stone—he did more than that. He lived strongly and well, and made his career a thing of splendor. We are interested in the man, not the corner stone.

He was born in 1757, into a world on the threshold of revolution, when great events were a-borning and the western world was rocking on its social axis. He inherited a huge fortune, went to college early, and was married when he was 16. At 19, he made the greatest decision of his whole life, when he took the American ideal to heart, as he said in a letter to a friend. Knowing how opposed the French ministry would be to any assistance given by a Frenchman to this upstart enemy of England, he had a brig fitted out secretly and made a dash one evening for the Spanish port where she lay. He was arrested, but escaped in disguise and arrived on the Virginia coast on a bright day of 1777.

He was a mere youngster when all this happened, two years younger than I who talk about him, starting out upon his career in a world far more troubled than ours today. Civilization was erupting, society was in the throes of convulsive change, and men knew not where to lay their thoughts.

It was a strange thing, this beginning of the life that was Lafayette. A young and popular member of the most brilliant nobility to be found on Mother Earth, with all the avenues a splendid state could offer open to his young ambition, he left his family and all that he had known for a far country. He found there thirteen states at each others' throats, an impotent Congress, a straggling army that was collected with the utmost difficulty. Rugged individualism was thriving in those days as it has continued to thrive, and Washington and Lafayette had all they could do to win a war which boasted so many individualists on the American side.

As you know, he fought at first in ranks, spent most of his great fortune in outfitting troops, and distinguishing himself as an officer. He persuaded the King of France to virtually declare war on England by sending ships to the Jersey coast; it is a strange thing again that Lafayette should have persuaded one of the greatest of all despots to support an upstart republic which was dedicated to the overthrow of all that despotism stood for.

As for the rest of his life, I shall say no more, except to say that after passing through the tumultuous France which followed the American Revolution, being confined in an Austrian dungeon where his hair fell out, and his retirement to his farm estate, he returned to the United States for a triumphal tour. During the two days in Vermont he laid the cornerstone.

He had been a mighty figure in the greatest revolutions the world had ever known and had given our young republic aid without which America might not have been; and now he returned to the generation following that with which he had fought.

But the remarkable thing about the man is his sheer strength, from the time that he made his decision as a boy of nineteen. His conviction and ideal of government and liberty never failed. Through the trenches at Yorktown, caught between blood-thirsty Jacobins and stern Royalist of his own country, in the dungeons of Olmutz he never once swerved promised. Whether you believe in the materialistic or idealistic ways of life you must admit the strength of this man's determination, who stood steadily for his ideal in the midst of a reeling world.

He lived and died,
And 'twixt those two events
There burned a greatness
Which shall never die.
So long as men remember courage
And suffering is but commonplace

I give you joy, in the name of him who stands beside me, you who are young as he was young at his Commencement in '77. I give you joy for your living remembrance of the greatness that was Lafayette—the Marquis de Lafayette, patriot of France and nobleman of America.
